LINDSAY WHINED FOR MERCY.

Lynchers Spare the Tennessee Ruffian's Life—He Will Turn State's Evidence. COAL CREEK, Aug. 23.—Bud Lindsay, the notorious desperado, murderer and outlaw, and one of the leaders of the outlawed miners, narrowly escaped lynching. He was confined in an old mine for several days under a heavy guard, but several citizens managed to stealthily seize, silence and hurry him through the pickets. He was taken to Briceville, where a rope was placed around his neck.

Although reported to be a most desperate man, his courage forsook him at this trying moment, and he broke down and pleaded in abject fear for his life, offering to turn state's evidence and reveal the names and plans of all the leaders, tell how the mob was raised, the nature of the oath, the miners who were known to have killed soldiers or guards; in short, to reveal to the civil authorities all of the lawlessness that has reigned, and this he has agreed to testify to in court.

When all this was promised the rope was taken from his neck and he was returned to the camp for safekeeping. It is now believed that Lindsay will testify to the testimony of twenty or thirty leaders can be successfully tried for murder and convicted. Lindsay is now under a guard.

Twenty-three men, supposed to be in sympathy with the most notorious of the miners, were arrested near Coal Creek today and locked up. Several of them are suspected of holding up a mail train between Clinton and Coal Creek last Thursday night. Among them is Jim Hatmaker, son of John Hatmaker, who led the attack on the stockade at Oliver Springs last Tuesday. The elder Hatmaker is supposed to have escaped to Kentucky.

The latest story is that the mines are to be smocked in order to drive out the miners who are supposed to be in hiding in the bowels of the earth.

CHOLERA'S MARCH WESTWARD.

Hamburg and Havre Infected and the Seaboard May Cross the Ocean. WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The state department has received a cable message from our consul at Hamburg stating that fatal cases of cholera reported as prevailing in the city have been pronounced genuine Asiatic cholera, and that Hamburg has been officially proclaimed as a cholera infected port.

Consul Oscar F. Williams, at Havre, reports an epidemic of Asiatic cholera at that place, with many deaths, and advises an inspection of the fast liner La Touraine, due here Saturday, Aug. 27. These facts have been communicated to the health officers of Staten Island, and every precaution will be taken by them in the matter, especially in view of the fact that the epidemic has now reached two of the most important ports in Europe with which the United States has direct communication—Hamburg and Havre. The latest news here expresses a doubt whether the cholera has not also reached Antwerp.

The great importance of this information, in view of the great amount of travel between the United States and Europe, was at once appreciated by the state department, and the dispatches were sent over to the treasury department officers for communication to the supervising surgeon general of the marine hospital service for prompt precautionary action.

Assistant Secretary Spaulding and Surgeon Austin, of the marine hospital service, at once had a conference looking to the best methods to be employed to prevent the introduction of cholera into this country. It was decided to inform the health officers of New York and Baltimore of the condition of affairs, and also to notify the immigrant inspectors. Secretary Spaulding is in communication with the agents of the steamship lines, with a view to having immigrants' effects thoroughly disinfected on the other side of the water. Steamers coming direct from Hamburg arrive at the following American ports: New York, Boston, Baltimore, Portland, Me., and Philadelphia.

CANADA WILL SUFFER

PRESIDENT HARRISON REFUSES HER CANAL ULTIMATUM.

And Issues a Proclamation Partially Suspending Free Navigation of St. Mary's Falls Canal and Imposing a Toll of 20 Cents a Ton on Canadian Freight.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—By authority of President Harrison the state department has made public the important action taken by the president under the Canadian retaliation act of last season in partially suspending by proclamation the free navigation of the St. Mary's Falls canal and imposing a toll of twenty cents a ton upon all freight passing through that canal from Canadian ports. The president's proclamation, though constructively executed in Washington city, was signed at Loon Lake and forwarded here for promulgation.

Accompanying the proclamation is the correspondence on the subject which passed between the state department and Mr. Herbert, of the British legation. The correspondence shows that the president refused to accept the Canadian offer to abolish the rebate tolls at the end of the season and wanted them abolished at once. The proclamation recites the provisions of the act of congress passed July 20 last, entitled "An Act to Enforce Reciprocal Commercial Relations Between the United States and Canada and for Other Purposes," and continues as follows:

The Proclamation. Whereas, The government of the Dominion of Canada imposes a toll amounting to about twenty cents per ton on freight passing through the Welland canal, and also a further toll on all vessels of the United States and on all passengers in transit to and from the United States, all of which tolls are without rebate; and

Whereas, The government of the Dominion of Canada, in accordance with an order in council of April 4, 1892, refunds eight cents per ton or the twenty cent toll at the Welland canal on wheat, Indian corn, peas, barley, rye, oats, flaxseed and buckwheat, upon condition that they are originally shipped for and carried to Montreal or some port east of Montreal for export, and that, if transhipped at an intermediate point, such transshipment is made within the Dominion of Canada; and

Whereas, The government of the Dominion of Canada, by said system of rebate and otherwise, discriminates against the citizens of the United States in the use of said Welland canal in violation of the article 27 of the treaty of Washington, concluded May 8, 1817; and

Whereas, Said Welland canal is connected with the navigation of the great lakes, and I am satisfied that the passage through it of cargoes in transit to ports of the United States is made difficult and burdensome by said discriminating system of rebate and otherwise, and is reciprocally unjust and unreasonable;

Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, president of the United States of America, by virtue of the power to that end conferred upon me by said act of congress, do hereby declare, and do hereby further declare, that from and after Sept. 1, 1892, until further notice, a toll of twenty cents per ton be levied, collected and paid on all freight of whatever kind or description passing through the St. Mary's Falls canal in transit to any port of the Dominion of Canada, whether carried in vessels of the United States or of other nations, and that except I do hereby suspend from and after said date the right of free passage through said St. Mary's Falls canal of any and all cargoes or portions of cargoes in transit to Canadian ports.

Canada Must Give In. Included in the aftermath of the proclamation is a statement that this course has been under careful advisement since before the adjournment of congress. After the act of July 20, authorizing retaliation, had gone through both houses without opposition it was stated that the members of the foreign affairs committee who had reported the bill had done so at the personal request of the president. The information is now allowed to leak out that the president's policy of retaliation should take, so as to produce the most telling effect on Canadian commerce and precipitate a solution of the difficulty, was arrived at after repeated consultations with leading business men on our Canadian frontier, who were called in consultation by the state department from northern New York and other parts of the country so quietly that the fact of their presence here on this business is only now made known after their departure and the completion of the act.

It is said in administration circles that the ground was so carefully gone over before that Canada is not left a leg to stand on, and must give in to the American demands and immediately revoke the order in council on April 4 last authorizing the discriminating rebate of eighteen cents a ton on grain products shipped to Canadian ports and refused to all American merchandise. Equality of tolls in the Welland canal was one of the pledges made by Article 27 of the treaty of Washington of 1817, under which treaty Canada has profited so largely.

May Be Rebuked by Gladstone. Another fact worth commented on here is the humiliating position in which Governor General Lord Stanley and the Canadian ministers have placed the British legation in Washington. Mr. Herbert, the British charge of affairs, twice asked of the United States government an extension of time, stating that he did so at the request of the Canadian government, and on the last occasion—Aug. 8—holding out, on the same authority, a promise of satisfactory action.

Yet the first news of the decision of the Canadian government to counter the obnoxious rebate until the end of the navigation season—that is, until a period when retaliation would be harmless—came to the state department, not from the British legation, which had been led to promise early and satisfactory information, but from the United States consul in Ottawa.

When Mr. Herbert journeyed post haste from Newport to Washington, and was asked by Secretary Foster whether the information conveyed by the United States consul general was true, he was obliged to confess that the Canadian government had led him absolutely in the dark; that he had no official communication to make, although he did not question the truth of the general's dispatch. It is surmised that Mr. Gladstone's government will not let this apparently gross discourtesy on the part of the Canadian powers to the British representatives pass without a fitting rebuke.

DA FONSECA.

springing into prominence as the head of the party which overthrew Dom Pedro and the monarchial government of Brazil, on Nov. 15, 1889. He was about fifty-six years old at that time. The life of Fonseca was that of a soldier, and his career as the head of the republic of Brazil was brief and inglorious, a fact due to the circumstance that the demands of the republic at the time were for a man of business, skilled in affairs of finance rather than one who knew only the arts of war.

As a soldier he had shown himself brave, and as a citizen he was exemplary. His honesty was not questioned by the majority of the nation, and he had high esteem, but he had not been trained in the exchanges, and he could not solve the problems which confronted him when he became the head of the new republic.

The troubles of the country turned largely upon financial questions, and a few months after Fonseca was heralded as the head of the new nation, public confidence, following the course of exchange, went to low water mark and he was asked to resign. His health was failing, his physical as well as his political strength was shattered, and he resigned.

TO PHOTOGRAPH ALL CHINAMEN.

Uncle Sam's Officials Have Evidently a Large Contract on Hand.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Commencing on Sept. 1, every Chinaman in this country except the retinue of the diplomatic corps and a few recognized merchants, is required to get themselves photographed in California and 9,000 in Oregon, and there the brunt of the enforcement of the exclusion act will fall. But there are nearly 3,000 in New York, over 1,100 in Massachusetts, besides 700 in Chicago and nearly 500 in St. Louis.

The obligations of the law are discretionary with the Chinese. If they don't choose to get themselves photographed, and to make their applications within the time prescribed, the revenue officials have no power to compel them.

The only penalty is deportation, which falls under the domain of the attorney general and the secretary of the treasury. The anticipations of difficulty entertained by other revenue officials seem to be borne out by the fact that of the $100,000 appropriated in the sundry civil bill to carry out the law, only $30,000 has been allotted by the secretary of the treasury to the internal revenue bureau to provide the necessary deputies to execute the law, while $70,000 has been retained by the treasury department to meet the cost of deporting the recalcitrants.
