Tuesday, May 2.

May day passed off quietly in Europe. The only serious rioting was in Marseilles. There were slight disturbances in Paris and Berlin. In Vienna the workmen held 56 meetings.

Wednesday, May 3.

There was a meeting of the stockholders of the Citizens' Bank of Freeland at the banking house of said bank on Wednesday, May 3, 1886, from 10 to 11 o'clock, a. m., to elect directors for the ensuing year.

FROM SUBURBAN POINTS.

HIGHLAND DOTS.

Old-time residents of this place will not know the town soon. The improvements on the houses are to be followed by their painting, the contract for which has been given to A. A. Bachman, of Freeland.

Edward Grossman, of South Hebron, an employe of No. 2 slope, was slightly injured last week. The school term which was to end last week will be kept going for the present month, much to the regret of the small boy.

The whole village, is on the move these evenings—fixing fences, planting and cleaning up in general.

Patrick Bradley had his hand severely cut by a piece of coal while at work in No. 1 slope last week.

Henry Deiarth and wife spent Sunday with relatives at Freeland.

W. B. Smith, of Hazleton, superintendent of the Jeddo Coal Company, paid this place a visit on Saturday.

Henry Grossman is confined to his home with sickness.

What is the matter with the mutual benefit fund? It is so long since we heard anything of it that we are almost sure it's a thing of the past.

George Harvey and wife made a visit to Sandy Run friends on Sunday.

The steam shovel at the stripping is quite a curiosity to many of our residents, but it will be old and the novelty worn off before it is through here.

James D. Mock, of Jeddo, called on friends at this place on Sunday.

ECKLEY CLIPPINGS.

Eckley has another new doctor. This is the third inside of three months, and our townpeople are beginning to object. Mary Ann thinks it's about time. Dr. Crease seemed to be the people's favorite doctor, but when he served one month here he was transferred again to Silver Brook and another doctor sent here.

Daniel Munday and wife, of Silver Brook, spent Sunday among friends and relatives in town.

Miss Ellie Shearon returned to Philadelphia after a week's visit to her parents.

Miss Ellie McCauley is spending a few weeks with Hazleton friends.

John Wagner is about to remove his household effects to Hazleton.

Michael Donahue, of Wilkes-Barre, is sojourning with friends in town.

Diphtheria has been reported in town among the children.

The raffle for two stoves for the benefit of James Herron came off on Saturday evening and a grand social to the bargain. As usual the young folks turned out strong and enjoyed themselves until the orchestra struck up "Home, Sweet Home." Even after the music deserted they enjoyed several choice songs rendered by Misses Annie and Katie McHugh.

Patrick O'Donnell and Edward Quinn, of Highland, circulated among friends and relatives in town Sunday.

John Shearon left on Monday for Montana. Mary Ann wishes him success in his trip.

Thomas Tully and wife, of Freeland, spent Sunday in town.

Several societies of town have received invitations from the G. A. R. to participate in the parade at Freeland on Memorial Day.

Miss Rosie Shane, who was the guest of her uncle for the past few weeks, left for the Quaker City last week.

Daniel Gallagher, of Sandy Run, was seen in town Sunday.

Our sporting men give all their spare time to the trout pond.

Miss Cassie Murrin is enjoying a visit among Freeland friends.

Patrick Sharp, Wm. Brogan and Thos. Meighan, of Freeland, drove towards Buck Mountain Sunday afternoon.

Charley Farrel, of Freeland, was among the many visitors to town Sunday.

John Davis, Jr., has taken a position as fireman at No. 6 boiler house.

Gilleshpie's orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music at the A. O. H., picnic to be held in the grove here on Saturday, June 17.

South street came nearly being the scene of a small battle on Sunday. A Hun came roaring through town, and upon seeing a young man coming down the street picked up a stone and threw it at him.

Several friends of the young man came to his rescue, prepared to make things lively if the Hun threw another. He did not but went to his home and returned with a gang behind him, armed with knives, axes and fence rails.

By this time a large crowd had gathered but the Americans showed no signs of getting afraid of the Huns and their weapons.

THE PAPER APPEARS AS USUAL.

Under the heading "Stop my paper," an exchange says: That is about the way a newspaper man is greeted every now and then by an irate individual whose horns have been accidentally trodden upon by an article he read in the paper, and his resultant rage causes him to rush to the editorial sanctum or he sends a postal card, ordering the immediate discontinuance of his paper. Then he feels better, takes a drink and subscribes for the opposition sheet.

There is, however, a dark lining to his silver cloud. The editor did not beg him to reconsider his determination, did not turn pale or faint. He simply scratched that man's name off his list of subscribers and then resumed his work on an editorial giving advice to Cleveland as to how he should conduct his administration.

All this strikes the outraged subscriber as curious, but he goes home fully imbued with the idea that something awful is going to happen to that bold, brass editor because he discontinued his paper. To his amazement and anger the paper appears again with its accustomed regularity and there is not even a line to denote the fact that the editor is laboring under a stress of mental anguish because a copy of the paper has been stopped.

The paper goes on in the calm even tenor of its way; it does not have a receiver appointed and does not go into bankruptcy; the editor does not commit suicide, the sun continues to shine, and the disappointed ex-subscriber, after waiting a little while longer for chaos to set in, hurries back to the office and has his name placed once more on the subscription roll. Then he feels that a load has been removed from his conscience.

A DIFFERENCE IN PAYING BILLS.

An exchange says: "It's no sign that a man is rich because he pays his bills promptly." Not by any manner of means. There are poor men and men of moderate means who pay as they go, on the principle that it is not only honest, but that it is the safest. On the other hand, there are rich people who, whether from indisposition or from inability to understand that those to whom they are indebted actually need the money due them, rarely pay until almost forced to do so.

INSPECTING THE POSTS.

Maj. C. B. Cox Post, 147, G. A. R., will be inspected by Deputy Inspector Nathan Shafer, of Hazleton, this evening. A delegation from Post 147, consisting of Thos Birkbeck, George Cutler, Timothy Boyle and John Wagner, inspected the White Haven post last evening.
