NO PROSPECT OF FIGHT.

More of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons Letter-Writing Contest.

New York, Oct. 2.—William Brady, the representative of James J. Corbett, and the champion middleweight, Bob Fitzsimmons, and his representative, met in the office of a morning newspaper, Fitzsimmons being there for the purpose of depositing $1,000 as a guarantee of good faith in his intention to fight James J. Corbett for a purse and a side bet of $10,000. Brady was there to deposit $1,000 in behalf of Steve O'Donnel, whom he was anxious Fitzsimmons should meet.

Fitzsimmons declined, however, to consider Steve O'Donnel in the matter at all. Fitzsimmons said he wanted to fight for the championship of the world, and Corbett was the man he wanted to fight to get that title.

The men could come to no terms, but a fight on the spot was narrowly averted. Addressing Fitzsimmons in angry and excited tones, Brady said:

"What a nice man you are to go around the country saying that you'll plant your gloves on Corbett's face."

"I never said such an ungentlemanly thing. I deny it, explained Fitz. Every one was on his feet, the talk was loud and a sporting man did his best to get the men to moderate their tones.

"It's all over. You must retire from the place if you don't keep quiet," said another man, and then Brady, who was getting more and more excited, shouted to Arthur Lumley: "Corbett is the greatest fighter in the world, and no man can say he is a cur."

"Yes he is," said Lumley, as cool as an icicle.

"You can't prove it," yelled Brady at the top of his shrill soprano.

"Yes I can," and Lumley rose to his feet and moved in Brady's direction, and everyone looked for a row.

"You're a cur," roared Brady.

"You're another," said Lumley, and then Charley White stepped in between thm and Capt. Glori apoligized to the newspaper folks for such an unpleasant scene. As Brady moved off to the front door in order to get out on Broadway, he was heard to say:

"I won't let any gang do me."

Lumley asked him what kind of a pipe he was smoking to lose his head in such a fashion, but he disappeared through the door and another chapter was added to the Fitzsimmons-Corbett controversy. After leaving Manager Brady, Bob Fitzsimmons journeyed down town and issued a statement explaining his position. He said that he expected to become the champion by default, and in that event would defend it against one Steve O'Donnel, bantams and heavyweights, and that his theatrical engagements would never interfere with his defence of the title.

AGAIN SAYS NO.

Corbett's Latest Reply to Fitz's Challenge for a Fight

Boston, Oct. 2.—The following letter to Robert Fitzsimmons has just been mailed here by Champion Corbett:

Dear Sir:—In reply to your communication of to-day, I desire to state that I am the champion heavyweight of the world. I won that title, not by defeating middleweights, but by battling with every heavyweight that stood between myself and John L. Sullivan. I dispute your right to claim a battle with me at the present time, because, while you are undoubtedly the best middleweight in the world, your record gives you no right to a place in my class. I propose to enter the prize ring once more, and then retire, whether I win or loose. I want my next contest to be with the best man in the world. I do not consider you that man, and I do not propose to meet you, and then after having defeated you, be told by your friends that you are only a middleweight, after all. I care nothing for the past history of the ring, or its obsolete rules. My future is in my own hands, and I do not propose to be told by you, or any other man living, what I am to do. I consider Steve O'Donnel a better man than you are, and he will prove it when he meets you. If you accept his challenge and defeat him, then you will not have to worry much about securing a contest with me. You say that Steve O'Donnel is a fourth-rater, and that you are sincere in your desire to become champion of the world. Then you should remove the only obstace that stands between you and me, especially when he is so easy. I am prepared to post $5,000 with any reputable man or newspaper in this country, to be paid to you in case I refuse to fight you after you have defeated O'Donnel. Mr. Brady has posted $1,000 with the New York Herald as an evidence of O'Donnel's good faith. You do not need to wait thirty days for me to pay any attention to you, for I do not propose to do so, and, if you are sincere, then you had better arrange a match with O'Donnel at once, for, the sooner you do, the sooner you will open up the chance you seem to desire so much (?), a meeting with me.

JAS. J. CORBETT.

Gov. McKinley Speaks in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Oct. 2.—Five thousand men and women assembled in Suburban hall to participate in the opening of the republican state campaign and as a part of the exercises to listen to an address by Governor McKinley upon the political issues of the day. It was the most remarkable republican demonstration that the Mound City has ever witnessed. The Ohio governor confined his remarks to the tariff subject, and the benefits derived from protection.

Customs' Receipts at New York.

New York, Oct. 2.—The receipts from customs at the New York custom house for September were $1,602,232.93 in excess of the payments for the corresponding period in 1893. The increase is the result of the heavy withdrawals of goods from bond on account of the passage of the new tariff bill.

Debarred from Law Practice.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Jesse C. Hansen, of Hoboken, N. J., attorney, has been debarred from practice before the interior department for unprofessional conduct in the prosecution of pension claims.

Japs Advancing on Moukden.

London, Oct. 2.—The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a dispatch from Shanghai stating that the Japanese troops are reported to be rapidly nearing Moukden.

Peace Restored in Hayti.

Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 2.—The Atlas line steamship Athos, which arrived here from Port-au-Prince, reports that peace in Hayti has been restored.

WESTERN TRAIN HELD UP.

Daring Work of Three Masked Robbers.

Phoenix, Ari., Oct. 2.—The Southern Pacific east-bound express was held up two miles east of Maricopo about midnight by three masked men. They boarded the train as it was leaving Maricopa, capturing the head brakeman. He was compelled to turn on the air brakes and stop the train. The engineer and the head brakeman, with pistols at their heads, were compelled to go back to the express and induce the messenger to open the door. One of the bandits was then put in the car and searched for valuables while the others guarded each side of the train. The amount taken is not known, but is supposed to be small. The trainmen were then marched away a short distance and liberated the robbers mounting their horses and striking southward. Sheriff Drais, of Pinal county, and Sheriff Murphy, of Maricopa, were at once telegraphed to. Drais got a posse from Casa Grande to the scene of the robbery while Murphy sent several posses out to intercept the fugitives. Sheriff Murphy and Deputy Widmere reached the camp of the suspected men, several miles east of the city about 8 o'clock in the morning. The only occupant was Frank Armor, a Tonto cowboy, who commenced shooting as soon as the officers came in sight. The officers returned the fire with shot guns mortally wounding their man.

REAPPOINTED JAIL GUARD.

He Was Dismissed at the Time Capt. Howgate Escaped.

Washington, Oct. 2.—It is something of a peculiar coincidence that Charles H. Doing, who was in charge of Captain Howgate when the latter escaped from Washington twelve years ago, has been appointed to the position of jail guard which he held when the escape occurred. Doing was recently removed from his position as a deputy marshal. He was sent with Captain Howgate from the jail to the latter's house on April 13, 1882, to enable the captain to take a bath, and was being pleasantly entertained by Miss Howgate while her father was getting out of the bathroom window. Doing will greet Captain Howgate at the district jail when he arrives there.

GIRLS TOOK A PART.

Fierce Class Rush at an Ohio College. Several Seriously Hurt.

Columbus, O., Oct. 2.—The members of the sophomore and freshmen classes of Wittenberg college at Springfield engaged in a fierce class "rush" and a dozen of them are severely injured. Some are in a dangerous condition. The fight occured in the dormitory building. One of the students was knocked senseless, and it was thought for a time that he was dead. Alarm over his condition quickly brought hostilities to an end. The female members of the classes took part in the contest, and some faces will carry the marks of their pretty fingers for several days.

Kaiser To Visit Paris.

Paris, Oct. 2.—The Gaulois is authority for the statement that the emperor of Germany recently said to a French gentleman whom he received in Berlin: "I shall meet you again at the Paris exposition of 1899." Replying to an expression of surprise on the part of his auditor, the kaiser add: "I know the character of the French. Again I say I will attend their exhibition, and I know what I have to do in order to carry out my intention."

Uncle Sam's Finances.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The debt statement just issued shows a net increase in the public debt less cash in the treasury during September of $8,152,-700.84. The interest bearing debt increased $140; the non-interest bearing debt increased $824,182.95, and the cash in the treasury decreased $7,228,337.89.

To Combine Against Tammany.

New York, Oct. 2.—The anti-Platt republicans, under the leadership of John E. Milholland, held their convention in Scottish Rite hall and decided not to nominate a straight republican ticket. A conference committee was appointed to meet anti-Tammany organizations, to consider the advisability of selecting a ticket that will meet the approval of all who desire a change in municipal government.

Infant Poisoned With Nightshade.

Sag Harbor, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Margaret C. Pearsall, the infant daughter of Howard Pearsall, is dead from the poison of the nightshade plant. The child's mother gave her a spray of the plant to amuse her, not knowing what it was, and while the mother was absent at the bedside of a dying sister the child ate the berries. Two physicians worked over her but she died.

Visitors at Gray Gables.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Oct. 2.—The northeasterly storm has passed over The president had as callers Col. Watson and James Mandaville, of New York. After this conference the president showed them about his extensive place with much interest. The object of their visit could not be ascertained.

Chicago Tribune Not for Sale.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—The proprietors of the Chicago Tribune contradict emphatically the statement printed in the Philadelphia Press that the Tribune is about to be sold to H. H. Kohlsaat or any other person or syndicate of persons. The property, they say, is not for sale.

Accounts Short, Bank Closed.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Comptroller Eckels has been informed that the National bank of Fayetteville, N. Y., failed to open its doors for business. The bank had a capital of $50,000 and owed depositors $36,600. It is intimated that the bank's suspension was caused by shortage in the cashier's accounts.

Republican Headquarters Opened.

New York, Oct. 2.—Chairman Charles W. Hackett, of the state republican committee, has opened headquarters at the Fifth Avenue hotel for the use of the committee. The headquarters will be open day and evening from now until election.

Met Death in a Sewer.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Three men were buried by the caving in of a sewer yesterday. John Klick was rescued after he had been three hours under the earth. Ferdinand Ritz and Charles Howald were killed.

VICTORY FOR BOWMAN.

End of the Long Evangelical Church War.

Reading, Pa., Oct. 2.—A victory for the Bowmanites in the long Evangelical church war has been scored by Bishops Esher and Bowman in the supreme court. This decision ousts the Dubs' faction from not only the Reading church, which brought the test case, but from the 210 or more Evangelical churches in eastern Pennsylvania alone. This is a final decision and involves church property worth about $1,000,000 and 460 preachers. The case was argued before the supreme court at Philadelphia, but the decision was made at Pittsburg. These fights have gone on in the lower courts of Pennsylvania for several years, and now all are ended as all involved the legality of the Indianapolis conference. Bishops Bowman and Esher were leagued against Bishop Dubs. The whole question which has caused a split in the Evangelical church all over the United States hinges upon the legality of the Indianapolis conference.

The Evangelical association is a religious society existing in the United States, Canada and part of Europe. It consists of twenty-five annual conferences and a general conference meeting every four years, and is governed by an organic law, entitled the discipline. In 1887 the general conference met in Buffalo, N. Y., and passed a resolution, referring the place of the next meeting to the board of publication of the association. The defendants alleged that this was contrary to a provision in the discipline which provided that the time and place of the general conference should be appointed by the bishops and provisionally by the general conference of the oldest annual conference. The board of publication appointed Indianapolis as the place of meeting, and October 1, 1891, as the time. Meanwhile, Bishop Dubs, one of the dignitaries of the church, was tried for immoral conduct and suspended. As a matter of retaliation the friends of Bishop Dubs commenced proceedings against Bishops Esher and Bowman and they were suspended. Eighteen of the twenty-eight annual conferences forming the society repudiated such suspension, and went over to Bishop Bowman. The Bowmanites held their conference in Indianapolis according to programme. Then their opponents held another conference. Each faction alleged that the conference held by the other was illegal and hence the appointment of preachers made were alleged to be illegal. Each conference appointed preachers for all the churches in the land, making just twice as many preachers as were required. The supreme court decides that the Indianapolis conference was regularly and legally held.

Foreigners Unsafe in Pekin.

San Francisco, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Dearborn, for many years in the employ of the Pacific Mail Steamship company, writes from Pekin that since the war with Japan began, native residents of the capital city have been filled with especial animosity towards foreigners. Mrs. Dearborn says it is unsafe for any foreign resident to go out unattended. Even when they have attendants, they are hooted at, called all sorts of names in Chinese and not infrequently pelted with mud or stones. The writer says that hordes of half-barbarians are crowding into the city from all sides and the authorities seem to exercise little or no restraint in protecting foreigners from abuse or assault.

Divorce for a Clubman's Wife.

New York, Oct. 2.—Justice Ingraham, of the supreme court, has granted Mrs. Florence A. Johnson an absolute divorce from her husband, Wilmot Johnson, jr. Mr. Johnson is wealthy and a member of several prominent clubs. Mrs. Johnson charged her husband with improper conduct in London and Paris. The decree gives Mrs. Johnson the custody of their two children, and directs that Mr. Johnson shall pay her $1,200 a year alimony. It also gives Mr. Johnson the privilege of visiting the children.

An Old Potash Kiln Unearthed.

Little Falls, N. Y., Oct. 2.—A potash kiln, such as was used by people 100 years ago, was found while men were digging a cellar on the Philip Yoker estate, in Dolgeville. It was 6 feet square and 3 1-2 feet high, with an opening at one side. It was formed of a substantial stone wall, inside of which was a lining of slate rock, plastered with clay. At the bottom of the kiln was found large chunks of molten rocks, sand and other substances.

Rewarded for Life Saving.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The first medal given in this city by the Volunteer Life Savers association of the inland waters of New York state, was presented to Edwin Carr Chamberlain, a son of an old friend of ex-Secretary of State General Joseph B. Carr. General Carr made the presentation speech. Mr. Chamberlain, a short time ago, rescued a companion from drowning at the risk of his own life.

Died While Under Beauty Treatment.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—The coroner's jury which conducted the inquest on Miss White's body, the young lady who died while undergoing beauty treatment, returned a verdict that her death was due to functional heart disease and was not caused by cocoaine applied to her face by Dr. Sophia Santa. Dr. Santa and Ella A. James were consequently released from custody.

Chinese Moving Their Treasures.

London, Oct. 2.—The Daily News prints a dispatch under a Vienna date stating that the Chinese government is removing from Moukden all the treasures stored there and taking them to Jehol, whither the emperor, Hien-Jong fled in 1860 because of his being pursued by the English and French armies.

Tornado Damages Wichita.

Wichita, Kas., Oct. 2.—A tornado struck the northern part of the city last night and tore property in all directions. Several people were injured, but so far as known no fatalities occurred. Several buildings were demolished and others unroofed.

Renominated for Congress.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 2.—The republicans of the First congressional district meeting at Holyoke renominated by acclamation Ashley B. Wright, of North Adams.

PERU'S NEW PRESIDENT.

Gen. Caceres' Military Experience Will Be of Service to Him Now.

Gen. Caceres, who has just taken his seat as president of Peru, has held the same position before with honor to himself and advantage to his country. This was from 1886 to 1890, after the humiliation of Chili by Peru, and a very critical period.

But he has won most of his renown as a soldier. Entering the service at the age of sixteen (he is in his fifty-sixth year), he has seen a deal of hard fighting and proved not only his valor but his exceptional military skill. Promotion he won step by step on the field of battle until he became head of the army.

His abilities as a warrior will stand him in hand now, for Gen. Pierola, who is a renowned fighter, too, and has likewise been president, is leading a revolt already formidable. Pierola had been an exile, and his return a year ago was understood to mean another revolution. He wanted to be elected president, but complained that Caceres controlled the army and manipulated the government so that he would have small chance at the polls.

President Bermudes died last March. First Vice President del Solar was afraid to assume the office, to which he would have succeeded. He fled, and Second Vice President Borgono took the chief magistrate's position. It is said he was merely a marionette, and that Gen. Caceres pulled the strings. Senor del Solar subsequently turned up in the south of Peru, Gen. Pierola's bailiwick, and a duplicate government was set up there with Del Solar as the figure-head and Pierola as boss.

The election resulted in a proclamation that Caceres was elected president, Cesar Canevaro (once Peru's minister to the United States), first vice president, and Cesareo Chacaltana, second vice president. Pierola says the electors were bulldozed and he does not propose to submit to the announced result. Caceres now takes his seat and the merry war will go on between the ins and outs.

Narrow Escape.

"Maria," said Mr. Billus, "that young man with the blonde hair and pale mustache seems to be a good deal stuck on Bessie."

"I wish you wouldn't use coarse slang when you talk, John," replied Mrs. Billus.

"What is the young fellow's name?"

"His name is Leech."

"Maria," observed Mr. Billus, after a thoughtful pause, "you see I wasn't talking slang."—Chicago Tribune.

False Alarm.

Mrs. Nexdoor—Your little boy climbed over the fence and ran over my flower beds.

Mrs. Suburb—Horrors! They had just been watered, hadn't they?

"N-o."

"Oh, well, never mind; the exercise won't hurt him, if he didn't get his feet wet."—Good News.

A Questionable Crime.

The Police Magistrate—You admit that you assaulted this man? Then I am afraid I must give you a severe sentence.

The Prisoner—Your honor, he is my next-door neighbor and he starts his lawn-mower going at seven o'clock every morning.

The Police Magistrate—Prisoner discharged.—Chicago Record.

A BLISSFUL DREAM.

Mr. Kennard—I had a very strange dream last night, Lucie. I thought I saw another man running off with you.

Mrs. Lucie Kennard—Well, and what did you say to him?

Mr. Kennard—I asked him what he was running for.—Brooklyn Life.

Important Road Case.

In the supreme court decisions handed down at Pittsburg this week the decree of the Luzerne court in the matter of the petition of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company to make roads in Plains township was reversed. The coal company presented a petition to the court for the right to make and repair roads, under the act of June 12, 1893, enabling the taxpayers of townships and road districts to contract for making at their own expense the roads, and paying salaries of township and road district officers, and thereby prevent the levying and collecting of road tax thereon.

The supervisors filed a demurrer on the ground that the act was unconstitutional. It was argued that this law would be productive of local results, and therefore is a local law. This is that some townships would take advantage of its provisions, while others would work under the old system. It is urged also that the law is unwise and cannot result in the improvement of the public roads. Even if this is so the supreme court holds that the legislature and not the supreme court must repeal it. The constitutionality of this act does not seem to be even doubted, therefore corporations can repair township roads if they so desire.

Christian Endeavor Convention.

The approaching convention of the Christian Endeavor Society of Pennsylvania, to be held in York, is arousing considerable interest. It will be held the 17th, 18th and 19th of this month, and there will be thousands of delegates. Five counties of the state have alone promised 1,200. Aside from the brilliant array of Pennsylvania speakers there will be two notables from outside of the state, Rev. J. A. Rondthaler, D. D., of Indianapolis, whose vigorous speaking has earned for him the soubriquet of "The Indiana Cyclone;" and S. L. Mershon, of Evanston, Ill., the famous leader of the missionary extension movement. An elaborate programme is in preparation.

In the Front Rank.

Gus Thomas' play, "The Burglar," takes a position in the front rank of comedy dramas, and will easily hold its place with the very best of plays. It is one which the most fastidious, the most exacting can view without offense, and merits the successful run which it is having. The sentiment of the play is true to nature, and on that account not only intensely interesting, but instructive as well, and can be properly called, in the hands of the excellent company, a dramatic treat, which it manifestly will be to all who attend the production this evening.

Knew His Man.

Managing Editor—Why didn't you print Scribbler's remarkable article about a crazy millionaire scattering money along the streets?

City Editor—It's a fake. If it had been true, we wouldn't have had the article.

"Why not?"

"Scribbler would have been following him yet."—N. Y. Weekly.

Irrigation.

"Let us next turn our attention,"
Said the Kansas candidate,
"To the all-important question,
Had we better irrigate?"
"Betcher life!" then came in chorus
As each voter winked his eye,
And the crowd all struck a bee line
For the drug store nearest by.
