In a recent account of a sneak thief's ing into the humble home of a coffin-plate engraver, while the man and his wife were at supper in the lit-tle room back of the shop, the intruder got seventy dollars in cash and diagot seventy dollars in eash and dia-mond jewelry worth one hundred and ten dollars. Cheap flats are robbed and diamonds are usually what is taken. Actors who have been idle for onths get an engagement and at nee begin to buy diamond rings and ns on the installment plan. The curious fancy among poor persons for a precious stone, that is a pure luxury and really only compatible with ex-pensive surroundings and a good bank account, is as inexplicable as it is prev-

ONE of Uncle Sam's most faithful servants in Maine, but one that draws no salary, lives at the Portland Head lighthouse. This is a large gray partot, brought from Africa some time ago and presented to the keeper of the light. The bird noticed that when the fog began to blow in from the ocean somebody would ery out: "Fog coming in, blow the horn!" One day the fog suddenly began to come in thick, and suddenly began to come in thick, and suddenly began to come in thick, and no one noticed it, as they were all busy. Poll noticed this, and croaked out: "Fog coming in; blow the horn!" and now, whenever fog is perceptible, Poll never fails to give warning.

A Boston paper records the case of a family who had about reached its last dollar, and when that was spent would not know whence to draw another. It was only one out of a hundred similar cases which the hard times had brought to light, but it had a feature wholly its own. So depressed and mis wholly its own. So depressed and mis-erable were these people, accustomed to a better condition of affairs, but latterly on their uppers, that they went forth and with the sole remaining dollar bought a dog! As one of them said, with more pathos than reason, in excusing the purchase: "We were so

Then we put into each a chunk of ice, the three sing equal in weight and as nearly as sessible similar in texture. The three ere left overnight, and next morning y far the largest chunk of ice was found in the cooler with the air jack-

A NEBRASKA express wagon driver A NEBRASKA express wagon driver has elothed his mules' fore legs in trousers. "In speaking of it," says the Nebraska State Journal, "he said that flies bothered the fore legs of a four-footed animal more than they did the hind limbs, and he therefore having footed animal more than they did the hind limbs, and he, therefore, having some respect for the comfort of his faithful servants, had made a pair of trousers to protect them from the pests. The trousers were supported by suspenders passed up over the backs of the animals." That man would be a fitting successor to the late Henry Berg.

A WARM contest is being waged in maternal instincts was found rec New York between women who are in favor of and others who are opposed to woman suffrage. In this connection it is of interest to note that Mrs. Kate Burnsfield was before a police justice in that city the other day for beating her bushand. The poor man was a per bushand. The poor man was a her husband. The poor man was a sight and Kate was sent to the island for three months.

On each corner of the top is a polished bronze torch. The bell is suspended within the case from the marred old yoke on which it hung when it made yoke on which it hung when it made its historic peal. The yoke itself was made from a tree just back of the hall. This is supported by columns of bronze and its columns rest on a truck, which fits snugly inside the case, and appears to be simply a floor. A REMARKABLE story of the sagacit of animals comes from Cheyenne or animals comes from theyenne county, O. T. There has been very little rain there this season and all the streams and springs have gone dry, so that there is no place for the many wild animals abounding in that section to quench their thirst. The soil there is reall adouted to waterways and is well adapted to watermelons and hurdreds of acres have been planted by nurdreds of acres have been planted by the scattered settlers. Since it has become so dry the farmers find that for the first time the coyotes are after their melons. When an animal becomes thirsty he goes into a watermelon patch, jumps on a melon until he crack it, then inserts his sharp nose into the it, then inserts his sharp nose into the melon and quenches his thirst with the contents. As soon as one discovered this he communicated the fact to the others, and the entire melon crop of the county bids fair to be destroyed in this way.

THERE is said to be trouble on the Umatilla Indian reservation because the cells in the calaboose are too small. The other day Swichlick, one of the tallest of the government wards on the reservation, was arrested, and he could not enter the door of the guardhous erect, and in the morning was found erect, and in the morning was found curled up like a spiral spring because the cell was not long enough for him to lay straight in. The Indian is seven feet tall, and the Indian police think the government should build a new jail there. Most assuredly it should, if for no other purpose than to accommodate Swichlick. When a big Indian goes on a "bat" he should have the

THERE was an unusually sharp flash THERE was an unusually sharp has of lightning, a stunning peal of thunder and a sharp, sudden pain, and a West Goldsboro (Pa.) young lady gave a shriek and jumped into the middle of the floor. Her friends thought that she had been killed, but when the extitement had calmed down enough for citement had calmed down enough for an investigation everybody was re-lieved, for then it was found that the shock had been inflicted not by the lightning, but by a hornet, which had chosen that inauspicious time for action. Quite a natural mistake.

Information has been received that the Infanta Eulalie is living in great obscurity in London, and the news has caused some surprise in New York. It is caused some surprise in New York. It is hardly a year ago when she was feted and treated like a queen in New York and throughout the country. There has been some disagreement between that charming and volatile old lady, ex-Queen Isabella, to whom the Infanta is indebted for a part of her allow-ance. She has but one maid of honor and is living in the most economical manner possible.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31, 1894. Washington, D. C., Aug. of, 1897.
Chairman Wilson, before leaving Washington, took occasion to express his opinion freely concerning the effect of President Cleveland's letter to Representative Catchings upon the congres sional campaign. Mr. Wilson endorses every word said in the letter; also the action of the president in allowing the action of the president in allowing the tariff bill to become a law without his signature, and believes that the letter will be of much service in preventing luke-warmness of tariff reformers to-wards Democratic candidates., Mr. Wilson also disposed most effectually of the the Republican argument that the promise of additional tariff reform in the fu-ture, which the president made in his letter, meant another general tariff bill and its consequent upsetting of business. Concerning this far-fetched argument he said: "The work of tariff reform will be continued by easy graduations and by special reductions from time to time unil we have accomplished our purpose. There will be no other general tariff bill." Mr. Wilson is confident of his re-election, no matter who the Republicans may run against him.

Representative Warner, of New York who stronglys believes that sugar should have been made free so as to down the sugar trust, said of the president's letter: "The president proposes to go at the the thing right this time. He leads out in an attack against the trusts which occupy the most strongly intrenched posion in the centre of the protection line. When once we carry the centre of the line and rout the trusts, the rest of the fight will be easy enough, and we will get free raw material and everything else without difficulty." As a rule, all Democrats who really believe in tariff reform, and there are very few who do not, strongly commend President Cleve-land's letter to Mr. Catchings.

President Cleveland does not intend return to Washington until October. unless something of great public import-ance now unforseen shall make it neces-sary for him to do so. In the meantime no public business will be neglected, as he has arranged to have all matters re-quiring his official attention forwarded to Gray Gables, where with the assistance of Private Secretary Thurber, an executive office will be maintained.

Secretary Carlisle will not be able to take an extended vacation this year, as there will be many questions arising out of the administration of the new tariff law that will require his personal atten tion and which delay in answering would seriously inconvenience many business men. The treasury is much better than it has been at the end of any month recently, and the probabilities are all in favor of a continued improvement ing to the increase in receipts under the new tariff, Washington hasn't had a chance to niss congress yet. This week the Uni-formed Rank, Knights of Pythias, about 10,000 strong, are holding their annual encampment here, and the Southern Devopment Convention, an organization engaged in booming the southland, is also in session here. When things get quiet the absence of congress will begin o be regretted.

All of the other members of the cab inet will take vacations. Secretary, Herbert went away last week, combin-ing business with recreation by making a tour of the Atlantic coast navy yards; Secretary Lamont left with President Cleveland and will remain in New York for several weeks; Secretary Gresham expects to get away in a few days for a month's stay, a portion of which will be spent in Indiana and a portion fishing; Attorney General Olney has gone to Boston and the three or four weeks he expects to be away will be spent in and near that city; Secretary Smith, who has dready been to the seashore for a few days, will spend two weeks in Georgia Postmaster General Bissell has gone to Buffalo, where he will meet Mrs. Bissell and decide where his vacation shall be pent, and Secretary Morton will delay nis departure until the middle of Septer er, when he will go to Europe.

Wilkes-Barre Can't Have Him

rom the Wilkes-Barre Newsdealer.

The political campaign has brought a number of new and interesting charac ters to the front on both sides. On the Republican side the advent of Leisen-ring brought a host of new men. All his followers were amateurs, as the leadhis followers were amateurs, as the lead-ers were with Williams. A very able follower of Leisenring is Dr. Henry M. Neale, of Upper Lehigh. Dr. Neale is as well-known in New York and Phila-delphia as in Upper Lehigh. He comes from a famous Connecticut family, is well educated, has traveled widely and has profited by his experience. He is a member of the famous Clover Club, of Philadelphia, as well as several swell Philadelphia, as well as several swell New York clubs. He is over six feet, the most splendidly proportioned man in the county, and the best all-around athlete to be met with.

The doctor is idolized by the poor per ple in and around Freeland, and with the best of reason, too. Wilkes-Barre would be the place for the doctor. He would be a credit to Wilkes-Barre.

A Few Facts for Democrats.

rom the Wilkes-Barre Record.

Hines not only voted for the Wilson bill on the floor of the house, but he did something then that clearly showed his political cowardice. Fearing that his vote would work him harm at home, he set to work in a secret manner to secure higher dutes on certain articles manufac tured in this county. He was a free trader in public and a protectionist in private. On the one hand he sought favor from the administration in order that he might control certain appointments, while on the other he endeavored to placate the protectionists by lobbying for arate and distinct part of the might control certain appointments, while on the other he endeavored to placate the protectionists by lobbying for higher rates of duty than those for which he voted. Some of these higher rates are now incorporated in the new tariff law, and they must be fathered by Mr.

These are facts that cannot be controverted, and in view of these facts the inference is plain that Hines is a Democrat in theory and a Republican in rom the Philadelphia Press.

It would be very interesting indeed to see any excuse that an intelligent and self-respecting Democrat could offer for voting for Congressman Hines. If Mr. Hines has any talents in the line of statesmanship he has kept them so securely secreted that no portion of the public has yet detected them. His per-formances in the house have consisted in a speech denouncing the Wilson bill when it was before that body and a vote in From the Hazleton Sentinel.

When the man with the forty-degree for head who nominated Billy Hinesenumerated the virtures of the little dodger he had no answer to Mr. Long who "nominated a man who never betrayed his friends."

It was before that body and a vote in favor of it when it passed. The rest of his time he has devoted to fussing and fuming over postoffice appointments, and he has generally been much more lucky with those he didn't get than with those he did. It has been no credit to the district to have such a representative as Hines. He has not given and cannot give it any standing in the house.

Matters of a Local Nature Written U and Placed Before the Readers of the "Tribune" by the Saunterer-Something Here May Interest You.

It is something very unusual, though an actual occurrence, to hear of a mine foreman being presented with a testimonial of friendship, good will and a farewell remembrance by the employes under his immediate charge. The incident took place last week at No. 5 Upper Lehigh, when Thomas C. Shepperd, the foreman, severed his connection with the company and bid adieu to the employes. It was a just and well-deserved tribute, as Mr. Shepperd was anything but a Shepperd was anything but a mine boss of the "upstart" pattern. His honesty of pur-pose, together with his desire to do justice between man and man, were the most prominent features in the gentleman's character, and those were es-pecially appreciated by the men in his charge. During his career as a mine official of his career as a mine official of the Upper Lehigh Coal Com-pany he was admired by the men as much as by the com-pany, and on Thursday, just before his departure from the mine for the last time, the em-ployes, both old and young, assembled and presented him with a handsome gold watch, a token of their gratitude.

recognition, Mr. Shepperd required no distinction of this kind to uphold his popularity among the residents of the town and workmen under him. He was not the product of a few problems in arithmetic, nor a genius who profited by the rules laid down by nor a genius who profited by the rules laid down by other men, according to their different degrees of skill in the art of mining, to dazzle the illiterate in his employ with the great amount of knowledge he possessed. Plain and unaspossessed. Plain and unas-suming as the day, he began work as a driver-boy for the Upper Lehigh Company, and he continued the same sort of a man until today. The shad-ow of arrogance, which is too often a common feature among mine foremen, was never per-mitted for an instant to cast its dark mantle upon him. mitted for an instant to cast its dark mantle upon him. The grievance of the smallest door-boy was listened to and rectified with the same spirit of justice as was the complaint of a more valued employe. Truly, Mr. Shepperd was worthy of recognition, and the men, in honoring him, did credit to themselves by showing that they can appreciate ing that they can appreciate justice when voluntarily dealt out by an honorable man.

It is seldom that mine fore men are selected to bestow tokens of gratitude upon, and it just as seldom that they are worthy of it. In the role of an ordinary workman their seen of justice is keen, but once the "stripes" are concommunity. The say also be The saving that man," may also be applied to authority, the difference being that the manwith a little knowledge will likely confine the ruin to himself while the man with a little authority is liable to ruin many. In mine bossing these many. In mine bossing these days, excepting those of the old school, a distinction is demanded of the employes about on a parallel with that which was required between the mattern planters and their them. southern planters and their slaves before the war. Usually, circumstances compel obedi-ence to the demands, but in the end the policy causes bad results.

Nothing is more treasured by some mine foreman than the little authority they can assert at times to gratify some pet whim, which is only a new term for arrogance, by a pomp-ous display of orders, which pet whim, which is only a new term for arrogance, by a pompound the proper street of the district to have such a representative as Hines. He has not given and cannot give it any standing in the house.
