Prohibitionists are delighted with the he action taken by the general as-embly of the Presbyterian Church at sembly of the Presbyterian Church at its Saratoga convention. It was re-solved by that body "no political par-ty has the right to expect the sup-port of Christian men which does not stand committed against the license enteror." Source of the extense system." Some of the eastern com misssioners moved that the resolution be tabled upon the ground that it committed the church to the Prohibi-tion party. The resolution, however, was adopted by a large majority.

Some one with considerable hard sense advises: "Advertise! If your business is not worth advertising, ad-vertise it for sale." This is some-thing that merchants who are not in the habut of advertising should think about. The old-fashioned notion that everybody knows who you are, where you are and what you have for sale is forever played out. Younger men strike out every day who conduct is business right up with the time and if he has a snap and ability about him, nine times out of ten the old stager gets left.

It is doubtful if all these thrones will ever be occupied by the descendants in question. Beseated thereon some of these empires will be transformed into republies and will have no use for hereditary rulers.

Its tariif declarations were not ambiguous; they were plain and to the point. The party is in its pres-ent lamentable condition because through its leaders in the senate it has acted in violation of the pledge of that platform. The only way it can win back public confidence is by main-taining the same bold stand or taking a bolder one, discharging its unfaith-ful servants, replacing them with good ones, and going into the next campaign with a candidate worthy to earry on the great work so well com-menced by Cleveland.

These are both leading and responsible Democratic newspapers, and we have no doubt they know what they are talking about. It is easy to see from the nearly unanimous senti-ment in behalf of Hensel that if it becom s known that he would not decline he will be given the nomina-tion with a good deal of enthusiasm. He has clearly been the favorite from the first, and he has deserved the party honor.—Phila Press.
