Reliable Correspondent Mary Ann Tells of an Unusual Case of Horse Stealing

Special and regular correspondence from the surrounding towns is solicited by the TRIBUNE. Communications or by the TRIBUNE. Communications or items intended for publication must be accompanied by the name of the writer.

ECKLEY CLIPPINGS.

A peculiar case of horse stealing of A peculiar case of horse stealing oc-curred here a few days ago. Two young men came to town with a horse and carriage, and after arriving here they tied the animal to a post, but had not been long away from it when three young girls came up, loosened the horse, got in the carriage and drove away towards the valley. The owner of the rig immediately gave chase and caucht rig immediately gave chase and caught up to them on top of the hill. The young man did not relish the act at all, and to the girls' chagrin made them step out of the rig and walk back to town.

Dr. Wiser left town on Tuesday for a stay in Philadelphia, previous to locating in Massachusetts. The doctor will be greatly missed by our people, and carries with him the best wishes of all who know him. He will be succeeded by Dr. A. S. McKnight, of Freeland.

It looks as if Eckley will be to the front this summer with picnics. The grove here has been secured for May 19 by the Shamrock Drum Corps, and for June 16 by Division 20, A. O. H.

UPPER LEHIGH NOTES.

The plant of the Plain Speaker Published the plaintiff $5.400 damages. The suit was brought against the doctor for malpractice. It was claimed that a son of McNulty fell from a tree and dislocated his arm. Dr. Divley set the arm without reducing the dislocation and a permanent injury was the result.

The plant of the Plain Speaker Publishing Company, of Hazleton, was sold by the sheriff on Monday. C. F. Bohan, Esq., of Pittston, purchased it for James L. Morris, who is now sole proprietor and editor. Several improvements have been made and more are promised by the new manager.

the celebrated case of the inter-sta commerce commission (Coxe Bros. & Co.) vs. the Lehigh Valley Railroad Co. before Mr. Brown, the master. Vice President Garrett, under cross-examination, declared that there exists injurious com petition in regard to coal-carrying rates. He admitted that interest was being paid on the bonded indebtedness, but claimed that this is owing to the decreased cost of operating owing to enforced economics. A permanent depression in the rate of wages would better the conble to maintain the present conditions

The falling off in the coal tonnage for the first four months of this year, Mr. Garret testified, had been 3,000,000 tons. It was not likely that the loss would continue in the same ratio. Should it, however, do so, it meant absolute disaster to Scare at the Jail.

From the Wilkes-Barre Newsdealer.

There was great alarm at the jail on Saturday night, and for a time the officials were at their wits' end. It was a small pox scare. A Polander from Whiskey Hill, who had been sent up by Squire Ford, was put in a cell, and while the constable was in the office the prisoner was taken sick. The watchman who went to his cell found his face all broken out with pimples and at once broken out with pimples and at once gave the alarm. Warden Jones thought it looked like small pox, and Dr. Kirwin was at once sent for.
