

HALF A CROP EXPECTED

Reports From the Principal Wheat Growing States.

Unfavorable Weather and Insects Have Caused Much Damage—Average Harvested Will Be Materially Smaller This Year—Reserves of Old Wheat Very Small.

Toledo, O., May 28.—During the past four days a commission firm here has received replies from 4,078 reliable grain dealers and millers, covering every important wheat county in the six principal winter wheat states which generally raises two-thirds of that crop in the United States. Three thousand one hundred and eleven replies are from the larger wheat producing counties and 1,467 from the less important. Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kansas send about 900 reports each, while Michigan and Missouri, the smaller wheat states, contribute about 500 each.

About Half a Crop.
Present prospects in the six states, reduced acreage considered, is for about half a wheat crop. Ohio and Michigan promise the best, about two-thirds of a crop; Missouri, about half a crop; Indiana, a trifle below half; Illinois worse, and Kansas about a quarter. Three hundred and twenty-two report prospects a trifle better than an average; 511 an average; 1,086 three-quarters of a crop; 1,390 half a crop; 461 about 35 per cent.; 430 only a quarter and 372 say it will be a failure. The latter are mostly from Kansas and Illinois.

Worst Damage Done Recently.

The damage has occurred mostly during the past three weeks. Michigan shows but little and Illinois the most. 533 report no damage; 1,590 complain of the unfavorable weather; 1,130 say damage was caused by fly; 770 by chinch bugs; 1,087 say frost and 122 rust. Kansas has suffered from chinch bugs; Indiana had weather early; Illinois and Michigan had no insect trouble yet.

Less Acreage To Be Harvested.

Acreage harvested will be materially less than last year. Only 91 say it will be a trifle more; 916 say it will be about the same; 1,177 an eighth smaller; 637 a quarter smaller; 421 a third smaller; 629 a half less; 403 say two-thirds or more less. Kansas and Illinois show the worst. More is being plowed up than usual.

Small Reserves of Old Wheat.

Reserves of old wheat are very small. Ohio has the most. Sixty-three of all report a third of last crop remaining; 300 say a quarter; 183 a fifth; 3,120 an eighth; 1,348 a sixteenth, and 1,488 say none left.

The body was buried at Santiago de Cuba at 8 o'clock yesterday morning after it had been fully identified.

THE DANVILLE LYNCHING.

Majority of the People in Full Sympathy with the Work.

Danville, Ill., May 27.—It is extremely doubtful if any of the mob which battered down the jail and lynched Halls and Royce here Saturday will be punished for the crime. Though none of the lynchers were masked it is impossible to find any one who can identify them. The coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that Halls and Royce came to their death by being hanged with ropes in the hands of a body of unknown men. The grand jury is at present in session, and it is said the matter will be brought to its attention, but there is scarcely a probability that any indictments will be found. While a few citizens deplore mob violence, the general majority of the people are in full sympathy with the work of the night. The wife of the sheriff is in an exhausted condition, she having thrice fainted while the mob was pounding down the doors. The mother of Halls is greatly distressed. Living in the edge of South Danville she could look across the river and see the crowd around the jail and hear the blows of the butting ram upon the iron doors of the jail. She ran through the streets of the village pulling her hair until restrained by friends. A number of Danville boys have been in South Danville to-night at which time notice is to be served upon all tough characters in that place to leave the country or run the risk of meeting the same fate that befell Halls and Royce.

A BREAK IN WHEAT.

Numerous Selling Orders Causes a Drop of 1-2 Cents.

Chicago, May 28.—There was more calmness to the wheat market yesterday than the day before, and yet there was enough restlessness in the trading to give the stamp of unusual activity. The break at the close Thursday was an unfortunate thing for the bulls, as it exposed a weak spot and showed that prices had reached a point where they had become vulnerable.

Numerous Selling Orders.

This development led to some apprehension among holders. Commission houses urged their clients to take profits, and numerous selling orders were the result. The fluctuations were sharp and frequent changes of 1 cent were made to effect sales. The anticipated break came during the last hour in the form of a decline of 1-2 cents, although previous to that time the tendency was lower.

DEBS DENIED A WRIT

The Strike Leader Must Serve His Sentence.

Decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Contempt Cases Growing Out of the Great Railway Strike in the West—Judge Woods Says He Is Greatly Gratified.

Washington, May 27.—The supreme court in an opinion read by Justice Brewer denied a motion for an order for the issue of a writ of habeas corpus filed by Debs and his associates of the American Railway union. They will have to serve the sentence imposed upon them by the court. The case, it will be remembered, arose in the United States circuit court of the northern district of Illinois. Debs and others disobeyed the order of the court enjoining them from further interference with interstate commerce and the carrying of the United States mails.

Three to Six Months Sentences.

They were brought before the court for contempt and sentenced to from three to six months imprisonment. The case was brought before the supreme court on a motion for leave to file a petition for writ of habeas corpus, which was fully argued by Debs' counsel on the one side and Attorney-General Olney on the other. The decision of the court sustains the decision of the court below.

Judge Woods Gratified.

Chicago, May 28.—Judge Woods, when informed by a United Press reporter of the decision of the supreme court in the Debs contempt case, said he was highly gratified to learn that his opinion had met with the sanction of the supreme court. "Especially, in this instance," he continued, "do I feel more than a usual gratification. I believed that I was right in issuing the injunction last summer against the officers of the American Railway union and being right in the law, the right to punish the men for contempt followed as a natural consequence."

Will Not Be Crowded.

"I do not know when the men will enter upon their uncompleted sentences, but I suppose that they will be given a reasonable time to report to the marshal." Asked if the criminal proceedings, pending in the district court, will now be abandoned on the ground that the sentence he imposed was for the commission of the same acts with which they are charged in the indictments, Judge Woods said: "I cannot understand why the criminal proceedings should be abandoned."

Attorney Darrow Surprised.

Attorney Darrow, who defended Debs, was much surprised when informed that the habeas corpus had been denied by the supreme court of the United States. "I know of nothing more that can be done," he said. "The supreme court is the last resort, and I suppose we will have to be content with its rulings."

DEATH OF MR. GRESHAM.

retired from the room, leaving the patient alone with his family.
The End Came at 1.15.
At 12.20 the announcement was made that the secretary could not live more than a half an hour and the end was expected at any moment. For the past hour the secretary gave no indications of a pulse or heart beat. At that hour he was conscious, but had lost the use of his voice. Mrs. Gresham was sitting by his side with his hand clasped in hers, while his daughter, Mrs. Andrews, held his head clasped in her hands. The only other person in the room was Mr. Andrews, his son-in-law. At 1 o'clock the dying man closed his eyes and at 1.15 passed away as if in a sleep.

Sketch of Gresham's Career.

Walter Quinton Gresham was little more than sixty-three years old when his record as soldier, jurist and statesman was closed by death. He was essentially an Indian, though of late years claiming residence in Illinois. Born in Harrison county, Indiana, March 17, 1832, and receiving all his early education and legal training in that state, he abandoned a prosperous law practice, and a membership in the state legislature in August, 1861, to throw his whole energies into the service of the war for the protection of the Union. His gallant and conspicuously able services in that capacity secured him the strong friendship of General Grant and the respect of his confederate opponents which was frequently manifested in after life.

Wounded at Atlanta.

He entered the service as lieutenant-colonel of the 38th Indiana volunteers, was promoted brigadier-general for gallantry in the siege of Vicksburg and ranked as major-general. In the operations before Atlanta, Ga., while commanding a division in General Blair's corps he received wounds while charging at the head of his brigade which put him in the hospital for nearly a year and to a considerable extent incapacitated him up to the end of his life.

Declined a Pension.

He was awarded a pension for this disability but after he became secretary of state declined to receive it, although the constant and intense suffering resulting from those injuries undoubtedly augmented the physical ailments which contributed to his death.

Appointed District Judge.

After the war closed he was brought forward prominently as a political candidate. He ran for congress in the New Albany, Ind., district in 1866 as a republican and was defeated. Then he was appointed financial agent of his state in New York city, and while holding this position was selected by President Grant for appointment as United States district judge in his native state.

Defeated by Harrison for Senator.

In 1880, when one of the customary changes in the complexion of the Indiana legislature made it possible to elect a republican to succeed Joseph E. McDonald to the United States senate, Judge Gresham and Benjamin Harrison were the leading candidates for the position, and Mr. Harrison secured the election.

As Postmaster General.

After the death of Garfield in 1882 Judge Gresham was tendered the position of postmaster general in President Arthur's reorganized cabinet and resigned his district judgeship to accept it. When Secretary Folger died in 1884, after his defeat as candidate for governor of New York by Grover Cleveland, Mr. Gresham was transferred to the treasury portfolio thus vacated.

Circuit Judge.

The duties of a cabinet officer and the exacting requirements involved in the disposal of the patronage of one of the great executive departments of the government were not to his taste, and at his own request President Arthur nominated him, after barely three months' service as secretary of the treasury, to the position of circuit judge for the seventh judicial circuit, which embraces the states of Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin. He retained this position until, at Mr. Cleveland's urgent personal request, he joined Mr. Cleveland's second cabinet as secretary of state.

NEW YORK POLICE CHANCES.

Retirement of Chief Byrnes—Dr. Parkhurst is Satisfied.

New York, May 28.—The retirement from the police force yesterday of Chief Thomas Byrnes was not a surprise to many as it was generally understood he was to retire. His retirement was made upon his own application, and he was placed on the pension list at $8,000 a year for life. Inspector Conlin will be acting chief and Capt. Brooks, McCulluck and Cortright will be acting inspectors.

Parkhurst Gratified.

On being asked what he thought of Chief Byrnes' retirement, Dr. Parkhurst said: "The result satisfies me and gratifies me. My warfare, however, has not been against Mr. Byrnes as a man, but as an official, and now that he has ceased to be an official, it seems to me that for me to pass any further comment upon the matter would be both unwarranted and undignified."

FINANCIAL SITUATION

How the Income Tax Will Effect the Treasury.

The Outlook Not Considered Encouraging and May Possibly Lead to Another Issue of Bonds—A Scheme Formulating in the Treasury Department to Tax Tea and Beer.

New York, May 27.—The decision of the United States supreme court against the constitutionality of the income tax law in its entirety naturally directed attention to the condition of the treasury. The commissioner of internal revenue estimated, before the early decision of the supreme court against the constitutionality of the law, so far as it affected bonds and rents, that a revenue of at least $40,000,000 per year might be expected from the operation of the law.

After the decision above referred to it was calculated that this would offset about $15,000,000 of revenue, leaving only $25,000,000 to be collected under the new provisions. Now the whole of the revenue is swept away, and nothing remains for the government but to rely upon customs and internal revenue, and to hope for such a revival of business as will keep the deficiency down to $4,000,000 per month for the remainder of the calendar year. The deficiency reported from Washington on the 18th was about $51,000,000.

Treasury officials claim that this amount will not be greatly increased during the next six weeks, so that at the end of the fiscal year the deficiency will stand at about $53,000,000. But there has been scarcely a month since the beginning of the year in the same hopeful strain, and the results have shown that they were mistaken in their calculations.

There is little reason to believe that their expectations for the next six weeks will be realized, or that the estimate of a deficiency of only $4,000,000 per month for the first half of the new fiscal year will prove correct. Yet, even admitting that only $24,000,000 will be added to the deficiency, the outlook is by no means encouraging. Something will have to be done to increase the revenue and to make up the loss sustained by the failure of the income tax.

The treasury department is said to be formulating a scheme to tax tea and beer, hoping to get sufficient revenue from these sources. But it must be remembered that much time must elapse after the assembling of congress before any revenue measure can be considered, and meanwhile the deficiency will be increasing.

The treasury department will probably be able to draw about $190,000,000 in the general cash balance after the amount due from the bond syndicate shall have been paid in and this can be drawn upon without raising any question so long as the net gold reserve is held intact at about $100,000,000. This sum of $90,000,000, more or less, will be sufficient to carry the government along to the end of the calendar year and leave a fair, though small, working balance, provided there has not been any serious miscalculation as to the revenues. Should anything occur to reduce the estimates of revenue the only alternative will be to issue more bonds.

HYAMS JULY DISAGREE.

They Stood Ten to Two in Favor of Acquittal.

Toronto, May 25.—After being out seven hours the jury in the Hyams murder trial were unable to agree and the judge dismissed them. It was subsequently learned that they stood ten to two in favor of acquittal. The case will be tried at the next assizes. The judge's charge greatly favored the prisoners.
