UPPER LEHIGH NOTES

On Tuesday morning about 3 o'clock the company's steam saw-mill, which is situated in the Oley valley about a mile from this place, was burned to the ground. The first report of the fire that ground. The first report of the fire that reached here said that Josh Santee, who had appartments in the building and was foreman of the mill by day and caretaker at night, had perished in the flames. This report proved to be untrue, although Mr. Santee had a narrow true, although Mr. Santee had a narrow secape and were it not for the timely arrival of some workmen, who reside near the mill, he would undoubtedly have been burned to death. As it was he escaped with a few slight burns, though caped with a lew sight ours, models he lost all his personal effects, including $150 in money. The origin of the fire is strondsburg state normal school as a student about the 27th inst.

There are many versions of the affair, but Mr. Seitz says he was in no way implicated in the brawl, and will enter suit against the party who shot him as soon as he is able to be around again. The bullet entered the left side from back to breast close to the ribs and the wound is not considered dangerous.

Had it been allowed to remain much longer in that condition it would have killed him, so an operation was decided upon. His face was cut open from the temple around the eye, down along side of the nose and through the middle of the upper lip; then the flesh was laid back and the decayed portion of the bone removed. In its place was put a silver plate, the flesh laid over this and then sewed up.

The patient is slowly recovering from the operation, and the physicians think it will prove a success.

The Hazleton Sentinel says the enter-tainments given by the Flagg Liver Pad Co. are superior to anything of the kind which have visited this section.

The members of the St. Patrick's cor-net band are hustling to make their ball on Monday a grand success. No ex-pense will be spared to show all their friends and visitors an excellent time.

A fire at Drifton on Tuesday destroyed a small building which was used as a hennery by J. L. Owens. An incubator and about thirty chickens were burned, involving a loss of $150 to Mr. Owens.

Dr. Flagg will give free entertainments the coming two weeks at Cottage hall, commencing Treesday next. He comes well recommended, being highly spoken of by the press and public of surrounding towns.
