What has Congressman Hines ever done to deserve a renomina-tion from the Democratic party?

Machinery is about to be applied in the manufacture of tinplate to an extent never know before. It is predicted that from the use of machinery in parts of the process, where the Welsh timplate makers still use hand labor, the American manufacturers will in time be able to undersell the foreigner in other markets than our own.

In 1892 the fatal accidents to miners in the coal mines of this county were 1 to every 378 persons employed, and the non-fatal accidents 1 to every 153 persons employed. In 1892 one man was killed to every 320 persons employed or railroads and one man injured for every 28 persons employed. Among train hands the death amounts to 1 of every 115 persons employed, and 1 in every 10 injured. According to these figures, mining is much safer to these figures, mining is much safer

The Wilkes Barre Times rejoices that "the coal interests of the Wyoming valley are safe for awhile at least." It is painful to undeceive our rejoicing contemporary; but the fact is there is no duty on the kind of coal that is mined in the Wyoming valley. The only advantage possible to anthracite producers is a reflected advantage because of the duty of 40 cents a ton on bituminous coal. Anthracite coal is practically a Pennsylvania monopoly that can protect itself. The anxiety to make buncombe in the Wyoming valley out of failure of "free coal" is a trifle ludierous.—Piala. Record.

"A few years ago," muses the Washington Star, "the operation of laying an Atlantic cable was regarded as something wonderful. Those who remember the completion of the first cable are not likely to have forgotten the expressions of wonderment and gratification that were common in connection with that historic event. In these days, however, cable laying is a commonplace occurrence, the latest to find place on the ocean shoor being put down in twenty days and without difficulty or mishap. Mainly invisable and noiseless in its workings, the ocean cable is, nevertheless, one of the great but often uncounted factors in the civilization of which we are so proud."

The "tired feeling," the headaches and the nervous strain of which so many people complain are often homemany people complain are often home-bred maladies, according to one of our exchanges. Our living rooms and sleeping rooms are kept too close. We are poisoned with our own exhala-tions. Throw open the doors and let in the revivifying and purifying air of heaven! Better the drafts, the dies, the mosquitae seen than the unair of heaven! Better the drafts, the files, the mosquitos even, than the unventilated rooms kept sacred from the visitation of the winds that carry new new life where they wander. The hunters and the trappers on duty, accustomed to live and sleep in the open air, complain of suffocation when they are obliged to sleep in houses under roofs. The open air gives the full chest and strong lungs. Until one shall go to his grave it will be well to insist upon light and airy apartments. After that, it will be small matter.

United States senators now represent no one but themselves and the interests of the monopolists and capitalists, who so freely contribute to their talists, who so freely contribute to their election and the success of both political party machines. The passage of the resolution by the house of representatives to elect senutors by a vote of the people reflects the popular desire. There is no confidence in the present senators, and this feeling is being accentuated daily. With the exception of a few men in that body, the people believe they are legislating for their own personal benefit. This belief is founded on good reasons. When the constitution is so amended that senators will have to go before that senators will have to go before people and make an open canvas for their positions, instead of trusting to their wirepulling qualities in the leg-islatures some confidence will be their wirepulling qualities in the legislatures, some confidence will be restored in the men who fill the most honorable legislative positions in the

Why Should Hines Be Renominated?

The delegates to the Democratic convention which meets at Wilkes-Barre on Tuesday will, if they are Democrats who have the interest of the party at heart, find themselves confronted with a problem that requires prompt and manly settlement on their part. The renomination of Congressman Hines means that the party will have to go renomination of Congressman Hines means that the party will have to go before the voters of Luzerne county handicapped as they have never been before, and partial or total defeat for the county ticket will be the result. There is no demand from any quarter that he be placed on the ticket, and not one of his supporters have given a reason of any kind as to why the convention should renominate him vention should renominate him

Those who are now leading the party in Luzerne county are ostensibly in favor of Hines for congress again, but it is questionable whether they will do anything to further his election. They have memories, and their memories do not allow them to forget past campaigns. It is to their interest that Hines is retired from politics in Luzerne county, but the methods they are taking to re-tire him and make this a Republican district are not creditable to leaders and should not be sanctioned by the convention.

Hines' record in congress and out is a disgrace to the party that elected him two years ago. To again place him on the ticket would be to endorse his notorious actions, actions which every man in Luzerne county who takes an interest in politics knows already. If the con-vention accedes to the wishes of the leaders in renominating him, so as to give them an opportunity to defeat him at the polls, the delegates will not be doing their duty as Democrats. Such a course is cowardly, inconsistent with Democratic fearlessness and ought not receive the support of the men who will be elected on Saturday to represent the emocratic voters of the county.

This is a Democratic district and should be represented by a Democrat. The Trainung is prepared to give its unqualified support to any candidate the construction may name, provided he can show a clean record for the past, stands squarely upon the platform of the party and promises to act in harmony with the Democratic leaders in congress. The county has a bundred decorate Democratic leaders in congress. This is a Democratic district and should county has a hundred deserving Demo county has a hundred deserving Demo-crats, any one of which can be elected, if nominated, and the convention must nominate on Tuesday a man who has the confidence and respect of his party or risk the defeat of the ticket.

The nomination of Hines would be an insult to every inhabitant of this county, and the TRIBUNE will resent such an insult with all the ability it can command. This is also the position of a great many voters in this locality, and we no await the work to be done by the cor

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Hazleton, August 20, 1894 Editor Tribune,—As you predicted some time ago, Congressman Hines paid Hazleton a visit last Friday evening. Just as you said he would, he wore the some time ago, Congressman Hines paid Warning to Bleb Girls. coat was fair-looking when he got here, but that it was torn at the prize-fight at Audenried that night. You see Billy had arranged to kill three birds with the one stone. First, to take in the prize-fight with Detective O'Brien. Second, to coax Chris Martin, of this city, to take the nomination for clerk of the courts so as to knock out John H. Rice, the labor candidate. Third, to get some delegates, so as to prevent the springing of Coxe, Garman or McGinty on the convention for congress.

Billy was afraid to go near Christ himself after the way he treated him, so he sent a candidate for gauger to see him. But Christ wouldn't bite, and he was wise, for Billy said afterward that he was going to get every Welsh vote in the county, and the way he expects to get them is by trading off the rest of the Democratic ticket for Hines and Llewel-This is one of Billy's old tricks, so the other fellows better "look a leedle out." Billy says that John H. Rice, the strike leader, must be dumped—that one labor martyr at a time is enough in Luzerne, and for the present-his name is Hines

He then had the nerve to ask Sonir Martin to go to the convention as delegate. The squire said that he probably would, but not for Hines. He left for Drifton and Freeland on Saturday morn ing to see if John Wagner wouldn't take the nomination, and to get some dele-

Mr. Editor, I hope the lower end delegation will be a unit against Hines. As a Democrat I deem it a duty to warn the party that the plans are already laid to sacrifice the state and county tickets for his election. Besides, you will probably agree, that if our own party has no more respect for American citizenship than to nominate an ingrate, hypocrite, a fraud and boodler, it deserves nothing but defeat. That I may not be deemed guilty of uttering an untruth, I beg leave to state that I am prepared to prove that Hines is all I have charged.

If the coming Democratic convention does its plain duty, it will nominate by acclamation either Coxe, Garman or McGinty for congress. Neither of the three could refuse such nomination, and either of the three could refuse such nomination, and either of the three would bring succesto the whole ticket. Matthew Long.

Billy Dodged the Tariff Vote.

om the Wilkes-Barre Record. We look in vain for the name of Hon. William H. Hines in the vote on the acceptance of the senate tariff bill by the house last Monday. Mr. Hines did not vote. He was not paired. Of course, in view of this, it is idle to ask how he would have voted had he been in his seat. Here was the most important question that has come before the present congress. It was the turning point in the history of the tariff agitation, when every representative should have felt it his duty to be in his seat and place himself on record. Mr. Hines was not in his seat. He did vote. He did not even take the trouble to pair with a colleague and indicate his preference in that way. At the most critical moment of the session, when the eyes of the people were fastened upon the house and every constituency was anxious to learn where its representative stood, Mr. Hines was fixing his political fences in Luzerne county.

This is open to dispute, particularly by Americans, but it is pretty safe to assert that there is more target pistol-shooting and more interest in it in France than in any other land. At the last annual tournament, held at the gallery of Gastinne Renette. 17 Avenue d'Antin, Paris, there was plenty of evidence of the Frenchmen's skill with the pistol. The scores were probably the best ever made in France. To win a prize is considered a great honor. At the last tournament, recently concluded, the premier prize was won by M. H. Bonzon, a facsimilie of whose score is here produced.

This gentleman is considered to be the peer of all the pistol shots in Paris.

When I tell you, says a contributor to the New York Herald, that his remarkable performance was accomplished at a distance of sixteen meters (fifty-two and a half feet), and that the bull's eye was but one and one-cighth inches in diameter, you can better appreciate M. Bonzon's dendly aim. For the first time in the history of this famous gallery—the oldest in Europe—the use of revolvers was permitted, and it will be a source of pride to Americans to know that M. Bonzon used a revolver of American make. It carried a 44-callber ball.

M. Bonzon fired six shots at the target. Not only did each strike the bull'seye, but each took off a portion of the carton, the small white disk in the center, which is only three-cighths of an inch in diameter. For this wonderful bit of marksmanshlp M. Bonzon was awarded the grand medal of honor, a prize greatly coveted but seldom won. The second prize at this tournament was won by M. Molluic-Paget, who secord forty-seven points.
