Is the Time for Catarrhal Dyspepsia—The Blood Must be Cleansed.

The symptoms of catarrhal dyspepsia
are: Coated tongue, pain or heavy feeling in the stomach, sour stomach, belching of gas, dizzy head, sometimes headache, despondent feelings, loss of appetite, palpitation of heart and irregularity of the bowels.

For this condition Per-un-a is found to be an admirable remedy. In all cases it brings prompt relief to the painful symptoms, and in a large per cent. of the cases it makes a permanent cure. Per-un-an soothes the inflamed mucus surface, and thus strikes at the root of the disease. In cases where the inflammation has been so severe and continued as to produce extreme irritability of the stomach, the remedy may be taken in small doses at first, diluted in water; but as soon as the ict provement is sufficient to permit the full dose to be taken undiluted, it is a better way, and the cure is much permit the full dose to be taken unit is a better way, and the cure is much more rapid. Pe ru-na is also a spring medi

The Czar's Splendid Giffs.

The presents given by the Czar of Russia to the Emir of Bokhara in return for the splendid gifts which the latter made to all the members of the Russian Imperial family are of such magnificance that they might well fill feminion hearts with regret at the more thought of such marvels being wasted on a man. First of all there was a casket in soild gold, all ornamented with diamonds and bearing the crown and cipher of the Czar in huge brilliants. When this box was opened it was found to contain an aigrette of three plumes in diamonds and an agraffe made of one enormous emerald, cut square. Then there were some trifles for the table service of the Emir; a table for "dostorhane" all gilttering with precious stones. Tae "dostorhane" is a light reflection of sweets, bonbons, liquors, preserves and delicate cakes served in the drawing-room, the fashion of which has been imported into Russia, by the Emir himself, and which is now becoming the rage all over Europe. Among the other offerings of the Emperor were a loving cup in enameled silver covered with gens, for drinking koumyss; a lot of cups, vases and dishes in enameled silver, and some wearing appearel, the description of which reminds one of the traditional robes of Solomon in all his glory—especially a "halate" or long khaftan made of gold thread, and trimmed with galon of wrought gold, sown thickly with the red purple amethysts of Siberia and very large rubies. There was another of thes wonderful "halates" made of blue velvet, embroidered with gold and precious stones and Lned with priceless sable furs. Furthermore, there was a nico little assortment of pieces of "parcha," a material in gold and silver threa'l manufactured at Moscow. Tae Enir's son was also the recipical gold watches studded with diamons, jeweled scimiters, and other weapons of great value and beauty.

They dre whand sledges slong with the u, and were gone about fifteen days in all. In Hayden Valley they saw a huge budslo standing on a point not over 200 yards distant. Shortly afterward they saw a band of thirty or forty head of buffars. They ran across numerous elk, deer and antelope, and report that game is remarkably plentiful, even down near the edges of the park.—Bozeman (Montana) Courier.

Get Away From the Crowd,

Get Away From the Crowd.

The advice which Robert Burdette gives to boys may well be taken, not only by them, but by older persons—"Get away from the crowd," he says, "for a little while every day, and think. Stand on one side and letthe world run by, while you get acquainted with yourself, and see what kind of a fellow you are. Ask yourself hard questions about yourself, find out all you can about yourself, find out all you can about yourself, sacertain, from original sources, if you are really the manner of man you say you are; and if you are always honest; if you always tell the square, perfect truth in business deals; if you rile is as good and upright at 11 o'clock at night as it is at noon; if you are as good a temperance man on a fishing excursion as you are at a Sunday school picnic; if you are as good when you go out of the city as you are at home; if, in short, you are really the sort of man your father hopes you are, and your sweetheart believes you are. Get on intimate hopes you are, and your sweetheart believes you are. Get on intimate terms with yourself, my boy, and believe me, every time you come out from one of these private interviews, you will be a stronger, better, pure man. Don't forget this, and it will do you good."

More Flattery than Truth.

One day as Sir Isaac Heard was with George the Third, it was announced that his majesty's horse was ready to start for hunting. "Sir Isaac," said the good monarch, "are you a judge of horses?" "In my younger days, please your majesty," was the reply, "I was a great deal among them." "What do you think of this, then?" said the king, who was by this time preparing to mount his favorite, and, without waiting for an answer, added: "We call him perfection." "A most appropriate name," replied the courtly herald, bowing as his majesty reached the saddle, "for he bears the best of characters."

The New Bread

The New Bread.

The favor with which the new bread, made with Royal Baking Powder instead of yeast, has been received by our best housekeepers and most expert bread makers is really wonderful. "It saves all the hard and tedious work of kneading and moulding," writes one. "Less than an hour from the dry flour to the most perfect loaf of bread I ever saw," writes another. "Fresh bread every day," asys another, "and thatthe lightest, finest and most wholesome, is something to live for." "We relish the bread better than the old kind;" "it is ahead of any yeast bread I ever baked;" "the bread was whiter and softer." "Best of all," writes an enthusnastic housewife, "we can eat the Royal unfemented bread when freshly baked, or even when warm, with perfect impunity. It is actually an anti-dyspeptic."

"This bread has a 'nutty' taste, that is peculiarly pleasing," writes still another. This is owing to the fact that the active gas-producing principle of the Royal is derived from the pure grape acid.

The great value of this bread arises from the fact that in it are preserved all the most nutritive elements of the flour, some of which are decomposed and destroyed by the action of yeast. The loss of these properties is what makes fresh yeast bread unwholesome. The use of the Royal Baking Powder instead of yeast is found to make a floer, lighter bread, devoid of all dyspeptic qualities. The same gas—carbonic—is produced as where yeast is used, but it is evolved from the baking powder itself and not from the flour. Thereby the bread is made more wholesome and actually anti-dyspeptic. The greater convenience, where a batch of the finest bread can be made and baked in less than an hour with no danger of a sour or heavy loaf, must be appreciated by everyone. The receipt for making this bread is herewith given, and housekeepers will do well to cut it out and preserve it:

To make one loaf—One quart four, one teaspoonful salt, half a teaspoonful sugar, two heaping teaspoonfuls Royal Baking Powder, half medium-sized cold boiled p

Baking Powder, half medium-sized cold boiled potato, and water. Sift together thoroughly flour, sait, sugar and baking powder; rub in the potato; add sufficient water to mix smoothly and rapidly into a stiff batter, about as soft as for pound-cake; about a pint of water to a quart of flour will be required—more or less according to the brand and quility of the flour used. Do not make a stiff dough, like yeast bread. Pour the batter into a greased pan, 4½80 inches, and four inches deep, filling about half full. The loaf will rise to fill the pan when baked. Bake in very hot oven forty-five minutes, placing paper over first fifteen minutes baking, to prevent crusting too soon on top. Bake at once. Don't mix exith milk.

Perfect success requires the most care-

with milk.

Perfect success requires the most careful observance of all these details, and the author of the receipt emphasizes the statement that Royal Baking Powder only can be used because it is the only powder in which the ingredients are prepared so as to give that continuous action necessary to raise the larger bread loaf.

action necessary to raise the larger bread loaf.

To every reader who will write the result of her bread making from this receipt to the Royal Baking Powder Co., 106 Wall street, New York, that company announce that they will send in return, free, a copy of a most practical and useful cook book, containing one thousand receipts for all kinds of baking, cooking, etc. Mention this paper.
