NEARING THE BATTLE

THE FEELING AT HEADQUARTERS ON THE EVE OF THE ELECTION.

Adlai E. Stevenson Issues His Letter of Acceptance, and Says That the Utter-ances of Mr. Cleveland Cover the Ground So Well That He Has Little to Say.

ances of Mr. Cleveland Cover the Ground So Well That He Has Little to Say.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Senator Quay was at Republican national headquarters, and had a conference with Vice President Morton, Chairman Carter, General Clarkson and Mr. Manley. After leaving the conference room Senator Quay was asked to give his views of the situation and his opinion as to the result. He said:

"I leave for Philadelphia at once, and I possibly may return, but not necessarily. Yoming here on the suggestion of some of the gentlemen engaged in the management of the Republican campaign, who thought my experience in 1888 might be useful in the solution of two or three problems, I have gone very carefully through the details of their labor up to the present time, and have canvassed with from their propositions for the future. Their administration has been faultless. Their correspondence satisfies me that the sentiment of the country is favorable to a continuation of Republican rule.

A conference over the situation in New York was held in the rooms of the state Expublican committee, at which politicians from all over the state conferred with Chairmen Hackett and Brookfield.

The principal topic of discussion around hotels and at political headquarters is on the peculiar betting on the result of the presidential election. There were thousands of dollars ready to wager on Harrison on the general result, with no takers, while on the other hand remarkable odds were offered on the success of the Democratic electoral ticket in New York state.

At Democratic Headquarters.

At the Democratic Headquarters, at the Democratic of Illinois had no longer any doubt of carrying the state for Cleveland, and that they were offering even money on the success of the Democratic electoral ticket.

Chairman Dickinson arrived from the northwest and was at the national Democratic headquarters at an early hour. To a reporter of the United Press he said: "The outlook for the Democratis in the northwest is very bright. I think there will be some big surprises for the Republicans when the returns from that section come in. Illinois, lowa and Michigan the Democratics are well organized and confident. In Minnesota Harrison is certain to lose four of the electoral vicket, which insures the defeat of party ticket, which insures the defeat of four Republican speakers had entirely dropped the tariff issue in their speeches in the northwest.

STEVENSON'S ACCEPTANCE.

He Indorses Cleveland's Letter and th National Democratic Platform.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 31.—The following letter of acceptance from Adlai E. Stevenson has been made public by the president of the national Democratic convention:

president of the national Democratic convention:

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 29.

To the Hon. William L. Wilson, Chairman, etc.:
When in the presence of my countrymen I accepted the honor conferred upon me by the convention over which you presided, I promised to indicate by letter in a more formal manner my acceptance of the nomination tendered me by the assembled representatives of the Democratic party of the United States.

The full discussion of public questions commonly expected from a candidate for vice president has been rendered less imperative by the content of the properties of the properties to be associated as a candidate on the national ticket.

His treatment of the issues now before the ceuntry for discussion and settlement was so complete that I can do little more than indorse his position and give it the emphasis of my unqualified approval.

Mr. Stevenson then briefly discusses the tariff and texation issues and the currency question, indorsing the stand taken thereon by the platform of the national Democracy, and closes with a denunciation of the federal elections bill, of which, in conclusion, he says:

Bank Thief Captured.

About a year ago Charles Voight, a clerk in the Wilkes-Barre Saving Bank, stole $2500 and left that city a fugitive frem justice. A reward of $100 was offered for his arrest, but nothing was tended of him until Monday.

A man giving the name of Charles Smith was arrested in Elmira for being drunk and disorderly, and was sentenced in to twenty-one days. The chief of police kept watching him during his imprisonment, as he noticed his peculiar actions, and after looking over photographs and reward circulars recognized Smith as Voight.

The prisoner was taken to Wilkesarine which wine and women caused bit in to commit.

Miners' Houses Burned.

Fourteen houses, occupied by miners, were destroyed by fire at New Buckmountain, Schuylkill county, early Monday morning. The fire originated in a house occupied by Andrew Schietz, where some mining clothes ignited from a red-hot stove. The loss is about $8000, and the miners lost most of their furniture and clothing. Nobody was burned.

He Was on a Vacation.

He Was on a Vacation.

On June 29 the decayed body of a man was found on the mountain back of Plymouth. After lying in an undertaker's establishment for twenty-four hours it was identified by Mrs. Amanda Mills, of Avondale, as that of her husband, who disappeared several weeks before. It was taken in charge by the family and given respectable burial. Yesterday Mrs. Mills and her family were somewhat surprised to see the supposed dead and buried husband walk into the house and sit down to dinner. He refused to give any reasons for his disappearance or return, or any account of his wanderings.

It is said that many Republicans are repudiating their candidate for recorder, Phil. J. Boyle, for the reason, as they say, that Boyle went to the Democratic candidate for the same office, Michael C. Russell, and made Russell a proposition that if he, Russell, would give him, Boyle, the chief deputyship, he, Boyle, would not make a strong fight for election.

tion. See a stool gap to teve tion. Russell, of course, indignantly refused to enter into such an arrangement, declaring that he was in the fight to win, and if elected he would have a Democratic deputy. Honest Republicans will surely not cast their votes for a man who will deliberately bargain with the enemy for the betrayal of his party friends.—Leader.

DRIFTON, November 3, 1892.

EDITOR TRIBUNE.—In Monday's issue of your valuable paper, James F. Scheidy complains of my action in using the initials, "J. F. S.," to a recentarticle which appeared in the Tribune. Mr. Scheidy, whom I do not know personally, is very much worried and troubled in his mental barn-yard that I should sign J. F. S. to an article in the newspapers.

I was not aware that Mr. Scheidy had a copyright of these letters or initials. I would like to know of Mr. Scheidy when, where and how he came to have a monopoly of them.

Did he secure the exclusive right to the use of these letters by an act of congress or the Freeland council? Perhaps I have no right to the initials and I have been going through life not being myself at all. Oh, these dark shadows. Just think of me lying awake at night, with my nerves unshackled and a remorse of conscience and my mentafield and vision all shattered and sattlered and all because I have no right to be myself or use the handle to my name.
