Saturday evening. Of course, before arriving here he had been unloading schooners and as his muscles were in good trim he kept persons who were traveling the street busy dodging stones which he threw at them. He made no exception to sex, women and children were in as much danger as men, and he was in a fair way of being white-capped when one of his countrymen took him in out of danger.

A full account of a ghastly discovery here will be found on the first page today. You get all the news in the TRIBUNE, the cheapest, best and brightest local paper in the state.

Robert Oliver, of Sandy Run, spent Sunday afternoon with his parents here. Miss Kate O'Donnell, of Freeland, was here visiting on Sunday.

E. H. Freese moved his family from here to South Heberton, and it is said he has accepted a position with the Freeland Mercantile Company, Limited.

Miss Mary Campbell, of Hazle Brook, is spending a week in town.

The new striping between the Sandy Run road and the railway has made considerable progress already.

There is no end to the schemes some of our young men can get up nowadays. Several of them escorted a few ladies to the east end of Jeddo on Sunday evening and as they were treated kindly by the ladies and had supper there, it is said they load a few cars of coal occasionally for the "old man," who works here, to keep him from kicking.

Rev. J. W. Bischoff, of Upper Lehigh, held services in the school house here on Thursday evening. He will establish a branch of the Presbyterian denomination here.

One of our Hungarians thought he would spend Easter (last Sunday) among his friends at Jeannsville. While enjoying himself there he got into a row and demolished nearly everything in the house. He is now in Pottsville jail pondering over the good time he had. His brother had him arrested.

The readers of the TRIBUNE are well pleased with the promptness with which it arrives here, and the local happenings it contains from all over the region is a feature that is worth more than the news of all the other papers combined which come here.

Mrs. John Broderick, of Sandy Run, called on friends here on Sunday.

Michael McGill went to Will's Eye hospital, Philadelphia, on Tuesday, to receive treatment for an old injury.

Base ball is the topic here at present and we believe this place will put up a team that will make the amateurs from the neighboring towns hustle.

Several of our young men are very curious about the Highland scribe. Well, boys, what you are afflicted with "killed a cat," in olden times, and as long as you are good, quiet, peaceable citizens there is no danger of you "getting in the paper" in any but an honorable way.

We believe an investigation of the pond from which the water supply of this place comes would be of great benefit to our residents. The water coming through the hydrants is unfit to give a beast, and if this matter was looked into properly it is scarcely fit to wash coal on the breaker. Just the same we have to drink it or oftentimes go dry. If this should meet the eye of the deputy medical inspector of the state board of health, Dr. McKnight, we would be pleased to hear from him, if it comes under his jurisdiction.

ECKLEY CLIPPINGS.

John Rodgers attended the funeral of an infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelley, formerly of Hazle Brook, but now of Bristol, Bucks county, on Saturday.

Charles Harvey and Barney Gallagher called on Buckmountain friends Saturday evening.

St. Mary's T. A. B. Cadet Society has commenced drilling.

Manus McFadden has accepted a position as a driver at Hazle Brook.

Miss Rosie Shane, one of the Quaker city fair sex, is visiting her uncle.

Barney Morris, who was injured at No. 10 slope a few weeks ago, is able to be about the house again.

Adam Fuister has been transferred from here to Harwood, and will engage as a coal inspector for Coxie Bros. & Co. at that place.

Tomorrow will be all slaves day—pay day.

Fires are beginning to rage on the mountain between here and Sandy Run.

Misses Annie and Katie McHugh spent a few pleasant hours with Freeland friends on Tuesday.

"Dock" Denion, of Freeland, smiled at the fair sex in town Tuesday.

Miss Fannie Trimble, of Hazleton, is visiting the home of her parents.

The net proceeds of the St. Mary's fair were $790.41.

Rev. Father Brehony will attend the consecration of the Pittston Catholic church next Sunday, therefore there will be no mass read here that day.

Miss Mamie Murrin, of Freeland, visited the home of her parents Sunday.

Quite a number of our young folks will attend a social hop at Gillespie's hotel, Buckmountain, on Saturday evening.

Neal O'Donnell and John Campbell were at Highland on Sunday.

Miss Susan Sweeney, of Freeland, is the guest of Mrs. Matthew Murphy.

Mrs. Catharine McGill was taken to Hazleton hospital yesterday, suffering from a broken wrist and other injuries received by a fall.

Saturday, April 8.

A fierce storm swept over the country, blowing down many buildings in Chicago and causing the death of nine men in a little town in Illinois.
