ECKLEY CLIPPINGS.

The Foundryville school, under the tutorage of Miss Ray James, of this place, closed on Tuesday. All departed then with the best wishes and happy recollections of the well-spent days at school.

John Shelhamer and John James, two local bicyclists, had a collision while descending the Buckmountain hill. Shelhamer lost control of his machine and ran into James with fearful force, stunning both men and badly damaging both wheels. The riders escaped serious injury, but bear a number of scratches and bruises to remember the trip.

ONEIDA AND SHEPPTON.

The much-talked of race between Thomas Tanner's and Dr. Jenkins' horses came off on Saturday afternoon on the road between Oneida and Sheppton. Tanner's horse came in two lengths ahead of the doctor's, thereby winning the name of being the fastest horse in Sheppton. Ed. Crampsey was referee. Daniel Ferry has changed his residence from No. 4 to Upper Lehigh proper.

Two of our residents are going to indulge in another shooting match on May 29. There seems to be a craze at present among our pigeon shooters and we hope these two sportsmen will make the affair creditable by doing some shooting and not so much talking. The match will be for $50.

The school term closed yesterday in the primary school taught by Miss Bella McGill at this place. The closing exercises were very good and the children show marked improvement over previous years. William Davis and wife, of Catsaqua, were here visiting his parents and relatives for a few days.

John Leisenring, of this place, who is out as a candidate for the congressional nomination on the Republican ticket, is meeting with a great deal of success in his canvass. If the Republicans want a man to represent this district in congress they could not find one in the county who could down all opposition with as much ease as Mr. Leisenring. While he is not a professional politician, he has all the qualifications that are necessary to be a successful congressman and if his party will give him the nomination our town will certainly be the home of the next congressman from this district.

D. S. & S. NOTES.

The office clerks defeated the trainmen in a game of ball at Freeland park last Sunday. The game was full of errors and uninteresting, as both teams had no practice, although some fine running catches and base running was done. Score, clerks, 17; trainmen, 7. GONE TO HIS LAST HOME.

LAST SAD TRIBUTE PAID TO THE MEMORY OF JOHN D. HAYES.

Several Thousand People Follow His Remains to the Church and Cemetery. Resolutions Adopted by the Luzerne County Bar Association.

When the hearse bearing the remains of the late John D. Hayes started from the residence on Washington street for St. Ann's church on Tuesday morning it was followed by the greatest number of people that were ever assembled together in Freeland for the purpose of paying their respects to the memory of a fellow-citizen. Business was entirely suspended between 9 and 11 o'clock, and while the funeral procession was passing through the streets the chimes of St. Mary's church rang out a dirge, accompanied by the mournful peals of the bell on St. Kasimer's church.

Arriving at St. Ann's church the large edifice was quickly filled, and a solemn requiem mass for the repose of his soul was celebrated by Rev. F. P. McNally, of Scranton, who was assisted by Father O'Reilly as deacon, Father Fallihee as sub-deacon, and Father Maszotas as master of ceremonies. Father Brehony, of Eckley, and Father Phillips, of Pajias, were also present and occupied positions of honor near the altar.

At the conclusion of the mass Rev. McNally began a sermon upon the life of the deceased, of whom he was an intimate friend. He spoke upon the good qualities of Mr. Hayes and how he had endeared himself to his friends and associates by his noble life. His remarks were attentively listened to and many in the church were affected by the sincere tribute the priest paid to the memory of the dead attorney.

From the church the remains were taken to St. Gabriel's cemetery, Hazleton, followed by a long line of carriages. Several hundred people also took advantage of the special train and met the corpse at Hazleton.

The pall-bearers were J. P. McDonald, William J. Eckert, D. J. McCarthy, B. R. Davis, Michael Mulligan and Thos. A. Buckley, and the attorneys of the county were represented by G. L. Halsey, of White Haven; C. W. Kline, of Hazleton; P. A. O'Boyle, of Pittston, and A. C. Campbell, E. A. Lynch and D. L. O'Neill, of Wilkes-Barre. The judiciary of the county was represented by Judge Lynch, and about thirty other attorneys of Wilkes-Barre were present.

The floral emblems offered were handsome and appropriate, especially those from the Columbia Club, of Wilkes-Barre, and the business men of Freeland, consisting of a cross, an anchor and a pillow. Others were received from numerous friends.

Mrs. Hayes, who has been very ill for more than a week, was unable to attend the funeral or to see the corpse before it left the house. However, her bed was removed to the window of her room on the second floor, and from that position she sadly witnessed the departure of the hearse and funeral procession.

Action Taken by the County Bar.
At a meeting of the Luzerne County Bar Association on Monday action was taken with reference to the death of Mr. Hayes. Among the speakers were Judge Rice, Senator Kline, S. J. Strauss, John McGahren, District Attorney Garman and Gustav Hahn.

The committee on resolutions was composed of George B. Kulp, G. L. Halsey and John McGahren and they submitted the following:

Again the members of the bar of Luzerne county have assembled to express their sorrow over the loss of an esteemed associate. On the morning of May 5, 1894, the spirit of John David Hayes ended its earthly career and there is vouchsafed to his friends and professional brethren only the melancholy consolation of a public recognition and placing on record a brief, sad tribute to his memory.

His personal qualities were such that he quickly won the loving regard of those with whom he came in contact socially. He possessed a genial sense of humor and amiable wit, not sharpened to the edge of severity and never used to wound, and a heart full of tenderness that often made his eyes overflow with tears of sympathy for the distress of others. Intellectually he belonged to the refined grade. His perceptions were quick and he possessed an innate and instructive love of right and justice that enabled him to quickly discover and distinguish the right and the wrong in matters submitted to his judgment.

He had been practicing law for only twelve years, but had shown he was esteemed with respect, shrewdness, discretion and knowledge of human nature. He was well read in the law and a hard student. His mind grasped the principles in a case quickly and clearly. He was kind and courteous in his intercourse with the profession, honest, upright and lovable. He was scrupulously truthful himself and despised deceit and hypocrisy in others. He was open, candid and fearless in the expression of his opinion. In social life he was esteemed and loved by all who knew him. Full of mirth and fun he enjoyed life himself and made life enjoyable to all around him.

In religion he was a firm, conscientious adherent of the Roman Catholic church, the faith of his father. He devoutly and reverently accepted and followed its teachings and we may sincerely hope that he will realize in the world beyond the full fruition of the promises extended to the faithful. Among us no truer or manlier heart has lately caused to beat. When we think of him now and of his many good qualities of the traits of character, it is hard to realize that tomorrow he must be laid in the grave, that his life was ended before his duties were half done.

The members of the bar here assembled do now resolve that this minute be presented to the several courts of this county with the request that it be entered on record and that a copy be presented to his family.

They do further resolve that as a token of respect a committee be appointed by the chair to attend the funeral service.

Attorneys Troutman, Weaver, McHugh, Lynch and Halsey were appointed the committee to attend the funeral.

Death of a Moser Estate Heir.
John Moser, one of the heirs of the Moser estate, died in the almshouse at Laurytown on Tuesday. John Moser was the grandson of Burkhardt Moser, the first white settler in the Panther Creek valley. In 1777 Burkhardt Moser bought 200 acres of land along Panther creek near what is the present town of Tamaqua. He shortly after discovered coal along the banks of the creek. His brother Jacob joined him and together they conducted a business of selling coal to the farmers in Lehigh and Berks counties by the bushel. Later Burkhardt purchased 1,000 acres of land extending northward towards Coaldale and settled on a farm. Here John was born in 1830.

During the war the operations of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company were gradually extended from Nesquehoning towards Coaldale, and, it is claimed, the Moser tract, which proved to be exceedingly rich in coal, was usurped by this company. The heirs to the estate have been for years trying to regain possession of the estate and have spent a fortune in litigation.

John Moser spent whatever money he had in trying to establish his claim, and became so poor that to earn a livelihood he was at length obliged to accept a position of slate picker. He had followed this occupation during the past several years working in the breakers around Hazleton.

Lately his health had been failing and his inability to secure the money which he believed by right belonged to him preyed heavily upon his mind and he began to show signs of insanity. Being deprived of his only means of support he was last February sent to the almshouse, where he died heart-broken and penniless. His wife, who is infirm and aged, survives him.

Knights of the Golden Eagle.
The Knights of the Golden Eagle began the annual session of the grand castle of Pennsylvania at Easton on Tuesday. Dr. B. Rush Field, mayor of Easton, delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the citizens. At the secret session Grand Master of Records Barnes, of Philadelphia, was presented with a set of handsomely engrossed resolutions expressive of the appreciation of the work he has done for the order.

The parade in the afternoon had in it over 1,000 men and they presented a fine appearance. The parade was reviewed by the grand officers, city officials, members of councils and others.

After the parade there were competitive drills for prizes, and the winners were: First prize, $40, West Philadelphia Commandery, No. 7; second prize, $25, St. Mary's Commandery, No. 8, Allentown. The first regiment, of Philadelphia, won the sword and belt, valued at $25, offered to the regiment making the finest appearance in line. East Bangor Castle took $25 for having the largest number of men in line.

Lost One of Her Best Citizens.
From the Wilkes-Barre Record.
There is not a man in Luzerne county, or anywhere else for that matter, who, having known John D. Hayes, will not be sincerely grieved to learn of his death. In the prime of vigorous manhood, with a career of usefulness and profit before him, he laid down the burden of life and passed into the unknown realm. As a lawyer he was ranked among the most successful; as a friend he was real and true; as a companion he was bright and witty, enlivening by his genial presence the many social gatherings wherein he was always a welcome guest. As a citizen he was patriotic to a degree. In the death of Mr. Hayes the county loses one of her best citizens. Peace be with him, and may He who consoles the widow and the orphan temper the grief of the stricken family.

A Carbon Man Dies in Colorado.
News reached Mauch Chunk on Tuesday of the death of Robert O. Butler, which occurred in Trinidad, Col., on Sunday. The remains will be brought east for burial. Mr. Butler left Carbon county, with his family, about four years ago, and settled at Trinidad. For a number of years preceding 1858 he was superintendent of the Buck Mountain Coal Company, with headquarters at Rockport.
