CHANGES MADE QUICKLY.

It was just 12 o'clock, midnight, of Saturday evening last that a representative of this paper vended his way to the Electric Light Company's building on Birkbeck street, where an important change in the machinery was to take place, as noted in these columns in a previous issue. The lights were burning brightly and the busy hum of the machinery betokened but little the lull soon to be. We found a number of workmen, together with President Fred W. Bleckley, of Scranton, to whose energy much of the success of the plant is due, General Manager Meyers, Superintendent Orr, Superintendent of the Water Company Fisher, and others. The superintendent of the Suburban Electric Light Company, of Scranton, W. J. Jones, was also present, and supervised the electrical changes. Mr. Jones, although but a very young man, has a wonderful tact for electrical and mechanical work.

As originally located, the boilers, two in number, return tubulars of about 20 horse-power, are on the east side facing south, while the first engine, a vertical Westinghouse of 150 horse-power, was placed in the north side driving the incandescent and arc dynamos on the south side. The new engine, a horizontal Weston, 15x16 inches, stands in the west front of the building, which is about 20x30 feet. As the driving belts would not have had sufficient length for the best results an addition was built to the west or front end of the building over the engine, which projects beyond the confines of the building as originally erected.

Promptly at 1 o'clock Sunday morning the plant was shut down and the men began work upon the proposed changes. While some "jacked" up the old engine, others made the necessary changes in wires, taking up dynamos, etc. Everything, jacks, ropes, blocking, tackle, etc., had been previously prepared and a busier and more orderly crowd it would have been hard to find. By 9 a. m. the ponderous engine was off the foundation and was moved twenty feet away. Then the masonry was cut down, floors made and anchored securely in the foundations, dynamos moved and connected and by 4 p. m. everything was in shape for light, the engine running smoothly.

It was really a feat to do all the changing of machinery and switchboards, with their complicated wire connections, belting, etc., and to do it so well that not the slightest hitch or accident marked the proceedings. The men were tired and the general Mr. Bleckley, with a foresight that showed not only business qualities but humanity as well, had a lunch of hot coffee and sandwiches on hand to which, it is needless to add, full justice was done. The writer and the public in general were much surprised to find that, although advertised that "no light for Sunday evening," the well-laid plans of the promoters rendered possible the successful completion of the work in almost half the time expected. Mr. Bleckley, accompanied by Electrician Jones, left for Scranton next morning.

Mr. Spor, of the Weston Engine Company, Painted Post, N. Y., was here on Tuesday noting the workings of the new engine and expressed himself as much pleased with its behavior. He hopes to furnish another engine in the near future for the southwest front, as it is the intention of the company to get an additional engine as soon as space and foundations can be prepared. Some idea of the work can be obtained when we state that the engine has a floor space of 14x27 inches and weighs complete 20,000 pounds or ten tons.

ORGANIZED A LOCAL BOARD.

General Representative D. W. Jackson, of the State Standard Building and Loan Association, of Pittsburgh, has been in town for a week past in the interest of his association. As a result of his efforts a local board of that association was organized on Tuesday evening at the Central hotel. The officers elected are as follows:

President—Joseph Neuburger, merchant.
Vice president—M. H. Hunsicker, hotel keeper.
Secretary and director—H. W. Fackler, baker.

Treasurer—H. W. Monroe, dentist.
Attorney—Chas. Orion Stroh.
Physician—Dr. H. M. Neale.
Appraisers—John M. Cunnius, builder and contractor; A. Rudewick, general merchant, and John Dusbeck, bottler.

Directors—Michael Zemanly, John M. Cunnius, A. Rudewick, John Dusbeck, S. Rudewick, and H. L. Edmunds, principal of the public schools.

Mr. Jackson will remain in town for some time to insure the successful inauguration of the local board. Applications for a number of shares have already been received.

STATE BASE BALL LEAGUE.

In response to a call issued by H. H. Diddelback, secretary of the Pennsylvania State Base Ball League, for a meeting on Tuesday at the Hotel Hanover, Philadelphia, only B. F. Zorr, of Reading, responded, and the proposed meeting was abandoned. About the same time, John J. Hanlon, of Hazleton; William Sharsig, of Philadelphia; Marti Swift, of Carbonate; John Smith, of Gettysville, and John Milligan, of Altoona, held a conference at the Windsor House, just around the corner. Hanlon signed Sharsig to manage the Hazleton team, which was about the only business transacted. After the conference was over, Hanlon stated that the outlook for the season was very bright and that there would be ten clubs in the league, and that each would put up a guarantee of $500. The league has secured protection under the national agreement. Further business of the league was postponed until Tuesday, on which date a meeting is scheduled to take place at Pottsville.

MINERS IN DISTRESS.
The dullness of the coal trade the past six months has caused a great deal of suffering among those who are dependent upon the mines for a livelihood. This is especially true in the Wyoming region. The families of a number of miners employed by a coal company in Kingston are said to be on the verge of starvation. The miners are obliged to stay in the mines from 7 in the morning until 5 in the evening for one ear. A committee called on the superintendent and told him a pitiful and sad story of their condition, stating in the present working of the mine they are unable to make a living, and are badly in need of food. The superintendent promised to look into the matter. Many families have to keep their children home from school because they cannot afford to buy shoes.

Fresh bread, cakes, pies, etc., daily at Laubach's, also choice confectionery.

FOR A NEW COUNTY.

The new county movement assumed definite shape at Hazleton on Tuesday night when a public meeting was held in the opera house. The greatest enthusiasm was manifested in the meeting. Dr. H. B. Casselberry was chosen chairman and Charles Wilde secretary. The following resolution was unanimously adopted: "Resolved, That Hon. John J. Coyle, Hon. George Follweiler, Hon. W. R. Jeffrey and Hon. C. W. Kline, be requested to give their aid to introduce and press to a speedy passage the new county bill." A committee was then appointed to call on Senator Kline and escorted him to the hall. In the meantime George H. Troutman attended the meeting. He was followed by R. H. Wright. Both gentlemen dwelt upon the necessity of a division.

Senator Quay was complimented in a set of resolutions, to which was added the following: "That it is the sense of this meeting that should we be successful in forming a new county, we can suggest no better designation than to name it the county of Quay."

Papers prepared by a committee were read to show the inconvenience the people are now subjected to. It was also shown that there are in the state now thirty-one counties which are conducted with less expense than the people of the proposed Quay county district are now paying taxes.

Senator Kline then addressed the audience at length. The utter impracticability of securing justice under the present circumstances, he said, was demonstrated. The suppression of murder and lawlessness which has been rampant in lower Luzerne, the speaker said, was impossible. Figures showing the fallacy of the high tax argument were also given. The senator's speech was loudly cheered. After appointing the necessary committees to procure the legislation required, the meeting adjourned with the movement fairly launched.

His Future.

An old farmer and his son called upon me the other day. The boy is about eleven or twelve years old and a gawky, ugly dawdler. He wandered aimlessly about the office, running the tip of his finger over the backs of my books. At last I asked: "Well, my boy, would you like to be a lawyer?"

"Naw."
"A doctor?"
"Naw."
"A preacher?"
"Naw."
"Well, what do you want to be?"
"Nawthin."
"By thunder! that's what you will be!" commented his disgusted father, earnestly.—Harper's Magazine.

A Law Repeated.

Wheelman—Bicycles are not allowed on the sidewalks here, are they?
Villager—No law again it. Ride on the sidewalk all you want to.
"I heard some time ago that you had a law against it."

"Yes, we had; but after half a dozen folks jumped into the street to escape by carriages, only to get knocked down by bicycles, we concluded to repeal the law and let the bicycles and baby carriages fight it out."—Good News.

Bicycle Flora.

The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra-la, seem really nothing at all.
When the public attention you bring, tra-la.
To the bloomers that bloom in the fall.
—Washington Star.

A MISFIT SITUATION.

Applicant—What's the job worth?
Proprietor—Three dollars a week and my old clothes.—Life.

A Profound Mystery.
"How is it, Mr. Brown," said the mill owner to the farmer, "that when I came to measure those five barrels of apples I bought from you, I found them nearly a barrel short?"
"That's very strange, for I put them up in some of your own flour barrels."
"Ahem! You did, eh? Well, perhaps I made a mistake. Fine weather, isn't it?"—Texas Siftings.

Journalistic Limitations.

Schoolmate—It must be lovely to be married to a newspaper man. You get free tickets to all the theaters and operas, don't you?
Mrs. Scribbler—Y-e-s, but we never go.

"Why not?"
"We haven't anything to wear."—N. Y. Weekly.

Felt Lost.

Hicks—What are you going to do with that old hair mattress?
Mrs. Hicks—Burn it in the stove by degrees.
Hicks—What for?
Mrs. Hicks—I feel lost since you stopped smoking cigars.—

In New York.

She glanced at his innocent Philadelphia nibs with petulant disdain.
"He is a clever artist," she answered pityingly. "No artists are good."

BOROUGH COUNCIL MEETING.

The borough council met on Monday evening. The following bills were ordered paid: Progress, publishing board of health notices, $3; Patrick W. Walsh, jailor, $5.75; Patrick Welsh, feeding prisoners, $1.50; Freeland Water Company, rent of fire plugs for quarter, $90. A bill of $25, for street lights for December, was laid over for further consideration. A letter from the Water Company was read, asking if it was the intention of the council to accept the three plugs on South Centre street, in the portion recently annexed to the borough, and if so whether the rent should be charged to the borough from the first of the year. It was agreed to accept the plugs.

Superintendent George Thompson, of the Lehigh Traction Company, spoke upon the amendments suggested to the ordinance allowing the Hazleton and North Side Railway Company the right of way through the borough. The councilmen agreed to meet again tonight, with the borough solicitor and company's representatives, to discuss that question.

J. M. Carr, Esq., appeared before council on behalf of John J. Welsh, manager of the opera house, and requested that $26 be returned to Mr. Welsh. This amount, it is claimed, was overcharged in collecting license fees. The manager paid $2.50 for each show, and it is said the borough ordinance calls for only $2. A consultation with the borough solicitor will be held upon the matter before the next meeting.

Burgess McLaughlin reported for the month of December as follows: Receipts, $16.50; fees and commissions, $6.45; amount due borough, $8.85. The following amounts were returned for police services: James M. Gallagher, $8.25; Daniel Gallagher, $3; Louis Leitner, $2.50; Daniel Jones, $2. The report was accepted.

Street Commissioner Boyle reported the amount of work done for December to be $7.57, and the report was accepted. He also presented a bill against the property-holders who had neglected to clean the snow from their sidewalks, which work was done at the expense of the borough. The council instructed him to collect the amount, and to ask the aid of the borough solicitor, if necessary.

Treasurer Williamson reported the receipts for December to be $1,042.65; expenditures, $63.35; balance January 1, $228.70. This report was also accepted.

Mr. Fritzinger, who was appointed to see about getting lights into the lockup and hose boxes, reported the company would furnish all the necessary light fees, providing the borough would pay for the globes and wiring. The offer was accepted.

The committee appointed to adjust the damages claimed by Stephen Bennett, for injuries to his cow, reported they had attended to the matter. They considered the borough liable, but did not fix upon the amount of damages. They are to see the solicitor and report at the next meeting.

The ordinance regulating transient merchants, who do business in the borough, was read. No action tending to its passage was taken, and it was finally laid over until the next meeting.
