Flag Contest Ended.

The contest for a flag at St. Ann's church ended on Tuesday evening, when committees from the societies interested net at Father Fallihee's residence and made their returns of the amounts col-lected. The following was announced

Rev. Fallihee stated the flag would be burchased for Division 19 as soon as its nembers decide upon what kind they wish. As they already own a fine Irish wish. As they arready own a line frish flag they will likely chose an American one to match it in quality and appearance. After deducting the cost of the flag the proceeds of the contest will be given to the parochial school fund.

Storm Gets a Decision

On Tuesday evening Judge Simont of the Dauphin county court, handed down decisions in the various judicial down decisions in the various judicial nomination contests before him. In the Carbon-Monroe case he says that ex-Senator Craig's certificate of nomination is null and void, he having received the nomination of the Democratic party in but one county, that of Carbon. Craig's name, however, will appear on the ticket under the head of "by nomination papers" as the candidate of the "nonpartisan judiciary party" of Carbon.

The well-known play of "Monte Cristo" drew a full house on Tuesday evening, and the presentation of the piece fullfilled all expectations. xpectations.
In "The Danites" last evening the company again demonstrated its ability to give a play as the author intended it should be given. The portrayal of Western life, scenes of mining camps and a representation of how the pioneers of California judge between right and wrong brought out some good acting.

This evening the "Ticket of-Leave Man" will be given, tomorrow evening "The Two Orphans," Saturday matinee, "Lost in London" and Saturday evening "The Octoroon."

A Hungarian Hangs Himself.

From Today's Speaker.
Harleigh was thrown into a state of unusual excitement yesterday afternoon by the announcement of the fact that the dead body of a man had been found hanging to a tree in the picnic ground back of the church. It was not lo fore crowds of people, young and old; had gathered from every part of the neighborhood. Some contend that the man was hung by friends of the Matz's against whom Adam Novack was prose cutor and was supposed to have been assisted by this man.

A letter was found in the dead man's pocket and also a prayer book in which was stamped the name "John Novack." Michael Lynch, a school teacher of Har-leigh, found the body hanging by a piece of wire from the limb of a tree in such a manner that the feet touched the ground. Deputy Coroner Gorman requested Undertaker Boyle to bring the body here, which was done last evening. The body was kept all night in Mr. Boyle's morgue, and this morning at 9 o'clock he will conduct an inquest for the purpose of finding out for a certainty and to satisfy the law concerning the facts surrounding the hanging.

A :BRUTAL MURDER.

Men Quarrel Near Wilkess-and One Is Stabbed to Death.

John Johnson, foreman in charge of a gang of laborers and masons employed in constructing piers for a new bridge of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Wes-tern Railroad, a few miles below Wilkes-Barre, was brutally murdered on Mon-day afternoon by John Wilburn, fore-man of a quarry nearby, from which stone was being taken for the piers. The quarrymen were not working on account of the rain, but Wilburn, in account of the rain, but whoth, in company with a ten-year-old Italian water-boy, was in the quarry marking places to be cut by his workmen. In the morning Johnson wanted to do some blasting and sent a laborer to Wilburn to borrow an electric battery to explode to borrow an electric battery to explode the charges. Wilburn, though not using the battery, refused to loan it, and roundly abused the man, who told Johnson of his reception. Johnson was annoyed and atter dinner went over himself. What followed nobody knows but Wilburn and the little Italian boy. The latter, a bright little fellow, tells a very clear story. He says that he and Wilburn were working and he was standing nearby when Johnson came into the quarry. The boy doesn't standing nearby when Johnson came into the quarry. The boy doesn't understand English very well, and consequently could not make out what the men said. Both appeared very angry, and after a brief interchange of angry, and after a brief interchange of died shortly afterwards. He left no will be mife, applied for letters of adenraged and sprang at him again. Soon Wilburn was knocked down a second time, and then Johnson turned to walk away.

As he did so Wilburn picked up an iron crowbar, and running after him, brought the weapon down upon John-son's head with all his force. Johnson son's head with all his force. Johnson fell to the ground, and Wilburn, kneeling down, camly drew a big jackknife from his pocket, opened it and plunged it into the breast of the prostrate Johnson. Then he coolly wiped the weapon on his victim's clothes, pocketed it and walked away. The boy was so frightened that he ran into the woods.

Wilburn want to his home at Next

Wilburn went to his home at Nanticoke, changed his clothes and left the coke, changed his clothes and left the town. He has not been seen since. Johnson was from St. Katherines, Ontario, and Wilburn is from Illinois. The body of Johnson was found two hours after the murder by some laborers, and when they appeared the little Italian boy came out of the woods and

PLEASURE CALENDAR.

October 26 to 28.-J. W. Macready and company, at Freeland opera house. Admission, 15, 25 and 35 cents.

The first catalogue of the Freeland Mining and Mechanical Institute has been issued by the board of directors. It gives interesting statistics and information from the date of organization, March 16, 1893, to the end of the last term. At that time there were 57 pupils in the school, of which number 17 were in the mining class and 40 were study-ing the mechanical branch. Instruction is given three evenings a week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and the reading room is open every weekday even-ing from 7 to 9.30 o'clock.

The directors report a balance of $177.90 at the close of the last term, and also state they feel very much encour-aged with the work thus far accomplish-ed, considering the short time the insti-tutue has been organized.

The entire third floor of the Birkbeck brick is now occupied, and the fall term, which commenced the forepart of September, opened very auspiciously. The young men who are enrolled as students show their appreciation of the opportunity offered by their punctual attendance. ance and the rapid progress they make with their studies.
