

HONORED EVERYWHERE.

COLUMBUS DAY WAS OBSERVED IN GREAT STYLE.

Freeland Does Its Share in Paying Tribute to the Memory of the Great Explorer—One of the Finest Displays Ever Made in the Town.

Freeland, always to the front in every patriotic movement, was not one step behind any of its sister towns on Columbus Day, but was far ahead of several that had better facilities and could better afford to make a display befitting the occasion.

The celebration here began at 9 A. M. with exercises at the borough and township schools. These were attended by delegations of the G. A. R., and the teachers of the pupils who took part deserve credit for the interesting programmes they had arranged for the occasion.

In the afternoon the parade held under the auspices of the Catholic societies, assisted by several other organizations of the city, passed in every respect the expectations of all who were interested in making it a success.

The parade was led by a large and handsomely decorated float representing the ship, "Santa Marie." The vessel was equipped under the direction of Charles Hazeney, who has spent considerable of his time at sea. John McDermot, of Drifton, as Columbus, took his part well, and the costumes of the sailors who were on board with him gave the float a very ship-like appearance.

Following this came the clergy, invited guests, societies and schools in the order published on Monday.

Between the different divisions were decorated wagons containing parochial school girls, who sang patriotic songs along the route of parade. Over 200 girls, dressed in white, took part in this, and their proficiency and creditable appearance was due to the interest taken in the celebration by the Sisters of Mercy, who worked unceasingly during the past week to assist in making the day what it was—one of which Freeland may well feel proud of.

The Foster township school children, who formed the largest part of the second division, were neatly dressed, and were under charge of the teachers of the various schools. More than 300 of them were in line.

Divisions 19 and 20, of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, made their first public appearance in a Freeland parade, and created a favorable impression by the fine showing they made.

The Military Rank of the Knights of the Mystic Chain looked well in their new bright uniforms. The ranks of nearly all the others were well-filled, and their marching and drilling was good.

The evening exercises held by the Daughters of Mary Sodality and the Catholic Young Men's Literary Institute constituted one of the finest and most interesting yet seen at the opera house. The solos rendered by Miss Aggie Keilly and the Soss. Moerschbacher and the singing of the sodality received loud applause.

John D. Hayes, Esq., delivered a brief address upon Columbus, during which he referred to the unprincipled slanders who made an effort recently in different cities to become notorious by defiling the character of the famous navigator. The speaker was listened to attentively and many regretted that he did not continue longer, as his remarks upon the determination and energy of the man the nation was honoring that night were instructive.

The debate upon the question of protection or free trade brought forth some good arguments on both sides. Jas. F. Sweeney, one of the original free traders of this region, ably defended McKinleyism, and furnished points in favor of protection which Republican campaign orators would find very effective. He was assisted by Daniel J. Marley and Edward F. Hanlon, who stood up nobly for the resolution.

The negative speakers, however, succeeded pretty thoroughly in dispelling any protective feeling that may have permeated the audience. Led by A. M. McNulty they took up the arguments of their opponents and proved them, one after another, to be fallacious in relation to the resolution, which claimed that a protective tariff is in line with national progress, advances the best interest of the citizen, and is preservative of the harmony that should exist among nations.

James A. O'Donnell and Charles Gallagher assisted Mr. McNulty and their comparisons of the wages and class of people of the United States with those of protected Italy, France, Russia, Germany and other European nations proved conclusively that a high tariff is not the cause of the high wages and the intelligence with which Americans are favored.

A ten-minute operetta, "Too Late," rendered by eleven members of the sodality, representing five vice and five foolish virgins and an angel, was appropriate and done in a fine manner.

The tableaux, which were given at intervals during the evening, consisted of "Columbus at the Spanish Court," "Crowning of Columbus," and the "Godless of Liberty Saluted by the Nations."

The leading characters were "Columbus," represented by John McDermott; "Queen Isabella," by Miss Bella McGill; "King Ferdinand," by Manus D. McLaughlin, and the "Goddess of Liberty" by Miss Katie Gillespie.

Nothing finer in the line of tableaux has been seen here. The handsome stage settings, the costumes of the Indians, sailors and court ladies, and the perfect representation of the different scenes were excellent.

The St. Patrick's cornet band rendered a number of choice selections during the entertainment, which closed with a few remarks by Rev. F. P. McNally.

The day was celebrated in the most enthusiastic manner throughout the whole country. It would be impossible to give even a meagre description of what occurred in the coal regions alone. In the numbers in line Wilkes-Barre took the lead. The first exercises there was an allegorical representation of the landing of Columbus, at 6.20 A. M., on the river bank. Later all the school children of the city paraded and passed in review before prominent men.

Later in the day the grand parade took place and was a magnificent spectacle. Twenty-one thousand men were in line. In the evening the large army was packed to hear music and addresses by prominent speakers, which was followed by a fine display of fire works.

At Scranton a statue of Columbus was presented by the Italian citizens, and one of the greatest parades that the city has ever seen was held. Among those that took part in it were the P. O. S. of A. band and Italian Garibaldi Society, of Freeland.

Exercises were held at the schools and at the churches. In the afternoon the parade began. It started at 1.30 but did not end until three hours later, over 14,000 persons being in line. The most noteworthy feature of the exercises was the rendering of "America" by 500 of the United Welsh choirs which are to compete at Chicago.

The speech of presentation on behalf of the Italian citizens was by Nicholas Comfiori. Mayor Fellows accepted the gift for the city. The statue was unveiled by a 10-year-old Italian girl, who also recited a poem. Addresses were also made by Judge Gunster, and by a representative of the Italian consul at Philadelphia.

Every town in Luzerne, Lackawanna, Schuylkill and Carbon counties held local celebrations of various kinds, and no holiday was ever more generally observed than Columbus Day.

The committee of the Catholic societies of this place has passed a resolution of thanks to the business men of town for their liberal use of teams, to the several organizations that participated in the parade, to the Sisters of Mercy for their work in decorating and rendering their assistance, to the St. Patrick's cornet for their music at the picnic, and to all who helped them in making the Columbus Day celebration a success.

"The Social Glass."

The Pioneer Dramatic Company of Audenried, which will present "The Social Glass" at the opera house this evening, played at Audenried on Thursday evening, and the Plain Speaker gives the following account of the performance:

A crowded house greeted the company in its production of the temperance play, "The Social Glass." The members of the company acquitted themselves with great ease and marked ability during the play, which kept the audience interested during the piece.

The many effective illustrations of the temptations which led a victim of the vice of intemperance almost to degradation and ruin, were put forth by the members of the company in a very effective manner and brought rounds of applause from the audience; while the humorous situations which occurred were very pleasing and filled in their part in a creditable manner.

T. A. Kelley, in the part of Charles Thornly, who fell a victim, was very effective. He executed his part with great skill, while E. J. Connor in the part of Harold Hadley, a temperance advocate, played his part in a manner that would please an audience anywhere, and with great credit to himself.

B. P. Gallagher in the part of Bob Brettie, J. W. Ferry, as Squire Halls, James McShea as a doctor, all acquitted themselves with great ease and in a catchy way while P. J. Kelley was up to nature as the proprietor of "Farly's Hotel."

The lady parts were all very good. Miss Kellar as Eva Thornly did very good acting, and Miss McGee as the gossip was exceedingly good, with Miss M. E. Boyle as Mrs. Farly. The Pioneer Company may feel proud of the way they played Thursday evening and as an amateur company they have no equals and deserve crowded houses wherever they appear.

Shot by a Constable.

Constable Isaac Phillips, of Kline township, Schuylkill county, was lodged in Pottsville jail on Thursday for the murder of Justice of the Peace Michael O'Donnell, of Silver Brook Junction. Phillips was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Fernier before being committed. He stated that the shooting was the result of a quarrel.

O'Donnell, who was returning from his work in the mines in the morning, was called into a saloon by the constable, and the two began arguing. O'Donnell accused the constable of not attending to his duties. Phillips denied this and the two men came to blows. The landlord finally succeeded in parting the two men and Phillips went home.

The squire left the saloon by the rear entrance in company with the landlord. On the way home they had to pass Phillips's house. While they were still a few yards from the house Phillips came out and fired three shots in rapid succession. The first two shots flew wide of their mark, but the third entered O'Donnell's left breast penetrating the heart. He died instantly. Both the murder and his victim were well known throughout the region.

Squire O'Donnell was 54 years of age and had held his office for twenty-three years. Phillips is about 40 years of age and has been a constable for a long time. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon, the interment being made in Frenchtown cemetery. Over 2500 persons followed the remains to the grave, besides 119 vehicles. It was one of the largest funerals ever seen in that section, and was attended by several from Freeland and vicinity.

COUGHING LEADS TO CONSUMPTION.

Kemp's Balsam stops the cough at once.

UPPER LEHIGH NOTES.

The contract for taking the coal out of the No. 5 stripping has been given to John H. Almond, of Freeland. John is one of this company's old hands and assisted in sinking No. 5 slope. Several years ago he was badly injured in it. Since that time he gave up mining and resided in Freeland.

Frank Crocker and wife paid Weatherly friends a visit last week.

James Jamison, who has been outside foreman at No. 4 colliery for the last fifteen years, has resigned his position and accepted a similar one at the Millville stripping for A. S. VanWinkle & Co. He will take charge November 1.

Patrick Ryan spent Friday among friends in Wilkes-Barre.

Mrs. Brown, who has had charge of the hotel here during the summer, removed to Hazleton.

Dash, how about that foot ball team? Will it be allowed to die again or is the feet too large for the size of the ball?

We don't know much about the regulation of the ball used in the game, but for the size of the feet our opinion would pass muster.

The collieries at this place worked a half a day on Columbus Day.

A large number of people from here attended the funeral of the late Squire O'Donnell at Silver Brook Junction yesterday.

Albert Drawheim was severely injured by a fall of coal at No. 7 on Thursday. It will be several weeks before he will be able to get around again.

Will Brehm and Faldie Sipple are among the crack pigeon shooters of town. Any of the local sports who desire a match can be accommodated by sending in their conditions to either of the above named gentlemen.

The fresh breeze of autumn is here, and as every person can take as much or as little of it as they choose, some of our married men have made themselves conspicuous by the unlimited amount of freshness which stole upon them lately.

By the way, gentlemen go carefully, we are right behind you.

The public schools celebrated Columbus Day here in a becoming manner. The exercises which the children participated in were excellent. In the afternoon they took part in the parade at Freeland.

The C. Y. M. L. I. will meet to-night at the usual place, when a number of new members will be initiated and the exercises which were given in the Tribune last week will take place. A full account of it will be given next week.

Our water supply is becoming scarcer every day. Still there is no danger of a water famine in this place.

Bob McHugh, alias the "Whopper," has taken up his residence in South Heberton.

We have on several occasions warned the sporting fraternity of town against violations of the game laws. Once more, boys, be careful. Your movements are watched, though the parties watching you would have a rabbit out of season far quicker than you would. Bird.

DRIFTON ITEMS.

A large number of young men of this place attended the ball at Jeansville last week.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Tague Ward is lying dangerously ill.

Samuel Cunningham, who is attending the Lehigh University, is visiting at the home of his parents here.

The school exercises held here by the pupils and teachers of the public schools on Columbus Day were more than interesting. The pupils did justice to every part of the programme rendered, and too much praise cannot be given to the teachers for the creditable showing they made.

The clouds of dust which have been sweeping along the streets and highway here for several days past is very disagreeable and annoying. Yet there is no remedy for it.

Kite flying has become quite a pastime in this vicinity and the old and the young are enjoying whatever pleasure there is to be derived from it.

P. H. Hanlon, a brakeman on the D. S. & S., was slightly injured by being caught between cars on Friday.

Mrs. Fannie and Miss Ella Weldon, of Silver Brook, visited friends here on Saturday.

Thomas Slattery, who has been a conductor on the D. S. & S., has been promoted to the position of yardmaster at Gum Run.

C. F. Quinn, of Jeansville, spent Saturday afternoon with his brother Patrick here.

Jacob Zeisloft buried an infant on Wednesday.

James Kessel, of Wilkes-Barre, is at home visiting his parents in No. 2.

Many of the residents here took great pleasure in watching the eclipse of the sun on Thursday, and smoked glass was eagerly sought for.

Mrs. Harry Jones is spending a few days with relatives in Mahanoy City.

Building Re-opened.

The Tigers' building was re-opened on Friday afternoon, and during the day and evening a steady stream of visitors passed through the rooms, which are fitted up in the finest possible manner. From the parlor to the gymnasium everything is tastefully and conveniently arranged, and the young men received numerous congratulations upon their successful efforts in equipping a place in which they can spend their leisure time in reading, games of amusement, athletic exercises, etc.

The association, which was organized three years last June, labored continually in bringing about the object they have just accomplished, and the members spent their time and money without regret in building up an athletic and social organization that commands the respect of all and numbers its friends by the hundreds.

A number of the business men, young ladies and others of town were so pleased with the work done they insisted upon donating many valuable articles, ornaments and money to the association.

The building on Friday was the finest one ever decorated in the town. The festive manner in which the ferns and bunting was arranged, and the pretty display made by the American colors floating above the flags of all nations could not be excelled.

The building is open every evening from 7 to 10 o'clock, and visitors are entitled to use of everything there at all times.

Alley Ball Yesterday.

At Gallagher's alley on Ridge street an interesting game of alley was played yesterday afternoon for $10 a side. The contestants were P. J. Herron, of Millersville, and Thomas Hanlon, of Lattimer, against James Herron, of Freeland, and John Gillespie, formerly of town, but now of Hazleton.

When the game was arranged a week ago it was intended to raise the stakes to $25 a side, but the visitors were not prepared to go above $10 a side when they met yesterday. The two last-named players are well-known Tigers, and their friends were out strong with the material to back them in the game.

A comparatively small amount of money changed hands, however, as the Freeland boys were unable to get many bets.

The first half of the game was played with a "dead ball," and the score kept sea-sawing for quite a time until the visitors struck a good hand and made the first 21. Their opponents then had 18.

The "live ball" was brought into play at this point, and the Tigers ran their score up to perfect ease, giving Herron and Hanlon only 7 points while they made 23, winning the game by the score of 41 to 28.

Republicans Hold a Meeting.

The first political meeting of the campaign held here took place at the Central hotel on Friday evening. A special train brought in the Republican Marching Battalion of Hazleton. After parading the principle streets and giving an exhibition drill on Centre street the meeting opened.

Squire Daniel Kline was elected chairman, and addresses were made by J. I. Hollenback, of Millersville; C. W. Kline and Fred L. Smith, of Hazleton; W. F. Adams, of Beaver Brook, and Hon. W. R. Jeffrey, of Freeland.

The meeting was in the nature of a surprise for Representative Jeffrey, and as it had been held very quiet until that morning the attendance was not as large as might have been if properly advertised.

Arrangements, however, are being made to hold another on November 5, when the Republicans of town will be better prepared to welcome their Hazleton brethren.

A Coincident.

During the debate at the opera house on Friday evening, one of the speakers, A. M. McNulty, furnished as part of his argument against protection the difference in the McKinley tariff rates on the goods bought by the rich and those bought by the poor. He termed it the "Two Counters," and gave a very instructive explanation how the working classes are discriminated against.

The next morning those who were at the opera house were surprised to see a large illustration on the front page of the Philadelphia Record, naming the identical articles and rates which Mr. McNulty used in his address the previous evening.

It is certain that neither knew of the other's intention to bring out such a strong argument against the protective hubbug, and the coincident has received much comment since.

Vote This Evening.

The Democratic election officers and the Democratic voters of this vicinity are requested to attend the school of instruction at Tax Collector Givens' office, corner of Centre and Carbon streets, which will be open this and to-morrow evenings.

The county committee has made arrangements to have booths in position and a number of sample ballots there for the voters, in order that they may be given an opportunity to become familiar with the new system.

Every Democrat in Freeland and surrounding towns should consider it his special duty to avail himself of this privilege. Too much attention cannot be given to the instructions that will be furnished by competent men on these two evenings.

Democratic Rally.

The Democrats of Freeland and vicinity will hold their first rally of the season at the opera house on Saturday evening next. A number of the county candidates and several speakers of national reputation will address the audience upon the issues of the campaign.

Citizens of all parties are invited to be present and listen to a thorough and fearless discussion of the important political questions of the day. Full particulars of the meeting will be given on Thursday.

Entered Suit.

Dr. George S. Wentz has entered suit against P. H. Hanlon, Owen J. Boyle and John J. McNelis, of the Freeland Base Ball Association, to recover his expenses for attending Samuel Keys, a player from Pittsburg, who fell from a third-story window of the Central hotel last summer.
