SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE. EDITOR TRIBURE.—An answer to the noble reply of the highly educated wri-ter, in regard to his husulting answer to the article under "Special Correspon-dence." He says: "One magnanimous advocate of our borough's advancement takes exceptions to several articles writ-ten by me in reference to improvements on some of our streets," and so on, "in a nucconnected communication," as his narrow mind sees it. Also, he says: "He represents himself, "Mark You." Now, my dear broad-minded educator, your mind must be very much deranged or lumpy, when you forget that a little over a week ago you gave me the name, as how to you in your greatly excited ar-ticle. day. L. W. School Board Meeting. The borough school board held a regu-lar meeting last evening, Directors Me-Carthy, Forry, Welsh, Timony and Rate being present. Misses Lindsay, Gilles-pie and McGill were assigned to teach in the old building, and Misses Rogan, McLaughlin and Timony and Mrs. Den-neny were placed in the Coxe Memorial School. Principal Herron recommended a list of supplies necessary for the new schools, and a committee was appointed to confer with the teachers and adopt the material. third of the stock was recovered. Two of the prisoners at least, Black and O'Keefe, are likely old offenders, as the jail warden greeted them familiarly when they entered that institution. The two named put Hazleton down as their residence, and O'Neal claims to hall from Manayunk. O'Keefe, how-ever, was recognized here as a fellow who unhitched cars in No. 2 slope, Highland, about three years ago. He worked there under the name of Calla-ban

to confer with the teachers and adopt the material. President McCarthy suggested that the Coxe Memorial School be opened with a demonstration, and stated that the coxe Memorial School be opened with a demonstration present the flag would also present a pole. It was de-cided to dedicate the new building on Friday, September 20, and invite Gover-nor Hastings and Judge Rice to partici-pate. It was also decided to invite Ed-mund Coxe, son of the late Brinton Coxe, to unfurl the flag. Messrs. Welsh, Rute and Timony were appointed a committee on arrangements. The schools in the old building and at Birvanton were ordered to be opened on Announcements of religious services and church news will be published free of charge under this head every Thurs-day. and Timony were appointed a committee on arrangements. The schools in the old building and at Birvanton were ordered to be opened on Monday next, in order to allow the teachers to effect an organization for the dedicatorial ceremonics. The board decided to insure the new building and furnishings with Mrs. S. E. Hayes, for $3,000 for one year. The following bills were paid: Thir-nexe, publishing proposal notice, 50 cents; Progress, publishing notices, $2.50; Press, publishing notices, $4.40. The payment of the bills occasioned consid-erable discussion, owing to the differ-ence in the rates charged, and the presi-dent stated that if the board continued to squander money he would not be a party to it, and that he would not be a party to it, and that he would not be a list of taxes amounting to $12, which he requested to be econerated from cel-lecting. The list was ordered to be re-turned on the ground that the present board had not the power to exonerate him, and Mr. Fairchild was given notice to sottle his duplicate at once. President McCarthy reported council having agreed to extend the sewer out point a committee to make connection with with the new school failed to earry for lack of votes. No further action was taken on the sewer question until councilman Neuburger called attention to the board's indifference to the matter, and said that the expense council had incurred should be appreciated and pro-fitted by. It was then decided to connect the new building with eight inch pipe, and Messrs. Ferry, Rute and Welsh were appointed a committee to look after the work. Rev. Edmund White, pastor. ENGLISH BAPTERT. At this stage of the proceedings Presi-dent McCarthy stated to the directors that he had become tired of the manner in which they conducted their business, and of their policy of paying for work at prices above current rates, and said that he had concluded to resign from the board. He then tendered his re-signation to take effect as soon as his successor would be appointed. The re-signation was not acted upon. The board agreed to pay Contractor Cunnius $500 and then adjourned.
