LUCY'S LOVERS.

Lucy Watson had two lovers—this would be an unfair allowance in these days, but fifteen years ago there were more marrying men in India and fewer maidens.

Yes, papa, but it isn't his age; that's nothing, nothing!—oh, Lucy, Lucy!—but he's so old in his ideas and habits; he has nothing in common with a girl.

In a small, up country station these two had many opportunities of meeting, and to do them justice they took advantage of all they could get.

There was a tearful progress. "Now, mind, you are not to write to me unless I write to you first. Papa would be very angry if you were to write direct to me, and of course I won't have anything done in a roundabout way.

So, half crying, half laughing, Lucy dismissed him, and both the colonel and McAllister said goodbye with a sigh of relief. The sagacious Lucy had a reason for the condition she imposed.

Next month George Fairleigh started for England on urgent private affairs.—Million.

Great Men and Some Queer Repugnances. A great deal has recently been said upon the discomposure of our command-in-chief in Malta at the presence of a cat.

Better Than a Certificate. Mrs. Vassar—Do you believe that lady is 105 years old, as she claims? Mr. Vassar—I presume it's so. She knows how to knit stockings.—New York Weekly.

OFF THE BATTERY.

Tugs and Ferryboats in a Tangle, and a Girl in Red Who Liked Gum. A few minutes before noon the other day a tow of twenty-two loaded canal-boats swung briskly around the Battery from the North river.

The line of boats wrapped itself snugly across the openings of five ferry slips. Five ferryboats wanted to get out and could not. Five ferryboats—the Bay Ridge, Staten Island, South Brooklyn, Hamilton avenue and Atlantic street—wanted to get in and could not.

Thousands of people on the ten locked in and looked out ferryboats saw the red girl in the hammock, but she swung and chived unconcernedly.

The wharves became lined with idlers, who gave advice. Policemen appeared. Other ferryboats, lighters, tenders, annexes, transports and more tugs came up. They all whistled. The delayed passengers lost their sympathy; the captains ceased to swear for the want of breath; the deckhands howled hoarsely, and when everybody was on the verge of dissolution the canalboats were pushed up against the wharves where they belonged.

The girl in the red calico gown swung peacefully and chewed her gum in placid meditation.—New York Sun.

Blossoming Fruit Trees. The peach is always beautiful in flower, but occasionally some individual tree is almost startling in its attractiveness. The rule seems to be that the finer sorts of peaches have less conspicuous bloom.

There are few shrubs which can rival the beauty of a quince tree in full bloom. I had a small orchard of forty of these trees covered with flowers and it was a superb spectacle.

Arenarial Poisoning. Arsenic, so deadly in acute poisoning, is also greatly dangerous to those who use it in their daily work. Much cheap wall paper is colored with arsenic.

A Mistake at the Church. A Lovejoy young man started home from church the other night with a beauty who had come to preaching with another fellow.

A Miracle. This has certainly been a year of disaster. Floods, famine, fires, earthquakes, strikes and many other agents of destruction have spread their pall over various parts of the world.

A Good Preservative. The body of Mrs. Charles Block was buried eight years ago in Hazelton cemetery, near Montezuma, Ia. A few days ago the coffin was opened and it was discovered that the remains had turned to stone.

A Question Solved. Shall a man take off his hat to a maid-servant who is employed in his household, and if not what shall he do when she chances to meet her? This matter has been gravely discussed in London, and it has occurred to some one to suggest that the man need do nothing until the maid, exercising woman's universal prerogative, has signified that she is graciously pleased to recognize him in public.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Glaciers in Idaho.

An immense glacial field has been discovered in the unexplored region of central Idaho by F. B. Schermerhorn, geologist and mineralogist. Under the date of Aug. 8 he writes as follows:

"As I came over the divide into Big Creek I saw away to the west, among the high mountains, what appeared to be a glacier. Inquiry at Big Creek developed the fact that though two of the men in camp had lived there several years they had never been able to get up to that snow. They also told me many had tried it and failed. All had tried to take horses with them. I determined to go on foot.

"As I advanced the signs of the white man decreased until they disappeared altogether. The country through which I made my way was the wildest and roughest of any through which I ever traveled in point of grandeur and picturesque beauty. The view from the peaks rivals anything in mountain scenery in the United States.

"Beneath the glacial field I found a series of glacial lakes. The glacial fields are quite extensive. They probably cover nearly as great an area, though not so thick, as the great glacial fields of the Alps. I examined sixteen terminal moraines. Of this number eleven were receding, four stationary and only one advancing. None that I saw extended more than 2,000 feet below the snow line.

The writer says that the glaciers are located about thirty-five miles southwest of Shoup, amid a number of very high peaks that are not down on the maps.—Boise Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

Cylinder and Choked Barrel. I am acquainted with a gentleman who has conceived the idea that the best all around gun is one weighing seven and a half pounds, with right barrel a perfect cylinder and left barrel full choked. So convinced was he that such a gun was the best for general game shooting that he ordered a Colt gun built thus for the present season's shooting.

This gentleman claimed that by the use of the cylinder barrel he could shoot woodcock in the brush, also ruffed grouse, and have the left barrel for long shot, such as plover, snipe or duck.

It is now several weeks since the shore bird season opened, and considerable shooting has been done with this gun. Almost every day this gun has been used a long shot—between forty and sixty yards—has been taken and a bird killed. "Ah! the gunner would exclaim, 'there is nothing like a full choked gun to reach a bird at long range!' Then, as he opened the gun to insert a fresh cartridge, he would hear these words: 'Great Scott! I've shot the cylinder instead of the choked barrel!' The sportsman still argues that the full choked gun is the proper gun for shots beyond twenty-five yards, but almost daily when shooting he accidentally fires the wrong barrel and kills birds clean at forty yards and sometimes at a longer distance.—Shooting and Fishing.

Burned His Barn to Kill a Snake. Some time ago, when Cholera's menagerie passed through Crawford county, a boa constrictor of medium size escaped from its cage. As time passed the incident was forgotten. Early on Wednesday J. D. Doolittle entered his barn and saw the monster in the hayloft. Doolittle had lost several shots, of which he could find no clew. Their disappearance was explained by the presence of the snake. Seeing the reptile Mr. Doolittle retreated, and after releasing his horses from the barn he applied a match and burned the structure and contents to the ground. The mow was full of new hay. After the fire had spent its force the ribs of the reptile were found in the ashes, and they were nearly as large as the ribs of a 100-pound hog. Mr. Doolittle says that he feels worse from the effect which the snake's vicious eyes had upon him than he does over the loss of his barn and contents. The contents of the barn were the principal loss, as the structure was an old one and was soon to be replaced.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.
