ACTING FOR HIMSELF

Holmes Takes Charge of His Own Defense.

His Lawyers Withdraw from the Case—A Continuance Asked for and Denied—The Prisoner's Iron Nerve Carries Him Unmoved Through a Scathing Arraignment.

Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—Herman W. Mudgett, alias H. H. Holmes, was arraigned at the bar of justice of the criminal court of Philadelphia yesterday to defend his life against the charge of having murdered Benjamin F. Peitzel in this city on September 2, 1894. The widespread publicity given this sensational case attracted a great throng of people to the corridors of the city hall leading to the court room, but in anticipation of the crowd of morbid people who were attracted by the spectacle of a man battling for his life, cordons of police guarded all the entrances and only those having business in the court room were admitted. The very opening of the trial furnished an unusual incident in court procedure and was in keeping with the strange phases that have made this case unique in the criminal records of the country.

His Lawyers Drop the Case.
Directly after the prisoner had been placed in the dock and Judge Arnold had taken his seat upon the bench Holmes' two attorneys asked for a continuance of the case. This request was refused, as there had already been more than enough of the law's proverbial delay and Judge Arnold ordered the trial proceeded with. Then the defendant's lawyers announced they would withdraw from the case. The judge expressed his surprise at such unprecedented action at the beginning of a murder trial, and told the two attorneys that if they withdrew they placed themselves in jeopardy of being disbarred. Nevertheless, with the prospect of disbarment before them, the two lawyers persisted in their refusal to conduct the case and left the court room.

Holmes Addresses the Court.
The court thereupon appointed two attorneys to conduct the prisoner's defense. Although accused of crimes that would revolt a barbarian savage, there was something pathetic in the picture made by Holmes at this point. Slender, erect and morbidly pale, his picture made him appear, and with an added delicacy given his naturally clear cut and refined face, by his long confinement in prison, Holmes rose to his feet and addressed the court. His voice was weak and quavering like that of a man who has been ill and hardly carried the short distance that separated him from the court.

His Iron Nerve.
He announced that he would not accept the lawyers appointed by the court and that he would conduct his own defense. A hum of astonishment went around the court room, but, alone and without a friend by his side, his iron nerve bore him up under the trying ordeal of the desertion of his counsel, exercised his right of challenge and before the jury was obtained eight men had been set aside by him. Holmes sat in the dock busily engaged taking notes during his terrible arraignment by the district attorney in his opening argument.

Few Signs of Emotion.
An occasional flush that suffused his cheek and once in a while a slight lifting of his eyebrows when the district attorney became particularly earnest were the only marks of emotion exhibited by Holmes. When the district attorney had concluded his argument Holmes requested that he be allowed light and writing materials in his cell in the county prison.

Asked To See His Wife.
This was granted, and then Holmes asked to be allowed to see his wife. A sharp interchange of dialogue occurred between the prisoner and the district attorney as to what he was wanted to see, and finally Holmes was driven to say that it was the last woman who had married him. This woman has refused to see Holmes, but he obtained a promise from the court that a letter should be given her, and that if she would comply an answer to it should be sent to him from her. The court adjourned until morning.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

Duck Shooting Comes High.

Hunters around town are having much amusement over the work done by two of their number last Monday morning. Al Zeistloft, of Drifton, and Owen Fritzliger, of town, are old-time sportsmen, and when they saw a bevy of fine fat "wild" ducks swimming contentedly in the water at Buzzard's bay, a nine hole at No. 4, Woodside, they dropped their work at the artesian well nearby and gazed with longing eyes at the birds. Unable to resist his sporting instinct, Mr. Zeistloft hurried home, procured his gun and returned to the spot where his companion had been keeping guard. For half an hour the woods resounded with the echoes of Mr. Zeistloft's trusty shot gun, and when the last one had been turned over on the water the hunters counted their victims and found eleven to their credit.

Later in the day they returned to their regular work at Drifton, where they made the eyes of their friends bulge with astonishment at the quality of game to be found so near home. In a short time the report of wild ducks spread through the town and finally reached the store of Coxie Bros. & Co. The firm deals in tame ducks, raising them for their customers, and one of the officials began a search for their fowl.

He learned that the ducks had strayed away on Sunday morning and had not returned. He searched further and incidentally went and had a look at the "wild" ducks which were shot that morning. There he found eleven of the company's birds, but he had not the heart to separate them from the gallant hunters, and the latter were left secure with their game.

However, Messrs. Zeistloft and Fritzliger were presented that evening with a little bill for thirty pounds of duck at 13½ cents per pound, and now they swear that before they ever shoot another "wild" duck they will ascertain the market price at Drifton store.

Little Child Burned to Death.
Clara Kishbaugh, aged 8 years, was fatally burned at her home in Wilkesbarre on Tuesday in an heroic attempt to save the life of her baby sister, and died that night in great agony. The little girl had been left in charge of six other children, all younger, while her mother went on an errand. The children were playing about the room when a piece of coal fell from the fire on the dress of the baby, and the light material flared up at once.

Clara beat out the flames with her hands, and did not notice that her own dress was on fire until the flames got beyond her control. She dashed into the street and the passengers on a trolley car which was passing ran to assist her. One man threw his overcoat around her and quenched the flames, but not until she was dreadfully burned and the flesh hung in shreds from her arms and body.

A Big Wager Offered.
Democrats all over Luzerne are confident of electing their whole county ticket next Tuesday. There is no longer any doubt about the judgeship. Mr. McLean's election is a foregone conclusion, and the Wilkesbarre Newsdealer is so certain that it published his majority by districts the other day. The Times, of the same city, ventured to dispute the claim, and was promptly shut up by Editor Boyd, who offers to wager the Newsdealer plant against the Times outfit that McLean will be elected. Boyd has the courage to back up his convictions every time.

Collector Herring Exonerated.
Internal Revenue Commissioner Miller had a conference with President Cleveland on Monday. It is said the case of Collector Herring, of the Scranton district, was discussed. He has been charged with various offenses, among them inattention to his duties. The reports of the revenue inspecting agents represent his office to be in excellent condition.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

What Was Done at the Last Meeting of the Guardians of the Town.

The Freeland board of health met at Dr. F. Schlicher's office on Friday evening. The members present were: Dr. F. Schlicher, president; Dr. H. M. Neale, D. J. McCarthy, Hugh Malloy and Dr. Geo. D. Morton, secretary. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. In the absence of Health Officer Ward the secretary reported that the majority of the property owners using the open ditch running alongside the Public park for drainage had been officially notified to make connections with the borough sewers, and nearly all of them had shown a willingness to comply with the order and were doing so under the health officer's supervision as rapidly as possible.

Secretary Morton also informed the board that three cases of diphtheria had been reported since the last meeting. The first in John McCole's family on Ridge street, near Carbon, one of whose children had since died from the disease; the second in the family of John Krupp on Carbon street below Washington, and the third in the family of Mrs. S. E. Hayes on Washington street, above Chestnut. The last two cases were reported within the past week. The necessary precautions had been taken according to law as far as the existing circumstances would permit.

After a general discussion in regard to the danger of an epidemic of diphtheria being produced in the borough, it was decided that the secretary write to the president of the borough council, asking him to call a special meeting to confer with the board of health in regard to quarantining houses containing cases of diphtheria and taking other drastic measures to prevent the spread of the disease should there be any further evidence or danger of it becoming epidemic.

The secretary read a letter and circular from Dr. Chas. P. Knapp, of Wyoming, Pa., notifying the board of his appointment as medical inspector for this county and asking their aid and cooperation. A letter from the Pasteur Anthrax Vaccine Co., of New York, offering to supply samples of Roux's anti-diphtheria serum, was also read, and a statement (by request) of the health board's account with the borough for 1894, from Thos. A. Buckley, secretary of the borough, which showed a balance of $15.75 for the appropriation for that year in the board's favor. There being no further business to be transacted, the board adjourned.

Diphtheria Prevalent.

The board of health reports that diphtheria is spreading in town. There is now a case on Carbon street and another on North Washington, besides the one on Ridge. The members intend to apply to the council for power to take extraordinary precautions to prevent it spreading further.

Berwick is suffering with an epidemic of diphtheria. The dread disease first broke out the middle of last week, and by Monday twenty-four cases were reported. There have been several deaths. Services were dispensed with in all the Sunday schools, and on Tuesday all the public schools were closed.

The disease also prevails at Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Girardsville and several of the smaller towns of the state.

Arrested for Selling Quail.

In the case of the Luzerne County Sportsmen's Association against E. Constantine, a Wilkesbarre game dealer, on the charge of selling quail out of season, Alderman Davison rendered a decision on Monday night in favor of the defendant, on the ground that the birds had been killed and purchased in the state of Illinois, and that the law in this state applied only to birds killed in Pennsylvania. It was shown by Mr. Constantine that the birds had been purchased in Chicago, and that they were legally sold by the firm of whom he purchased them.

Will of Henry Grossell.

The will of the late Henry Grossell was probated at Wilkesbarre on Monday. After providing for his burial and a monument which is not to cost over $600, he makes the following bequests: To St. John's Reformed church of Freeland, $200; to St. Luke's Lutheran church of Freeland, $100; to his friend, Adam Sachs, $50; to his friend, George Cutler, $50; the balance of the estate, if any is left, to any charitable institution the executors select. Adam Sachs and George Cutler are named as executors. The estate is valued at $1,000.

Lights May Be Put Out.

The Pottsville Water Company held a meeting on Monday afternoon, at which the questions of cutting off the supply of water from a number of manufacturing industries was discussed. Another proposition has been advanced to cut off the two electric light plants. Both use much water in making steam. Some of the large shareholders have proposed to shut down the electric railway system pending the drought. This would stop all the cars and the closing of the electric plants would throw the town into darkness.

Real Estate Transfers.

They Don't Like Their Neighbor.

A new resident over in Dennison township has aroused the ire of his neighbors by buying a farm, and they are resorting to all kinds of persecution to frighten him away from there. Some time ago, William Thorpe, a wealthy land owner and a railroad promoter of New York, bought a tract of 1,200 acres in Dennison township in a pretty locality at the foot of Mount Yeagar. A large portion of the land was cleared and the farmers in the vicinity had used it for pasturing their cattle. Mr. Thorpe had his whole plot fenced with net wire, he built a cottage and barns and took to farming on a large scale, but for some reason several of his neighbors began persecuting him.

Ten days ago 300 panels of the wire fence were cut from top to bottom, and large pieces of the wire were missing. Thorpe then decided to turn his property into a park and build several summer cottages. He had begun work on a fine residence for himself when the other night his former cottage and two sheds, which had been filled with grain and farming machinery, were set on fire, and burned to the ground. There was no insurance.

Next morning tracks of a man were found in the soft soil leading to the house and back to a neighbor's gate, a half mile away. Some traces of kerosene oil were also found, and the neighbor's fence, it is said, had some of the stolen wire on it.

Mr. Thorpe does not intend to be driven away, and has engaged a Wilkesbarre attorney to look after his interests. The damage amounts to over $2,000.

Cast Your Vote for These.

From the Wilkesbarre Newsdealer.

A vote for William S. McLean is a vote for a tried and skillful lawyer, and one who is eminently fitted to win further laurels as a safe and wise judge.

A vote for Lee Stanton is a vote to elect a capable and efficient sheriff, and one under whom the office will be administered with justice and fairness to all.

A vote for James Maloy is a vote to place in the office of recorder a bright and deserving young man and one who will conduct the business of the office in a manner beyond all reproach.

A vote for Jim Fenner is a vote to place in the controller's office a skillful bookkeeper and accountant, and a business man of the strictest integrity.

A vote for John Perkins is a vote to place in the conduct of the important office of coroner, a man qualified and equipped to discharge the duties without fear or favor. As the only soldier on the ticket of either party, his candidacy invites the support of every old veteran in the county, and they should support him to a man.

A Democratic Conference.

About 150 Democrats met at the opera house on Tuesday evening. The meeting was not intended to be a public one, the object being to have some of the candidates and the district committee get together to discuss the situation on the North Side. The gathering, however, became so large that it was necessary to have a few addresses, and the meeting organized with Dr. E. W. Rutter as chairman. William S. McLean, the candidate for judge, James J. Maloy, the candidate for recorder, and Attorney Mulhall, of Wilkesbarre, made brief speeches. The general feeling is that every candidate on the county ticket will win with a handsome majority, and if the enthusiasm apparent at Tuesday evening's meeting continues the North Side will do its part in electing Mr. McLean and his colleagues next Tuesday.

Hazleton's Equity Case.

Before Judge Bennett the case of the city of Hazleton vs. Harry Jacobs, city controller, was heard on Tuesday. The decision was reserved. The suit was brought to force Controller Jacobs to sign an ordinance passed by the city council to enter into an agreement with an electric light company to furnish light for a term of years. Mr. Jacobs will not sign, alleging that the city's funds do not warrant the expenditure. George H. Troutman and H. W. Palmer were for defendant, and John T. Lenahan and Thomas F. McNair for the plaintiff.

A Fast Train Next Spring.

There has been considerable talk of late about the Lehigh Valley Railroad putting on a record-breaking train between New York city and Buffalo, to run daily and make the distance in almost incredibly short time, making only a few stops. It was thought that the train would be put on in a few weeks, but it will not be put on until the spring schedule, as the engines and cars will be specially built during the winter for the fast run. The train will average a mile a minute which, considering the mountains, will be a great feat.
