How to Cook a Husband.

One of the lectures before the Baltimore cooking school recently gave this receipt for cooking a husband, which is not commonly found in books on cookery: "A good many husbands are utterly spoiled by mismangement. Some women go about it as if they were balloons and blow them up. Others keep them constantly in hot water, others let them freeze by indiffernce and carelessness. Some keep them in a stew by irritating ways and words. Others roast them. It cannot be supposed that any husband will be tender and good if managed in this way, but they are really delicious when properly treated. "In selecting your husband do not go to the market for him, as the best are brought to the door. It is far better to have none, unless you learn how to govern him. See that the linen in which you wrap him is properly washed and mended, have the required number of buttons and strings tightly sewed on. Tie him in the kettle by a silk cord called 'comfort,' as the one called 'duty' is apt to be weak.

"On to Delaware!" is the inspiring cry that has been taken up by the single taxers of the United States. Delaware, on account of having a not very large number of voters, has been chosen as the most desirable state in the union for the most desirable state in the union for a target, and for the next few years the doctrine of "equal rights for all and special privileges for none" will be spread and explained in every town and hamlet in our neighboring common-wealth. Instead of the scattering fire that has been carried on for the past fifteen years, the leaders of the move-ment have decided to concentrate their efforts upon some definite place. Since selecting Delaware thousands of dollars have been subscribed and the services of the ablest orators in the ranks are offered for the campaign. That opposition from their opponents will be met is a natural thing to expect, but no one can yet point to an instance when a single taxer was beaten in a debate or controversy, and we predict a grand victory for George's followers before many elections have been held. The details of the campaign are not yet arranged, but it will be a systematic assault upon what is the greatest evil in the world today, land speculation.

A careful inquiry throughout the electing Delaware thousands of dollars

the world today, land speculation.

A careful inquiry throughout the country by the Chicago Tribune indicates that 250,000 wage-workers have been given voluntary increases by their employers since April 1. The advances range from 5 to 40 per cent, and the average is about 12. These statistics were not gathered for the purpose of making political capital out of the business revival. They were secured with much labor by one of the greatest Republican papers in the country, and there is no question as to their reliability. This announcement is certainly a pleasant one to make, and that the revival will reach the anthracite coal fields soon is a hope that all can join in expressing.

One cannot help having some pity for some of the merchants here. They have as good goods at low prices, so they verbally assert, as can be had elsewhere. But it is only a verbal statement and verbal advertising was never as good as printer's ink, nor will it ever be. The people of this vicinity don't know that they can buy as cheap in Freeland as people of this vicinity don't know that they can buy as cheap in Freeland as they can in other towns. They must have positive proof. The storekeeper will say, "Everybody knows I am straight and sell straight goods at the right price." This may be all true, but it don't work. The newspaper is the proper medium, as some people have long since discovered.

the Government Denied.

Honolulu, June 16, via San Francisco, June 24.—The special session of the first legislature of the republic convened at noon of the 12th in the former Throne room. A large assemblage was present. The only uniforms seen were those of United States naval officers. There was a total absence of parade.

President Dole delivered an address of 15 minutes. He stated that the republic of Hawaii had been recognized by all the principal nations with whom relations were friendly. Internal affairs had been in an orderly and prosperous condition except the January insurrection, which had been suppressed without serious difficulty.

The outlay, including expenses of the military court, had been over $90,000, paid from current funds. Annexation to the United States continued to be the policy of the government and would be carnestly sought for. A liberal policy was recommended in administering the public lands, so as to facilitate the acaquirement of permanent holdings by industrious persons of small means. The crown lands should be managed to the same end. A bill would be submitted elaborating such a land policy.

Special reference should be paid to inducing immigration of desirable American and other white settlers. Aslatic immigration was depreciated. Cable communication must be secured. Franchises and subsidies had been promised, but the time had come for the government activity to initiate the matter. As hill would be submitted.

Those reports were totally without foundation which were sent from San Franciseo May 16, that the government was tottering and Thurston planning to restore the monarchy under Kaillani. The whole thing was a canard. The steamer ching actually the superabundance of pride in the fowl was considered allowable, but no one expected him to assert vigorously his barnyard in offibusterers and gave up the search.

Shocking Case of Inhumanity at Otisco, N. Y.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 33.—Special officer Casey, of the S. P. C. A., late Saturday afternoon, arrested Pries Parsons, an Otisco farmer, for a case of shocking and inhuman treatment of an unruly bull which persisted in knocking down fences. Parsons sewed up the eyelids of the unfortunate animal with two pleces of heavy wire sharpened at the points, which he inserted as a physician would a needle. After he had taken three or four stitches in cach eyelid he twisted the ends of the wire together, and in this condition the bull was found, with his eyes terribly swollen and bleeding. The justice of the peace at South Onondaga let Parsons off with a paltry fine of $10. which washed and required number of strings tightly sewed on on in the kettle by a silk cord called comfort, as the one called 'duty' is apt to be weak.

If he sputters and fusses do not be anxious—some husbands do this until they are called done. UNDERGROUND TROLLEY.
One Company That Will Have No Use for Unsightly Poles.

The Metropolitan Traction company of New York believes that it has found an underground trolley system of street car locomotion that can be operated successfully, and it will be put in use on the new line in Lenox avenue. The system is illustrated and described in the Illustrated Electrical Review. The road is already built. The surface construction is exactly like a cable road, and most persons thought the motive power would be cable, although the company officials said that electricity would be tested. The conduit through which the conductor would run is like the cable conduction Broadway. On each side of it at distances of 30 feet are soapstone pillars 13½ inches high and 8 inches square. No wire is to be used at all. In its place is 4½ inch iron channel bars running from pillar to pillar and resting on insulators. The pillars rest in cast iron pedestals provided with sockets six inches deep and one inch larger in inside diameter than the pillars. The space then left is filled with sulphur.

On each side of the conduits and outside of the pillars are five pipes runside pipes and pipes p ance and liabits of the FawaColored Terror.

Spring brings renewed life and gayety
to the insect world. Many insects emerge for the first time from a winter's seclusion, and all seem invigorated.

The average insect sets a noble example to man by his unceasing industry and cheerfulness. These qualities are displayed more conspicuously by the insects than by any other division of the animal world. Consider, for instance, the cheerfulness of the grasshopper and his relatives, who sing perpetually, and the industry of the ant, who is always engaged in some labor equaling for him the building of the pyramids.

There are, however, some insects with distinctly obnoxious traits, and among these the tarantula, the largest of them
all, is preeminent.

The tarantula belongs to the spider family, and the variety found in the southern states is classified as a hunting or wolf spider. The tarantula is the most combative and aggressive of all insects.

The American tarantula belongs to a different family from that of southern Europe. It is larger and its bite more painful than that of the European insect. It can be relied upon to make any paintul than that of the European insect. It can be relied upon to make any man dance.

The tarantula is a frequent visitor of New York, says the World of that city,
although not a native of these regions.
It usually travels with a cargo of fruit
from the southern states, Central or South America or the West Indies. It shows a marked partiality for bananas.
If you enter into conversation with any of the men engaged in unloading fruit on the east or west side you will hear stories of tarantulas and possibly have an opportunity to see one.

The tarantula is a giant spider, sometimes measuring four inches in length.
It is fawn-colored above, with white sides, marked with whitish lines.
It has four pairs of well-developed legs, in addition to the mandibles, or jaws, which contain the poison apparatus. These are grooved, and the poisonous secretion, which is similar in composition to the venom of snakes, is contained in a gland at the base of the mandibles and is forced through the grooves when the spider is angry and grasps its victim. The body and legs are thieldly covered with hair.

Although the bite of the tarantula can hardly be classed as deadly, it is always extremely painful, and has probably in some cases caused death. Not long ago a West street longshoreman was reported to have been killed by a bite, but there were complicating circumstances.

The tarantula is remarkable both for its flerceness and its extraordinary swiftness. By the use of eightlong and vigorous legs it flashes over the ground, and as these legs are sharp and prehensile it can run up a perpendicular surface with great ease. No one need, therefore, be surprised to see a tarantula run up from the ground to his chin.

The tarantula catches small birds, mice and insects. It is able to use its poison with greater relative effect on these than on man and other large animals. Do not let the tarantula take hold of your finger.

Apartment House for Womes.
One of New York's projected apartment houses is to be "for women only."
Miss Janet C. Lewis is at the head of the enterprise. The building will cost $750,000. On the ground floor there will be assembly rooms, library, lunchroom, and a fine restaurant. There will also be several clubrooms to rent. In the basement a Turkish bath and plain baths will be run as a separate feature. All the kitchens will be placed on top of the building, where also will be a restaurant. The house proper will be cut into small suites, single rooms, studies, all accessible by two swift elevators. The rate of rentals is designed to be low. One feature of the building will appeal to the new woman. No man will be allowed in the house or restaurants or clubrooms unless introduced or chaperoned by a woman tenant.
