

IS THE FIGHT ENDED?

Treasury Officials Can Re-open Income Tax Case.

A Refusal to Refund the Money Already Received Would Throw the Matter Again into the Courts.—Commissioner Miller Telegraphs Instructions to Deputies to Stop All Work.

Washington, May 21.—The abrogation of the income tax has revived the rumor that an extra session of congress will be necessary in order to supply more revenue by increased taxation or else that another issue of bonds will be made to meet the situation. There is now a grave question whether the treasury can be sufficiently sustained by its present current receipts until the regular session of congress assembles and provides measures for raising additional revenue.

Will Refund All Money.
Commissioner Miller said today that the revised statutes, all the money paid in on account of the income tax will be refunded to the payers by the treasury department without delay. Acting under this section internal revenue taxes wrongfully collected, are daily refunded by this office, and the same action will be taken as to repaying the income tax collected. It amounts to only $73,000.

Fight May Not End Here.
Attorney General Olney, when he returned to the department of justice from the supreme court, said he had no opinion one way or another to express on the decision of the court on the income tax. There was no further move for the government to take in the matter. It is intimated however in official circles that with the personnel of the supreme court changed, as it may be by the retirement of one of the justices, the whole subject might be tried over again. This could be done, it was said by the treasury officials refusing to refund the income tax collected, and having the party enter suit to recover the money.

Secretary Curtis Not Uneasy.
Assistant Secretary Curtis is of the opinion that the revenue will be sufficient, unless there is a decided decrease in receipts, which he does not anticipate. At the close of business yesterday the available treasury balance was $85,000,000, exclusive of the gold reserve of $97,000,000. The Belmont-Morgan syndicate owe the treasury about $10,000,000 on the last sale of bonds, which if added would swell the total of available funds, including the gold reserve, to $192,000,000. The deficit for the year to date is $51,000,000 with the expectation that it will be reduced by June 1 to $17,000,000, or $16,000,000, and by July 1, the beginning of the fiscal year, the total deficit is not expected to exceed $52,000,000 or $53,000,000.

No Bond Issue May Be Necessary.
Because of the heavy appropriation that then becomes available, notably $5,000,000 for the sugar bounty, the deficit for the five months to December 1, with the receipts running no heavier than now, it is estimated will be about $55,000,000. If this estimate is correct and there is no raid on the treasury gold reserve, the best opinion of treasury officials is that no bond issue will be necessary.

May Increase Beer Tax.
Congress will, of course, be expected to raise additional revenue to replace the amount calculated to be derived from the income tax. Many government officials favor increasing the tax on beer to $2 per barrel to provide the additional necessary revenue. This will yield, it is said, between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000, which with current receipts will provide sufficient revenue to make the receipts and expenses meet.

NOT A SURPRISE TO MANY.

Decision Declaring the Income Tax Law Unconstitutional.
Washington, May 21.—The vote of the United States supreme court yesterday declaring the income tax law unconstitutional was not a surprise to many. Those who voted against the law were Chief Justice Fuller and Judges Field, Gray, Brewer and Shiras. For the law, Judges Harlan, White, Brown and Jackson. Chief Justice Fuller read the decision for the court. Judges Harlan, Jackson and Brown read dissenting opinions. The conclusions of the court were as follows:

Direct Taxes.
"(1) We adhere to the opinion, already announced, that taxes on real estate being undeniably direct taxes, taxes on the rents or income of real estate are equally direct taxes. (2) We are of the opinion that taxes on personal property or on the income of personal property are likewise direct taxes. (3) The tax imposed by sections 27 to 37, inclusive, of the act of 1894, so far as it falls on the income of real estate and on personal property, being a direct tax within the meaning of the constitution, and therefore unconstitutional and void, because not apportioned according to representation, all those sections, constituting one entire scheme of taxation, are necessarily invalid. The decrees heretofore entered in this court will be vacated. The decrees below will be reversed and the cases remanded, with instructions to grant the relief prayed."

The Entire Law Void.
Sections 27 to 37 of the tariff act of 1894, referred to in the conclusions of the court in the opinions, are all that section of the act relating to the income tax, so that the entire tax law is declared void specifically. Chief Justice Fuller delivered the main opinion of the court, which consisted of about 7,000 words. The fact that Judge Jackson was in the city and that he had participated in the consultation did not become generally known until a few minutes before the court came in. He occupied his seat with the other members of the court, making a full bench present at the delivery of the opinion, as there was at the hearing.

WILL BE RESENTENCED

Probably Buchanan's Last Chance Is Gone.

To Be Arraigned on Monday in the Court of Appeals To Show Cause Why He Should Not Be Again Condemned To Die—Opposing Counsel's Action Denounced.

Albany, May 21.—District Attorney Fellows made a motion yesterday before the court of appeals that an order be issued directing the warden of Sing Sing prison to produce Dr. Buchanan before the court of appeals to show cause why he should not be resentenced. This is the first case of its nature that has ever come before the court of appeals in this state. Yesterday was motion day in the court, and the court room was filled with distinguished lawyers, including United States Senator David B. Hill.

Accused of Bad Faith.
District Attorney Fellows and Deputy District Attorney John D. Lindsay appear on behalf of the application, and George W. Fitzgibbons and David T. Kimball in opposition. The district attorney, in making the application, reviewed the facts of the case and accused the attorneys for Dr. Buchanan of bad faith in the proceedings. He reviewed the granting of the first respite by Gov. Morton on the application of Mrs. Buchanan, and said he would not at that time go into the details of what was charged to have been a scheme on the part of Buchanan's lawyers in sending Mrs. Buchanan up to Albany to plead with the governor.

Shut Off by the Court.
Referring to the appeal which Buchanan's attorneys took from the decision of Judge Brown of the United States district court in refusing to entertain an application for writ of habeas corpus, hected an opinion of the United States supreme court to the effect that such a denial was not appealable. In answer Attorney Fitzgibbons made an effort to go into the details of each case, but was stopped by Chief Judge Andrews, who said that the only question before the court was whether there was any litigation pending in the United States supreme court or not. He gave Buchanan's attorneys two days to file a brief on the point.

Must Appear Next Monday.
He then announced that the court would issue an order returnable at one o'clock on Monday afternoon next, requiring the warden of Sing Sing prison to produce Dr. Robert W. Buchanan before that court to show cause why he should not be resentenced.

HOUSEHOLD INGENUITY.

Improved Desk Which is Pretty, Useful and Very Economical.
The New York dweller in flats has developed wonderful ability since the avaricious builder gave him the opportunity to cultivate his ingenuity in devising "silk purses out of sow's ears." The economy of space necessary in apartment living has brought about the evolution of some remarkable pieces of furniture.

The writing desk, illustrated in the accompanying sketch, may be included in the list of household wonders directly attributable to the necessity of fitting that most useful household article in a six-by-ten apartment. When closed it really occupies the very smallest amount of room imaginable, and for the young student's use, or in flat bedrooms, where space is at a premium, it is unique and valuable.

The material may be oak or such wood as one fancies; pine enameled in white or black is as good, so long as it matches the woodwork or furniture of the room. Two strips of the wood, each two inches by three feet, are attached to the wall by long screws. Across the top of these are placed three shelves about five inches wide, supported by brackets of brass. Between the two upper ones partitions are glued in to form pigeon holes. A curtain is hung from a rod to afford decoration and concealment.

From four to six inches from the lower end of each of the strips of wood is firmly placed a strip about two inches wide, to which is hinged the shelf that forms the desk. This is upheld when open by brass chains, as seen in the sketch. When it is desired to close it is merely shut to the wall, the chains falling into place. The ledge upon which the lid is hinged forms a firm place for the inkstand, and other necessary fittings of a desk.

Against the wall, between the supporting strips, may be fixed a Japanese panel, or some tapestry or silk, as taste may dictate. A picture can be so fastened to the panel as to form a good letter or card holder.
The whole affair is simple and easily managed; any good carpenter will make the necessary woodwork for a very small sum. It is one of the few Yankee notions which combine utility with beauty and durability.—N. Y. Times.

SOME COMPENSATIONS.

Economical Spending is Not Without its Brighter Side.
There are many compensations in economical spending. To be able to buy all one needs or likes without close consideration of ways and means is doubtless a pure joy to some minds. For to spend lavishly does not always imply selfishness. There are natures which are broadened and enriched by prosperity, and comfort and peace and happiness for others spring naturally up in their hearts so soon as the pressure of tightened circumstances is relaxed.

And yet there are compensations to be found in economy. To save and contrive through long days to obtain some coveted bit of household furnishing, or some longed-for treat, carries with it many a gratification besides the mere attainment of the desire. The arrangement and the planning, which are flavored with many anticipating thoughts of the pleasure they are given for; and then the final joy, which extends beyond the mere getting, the glow of delight at the accomplishment of a settled purpose, which is the crowning reward of the economical soul, who rejoices ever with a ten-fold satisfaction at obtaining what he wanted and worked for so long—all these are compensations which the prodigal never knows, and which to many natures are all-sufficing.—Harper's Bazar.

MEADE REPRIMANDED

Retired from Service by the President.

Mr. Cleveland Indorses His Regrets on the Document—Sorry That the Former Brilliant Service of the Admiral Should at Its Close Be Tarnished by Indiscretion.

Washington, May 21.—Rear Admiral Meade was placed on the retired list yesterday with a reprimand for criticizing the administration. Secretary Herbert recommended the retirement, and the president indorsed thereon as follows:

The President's Rebuke.
"The within recommendation is approved, and Rear Admiral Richard W. Meade is hereby retired from active service pursuant to section 1,443 of the revised statutes. The president regrets exceedingly that the long active service of this officer, so brilliant in its early stages and so often marked by honorable incidents, should at its close be tarnished by conduct at variance with a commendable career and inconsistent with the example which an officer of his high rank should furnish of subordination and submission to the restraints of wholesome discipline and manifest propriety."
GROVER CLEVELAND.

Worked Hard on the Papers.
Secretary Herbert, Admiral Ramsay, Judge Advocate General Lenny and a number of clerks were at the navy department nearly all day Sunday and worked upon the papers in the Meade case until 2 o'clock in the morning. Secretary Herbert came to the navy department at 9 o'clock, gathered up all the papers in the Meade case and took them to the White house at 10 o'clock, where he was joined by Secretary Lamont.

Comes Out Ahead.
After an hour's conference with the president Secretary Herbert returned to the department, and, when asked what news there was in the case, said that he would make an official statement later in the day. Admiral Meade requested to be retired yesterday. The president's rebuke does not have the effect that an official reprimand from the navy department would have had. Meade is admitted to have come out ahead of the administration, and those who know him say he will not mind the slight strictures cast on him by the president.
