GOLDEN-MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Many years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., compounded this medicine of vegetable ingredients which had an especial effect upon the stomach and liver, rousing the organs to healthful activity as well as purifying and stomach and the nerves are supplied with pure blood; they will not do duty without at my more than a locomotive can run without coal. You can not get a lasting cure of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, by taking artificially digested foods or pepsim—the stomach must do its own work in its own way. Do not put your nerves to sleep will so called celery difficulty and feed the nerve cells on the food they require. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Billousness and Nervous Affections, such as sleeplessness, and weak, nervous feelings are completely zured by the "Discovery." It puts on healthy flesh, pings refreshing sleep and invigorates the whole system.

'In the hole, forming a circle around the corpse, squatted ten slaves. Neither they nor the four wives manifested any concern about their approaching fate, which they evidently regarded as a matter of course. Up to the end of the ceremony, which was quite elaborate, they did not utter a sound or make a struggle. At a signal men began to threw back the earth into the pit which was to be a grave for the living as well as for the dead. The operation was continued until all of the unfortunates were covered up and concealed from view. While the hole was being filled up there was a continuous and unearthly hullabaloo, with shouting and dancing and benting of tom-toms.

Invalids Exempt From Wrinkles.

It will often be noticed that in a family of women one who has been an invalid for years will be the one who will preserve her youthful looks the longest. Invalids almost always have a certain exemption from wrinkles and time-worn faces. This must be due to the sheltered, quiet lives they lead, the freedom from excitement and the nartial immunity from cares, that

Three or four hundred cattle had already been transferred to the hold of the steamer and had made but slight objection to the process, the gangplank being almost level. The remainder of the herd were to be accommodated on the steamer's upper deck, to be "saloon passengers," as one of the ocean drovers remarked, and getting them up into their elevated quarters was the topic under consideration.

The steep ascent being pronounced impracticable, and other gangways with which it was proposed to reduce the grade being condemned as too weak, the upper end of the gangway was lowered with ropes some distance below the deck, so that it was at an angle of about forty-five degrees. High board sides were affixed to prevent the cattle were forced, reaching the deck by a jump from the end of the gangway. There was much protest in the eastle were forced, reaching the deck by a jump from the end of the gangway. There was much protest in the dept of the state of the gangway. They looked up anxiously, and then turned as if seeking some way of escape, but their companions were crowding thick behind them, and on either side cowboys stood urging them on with admonishing blows and shouts. In spite of themselves they were forced a short distance up the gangplank, but there they hesitated, and no amount of urging and jabbing with long poles could induce them to climb further. Their cyes had the desperate, hunted look of wild creatures at bay. The spotted white bullock advanced a step or so ahead of his companion. A cowboy, young and vigorous, whose overcoat had lost nearly all of its outside glory from repeated exploits amid such scenes, took advantage of this a mainble disposition on the steer's part to give his tail a twist. This device caused the huge creature to advance a few steps higher. The bullock with the broken horn stood routed to the specific and the spotted white steer sprang forward in desperation and almost gai

"That's Dave Erricson. He's a rare hand with the cattle," commented the Captain. "One night, when we were loading further up the river, and had a particularly wild lot of Colorados to deal with, two bullocks jumped overboard. Quick as a flash, Dave was over after them. He straddled the back of the nearest one, got hold of his horns, used them as a rudder, and steered that steer exactly where he wanted him to go. We got them both back, and it was a pitch dark night, too."

ocean drovers have work trying to keep them in order. Sometimes overything is washed away, and cattle and all go to the bottom; but the owners don't care, because each bullook is fully insured as soon as it leaves the stock yard."

Every one of the cattle destined for shipment is inspected at the stock yard by a United States Inspector, and has a numbered metal tag inserted in the right ear. This is a matter of courtesy to the English Government, and to certify that the cattle are sound.

The Oid-Time Warming Pan.

Warming pans are as much a thing of the past as spinning wheels, and are seen in modern homes, like the latter, only as quaint ornaments. Yet it is not so many years ago that they held an important place in the domestic economy and were the source of otherwise unattainable comfort in the chambers where breath congealed and the sheets on the beds were like glaciers. A lady who is now elderly, thought not yet old, tells of the perforated brass warming pan of her childhood, and when company was in the bouse a little sugar was sprinkled over the coals in the warming pan in their honor. Pepys presented Captain Beckford "with a noble silver warming pan" in 1669.—St. Louis Star-Sayings.
