

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Sam. H. Pitcher is on every wrapper.

FREELAND, DECEMBER 17, 1894.

Matrimonial Quotations.

In a unique and entirely new form the status of the matrimonial market is given in a recent issue of the Washington Post. The quotations cover the foreign as well as the domestic market, and it will be seen, there is considerable activity on change in the matter of mothers-in-law, with a rising market. Prices on society buds range low with a good demand. Following are the Post's figures:

"It is too early in the season to predict what the prospect for business in the matrimonial market will be. Dealers are carrying over large stocks from last year, and the over-production of debutants and the importation of foreign fascinatrices may have a depressing effect upon the market. Dealers are anxious to realize, but the market continues firm, with an upward tendency. Prim, first-class country-bred winners are at a premium. Last season's society whirlers are below par. There is a better feeling in rosebuds, and prices to foreign noblemen are phenomenally low. Mothers-in-law, after having touched bottom figures, are reviving, and are quoted at 88%, middling 73, good ordinary 61. It is confidently predicted that before the fiscal year ends mothers-in-law will go to 114, unless unforeseen complications arise calculated to bear the market. Fathers-in-law are extremely dull, with no demand. Small brothers find no market, and maiden aunts are not listed. Gift-edged orphans are scarce, and but few offered. The stock on hand October 1, 1894, of good matches among the men is too small to note in a sworn-to statement of effects and liabilities."

A Row Between States.

ONE of the oldest boundary disputes in this country is that between New Jersey and Delaware over the jurisdiction of the Delaware river opposite New Castle and for some distance above and below. New Jersey insists that her jurisdiction extends to the middle of the river there as elsewhere, while Delaware claims jurisdiction at that point clear across to the New Jersey shore. Charles II. granted to his brother James, duke of York, about the year 1683 a portion of the Delaware peninsula. The grant specially gave James a circular piece of land twelve miles about New Castle, all islands in the river falling within the circle, and seemingly from the language the bed of the stream. James gave the land to William Penn, and this land afterward became the state of Delaware. It is upon the language of this grant that Delaware claims jurisdiction over the whole river opposite New Castle. The matter was once brought before commissioners from the two states.

The late tariff discussion in congress brought out one of the crispest replies ever sent by a Washington correspondent to his home office. A managing editor down in Texas wired to his representative there: "Will the free sugar bill pass?" This came on the night when the situation was chaotic and there were as many conflicting rumors as there were senators and representatives to start them. The correspondents were all at sea. This man had been busily engaged all day trying to get something certain and when this message came he was thoroughly out of patience. His reply was as strong as telegraph regulations would allow: "In Bible times," ran the message, "they had prophets, but they paid them more than a beggarly fifty dollars a week. I am here to get the news. If you want a prophet you'd better hire one."

The Western Mail, of England, says that the betrothed wife of Nicholas II. once worked in a coal pit. It was some years ago when Princess Alix was on a visit to Wales, and went down a coal pit to see coal cut from a seam five hundred yards from the bottom of the deep shaft. A new "mandril," hand-some-ly handled, had been provided; and the princess, wielding this, brought down blocks of coal, one of which she carried off as a memento of the occasion. The "Archduke Morien," who held the lamp for the princess, secured the pick and preserves it among his treasures.

Ethel (flaring up)—I'd like to see him propose to me!
Clarissa—Well, Ethel, I must say that if there is a truthful girl, you are one.

PICKED UP BY THE WAY.

One of the coziest and most home-like places, to be found in this section, for young men to spend their leisure moments is the building occupied by the Progressive Club of Jeddo. This organization is in existence since November, 1888, and during the six years of its life a vast amount of useful knowledge has been acquired by its members, whose time might otherwise have been spent with much less profit. It is usually the case with club-rooms in mining towns that after six months or a year they become nothing more or less than "bumming" shanties, but this is one of the few exceptions, and is a model that could be imitated with good results by organizations which have club-rooms in larger towns.

Through the liberality of Mr. Markle, upon the club's formation, a tenement house was secured with full rights and privileges free of cost. With this as a nucleus the members began their career of usefulness. A stranger upon entering the room will be convinced in a few minutes that it is not a place merely to indulge in idle gossip. Its appearance dispels such a thought. The interior is neatly furnished, the walls and ceiling being papered and nicely decorated, and everything has a significance about it that denotes discipline and industry. On a large table, above which is suspended from the ceiling a hanging lamp, the local, and leading daily newspapers of New York and Philadelphia are placed every day for perusal by the members.

In another portion of the room is a large book-case, which constitutes the club's library, and in it many valuable books are to be found, chiefly works upon science, biographies and history. From diligent perusal of the works contained in the library the members are all young men of more than ordinary intelligence, and collectively take a deep interest in discussing the important epochs of ancient and modern history, also topics of the day. In this way many of them have achieved success which is not supposed to be had outside of a school-room or college, and many of them are still making the club-room a place of self-culture.

Just now there is an attempt being made to bring about a ten-cent fare on the trolley between Freeland and Hazleton, and I haven't the least doubt but the parties who are talking would be successful if the question was taken hold of in a business-like way. Anything requiring an agitation to accomplish a successful ending must be composed of more work than talk, and until the matter is seen in that light it will probably amount to nothing but failure.

It must be remembered that the men who comprise the Traction Company and invested thousands of dollars to build a road to Freeland did it as a matter of business, not one of amusement, and those of the Freeland people who want a ten-cent fare—and they are many—should present their claims to the company by petition or in some other manner that would carry weight.

It is not an easy matter to convince the officers of a corporation that it is the right thing for them to lose from $5 to $25 per day, as it would be in this case, were they to drop 5 cents of the fare of each person carried between here and Hazleton every day. Even if the officers and stockholders do know that it is not honest, they like to make all they can out of their investment, just the same as other persons do who are engaged in business and have anything to sell.

However, the claim is that the Traction Company does not sell its transportation upon a basis of equality, or in other words, it is discriminating against the Freeland people. For instance, if 5 cents will carry a person from Hazleton to Ebervale, 5 cents more should be sufficient to pay between Ebervale and Freeland. The injustice of the rates as they are now arranged is apparent, but it is useless to indulge in idle talk. A petition presented to the company by the Freeland people would likely settle the matter, on the other hand, in a short time. Talk alone will not bring a ten-cent fare.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one remedial disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's catarrh cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address,
