HER PITIABLE GRIEF

Mrs. Buchanan Prostrated and Penniless.

Dragged from the Coffin Containing Her Husband's Remains---The Dead Murderer's Lawyers Will Continue the Proceedings Before the Supreme Court.

New York, July 2.—The body of Dr. Robert Buchanan arrived at the Grand Central station at 8:30 o'clock last night. It was brought from Sing Sing by undertaker Anthony Huhna of No. 127 Varick street. The body was taken to the undertaker's rooms at 9 o'clock. A large crowd of people in the neighborhood collected in front of the house and were admitted to view the face of the electrocuted murderer. A line was formed and for hours a steady stream of humanity filed past the casket.

A Pathetic Scene.

At 10:30 o'clock Mrs. Buchanan, the electrocuted man's widow, came down stairs, while the doors were temporarily closed and the crowd kept out. She had been with the undertaker's family for an hour and had not seen the body of her husband since his death. A most pathetic scene occurred when she entered the room. Her face was bloodless, her eyes swollen from weakness and lack of sleep.

Kissed the Cold Lips.

Dressed in black she walked to the casket and threw herself upon it. She kissed the cold lips of the man she loved. "Oh Robert! Robert!" she cried, "you are gone from me, and how I loved you." She sobbed violently and kissed the red mark made over the right eye of the dead man by the strap that held him in the electric chair.

Would Not Leave the Body.

Lawyer George W. Gibbons tried to console the grief-stricken woman and, after a time, endeavored to lead her away, but without success. Undertaker Huhna also tried to get her up-stairs to quiet her. "No, No!" she cried. "They shall not take me from you, Robert. Oh, mother; oh, my darling!" and she became wrought up to a high pitch of excitement. The lawyer and undertaker then tried to lift her from the casket to get her away, but she clung closer to the corpse and cried out to be let alone.

Her Shrieks Heard in the Streets.

Then she let out shriek after shriek that was heard out on the street, and caused the people to mass in great numbers about the house and try to get in. Finally Lawyer Gibbons and the undertaker had to almost carry her out of the room. After much difficulty she was gotten up-stairs in a hysterical condition, where the undertaker's wife soothed her.

Prostrated and Penniless.

Mrs. Buchanan is to-day a decided object of pity. She is completely prostrated and unable to leave her bed. Besides she is absolutely penniless.

WILL NOT DROP THE MATTER.

Buchanan's Lawyers To Proceed as If He Were Alive.

New York, July 2.—Col. George W. Gibbons, who with A. C. Butts labored hard and earnestly to save the wife-murderer, Buchanan, from the electric chair, stated last evening that he did not intend to let the case drop now that Buchanan had been electrocuted. "Nothing, however, can be done," he said, "until the United States supreme court decides the question of our appeal. We will perfect our appeal, perhaps making some modifications, to suit the present condition of facts, and then ask for an opinion. We will proceed exactly the same as though Dr. Buchanan were alive."

All Rests with U. S. Supreme Court.

"Will you commence an action against the state, or the warden at Sing Sing, for damages, holding them responsible for the death of your client?" Col. Gibbons was asked. "Well, you see, we can do nothing in that direction until we get an opinion in regard to our appeal. If the United States supreme court decides against us, we will have no ground on which to stand. If, on the contrary, the decision should be in our favor, we will push the case to the furthest limit."

A Parallel Case.

Col. Gibbons, when asked if there were any precedents of counsel continuing to fight the case of a murderer after execution, said that the case of the Japanese, Jugiso, had many parallel lines, and it was upon the decisions in that case they hung their hopes. "It is pretty hard at this time," said Col. Gibbons in conclusion, "to say just what we will do, so far as I know, we will pursue that policy."

Mrs. Buchanan Declines To Talk.

Mrs. Buchanan arrived in the city at 8 o'clock from Sing Sing, accompanied by her child and a representative of Col. Gibbons. She declined to make any statement. The remains of Buchanan arrived last night from Sing Sing in charge of a Varick street undertaker.

BEFORE THE ELECTROCUTION.

The Condemned Man Gave Up Hope Only at the Last Moment.

Sing Sing, July 2.—Although it was necessary to apply the current twice before Buchanan was declared dead, the physicians present express their belief that the condemned man was unconscious after the first shock and that he suffered no pain. Others present, however, seemed to believe that electrical executions were still a matter of experiment and uncertainty.

Dr. Gibbs' Statement.

Before the autopsy Dr. Gibbs made the folowing statement: "I think the cause of the apparent partial failure of of the first application of the current was the fact that the straps were drawn too tight about the neck and chin, perhaps preventing the immediate expulsion of the air from the lungs and therefore causing the slight pulsation of the heart, which we observed. I believe Buchanan was unconscious after the first shock and was beyond resuscitation before the current was turned off the first time. The evidence of life, which we found, however, was sufficient to render it necessary, in our opinion, to apply the current the second time."

Warden Sage Greatly Relieved.

When Buchanan's remains were carried to the dissecting table and the warden and witnesses left the death chamber, Warden Sage seemed greatly relieved. The uncertainty as to his duty in the matter has greatly worried him and there is no wonder that he felt relieved. Everything possible was done by Buchanan's lawyers and his devoted wife to save him and Warden Sage gave them all the assistance possible. He had not fully made up his mind to go ahead with the execution yesterday until after considering for several hours the dispatch from the attorney general. Then he notified Buchanan that he must prepare for death. The condemned man almost broke down and inquired as to his wife's efforts with the governor. Just at that moment the following dispatch was handed to the warden which he read and passed to Buchanan:

His Agony Pitiable.

Rhinecliff, N. Y., July 1.

Warden Sage:—"All pleadings in vain. Governor cannot possibly interfere.

"Annie Buchanan."

When Buchanan read this dispatch his agony was pitable. He asked that his wife be allowed to see him when she returned, but the warden denied the request, believing it best for both. Shortly after 10 o'clock Buchanan sent again for Warden Sage. He had finished a breakfast consisting of one bowl of milk. When they met the warden displayed the greater feeling of the two. The warden asked what was wanted. Buchanan thanked Warden Sage for the kindness that had been shown him in the prison, and then added with much earnestness.

Protested His Innocence.

"Warden, these are probably my last words, and I want you to be in a position to speak with certainty concerning my confession which in the future you may hear I have made. I want to say to you now that I am entirely innocent of the crime for which I am about to be executed. There was no more morphine in that woman as administered by me than there is in you at this moment. I suppose I am not the first innocent man to be executed."

A Wronged Wife's Devotion.

When Mrs. Buchanan returned to Sing Sing she went at once to the prison and asked to see her husband. This was denied her as the witnesses were already assembled in the death chamber and the minister was preparing Buchanan for the final moment. Mrs. Buchanan then went to a hotel, where she remained until the end. Mrs. Buchanan's condition was indeed more pitiable than that of her husband. Deceived and subjected to the most cruel treatment by him, cast aside for another who took her place, she labored with the heroism of a strong nature to save Buchanan, and, failing, finds herself alone, penniless, without friends, her child a charge on the city of New York.

FOR NEW TORPEDO BOATS.

Proposals Will Be Received by the Navy Department.

Washington, July 2.—The navy department has invited proposals for the construction of three steel twin screw sea-going torpedo boats for the navy. The material used in their construction is to be of domestic manufacture. The vessels may be constructed of steel or other metal, or alloy.

If they fail to develop and maintain twenty-six knots, but exhibit an average speed of not less than twenty-five knots an hour they will be accepted, so far as speed is concerned, at a reduced price, the reduction being at the rate of $10,000 a knot. If the speed falls below an average of twenty-five knots an hour it will be optional with the secretary of the navy to reject the vessels or to accept them at a reduced price, to be agreed upon between the secretary and the contractors.

Where They Will Be Built.

The act of congress authorizing provided that one of them should be built on or near the coast of the Pacific ocean, one on the Mississippi river and one on the Gulf of Mexico. The act provided further that in case the vessels could not be built at these points at a fair cost they should be built at any place in the United States.

SAYS WE AID REBELS

Havana's Mayor Makes a Serious Charge.

Indirect Violations of the Neutrality Laws Permitted Daily—Spain Will Win, He Says, and All Property Holders in Cuba Are with Her---The Mayor Visiting in This Country.

New York, July 2.—Segundo Alvarez, mayor of Havana, Cuba, is in this city. Mayor Alvarez, who owns the largest sugar factory in Havana, makes serious charges against the United States government regarding the neutrality laws. He says: "The government and people of the United States are either blind or ignorant regarding the present revolution in Cuba.

Aiding the Insurgents Indirectly.

"Your president has issued a proclamation enforcing the neutrality laws, but indirect violation of these laws you permit daily. You allow military drills to take place at Key West and Tampa, Fla. You do not intend to aid the insurgents directly, but you tolerate the drilling of military companies within your territory to aid the insurgents against your good faith in your treaty with Spain.

To Arouse Friendly Sentiment.

"Of course the people and the government of the United States are not entirely to blame for this state of affairs. There are a great many Cubans, prominent in business and politics, who come to your country and become citizens simply for the purpose of arousing friendly sentiment here. They do not renounce their citizenship in Cuba.

Says Spain Will Win.

"The present war may last one, or even two years longer, but Spain will win in the end. The principal opposition comes from sympathizers in the United States. I speak from the Spanish standpoint, for I was born in the province of Asturias in Spain. Mayor Alvarez will go to Saratoga for a few weeks, and then to Cuba.

Colonel Aldave also reports that a rebel band attacked a Spanish detachment at Ranchuelo, but were repulsed.

HE PREFERS AMERICA

Cardinal Gibbons Declines a Vatican Offer.

Asked by the Pope To Surrender His Diocese of Baltimore, Md., and Reside in Rome and Take Part in the Politics of the Vatican. Views of the Cardinal's Friends.

London, July 2.—A dispatch received here from Rome says that the pope has invited Cardinal Gibbons to surrender his diocese, that of Baltimore, Md., and to reside in Rome and take part in the politics of the vatican, but that Cardinal Gibbons declined the offer.

Opinion at Baltimore.

Baltimore, July 2.—A dispatch was received here last night from Rome stating that cardinal Gibbons had declined the pope's invitation to surrender his American diocese and to reside in Rome, taking part in the politics of the vatican. No significance is attached to the dispatch by the cardinal's friends in this city. One of them said:

Would Not Abandon His Charge.

"Even admitting it to be a fact that the pope would extend to his eminence such an invitation, which is very unlikely, it would be contrary to all of Cardinal Gibbons' ideas to abandon the distinguished and responsible position as the head of the church in American to engage in the affairs of the vatican.

A Very Patriotic American.

"Those statements doutless grew out of the very prominent place which the cardinal just now is occupying in the public eye, both in this country and in Europe. Cardinal Gibbons, while a strong churchman, is also a very patriotic American, and knows he can render the church far greater service in his present eminent station than in any which he would be called upon to occupy at Rome."

CONFIDENT OF A NEW TRIAL.

Efforts Begun in Behalf of Clarence and Sadie Robinson.

Buffalo, July 2.—Clarence and Sadie Robinson, convicted of killing Montgomery Gibbs, will, through their counsel, Judge L. Q. Hardesty, apply for a new trial on newly discovered evidence. During last week the relatives of the convicted couple were in Buffalo in consultation with Judge Hardesty, and at a conference Saturday it was decided to make the appeal as soon as preliminary details are arranged. It is said that the sensations created by the trial will be mild compared with the affidavits which will be read on the motion for a new trial.

Will Establish a Complete Alibi.

Eight witnesses for the defense have been secured who will establish, Judge Hardesty says, a complete alibi for the prisoners. Two witnesses have been secured who will indicate that Gibbs was killed by another person. This will constitute the new evidence. Judge Hardesty feels certain that a new trial will be granted on his evidence.
