of the best informed of Ceutral Americal and diplomats: "What is the initial step that will be taken to secure the formation of a union of all the Central American states? Will the question first be submitted to a vote of the people, in order that the sentiment of the several countries may be obtained?" The diplomat smiled pityingly upon his questioner. "The people," he said, with significant shrug of the shoulders, "have little voice in the control of affairs in Central America. Those countries are nominally republican, but they are, as a matter of fact, oligarchies. The question of a union of all Central American states will be settled mainly by the presidents of the five countries interested. If these gentlemen favor a federal union it will not be long delayed."

RETIREMENT OF THE CRAMPS.

Great Ship Yards.

Philadelphia, June 1.—The retirement of Jacob C., Samuel H. and William M. Cramp, from the board of directors of the William Cramp & Sons' Ship and Engine Building company, gave rise in some quarters to a belief that the change means the passing of the control of the great establishment into new hands. One of the old directors of the company said this morning: "The change has no significance whatever. The three brothers were paid officers of the company and were under a five years' contract. The contract expired yesterday, and they stepped out. There is absolutely no change in ownership, nor is any contemplated."

the Republic.

New York, May 31.—Important official news regarding the controversy between England Venezuela has just reached this city, and is made public through the Venezuela's House of foreign affairs to the national government and corresponds to the anunal report of our state department. It contains full details of Venezuela's attitude towards England's aggressions in the Gulanas, and shows that our little neighbor on the shores of the Carribban is determined to hold her territory at all hazards. The document in question shows firmness combined with discretion, and reflects great credit upon the statesmanship and patriotism of Dr. P. Ezequiel Rojas, who has been at the head of the department of foreign affairs for the past three years, and under whom the Gulana question has assumed its present phase.

Asher important steps taken by the Venezuelan government were its efforts to prevent the circulation of incorrect maps of the country, and a request to the Washington government that the international office would make such changes in the maps published by England as would do justice to the rights of Venezuela. Full and detailed explanations are given of the Guiana incident, which the Venezuelan press has been discussing so freely. The notes that have passed between England and Venezuela regarding the route from Barima to the upper Guiana are also given in full. The report closes with these significant words: "After having explained all the measures taken by the present government in this matter from the day of its inauguration, the English have not advanced one step into the territory of the republic, and that it is impossible for them to do so without having a collision with the Venezuelan authorities."

The Pope Gives Audience to America's Cardinal.

Surprising Freshness of the Aged Prelate's Memory Even in Small Details---He Talks of America and This Country.

Rome, June 4.—Cardinal Gibbons had a private audience, lasting forty min utes, with the pope yesterday. Upon emerging from the audience Cardinal Gibbons said that he had not seen the pope since 1886 and was surprised at his excellent health. excellent health.

Surprising Memory.

He added: "In spite of Leo's age, his intellect remains unimpaired. He showed surprising freshness of memory, recalling oven the small details of religious, social and scholastic matters concerning the United States, and, especially, the diocese of Baltimore." The cardinal was asked what questions had been discussed during the audience. He answered:

Future of the Church Here. Future of the Church Here.

"In this matter I must preserve the utmost reserve." He added that the pope had invited him to further audiences before he left Rome in order that they might discuss the present and future religious and social conditions of the United States, in which the pope assured him he took the keenest interest. It is the general belief that the meeting of the American cardinal and the pope is for the purpose of planning the future course of the church in America, a subject which has been chief in the mind of Lee for many years.

Retains His Priestly Office.

He does not in any way lose his priestly office or rank. The reasons given for the deposition of Archbishop Kenrick may be embraced in the stereotyped phrase of "advancing years and increasing infirmities." Archbishop Kenrick has officiated for 54 years as administrator of the affairs of the diocese of St. Louis, and four years ago, amid such impressive ecclesiastical ceremonies as were never witnessed on this continent, rounded out the jubilee of his career. The excitement of this occasion proved too much for his enfeebled mind and since them he has not been in a condition to attend to the duties of his rank.
