

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD

Anthracite coal used exclusively, insuring cleanliness and comfort.

ARRANGEMENT OF PASSENGER TRAINS.
MAY 15, 1895.

LEAVE FREELAND.
6:05, 8:25, 9:33, 10:41 a. m., 1:35, 2:27, 3:40, 4:25, 6:12, 8:58, 9:35, 10:57 p. m., at Drifton-Jeddo, Lumber Yard, Stockton and Hazleton.
6:05, 8:25, 9:33 a. m., 1:35, 3:40, 4:25 p. m., for Mauch Chunk, Allentown, Bethlehem, Pottsville, Easton and New York.
6:05, 9:33, 10:41 a. m., 2:27, 4:25, 6:38 p. m., for Mahanoy City, Shenandoah and Pottsville.
7:26, 9:16, 10:56 a. m., 11:54, 4:34 p. m., (via High-Land Branch) for White Haven, Glen Summit, Wilkes-Barre, Pittston and Lehigh Junction.
SUNDAY TRAINS.
11:40 a. m. and 3:45 p. m. for Drifton, Jeddo, Lumber Yard and Hazleton.
3:45 p. m. for Delano, Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, New York and Philadelphia.
ARRIVE AT FREELAND.
7:26, 9:27, 10:56, 11:54 a. m., 12:58, 2:13, 4:34, 5:38, 8:47 p. m., from Hazleton, Stockton, Lumber Yard, Jeddo and Drifton.
7:26, 9:27, 10:56 a. m., 2:13, 4:34, 6:58 p. m., from Delano, Mahanoy City and Shenandoah (via New Boston Branch).
12:58, 5:33, 8:47 p. m., from New York, Easton, Philadelphia, Bethlehem, Allentown and Mauch Chunk.
9:27, 10:56 a. m., 12:58, 5:33, 6:58, 8:47 p. m., from Easton, Philadelphia and Mauch Chunk.
9:27, 10:41 a. m., 12:58, 5:33, 6:58, 8:47 p. m., from Delano, Mahanoy City and Shenandoah (via New Boston Branch).
SUNDAY TRAINS.
11:31 a. m. and 3:31 p. m., from Hazleton, Lumber Yard, Jeddo, Drifton, Shenandoah, New York and Philadelphia.
11:31 a. m. from Delano, Hazleton, Philadelphia and Easton.
3:31 p. m. from Delano and Mahanoy City.
For further information inquire of Ticket Agents.
CHAS. S. LEE, Gen'l Pass. Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.
ROLLIN H. WILBUI, Gen. Supt. East. Div.
A. W. NONNEMACHEL, Asst. Gen. Supt., South Bethlehem, Pa.

FREELAND TRIBUNE.

PUBLISHED EVERY MONDAY AND THURSDAY.

THOS. A. BUCKLEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

OFFICE: MAIN STREET ABOVE CENTRE.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
One Year $1.50
Six Months 75
Four Months 50
Two Months 25

Subscribers are requested to observe the figures following the name on the labels of their papers. By reference to these they can ascertain to what date their subscription is paid. For instance:

Grover Cleveland 23 June 96 means that Grover is paid up to June 23, 1896. Keep the figures in advance of the present date. Report promptly to this office whenever you do not receive your paper. All arrears must be paid when paper is discontinued.

FREELAND, PA., AUGUST 12, 1895.

The Republican Ticket.

From the Wilkesbarre Newsdealer.
Bennett for judge, Martin for sheriff, Richards for recorder and Lloyd for controller is the ticket named by the Republicans of Luzerne. It might be called a Welsh-English combination, as Bennett is the only son of the American Republicans secured. It is not a strong ticket by reason of being geographically out of joint, neither can it be said to be a weak one. Bennett is not near as formidable a candidate as Ferris would have been, is not any stronger than when he was defeated four years ago by 1,503 majority, when he was a candidate against Judge Lynch. We see no reason why he should be successful in the coming contest. He cannot be compared as a lawyer with W. S. McLean, and is not in any respect so broadly equipped to discharge the duties of that important trust. There is a strong feeling, it must be admitted, in favor of a non-partisan bench, and this will undoubtedly result in getting for him many votes that otherwise he would not obtain; but even with that feeling, his success would seem to be out of the question.

Martin's nomination for sheriff we look upon as decidedly weak, and the personal following it will attract will be insignificant. Yost or Garrison would either have proved a more popular nomination, and would have vastly strengthened the ticket. The fifth district, in which Martin resides, is hopelessly Democratic, and we do not believe he will succeed in attracting to his name more than a couple of hundred Democratic votes. His reputation and fitness is of course conceded, but Yost's defeat and Garrison's turning down has left a lot of bad blood and created a dissension that will cost Martin a host of votes. His Democratic opponent has, in our opinion, a soft snap, and he ought to defeat Martin by ease.

Richards for recorder is a good nomination, well located and would have strengthened the ticket if the convention had not loaded it down with the nomination of Lloyd, another Welshman for controller. This is where the convention made another of its mistakes. Waddell or Westover for the candidate would either have been a more desirable selection, and would have materially strengthened the ticket where it is weak.

Another peculiar feature about the ticket nominated is that the candidates are all from a radius of less than four miles from the county seat. The first district carries off the judge and surveyor, third district the recorder and coroner, the second district the controller and the fifth the sheriff. This leaves the fourth and sixth districts both unrepresented on the ticket and the feeling for the nominees in both of those districts will not be of the best. With the feeling and disturbance there is in the party over the struggle for state leadership the Democracy of Luzerne ought to elect their ticket from bow to stern.

How many of the newspapers which make a practice of misrepresenting the acts and intentions of the administration, both at home and abroad, will make public the fact that the United States minister to China was the first representative of a foreign government to demand of China, at the time of the recent destruction of missionary property and massacre of missionaries, not only reparations for damage done and the punishment of those who did it, but the fullest protection for Americans temporarily residing in China? This demand was made in June and its effect may be judged from the more recent massacre of English missionaries, which has started the British lion to roaring at the Chinese dragon at an awful rate. In that massacre not an American was killed or injured, although they had a mission station nearby that of the English who were killed. Talk is cheap, but when it comes to acts this administration is not behind that of any other in the history of the country in protecting Americans and American interests abroad. The fairness of Republican papers can be judged by the way they treat this Chinese incident.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The "Wear Well" working shoe for men cannot be found in any other store in town.

A. Oswald sells summer dress goods at and below cost.

Buy your clothes of Refowich.

TOLD BY FAMOUS MEN.

Senator Hill's Experience In a Murder Case.

A FUTURE APPEAL FOR CLEMENCY.

Congressman Reed Recalls His First Speech In the House—How He Succeeded in Commanding Attention—Effect of the Address.

Senator Hill of New York had a very interesting murder case just before he became governor of New York. It is not so much the case that made it interesting as the story that grew out of it. It was in 1884. Mr. Hill was then lieutenant governor of New York. Mr. Cleveland was governor and had just been elected president. As lieutenant governor Mr. Hill continued to practice law, and in December, 1884, was engaged to assist the prosecuting attorney in quite a celebrated murder case. The counsel for the defense made the point that Lieutenant Governor Hill was likely to become governor, and in case his client was convicted application would have to be made to Governor Hill for executive clemency. He claimed that under the circumstances the lieutenant governor had no right to appear in the case; that having been prosecuting attorney he would be prejudiced against the prisoner, and the accused, if found guilty, would not have a fair hearing before the governor, who had helped to convict him. The court overruled the point raised by the defense, and an exception was noted, but it never resulted in having a new trial.

Senator Hill says that the case itself was rather remarkable, but the particulars are not essential to the present story. Well, the man was convicted, and, sure enough, application for pardon was made to Governor Hill, Mr. Cleveland having in the meantime succeeded by the lieutenant governor. The same attorney who had defended the man appeared with an application for a pardon. He declared that notwithstanding the fact that Hill had appeared as the public prosecutor in the case he would ask him for executive clemency. He even went into an argument to show that because Mr. Hill

After all the courts and every other possible avenue for escaping the test had been tried there arose another difficulty. The warden of the jail could not purchase dynamo to generate the electricity. None of the electric companies would sell them. Every dynamo was held by the companies. Like many other electric appliances, the test always remained in the possession of the companies, and the users paid a rental or royalty. They would not lease or sell a dynamo for an electric execution. But here again Governor Hill was shrewd enough to see that the law which he had worked so hard to have enacted should not be defeated in any such manner. Several electric dynamos were purchased for some South American firm and shipped down to South America and bought by the state of New York and shipped back. They were more expensive that way, but the state had to have them, and Governor Hill was not the man to give up. There was some difficulty in getting an operator who was a skillful man to properly handle the electric machinery, but finally one was found. Then began a pressure upon Governor Hill for admission to the execution. From his past experience he was aware that the electric companies would make every effort to have men inside who would try to make such a report of the affair as might turn public sentiment against the method of execution. One prominent citizen of New York, who had been standing by the electric companies with great vigor and had used all the power of his paper to defeat the law and to assist the electric companies in preventing execution by such means, wrote a personal letter to Governor Hill asking the privilege of having a reporter present. Governor Hill denied this request. The law provided that a certain number of persons should be present, and the governor allowed a man from each of the press associations to be there. It is probable that the New York Senator in all his experience with newspaper men has not met but that one instance of a member of the profession disappointing him. One of the men got sick at the execution, and his report was not in favor of the new method of execution.

Since then there seems to be a general acquiescence in the new form of death penalty, and even the electric companies have become reconciled to the use of electricity as a means of killing murderers. They are now fondly willing to supply the state with the best improved dynamos for generating electricity and to put in the different prisons requiring them all the electric machinery necessary for a first class electrocution.

As some one has previously remarked, nothing succeeds like success, even if it is in dealing with such a ghastly thing as death for the greatest crime.

Ex-Speaker Reed tells an interesting story about his first speech in congress. "I had served a few months in the house," said Mr. Reed, "and had been waiting an opportunity to rise to my feet and have some to say. Finally the William and Mary college bill came up for consideration. All the southern people were enthusiastic in its favor, and they induced Dr. Loring of Massachusetts to make a very patriotic and eloquent speech in its behalf. When he had finished the southern people purposely organized a procession to march through the aisle and up to Dr. Loring's seat for the purpose of presenting him their congratulations. While all this was going on I sat waiting. There was a great deal of confusion in the hall, and you can imagine how anxious I became as the moments slipped by. The warden to me is that I had coolness enough to wait, but I did, and after the congratulations had been about all offered and the house had been quieted down somewhat I raised my voice. But no one appeared to see me, and I would have sold out my chance very cheap. I think it was one of the bitterest moments of my life, standing there surrounded by my peers, just bursting for a chance to tell what I knew and thought, but with me no one paying the slightest attention to me and a buzz going on all about."

"I perceived that it was absolutely necessary for me to do something to dominate that noise, and almost in a fit of desperation I filled my lungs and opened my mouth. It appeared to me, as I remember it now, that it did not make so much difference what I said as how loudly I could say it. In a second or two I had caught the attention of the house, probably through the exercise of main strength. I then saw I was going to have an audience if my breath held out. In a few seconds more all noise ceased and faces began to turn toward me. Then I felt the inspiration of an attentive audience, and I suppose I must have made a very good speech. I spoke for about ten minutes, and when I had finished my friends came up to me and told me that I had killed William and Mary deadlier than a snail, and such turned out to be the case, though they were resurrected some 15 years later. It was a hot day in Washington, and when I had finished making that first speech of mine in the house, Lord, how wet I was!"

Our real American bird is the turkey, and a lordly fellow he is when arrayed in all his pride. But though he has not lacked advocates he is not likely to take the place of the eagle in our national devices.

When it comes to merit of the highest order, the first of all birds beyond comparison is the hen. It adds to the wealth of the country every year in eggs alone $135,000,000, or about the combined value of our output of iron and steel. The hen in England is a great institution, and yet that country imported $22,000,000 worth of eggs and poultry last year. Nobody ever complains of an overproduction of eggs, and they are a cash article. But no political economist has ever thought of the hen worthy of his scientific consideration. The world could easily survive the loss of all political economists, but what a stir there would be if the hen should be threatened with extermination?—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Pair of Them.
He was an oldish man with a good natured face and a weed on his hat, and he sat down in a Baker street car beside another Irish man with a good natured face and a weed on his hat. They looked up at each other and smiled, and the first corner quivered:

"Wife, I take it?"
"Yes, and you?"
"The same."

"Bad, isn't it?"
"Very bad."
"But time?"
"Time is a great healer."
"And in due time both of us?"
"And he winked."

And the other man winked.
And a woman across the aisle, with a faint show of mourning on, looked out of the window and sighed and said:

"Yes, of course, the old reprobrates!"—Detroit Free Press.

DRIFTON ITEMS.

A crowd of small boys of town broke into some of the D. S. & S. cabooses one night last week and took everything that was of any value, including the small boxes containing bandages and medicine, which were carried in case of an accident. If those parties are found out the company will make it interesting for them.

Stroli's Iron Works at Mauch Chunk shipped a pair of heavy hoisting engines on Wednesday to Coxo Bros. & Co., at Drifton. This is the second pair that went to this firm recently and a third pair is on the stocks now.—Democrat.

Miss Catharine Powell, a daughter of Edward Powell, who was mine foreman here several years ago, died at Philadelphia last week. The remains of the young lady were interred at Hazleton on Wednesday.

Remember that on Saturday evening a picnic will be held at the ball park by the Fearnots Athletic Association. DePiero's orchestra will be present.

Miss Nellie McNeels, one of Wilkesbarre's accomplished young ladies, is visiting friends here this week.

A large number from here attended the funeral of Patrick Carr, of Highland, last Thursday morning.

Miss Minnie Harnett, of Shenandoah, is spending a few days this week with Mrs. E. J. Sweeney.

Edward Gallagher, who was kicked in the face by a mule at Jeddo last week, is improving slowly.

Miss Bid Cannon, of Locust Gap, spent a few pleasant days among Drifton friends last week.

Miss Bella Harris, once a resident of town but now of Wilkesbarre, visited here last week.

Andrew Higgins has accepted a position as a clerk for Silverman & Lee, at Hazleton.

Miss C. W. White is the guest of C. E. Cox and wife, at the Marine villa, near Cape May.

Patrick Boyle, of Beaver Brook, called on friends here yesterday.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75c.

Too Bad!
Mrs. Beresford Vanderbillion sat alone in her parlor on upper Fifth avenue. "Theodore," she remarked to one of her flunkies who had been summoned into her majesty's presence, "Theodore, have you sent out the cards for the tea?"

"Yes, madam."
"No disappointments?"
"No. Mrs. Stevedore, Mrs. Vanaster, Mr. and Mrs. Vincerbilt, and all with one exception have promised to attend."

"Who is the exception, Theodore?"
"Mrs. Van Houser. We have just received word of her death."

"Then she will probably not be present," muttered Mrs. Vanderbillion, languidly. "How irritating!"—Truth.

A Safe Place.
Little Louise (at Long Branch)—Mabel, why don't your mamma wear those diamond earrings like my mamma's?"
Mabel—She left 'em home, and papa's hid 'em where the robbers can't get 'em.

"Where has he hid 'em?"
"Why, I heard him tell mamma that he had put them up in the spout, and he guessed they would stay there."—Texas Siftings.

Hopeless.
"Papa."
She knelt beside the dejected figure and fondly kissed the drooping head.
"Papa, can I not keep the wolf from the door with my singing?"
He was without hope, although he smiled.
"My child," he sighed, "your singing would keep almost anybody from the door, but the wolf is pretty nifty, you know."—Detroit News-Tribune.

Honesty the Best Policy.
"Yes," sighed the virtuous grocer, "it is really too bad." The honest blond coarsed through his veins and lit up his kindly face. He bent down and looked into a basket interred, while a sudden spasm passed over him. "Yes," he repeated, "it is too bad," and he picked the egg out of the basket marked thirty cents, and gently dropped it among those for twenty-five.—Truth.

An Important Subject.
Miss Brickrow—Is that lady a new boarder?
Mrs. Brickrow—No, she has only rented a quiet room here to work in. She is writing a book on "How to Bring Up Children."

"Why doesn't she write at home?"
"Too noisy. She has children."—N. Y. Weekly.

Playing for Safety.
Mrs. Hicks—It's raining hard; let me get you an umbrella.
Hicks—Get me Dick's baseball mask.
Mrs. Hicks—Why, that won't shed water.

Hicks—All I want is to keep other people's umbrellas out of my eyes.—N. Y. World.

Try the Wear Well Shoe House. Their goods cost no more and give better satisfaction than any other store in Freeland.

TOLD BY FAMOUS MEN.

Senator Hill's Experience In a Murder Case.

A FUTURE APPEAL FOR CLEMENCY.

Congressman Reed Recalls His First Speech In the House—How He Succeeded in Commanding Attention—Effect of the Address.

Senator Hill of New York had a very interesting murder case just before he became governor of New York. It is not so much the case that made it interesting as the story that grew out of it. It was in 1884. Mr. Hill was then lieutenant governor of New York. Mr. Cleveland was governor and had just been elected president. As lieutenant governor Mr. Hill continued to practice law, and in December, 1884, was engaged to assist the prosecuting attorney in quite a celebrated murder case. The counsel for the defense made the point that Lieutenant Governor Hill was likely to become governor, and in case his client was convicted application would have to be made to Governor Hill for executive clemency. He claimed that under the circumstances the lieutenant governor had no right to appear in the case; that having been prosecuting attorney he would be prejudiced against the prisoner, and the accused, if found guilty, would not have a fair hearing before the governor, who had helped to convict him. The court overruled the point raised by the defense, and an exception was noted, but it never resulted in having a new trial.

Senator Hill says that the case itself was rather remarkable, but the particulars are not essential to the present story. Well, the man was convicted, and, sure enough, application for pardon was made to Governor Hill, Mr. Cleveland having in the meantime succeeded by the lieutenant governor. The same attorney who had defended the man appeared with an application for a pardon. He declared that notwithstanding the fact that Hill had appeared as the public prosecutor in the case he would ask him for executive clemency. He even went into an argument to show that because Mr. Hill

After all the courts and every other possible avenue for escaping the test had been tried there arose another difficulty. The warden of the jail could not purchase dynamo to generate the electricity. None of the electric companies would sell them. Every dynamo was held by the companies. Like many other electric appliances, the test always remained in the possession of the companies, and the users paid a rental or royalty. They would not lease or sell a dynamo for an electric execution. But here again Governor Hill was shrewd enough to see that the law which he had worked so hard to have enacted should not be defeated in any such manner. Several electric dynamos were purchased for some South American firm and shipped down to South America and bought by the state of New York and shipped back. They were more expensive that way, but the state had to have them, and Governor Hill was not the man to give up. There was some difficulty in getting an operator who was a skillful man to properly handle the electric machinery, but finally one was found. Then began a pressure upon Governor Hill for admission to the execution. From his past experience he was aware that the electric companies would make every effort to have men inside who would try to make such a report of the affair as might turn public sentiment against the method of execution. One prominent citizen of New York, who had been standing by the electric companies with great vigor and had used all the power of his paper to defeat the law and to assist the electric companies in preventing execution by such means, wrote a personal letter to Governor Hill asking the privilege of having a reporter present. Governor Hill denied this request. The law provided that a certain number of persons should be present, and the governor allowed a man from each of the press associations to be there. It is probable that the New York Senator in all his experience with newspaper men has not met but that one instance of a member of the profession disappointing him. One of the men got sick at the execution, and his report was not in favor of the new method of execution.

Since then there seems to be a general acquiescence in the new form of death penalty, and even the electric companies have become reconciled to the use of electricity as a means of killing murderers. They are now fondly willing to supply the state with the best improved dynamos for generating electricity and to put in the different prisons requiring them all the electric machinery necessary for a first class electrocution.

As some one has previously remarked, nothing succeeds like success, even if it is in dealing with such a ghastly thing as death for the greatest crime.

Ex-Speaker Reed tells an interesting story about his first speech in congress. "I had served a few months in the house," said Mr. Reed, "and had been waiting an opportunity to rise to my feet and have some to say. Finally the William and Mary college bill came up for consideration. All the southern people were enthusiastic in its favor, and they induced Dr. Loring of Massachusetts to make a very patriotic and eloquent speech in its behalf. When he had finished the southern people purposely organized a procession to march through the aisle and up to Dr. Loring's seat for the purpose of presenting him their congratulations. While all this was going on I sat waiting. There was a great deal of confusion in the hall, and you can imagine how anxious I became as the moments slipped by. The warden to me is that I had coolness enough to wait, but I did, and after the congratulations had been about all offered and the house had been quieted down somewhat I raised my voice. But no one appeared to see me, and I would have sold out my chance very cheap. I think it was one of the bitterest moments of my life, standing there surrounded by my peers, just bursting for a chance to tell what I knew and thought, but with me no one paying the slightest attention to me and a buzz going on all about."

"I perceived that it was absolutely necessary for me to do something to dominate that noise, and almost in a fit of desperation I filled my lungs and opened my mouth. It appeared to me, as I remember it now, that it did not make so much difference what I said as how loudly I could say it. In a second or two I had caught the attention of the house, probably through the exercise of main strength. I then saw I was going to have an audience if my breath held out. In a few seconds more all noise ceased and faces began to turn toward me. Then I felt the inspiration of an attentive audience, and I suppose I must have made a very good speech. I spoke for about ten minutes, and when I had finished my friends came up to me and told me that I had killed William and Mary deadlier than a snail, and such turned out to be the case, though they were resurrected some 15 years later. It was a hot day in Washington, and when I had finished making that first speech of mine in the house, Lord, how wet I was!"

Our real American bird is the turkey, and a lordly fellow he is when arrayed in all his pride. But though he has not lacked advocates he is not likely to take the place of the eagle in our national devices.

When it comes to merit of the highest order, the first of all birds beyond comparison is the hen. It adds to the wealth of the country every year in eggs alone $135,000,000, or about the combined value of our output of iron and steel. The hen in England is a great institution, and yet that country imported $22,000,000 worth of eggs and poultry last year. Nobody ever complains of an overproduction of eggs, and they are a cash article. But no political economist has ever thought of the hen worthy of his scientific consideration. The world could easily survive the loss of all political economists, but what a stir there would be if the hen should be threatened with extermination?—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Pair of Them.
He was an oldish man with a good natured face and a weed on his hat, and he sat down in a Baker street car beside another Irish man with a good natured face and a weed on his hat. They looked up at each other and smiled, and the first corner quivered:

"Wife, I take it?"
"Yes, and you?"
"The same."

"Bad, isn't it?"
"Very bad."
"But time?"
"Time is a great healer."
"And in due time both of us?"
"And he winked."

And the other man winked.
And a woman across the aisle, with a faint show of mourning on, looked out of the window and sighed and said:

"Yes, of course, the old reprobrates!"—Detroit Free Press.

Mid-Summer CLEARING SALE!

All summer goods at less than the cost of manufacture, while we are still in the midst of the hot weather season. The money-saving opportunity of your life.

OUR ENTIRE STOCK IS OFFERED YOU AT THE MOST SWEEPING REDUCTIONS.

In Dry Goods:
Our entire line of challies and pongees, ranging in price from 12 1/2c to 18c, go now at 5c the yard. All 18c dimities go now at 10c the yard. Our entire line of 15c suiting duck, now 8c the yard. Best black and white calicoes, 4c the yard. Columbian skirting cheviot, 7c the yard. P N 75c summer corsets, during this sale 40c each. Ladies' 12 1/2c undervests, during this sale 5c. Our entire line at equally as low prices. Such an array of bargains were never before offered you. Our mammoth stocks of elegant

Clothing, Boots,
Shoes, ladies' and gents' furnishings, etc., are included in this sale which will continue during this month only. Our lines of ladies' waists and muslin underwear exceeds anything ever shown in the town.

JOS. NEUBURGER,
Leader and promoter of low prices. P. O. S. of A. building.

THE KELLMER PIANOS
Are the only HIGH GRADE and strictly first class pianos sold direct from the factory to the final buyer.

Are the only pianos on which you can save the dealers' profits and enormous expenses, agents' salaries and music teachers' commissions.

Are the only pianos every agent condemns, for the natural reason that NO AGENTS are employed by us.

Are the only pianos which are not sold in a single store in the United States, because we closed all our agencies over a year ago, and now sell only to the final buyer, at the actual cost of production at our factory. We have no store on Broad street, but the factory warehouse is open every day till 6 p. m., and Saturday evenings from 7 to 10.

KELLMER PIANOS
FACTORY: CHESTNUT STREET, BETWEEN CHURCH AND LAUREL, HAZLETON.

Harness!
Light Carriage Harness, $5.50, $7, $9 and $10.50.
Heavy Express Harness, $16.50, $19, $20 and $22.
Heavy Team Harness, double, $25, $28 and $30.

GEO. WISE,
Jeddo and Freeland, Pa.

A new stock of blankets, lap robes, buffalo robes, etc., just arrived, are selling cheap.

FRANCIS BRENNAN'S RESTAURANT
151 Centre street.
EXCELLENT LIQUORS, BEER, PORTER, ALE, CIGARS, Etc.
All kinds of TEMPERANCE DRINKS.

PENNYROYAL PILLS
Chickering's English Diamond Brand.
Original and Only Genuine.
Solely prepared by Dr. J. C. Pennyroyal, Philadelphia, Pa.
In a stamp for particulars, testimonials and "Relief for Ladies," in letters, by return Mail, 16,000 Testimonials, None Paper, Chickering Chemical Co., Madison Square, Philadelphia, Pa.
Sold by all Local Druggists.

LIBOR WINTER RESTAURANT
—AND—
OYSTER SALOON.
No. 13 Front Street, Freeland.
The finest liquors and cigars served at the counter. Cool beer and porter on tap.

WASHBURN & TURNBACH,
Builders of Light and Heavy Wagons.
REPAIRING OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.
FRONT STREET, NEAR PINE, FREELAND

THE ADVERTISING RATES
OF THE "TRIBUNE" ARE SO LOW AND THE ADVERTISING SO SATISFACTORY THAT THE INVESTMENT IS SUBSTANTIALLY RETURNED IN A VERY SHORT TIME BY THE BEST CLASS OF BUYERS IN THE REGION WHO READ THESE COLUMNS REGULARLY.

GEORGE FISHER,
dealer in
FRESH BEEF, PORK, VEAL, MUTTON, BOLOGNA, SMOKED MEATS, ETC., ETC.
Call at No. 6 Walnut street, Freeland, or wait for the delivery wagons.

VERY LOWEST PRICES.
Dr. N. MALEY,
DENTIST.
Second Floor, Birkbeck Brick, OVER BIRKBECK'S STORE.

ALEX. SHOLLACK,
BOTTLER.
Beer, Porter, Wine, and Liquors.
Cor. Walnut and Washington streets, Freeland.

PHILIP : GERITZ,

Jeweler and Practical Watchmaker In Freeland.

Corner Front and Centre Streets.

Fortunes Made and Saved
by following the advice of the Wall Street Daily News,
(established 1879)
in speculating or investing in Railway Stocks and Bonds.

Subscription, $5 per year. Sample copies free. Address E. Martin Black, editor, No. 49 Exchange Place, N. Y.

LIBOR WINTER RESTAURANT
—AND—
OYSTER SAL