

THE BIG MILL STRIKES

Situation at New Bedford Unchanged To-Day.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 22.—The strike situation to-day has apparently changed but little. Neither side has made any concessions, and the situation has resolved itself into a tight battle between the yarn and cotton mills. It is thought that in less than a week after the Howland, Pierce and City Manufacturing companies' mills start up that all the other yarn mills will be running, but that the other mills will make a fight for awhile and then make concessions to the spinners who will go in, compelling the other operatives to follow. This is an opinion generally heard among those most interested in the strike.

Notices posted on the Wamsutta mills gates indicate a bitter strike, the help being called "late employees."

The situation among the weavers is vastly different than among the other classes of operatives. The weavers contend that they have not only suffered a cut down in wages by an actual reduction, but also a cut down by being paid by the pound. The bitterness of their sentiments was demonstrated last evening at a mass-meeting, held in the South park, where hundreds crowded around and listened to an interesting appeal from Secretary Hart, of their union. The meeting was called to see how the weavers felt on the particulars bill. The chairman announced that it was decided at the meeting of the union weavers on Monday morning, and a resolution passed to that effect, that the weavers do not return to work until particulars are furnished and that the particulars bill be made the issue of the strike, as far as the weavers are concerned. The chairman further said that he was not going to be cut down, but that he expected to have his wraps cut out soon after he returned to work, and the new goods would be put in, which would probably be equivalent to a reduction of from 15 to 20 per cent. The chairman called for a vote on the motion that the weavers do not return to work until the manufacturers agree to comply with the particulars bill. It was carried unanimously, and cheers rent the air to show the weavers' enthusiasm.

Andrew G. Pierce in an interview said yesterday: "We are indifferent on the question of the strike so far as its effects upon the mills is concerned, and are entirely willing to shut down under the circumstances. It is our duty to be unwilling to continue working under a cut down, that is their concern. Under existing conditions the inducements to continue operating the mills were scarcely worth the while, and we have all agreed to shut down indefinitely, with the exception of Mr. Howland."

"Do you consider his attitude a violation of the compact entered into by the several corporations?"
"I cannot look at it in any other light. Perhaps he can. I dare say he will stand before the country as a great philanthropist and friend of labor."

STABBED A FRENCH OFFICER.

Another Dangerous Anarchist Arrested in Paris.

Paris, Aug. 22.—Albert Daudrey, a militant anarchist, stabbed the sergeant Babestan on Rue de la Cite Monday evening. He was overpowered by two policemen and was got to the station after a brisk tussle. The sergeant was removed to a hospital, where an examination showed that the wound was not a mortal one. He is making fair progress towards recovery.

When confronted by the commissary of police shortly after the stabbing, Daudrey boasted that he was an anarchist. He was sorry, he said, that the wound was not a mortal one. He had mistaken Babestan for Poisson, the officer who arrested Emile Henry. Somebody else would have to dispose of Poisson now, Premier Dupuy and President Casimir-Perier would be cared for by the anarchists.

Two men who loitered near Daudrey when he attacked Babestan ran away as soon as they saw the policemen coming.

ALTOONA BANK FAILURE.

Another Sensation and Greater Surprises Said to Be Coming.

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 22.—The arrest of Harry Claybaugh, assistant cashier of the Second National bank, was followed last night by another sensation—the receipt of a telegram from the Gilkinson Detective Agency, at Pittsburg, stating that Cashier Gardner had been in that city during the morning and asked an order for his arrest. This was given at once, but up to the present time his capture has not been announced.

Mr. Claybaugh, upon being approached after his arrest, refused to make any statement except that he would make startling revelations when his case came up for trial, and the impression was given that these revelations would implicate Bank Examiner Miller.

The consensus of opinion among well-known horsemen of this city during the race was that the performance was the grandest ever accomplished by any trotter, as the track was fully two seconds slow and the day hardly adapted for record smashing.

The peddler asked 25 cents for the article but the Hun was not willing to give more than 15 cents. The dispute grew warm and at last the Hungarian became angry and kicked the peddler and his pack out. The peddler gathered up the pack and began to run. The Hun and two boarders gave chase, threatening to shoot unless he stopped, but the peddler kept up his gait and at the end of the street ran into the open door of an English speaking family where he found a friend. IS BARREMORE SANE?

Confined in a Mad House Unjustly, It Is Claimed.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 22.—A petition has just been filed in the court of chancery praying for the release of James A. Barremore from the insane asylum at Amityville, L. I., where it is claimed he is confined, although perfectly sane. Mr. Barremore is a very wealthy man and formerly a member of the diamond brokerage firm of Randall, Barremore & Billings, of New York, from which he derived an income of $7,000. His wife, a daughter of Dr. Van Buskirk, of this city, secured his commitment and is at present the guardian of his estate, which embraces, among other things, $33,000 in cash.

Barremore drank heavily, and in 1892 went to a Keeley institute in Philadelphia, from which he was discharged, cured, on May 2, 1892. His mother died and left him a considerable fortune. Meanwhile his wife had been trying to secure his commitment to an asylum and succeeded five days after he secured the legacy. It was done by trickery, Mr. Barremore's friends allege, and for no good purpose.

Mr. Barremore has been denied the privilege of communicating to his friends, he asserts, and finally succeeded in smuggling a letter out by a discharged patient. It was addressed to Senator Daly, of Hudson county, who at once began habeas corpus proceedings, but was unsuccessful.

The case was referred to a commission, which declared him insane. His wife was then appointed guardian and custodian of his estate.

Friends took up the case and had two of the best alienists of the country examine him. They reported that he was sane and a special master was appointed to take testimony by Vice Chancellor Van Fleet, who expressed himself that he would get the true facts of the case and restore the property held by Barremore's wife to him.

TWO GRAVES FOR THEM.

The Last Request of the Central Park Lovers To Be Disregarded.

New York, Aug. 22.—The mother of Juliette Fournier called at the morgue last night and had the body of the girl placed in a coffin and taken home. The body of Julius de Marcus is still at the morgue. His parents will have the body taken home to-day.

The mother of the girl and the friends of the couple declared that the request of the couple to be buried together in one grave will not be carried out, as they are opposed to it.

When Juliette Fournier married her uncle, Henry Fournier, in Paris last November, the first act of a tragedy began that culminated in Central park yesterday in the death of two—the young wife and her lover, Julius de Marcus, at the hands of the latter. When the bodies were found in a clump of bushes by a policeman, lying by the side of the woman was her corset, removed in order that the bullet would not fall in its work of death.

Whether the lover killed both her and himself, or whether she aimed the pistol, will probably never be known.

Letters found beside them explained their motive for committing the rash deed. They were madly in love with each other, and preferred death to separation.
