BOLOVNO THE BEAUTIFUL.

seemed tired out from the effects of his musical tour in this country, when I bade him good-by the first of May on board the big American the big American re New York. He had just comed an opera season in which he sung not less than 70 or 80 times. reover, he had taken nearly all the ling tenor roles of the French, Ger-fa and Italian operas, and the beauty the tone and finished taste shown in voice clearly indicated the length ime and labor he must have devoted

JEAN DE RESZKE'S COUNTRY PALACE AND GROUNDS.

But, however weary the great tenor may be, he has rest and recreation to look forward to such as not one man in 1,000,000 can enjoy. Few of the vast army of his admirers know that he owns a castle and country estate in Europe which meets all the requirements of an artist's dream. Adelina Patti's Craig-y-Nos is a pretty place in Wales, Sarah Bernhardt's island in the Mediterranean is quite picturesque, and Mrs. Langtry's ranch in California is in the garden of the Golden Gate; butnone of these can compare for a moment with beautiful Borovno, the home of Jean de Reszke, in Russian Poland. In size alone it overshadows all the reat put together, and in beauty it is simply unapproachable.

The chateau and surrounding country comprise about 16,000 arers. To give an adequate idea of the extent of the estate, it need only be stated that were Borovno cut up into sections it would make 20 Central parks of the same size and beauty as that in the great American metropolis.

The home of the De Reszkes is situated in Russian Poland, about five hours' ride south of Warsaw, in one of the most beautiful and picturesque parts of that country. The chateau parpoper was built in the time of Louis X., and stands in the center of a beautiful garden. In appearance it is some what quaint, being a mixture of French and Russian architecture. The walls are of stone, and are of great thickness, making them very comfortable in warm weather, and easy to heat in the winter.

On entering the door beneath the massive pillars of a semi-circular facade, one finds himself in a square hall-after breakfast some of the thoroughbrods are exercised. Jean watches the horses very closely as he smokes his cigars, and tries to select the winner of the ezarowitz plate at the coming races in Warsaw.

At mid-day a set lunch is placed on the tables, and the visitor can help himself whenever he gets hungry. A little later a big Russian wagon, with hay in the bottom to make up for the lack of springs, is brought to the door, and Jepa and his guests are off for a survey of the surrounding country. There are four or five horses attached, and the visitor has the privilege of either mounting on borseback or riding in the bottom of this Polish "prairie schooner."

No matter what road is taken, the party is bound to encounter peasants who are on their way to the mysterious shrine of the Miraculous Virgin of Poland at Chestokova. Some of these

MURDER IS UNCHECKED

Heartrending Appeal To Stop Massacres.

100,000 Armenians Said To Be Dying of Starvation—The Authorities Believed To Be Anxious, But Unable To End the Slaughter-Mobilizing Troops.

London, Nov. 19.—The Anglo-Arme-ian association has receiving the fol-owing telegram from Constantinople: Massacres are proceeding almost verywhere in Asia Minor. Over 100,000 ersons are dying from starvation in numenia. For God's sake urge the overnment to put a stop to the most wful event of modern times. The porte-legation here received from the sublime porte the following telegram under yesterday's date: "The Armenian insurgents of Zeitoun plundered and burned the following villages: Sousikuei, Kechkere, Moussali and Kerimli.

Four bombs were found in the hands of an Armenian rioter at Diarbekir. The Armenian agitators at Marsouvan attacked two Mussulmans going to the mosque and wounded them. They also fired from their houses to the barracks and to the palace of the governor. Disorders followed these proceedings, and on both sides there were dead and wounded. The authorities, however, succeeded in restoring order, All news concerning a supposed insecurity regarding all foreigners living in the towns where troubles take place is absolutely and entirely false."

Troops To Protect Americans.

Constantinople, Nov. 19.—The troops are being actively mobilized in Anatolia, but each battallon, instead of reaching the estimated strength of 1,000

Sultan Calls for Troops.

The Standard publishes a dispatch from Constantinople saying there is no doubt that the central authority has been doing its utmost to check the massacres, but owing to the inflamed passions of the lower classes of Moslems, and the absence of sufficient force to restrain the Kurds, and also the defant attitude of Zeitoun Armenians, it has met with little success. The sultan has instructed the ministers to draw up a plan for the mobilization of 500,000 troops. The financial situation is such that such a request is almost grotesque.
