FREELAND, PA., JANUARY 2, 1893.

Cumulative Bountles Cumulative Bounties. Pension rapacity goes forward by arithmetical progression. What is rash or doubtful this year may be precedent next year. During the Cleveland ad-ministration, in a burst of belated gen-erosity, a law was passed giving to dis-abled Mexican veterans $8 a month, without stipulating that their disabilities should have been acquired in the service.

should have been acquired in the service. This unfotunate piece of legislation was the precursor of the disability bill, which has swamped the treasury by making similar provisions for all the soldiers engaged on the Union side in putting down the rebellion. The disability bill raised the rate of pension from $8 per month to $12 per month. This, in turn, furnished the excuse for the bill which passed con-gress last week raising the pensions of the Mexican veterans from $8 to $12. It is pleaded with some show of jus-tice and fairness that if one soldier be entitled to $12 per month for disability growing out of any cause whatever, it is not fair to put another soldier of one fullion dollars per year to establish llion dollars per year to establish

But why should a soldier's disabilities incurred in the ordinary pursuits of life entitle him more than any other man to a place on the pension list? Is it not the duty of citizens to give their services to the country in the emergency of war? Must men be paid for having done their duty when they are no longer serving the country, and pensioned for hurts and hindrances not in any way con-nected with the public service? It was an ill day for the country when congress yieled itself to the solicitations of the pension agents; and no time should be lost in providing for such a revisal of the pension list as should, while continuing to recognize fully the just debt of the country, put an end to the debauchery of patriotic sentiment and mercent the list. But why should a soldier's disabiliti just debt of the country, put an end to the debauchery of patriotic sentiment and prevent the loading down of the nation with a staggering, unwieldy and ncalculable indebted ness.—Record
