Color Cure for Insanity. In the hospital for the insane at Allessandria, Italy, two special rooms have been arranged, one fitted up with windows of red glass and red paint on the walls, the other in blue throughout. A violent patient is first taken to the "blue room" and left to see what effect that color will have on his nerves. One maniac was cured in less than an hour; another, raving and furlous, was at perfect peace after passing a day in the calming shades of his cerulean surroundings. The "red room" is used for the com-monest forms of dementia, especially melancholy and refusal to take food. The first patient was one who had fasted seven days. After only a three hours' stay in the red room he became quite cheerful and asked for food.—St. Louis Republic. In Japan a man can live like a Chumpton — "Thope you don't doubt my intelligence." ## HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS. THE HAY QUILT.

THE HAY QULT. About the latest addition in bed covering is the hay quilt. It is made of fannelette, cretonne or wool and an armful or two of hay. The goods are sewed strongly across the top and bottom and down one side, and quilt-ed across from side to side at dis-tances of about fourteen inches. The hay is put in lightly and the remain-ing side sewed down. When the hay becomes limp hang the quilt before the fire, and it soon becomes crisp gain. The warmth of these quilts cannot be realized except by those who have tried them. In making these quilts they should be made quite as wide as the beds they are intended to cover. They are equal in warmth to two or three blankets. Such quilts are much used by the peasantry in the Swiss mountains, who appreciate the warmth they afford. — Detroit Eree Press.

STRAWBERRY SUN PRESERVES

It is a curions fact, but well known both to scientific folk and to experi-enced housewives, that the direct ac-tion of the sun is at once surer and more satisfactory than that of any other known heat. So when we learn it is a tradition of old Virginia cook-ery to preserve strawberries in the sun in place of over the stove there is lit-lie occasion for surprise, but only an opportunity to realize how much those famous cooks can teach us. The berries treated after the follow-ing recipe are both richer and more perfect than those prepared in any other way. The object of the glass is of course only that of concentrating the heat, and the effect is not disaini-lar to that known to every child who has played at the old trick of burning the skin by catching one of old Sol's rays upon a bit of broken glass. The peculiar purity of the sweetness combined with the succulent redness in this sun-cooked preserve gives a suggestion of some oriental conserve. The berries seem to be permeated with the sun's sweetness in addition to their own, and the symp become rich, pure and clear as syrup can be. The berry retains its shape and comes unbroken from the jar, which alone is cause suf-ficient for recommending this espe-cial preserve. I furth enough has been said to m-sure a trial by every woman who loves a toothsome dainty ; certainly those who know the luxuries with which s Virginia dame of the old school fills is who finds these secrets out. The Virginia rule requires three-quarters of a pound of sugar to a pound of strawberries. The sugar is mixed with pust enough water to well it and put on to boil. It is to be taken off before it thickens and pourd over the strawberries. Then the bor-ries are set in the sun two days, covered with a pane of glass. They are docusionally stirred. On the third day pour off the syrup and boil it again—it will be found in the preserving kettle and boil until the berries plump up. Then set in the sun again for a day. The next moring seal the preserve in small jars with brandied paper o

Experiments made in France have shown that the reason the sap-wood in timber is worm-caten is because of the existence of starch in it. It is the starch that the insects are after, and they do not attack the hard wood because it contains no starch. The experimenters have devised a method of preserving timber from such attacks. In the spring they cut a ring through the bark around the upper end of the trunk, and suppress all buds that are developed there. By autumn the starch has disappeared from the sap-wood and the tree is ready to be felled. Timber thus pre-pared, it is said, does not become worm-caten.
