FREELAND, NOVEMBER 19, 1894.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, November 16, 1894.
The Republican and Populists who are trying so hard to make somebody think that they believe the Democratic party, as a national organization, is dead, are merely making themselves ridiculous. The Democratic party, which, to go no further back than the memory of every middle-aged man, made six successive unsuccessful presidential campaigns—defeated in five at the polls and in one at the hands of an abortion known as the electoral commission—is not killed by dissensions among a few of its prominent members which resulted in a stay-at-home vote large enough to defeat it. On the contrary, that defeat will eventually make the Democratic party stronger than ever before, because it will result in showing some of the prominent experimenters that deviations from the established principles of the party will not be tolerated by the voters; that thousands, yet millions of good Democrats will refuse to endorse any half-and-half principles, preferring defeat to compromise with principles they have been taught to oppose. The recent election was a bitter lesson, but the future will prove that it was a useful one.

No Democrat can possibly regret the issue of bonds, officially announced this week by Secretary Carlisle, more than does President Cleveland and the members of his cabinet, but in the face of the necessity for preserving the national credit, and in the absence of any other method, owing to the system inherited from a long series of Republican administrations, regrets were idle and action imperative. When a merchant finds his credit endangered, owing to his receipts being less than his expenditures, he cannot afford to waste time in regrets because those expenditures are largely the result of extravagant contracts made by his predecessor. His credit must be protected and nothing will do that but prompt payment of his obligations as they mature, and to do that he must have money and it can only be had by borrowing it on his note. That he does, trusting to his ability to stop the leaks in his business and make it profitable in order to pay it back. That is precisely the position of the administration in announcing an issue of bonds.

President Cleveland is not spending much time at the White House just now, because the time is short between this and the assembling of congress, and his annual message to congress, which will be one of the most important to the country and the Democratic party he has ever written, requires his entire time, and he can work undisturbed at his country residence, something which experience has shown him he cannot do in his office at the White House. During his vacation the president devoted much time to studying the financial system of the country, which is generally admitted to be radically defective, and the result of that study will be shown in the recommendations of his message to congress.

A striking exhibition of fanaticism run wild is given by the criticism of Mrs. Cleveland by members of a Pennsylvania branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, because she followed the usual custom and broke a bottle of champagne in christening the steamship St. Louis, launched at Philadelphia last Monday. The criticism is all the more senseless because Mrs. Cleveland is a consistent advocate of temperance, never drinking wine at her own or anyone else's table. In this case she was an invited guest and had no more to do with what was to be used at the christening than a guest would have to do with what was served on another's table.

Secretary Herbert left Washington tonight for Mobile, Alabama, where he goes to take part in the ceremonies attending the public reception by the citizens of Mobile in honor of the cruiser Montgomery, which is to be held next Monday. Secretary Smith has also gone south, but his errand is one of private business, connected with the trial of an important lawsuit, at Atlanta, in which he is one of the counsel.

Congressman Hines denies the rumor that he will be a candidate for the post-office at Wilkes-Barre, and says he would not take it if offered to him on a silver platter. He does not deny that he intends to be a candidate for state senator in 1896.

Decided Against the D. S. & S.
The supreme court has rendered a decision sustaining the Dauphin county court in the appeal of the Delaware, Susquehanna and Schuylkill Railroad Company from the valuation placed upon its capital stock. The company valued its capital stock at $2,000,000, but this amount was doubled by the Dauphin county court, which placed it at $4,000,000 and ordered the tax for state purposes to be collected upon the latter amount. The D. S. & S. in 1893 declared a dividend of 40 per cent upon $1,000,000 capital, its net earnings for the year being $523,243.15.

The management of the company, however, considered this an altogether exceptional year, and it was argued in its behalf that the valuation of $2,000,000 was ample in view of the future probable profits of the road and that the court was not warranted in departing from the sworn valuation of its officers and that it made an error in adding to the tangible property and assets of the corporation the worth of its franchises as elements of actual value.

For the commonwealth it was contended by the attorney general that even if the tangible property and assets of the corporation were worth only $2,000,000, the court had a right to consider the worth of the franchise and add that as an element of actual cash value of the capital stock. Its facilities for doing business and the success with which its business was actually carried on were elements to be considered in appraising its capital stock.

The affirmation of this opinion by the supreme court is considered important by the law and tax officers of the state, as it requires corporations to add the peculiar value of their franchises to their tangible assets in estimating the value of their capital stock for state tax purposes.

Why Mr. Cox Will Resign.
From the Philadelphia Record.
Eckley B. Cox was seen on Thursday evening at the Stratford hotel, where he is stopping for a few days with his wife. He stated that there was no significance attached to his contemplated resignation from the executive position of the companies in which he is interested, beyond his desire to be relieved of onerous duties before he might be compelled to do so by broken health. In resigning as the president of those companies, Mr. Cox said that he did not withdraw or sever his interests in them, but that they would remain as before and that he would still continue to have an active voice in their management.

Mr. Waters, who will succeed him on December 1, is a man who, by education and practical experience, is in every way qualified for his new duties.

Mr. Cox was very much amused at the story that his resignation, following so closely upon that of Postmaster Kiser, of Hazleton, meant that they both were going to take an active hand in reorganizing the Democratic party. While the reorganization of the party is a very necessary thing, Mr. Cox said, he was of the opinion that it could only be accomplished through the efforts of a considerable number of Democrats and not by one or two men.

Another Startling Rumor.
From the Philadelphia Press.
There was considerable talk in financial circles on Friday in regard to the retirement of Eckley B. Cox and it was said the firm of Cox Bros. & Co. was going to go out of the coal business. It was also stated that the coal mines and railroad property were to be leased to the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company.
