ALLENTOWN, Nov. 30.—Two bold bandits, in true western style, held up the dits, in true western style, held up the eashier and bookkeeper in the Farmers' National bank at this place in broad daylight, but after leaving the bank with a large sum of money they were run down and captured. At about 12:30 p. m. two young men entered the bank and walked directly to the window, behind which stood Urectly to the window, behind which stood Zashier Elmer H. Hutchinson. One of the men had a mustache and the other was smooth faced. The man with the mustache solited a revolver at Cashier Hutchinson and said, "We want a.l the money you and said, "We want all the money you have."

At the same time the young robber with the smooth face covered Bookkeeper William D. Smith with his revolver. Smith was also behind the rail. There was no one else in the bank at the time but the bookkeeper, the cashier and the two robbers.

Run Down by a Mob.

The bank officials were powerless, and $2,000 in green backs which lay on the counter was shoved out to the robbers. One of them kept the cashier and his assistant covered with his revolver; the other put the money in his pockets and then started towards the door. The other robber commanded Cashier Hutchinson and his assistant to walk backward toward the wall and then to stand there facing it.

They did so, and the robber who took the money, finding the coast clear, walked out of the door. The other soon followed and started on a run down the street. As soon as the bank men found that the robbers were gone they started in pursuit, firing at the robbers as they ran.

Cashier Hutchinson, who is a fast run-ner, gained on the two thieves, who, per-ceiving this, turned and fired several shots back at their pursuers. William Laird, a farmer, and William H. The thieves, find-ing that they were hemmed in on all sides.

The crowd gathered around them, and amid many wild threats they were secured and the money taken from them. They gave the names of J. B. Morris and Frederick Smith. Later in the day they were taken to Freehold jail. Upon being searched a memorandum was found bearing the words "Woodstown bank, Nov. 30." It is supposed that they intended to pay this place in Salem county a visit today.

New York, Nov. 30.—At the great heresy trial the defendant, Rev. Dr. Briggs, secured an order to strike from the indictment against him its two most essential counts, Nos. 4 and 7. The fourth charge, relating to the fulfillment of prophecy, was stricken out by a vote of 70 to 49, and the seventh charge, relating to redemption after death, by a vote of 74 to 59. These were standing votes, and many qualified voters did not vote on either side. No delegate called for a vive voce vote, so that the opinion of each man was not recorded. Mother Earth Has Crossed the Wander's Path in Safety.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28,—Great interest was manifested in the city Sunday night on account of the promised appearance of the comet, and as the shades of evening began to gather hundreds of men, women and children gathered on the streets for the purpose of witnessing the expected heavenly wonders. The crowds maintained their positions until long after the hour fixed by the astronomers for the collision, when they were driven home by a drizzling rain. There were many who were afraid to venture from their homes, and preferred to die by their own fireside if the expected death was to come. Three cases of insanity through fear of the destruction of the world were reported by the police.

Manie Haniford, twenty-two years old, of 825 Wood street, became violently insane, and by the advice of her physician was sent to the insane department of the Philadelphia hospital to be cared for.

He was a man, too, of the highest moral character, and despite his heavy burden of years he was one of the most companionable as well as popular men in Washington even before his son-in-law became president of the United States. Rev. John Witherspoon Scott was born in Beaver county, Pa., Jan. 22, 1809. He was a son of Rev. George M. Scott, one of the early pioneers of Scotch Presbyterianism in western Pennsylvania.

In 1828 he resigned his professorship at Washington college and accepted a similar appointment in the Mami university, in Oxford, O. Here he remained until the spring of 1845, when he removed to College Hill, near Cincinnati, for the purpose of founding the Farmers college, and when it became well established Dr. Scott was invited back to Oxford to found a female college there.

It was while Dr. Scott was in charge of the Western Female seminary that Benjamin Harrison, a student who was taking a course at Oxford, met and loved Carrie Scott, the daughter of the venerable professor.

The Family Have a Narrow Escape at Newport.

Newport, R. I., Nov. 26, —"The Breakers," the beautiful summer residence of Cornelius Vanderbilt, was burned to the ground between 4:39 and 6 p. m. It was the greatest fire Newport ever knew and attracted thousands of spectators.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt tried to save a few personal relies, and in doing so nearly lost their lives. In five minutes the house was a mass of flames, and in less than an hour it was nearly consumed.

The whole building was a roaring furnace from the roof to the ground and from end to end when the department arrived. All the rich tapestries, rare paintings, valuable brie-a-brac and fine decorations and furnishings were beyond rescue. The house was built about a dozen or fifteen years ago for Pierre Lorillard, of New York, and was purchased, with the extensive grounds, by Mr. Vanderbilt in 18st for $400,000. More than $100,000 was expended in additions and improvements to the building.

The character of the furniture and decorations may be judged from the fact that in a single hall were hung tapestries estimated to be worth $800,000 or more. Members of the family and servants alike lost all their clothing.

ton Again Meets Defeat at Football.

New York, Nov. 25.—Thirty thousand people braved the cold wind of Thanksgiving day to see Yale's football team defeat Princeton at Manhattan field. Once more the Tigers failed to score, and again the blue flag waves triumphant over the football field. Probably never before in the history of football has such a game been witnessed. For brilliancy of play, unlooked for maneuvers and fine individual work the class of '92 will stand pre-eminent. Nothing more heroic than the work of Laurie Bliss and of Captain King, of Princeton, has been seen on the football field in years. The teams lined up as follows:

Pennsylvania Will Play Yale.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—The University of Pennsylvania has second place in the intercollegiate football championship, and next Thanksgiving in New York will play Yale.
