with the expressed wishes of the pastor, there will be no demonstration or public observance of the occasion. The members of the congregation were very anxious to show their appreciation of the work done in this vicinity by the priest, but Rev. Fallihee does not court noticity or hionors and at his special request the silver jubilee, as such events are termed, will pass by without the collegation the conversation had been collegation. celebration the congregation had been quietly arranging for. There was some disappointment at the determined stand taken by the pastor in refusing to alcelebration the congregation of the congregation of the the determined stand taken by the pastor in refusing to allow the anniversary to be properly honored, because the members of his congregation felt that his earnest and active work in their behalf for nearly twenty-five years was of such a sacrificing character that it would appear ungraters and on their part if they did not do ful on their part in the court.

The many friends of Daniel Marley to give the earliest to that gentleman's promotion to assistant mine superintendent of Markle were agreeably arm of the court.

At this critical junct gregation reluctantly consented to fore-go the pleasure it would have in honor-ing him in the manner intended.

The following is a brief sketch of the

The early part of his life was spent on the farm of his parents, unith time he attended the common schools of the neighborhood. mon schools of the neighborhood. Later on he attended St. Joseph's college, Choconut, Pa., and then went to St. Joseph's university, Ottawa, Canada, where he spent one year. Leaving there he attended Niagara university, Niagara, New York, where his progress with his studies was as rapid as at the former institutions he attended. From the Niagara university he went to St. Charles' seminary, Philadelphia, to study philosophy and theology, and by devoting himself entirely to his work he succeeded in graduating in the class of 1869. On September 17, of the same year, he was ordained a priest by Rt. Rev. Wil-liam O'Hara at Scranton.

After his ordination Rev. Fallihee was stationed at the cathedral in Scranton for a few months, then he was transferred to the Eckley parish as assistant to Father Mullen, who died shortly after his arrival The Eckley parish at that time included all the territory which is now in Foster, Denison and Butler town-ships, Freeland and Jeddo boroughs, and the towns of Drifton, Oakdale and Japan in Hazle township. Shortly af-terward the parish was divided by form-ing a new one at White Hazer with Japan in Hazie township, terward the parish was divided by forming a new one at White Haven with Denison and part of Foster townships, with Father Bergraft in charge. Until 1871 he held services occasionally at Upper Lehigh and also at Freeland, the old Woodside school house serving as a Woodside school house serving as a huge knife but fortunately failed to per Lehigh and also at Freeianu, the out.

In 1871, St. Ann's church was built under Father Fallihee's supervision, but he still resided at Eckley until 1881, when the pastoral residence here was com-pleted and the parish was divided again, Father Brehony succeeding him at Eckley as pastor for that town, Hazle

In 1884, the convent building was erected and placed in charge of the Sisters of Mercy, and in 1886 the schools were opened. They now have an average attendance of over 400 pupils and have made great progress under the guidance of the pastor and the teachers. The building, like the church and the pastoral residence, is large and well-pastoral residence, is large and well-

The value of the church property over which Rev. Fallihee has charge is esti-mated at $35,000. The congregation numbers about 2,200 over nine years of nation to the Priesthood.

VERY QUICK WORK.

anton Woman Is Divorced, Married and Widowed in One Day.

From Scranton comes an account of a woman that was divorced at 10 o'clock in the morning, married at noon and widowed at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Monday last. This is a record of mingling connubial smiles and tears that is seldom paralelled. The woman, Mrs. Mary McQuade, was first married in Scranton in 1889, her maiden name being Behrens, and her home Wilkes-Barre Three years later her husband deserted her, and with her child she was forced her, and with her child she was forced to support hersulf. Where her husband went has never been ascertained. The lonely wife went back to Scranton and found work in a dining room.

She met W. H. Thompson, the publisher of the Industrial News and chairnan of the Lackawanna county Populist ommittee. Rapidly they became warm friends, and then the chairman began to woo the deserted wife. In the mean-time Mrs. McQuade had applied for a 10 o'clock that morning. A friend of Thompson's secured the necessary mar-riage license and summoned a preacher, who married them as speedily as possible.

The excitement caused by the proceeding and the yielding of his hope after his great desire had been fulfilled seemed to hasten the end, and Thomp-son sank rapidly. He was a husband just three hours and then he died. Mrs. Thompson was a widow. She was a wife long enough, however, to become entitled to Thompson's property, which he bequeathed to her by will.

am Boyd in the Wilkes-Barre Newsdea A young man with a history is John R. Wagner, one of the many able men who is in the service of Eckley B. Coxe, who is in the service of Ferry B. Coze, and who made up one of the passing show yesterday. He is said to be one of the best chemists in America and is a frequent contributor to the higher class technical journals, and his subjects always command attention. Mr. Coxe discovered the young man in Beth-lehem, where he was working his way through college. When he graduated with honors, for that kind of a young man always graduates with honors, he came to Drifton and began work in the machine shop, not as a boss, but as a common laborer. Mr. Coxe, with the shrewdness characteristic of him, kept bis eye on the young man, and when he saw the right material was in him, helped him along. Slowly but steadily he went up until he was placed in charge of the laboratory of Mr. Coxe. In many important experiments his work and knowledge was put to the test and was strikingly shown in the tests made look-ing to the utilization of culm. Mr. Wag-ner has a very bright future before him, and we believe he is destined to take very high rank in chemical research.

John M. Carr, formerly of this city, but now a lawyer with a large and grow-ing practice at Freeland, was here yesterday in relation to some suits. There is considerable talk that he will be made assistant district attorney in the event of Dan Fell's election, but he appeared to have no knowledge of the gossip, or if he did was not building very high hopes on it. We don't think Mr. Carr is hankering very strongly after the sweets of pastoral residence, is large and well-suited for the purposes required.

Rev. Fallihee has been an unceasing and tireless worker for his congregation, and by his foresight and judgement has kept his parish throughly organized and active, making it one of the best in the Scratton diocese. Although of a retiring disposition he is ever watchful of the interests of his congregation and allows no opportunities to pass that might be used to advance the members, intellectually and religiously. Under his supervision there are in the parish three temperance societies, a cadet temperance societies, a cadet temperance societies, a cadet temperance societies, a dadission 19. A. O. Lehigh Lodge, No. 6, of the National Fraternity, was organized at the opera house hall on Thursday evening. About forty charter members were enrolled after hearing the addresses of Captain John L. Gause, district controller, and A. S. Haeseler, national secretary, both of Philadelphia. The following officers were elected:

A Million Dollar Claim

It is stated that the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company has a claim agains the Reading Railroad Company for un paid rental, destroyed equipments, etc. amounting to about $1,000,000. This claim, it is said, was incurred during the period in which the receivers were in possession of the Reading lines. It is stated that the control of the Reading property by the court, or, in other words, the continuation of the receiver-words, the continuation of the receivership, will be insisted upon by the Le-high officials until the claim is adjudicat-ed and the amount of the indebtedness either paid or secured to the Lehigh Valley Company.

The officials of the Reading Company Reading Company say it is an old story and instead of the Reading Company being in debt to the Lehigh Valley, it is the other way.

Tunnel Company Enjoined.

John Getting has commenced suit in equity against the Union Improvement Company and the Jeddo Tunnel Comthant and Table 1. Seats for Macready's plays at the opera house next week will be on sale three days in advance at Christy's book pany, limited. The plaintiff says that pany, limited. The plaintin says that active work has been commenced on a tunnel by the defendants through the Buck mountain; that the said tunnel is to drain a number of mines; that the today and the company of will empty into little Nescopeck creek at the rate of forty million gallons per day, that the said creek runs through the farm of the defendant and that the mine water will ruin said farm for purposes of cultivation.

A preliminary injunction was granted by the court restraining the Tunnel Company from continuing the work.

Tried to Behead Him.

Gottlieb Fink, a dangerous character, was lodged in jail at Pottsville for mak-ing a murderous assault upon Carl Yer-kel, a wealthy grape grower of Orwigsburg. Fink had some difficulty with Yerkel as to wages and struck him a serious blow with a sickle on the back of his neck and head.

The prisoner murdered an Italian near Orwigsburg with an axe about three years ago, but was acquitted on his pleading self-defense. He has been in jail several times since, but it seems he cannot get away from the place where

Suits Withdrawn

The proceedings instituted a few weeks ago against the supervisors of Hazle township, who were charged with embezzlement, have been withdrawn, the supervisors having agreed to pay back the amount overdrawn by them, back the amount overdrawn by and to charge at the rate of $1.50 a day during the balance of their term. This settles a long dispute, as supervisors heretofore charged $2 per day, and the matter had to be appealed to court after the auditors' report each year.
