the profit sharing as by the conditions of the book trade. There has been a consolidation of nearly all the large pub-lishing houses in the United States, threatening seriously the interests of our schools, which has in many instances obliged the people to look into this mat-ter and see to it that the proposed mo-nopoly shall not become complete. They have therefore given us probably a larger share of patronage than would other-wise have come to us, under the strong belief that the success of their schools demand of them free competition in the matter of schoolbooks.—Edwin Ginn in Chicago Post.

The Indian Summer. Bright autumn days, the dying year's last gift, Like ripe fruit garnered up by eareful hands, Oh, stay, nor, like impatient swallows, lift Your wings to bear you to soft southern lands. These fallen leaves I tread with scarce a pang. Remembering all their kindly summer shade-How here the music of the thrushes rang-Though leaves may wither, memories not fade.

LABOR LEADERS' WIVES. Noble Women Who Are of Such Assist ance to Three Brave Britishers. I know very well, writes a contributo to Woman, that every man who ad dresses a strike meeting claims to be labor leader. Therefore I say at once that the leaders whose wives form th subject of this article are John Burns member of parliament; Tom Mann labor commissioner, and Ben Tillett alderman of the London city council. To his wife John Burns owes no smal amount of his success. She is not only a peculiarly beautiful and ladylik woman, but she has qualities both o head and heart which under other cit cumstances would have made her heroine. Every one during the great dock strike heard of John Burns and his straw hat. Comparatively few knet that while he was parading the street and addressing the dockers she was a the Wade Arnas battling with account and feeding starving women who crowd ed daily into the offices. Often she wa there for twenty-four hours at a tim and sometimes when work was done : was too late to get any conveyance othe than the expensive cab. Upon such o casions she would walk from Poplar t Battersea. It need hardly be added that Joh le Women Who Are of Such Assi ance to Three Brave Britishers.
