FREELAND, NOVEMBER 23, 1895.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, November 22, 1895.

President Cleveland has more than once been charged—sometimes by members of his own party—with being deficient in diplomatic skill. His declaration to accept the invitation extended by Great Britain to form an alliance for the purpose of protecting British and American interests in Turkey shows that he had diplomatic skill enough to defeat a well planned scheme of British diplomacy. When that invitation was extended it seemed a natural sort of thing to do, but the present situation in Turkey shows what a dangerous thing it really was. There is every probability that Great Britain will be involved in a war with one or more countries as a result of present complications in Turkey, and had President Cleveland not seen through the scheme this country would have been involved with her. As it is the United States by acting alone, has secured better protection for Americans there than has been accorded to any other foreigners in that country, and when the fighting begins Uncle Sam will be merely an onlooker, only interested in selling all the combatants everything they can pay for.

Secretary Morton has written the following letter which explains itself:—
"I hasten to respond to your letter of inquiry inclosing newspaper clipping relative to the abuse of the franking privilege. No one who knows the Hon. Tom L. Johnson will for a moment believe him capable of premeditated misuse of the franking privilege. He is a gentleman of the highest personal integrity, and his public career precludes the possibility of his knowingly doing a wrong thing with public documents or franks. How the bookseller secured the frank of Mr. Johnson I am unable to state, but I am confident that Mr. Johnson himself never authorized any one except his private secretary or clerk to use the frank."

It is not a pleasant thing for a Democrat to write nor for Democrats to read, but as nothing is ever gained by dodging the truth it must be said that the spirit of concession which it was expected would exist among prominent members of the party at the beginning of congress is as yet conspicuous by its absence. "Ephraim is wedded to his idols," and unless the rank and file of the party shall take the bit between their teeth and get together regardless of leaders, there is little prospect of a united Democracy in the next presidential campaign, and nothing but a united Democracy can have even a fighting chance to win.

Fredrick C. Waite, of the agricultural department, read a paper before the National Statistical Association, which held a meeting here this week, and it contained some startling figures on the rapid growth of the stay-at-home vote in this country. According to those figures, the stay-at-home vote in Pennsylvania at the presidential election in 1888 was only 70,000, while this year it was 610,000; in New York it was 75,000 in 1888, and 510,000 this year; in Kentucky it was 55,000 in 1888, and 100,000 this year; in Massachusetts it was 80,000 in 1888, and 180,000 this year, and in Ohio it was 40,000 in 1888, and 180,000 this year.

Men who profess to be able to name the next Republican presidential ticket can be found on every street corner, but this week a man turned up in Washington who said he was willing to bet a little money—he did not say how much—that the ticket would be Harrison, of Indiana, and Bradley, of Kentucky. The name of this reckless prophet is Anson B. Price, and he says his home address is Bloomington, Illinois. If Democrats have any influence with the Republican convention Mr. Price will be right as to Harrison.

Not another bond will be issued by the administration, until the Republican congress has had an opportunity to extricate the treasury from the embarrassment into which it was forced by Republican legislation. This can be accepted as authentic, even if the demand for gold becomes much greater than for the last few days. Republicans would be glad to see another bond issue—a big one—before congress meets, as it would relieve them of the responsibility of providing for the needs of the treasury and furnish them with a new peg upon which to hang fresh absurdities of the administration. It is not a subject for smiles, but it would not be strange if President Cleveland indulges in a few grim smiles as he pens that portion of his message to congress calling attention to the condition of the treasury. If such language were permissible in so dignified a document as a president's message he might be imagined as writing: "Your party put the treasury in a hole; now the country expects you to at least lend a helping hand towards pulling it out."

It seems as though every Republican member of the house who arrives brings a different opinion as to what the Republicans ought to do at the session of congress about to open. All of which shows that the terms "wild horses" which Mr. Harrison used to describe the Democratic house of the last congress, is entirely too mild for the menagerie which Mr. Reed is expected to control with one hand, while he uses the other to push his presidential boom.

Charges of Fraud Refuted.
What was primarily meant for a reception by the Elks to Judge P. P. Smith, of Scranton, in that city on Friday night, developed into a political indignation meeting. Judge Smith is the one Democratic member of the superior court, recently elected. Judge E. N. Willard, of the superior court, Judge Alfred Darto, of the Luzerne court, and Judge H. M. Edwards, of the Lackawanna county court, were present, and this fact was considered sufficient to set at naught the recent charges that Judge Smith's election had been procured by fraud.

It was following the expression of this sentiment that Judge Willard said: "If there was the faintest ground for suspicion against Judge Smith I would not be here tonight, nor would Judge Rice, of Luzerne county, have sent his regrets."

This remark was enough to change the tenor of what had been intended as a social event, and a series of speeches by well-known Republicans and Democrats followed, in which the innuendoes cast upon Judge Smith's candidacy were branded as false and groundless.

Another Lesson for Hazleton.
Three houses on North Vine street, Hazleton, were destroyed by fire at an early hour on Friday morning. They were owned by A. T. McAllister, Robert Youngman and Alexander Balliet. The latter two were double houses, and were occupied by Mr. Balliet and James Lentz, John Keith and P. F. Herron. George Scott, of Ebervale, had contracted to move into the McAllister property and it was in this house that the fire occurred. The cause of it is unknown. The owner claims there was no fire of any kind in the building. A garden hose might have extinguished the fire when it was first discovered, but there was no water to be obtained and the flames had full sway until they burned everything within reach. The three fire companies and hundreds of spectators had to stand on the street, utterly unable to offer the slightest resistance. The loss will aggregate $7,500. The houses of Messrs. Youngman and McAllister were fully insured, while Mr. Balliet loses nearly $1,000.

An Ancient Crucifix Found.
From the Wilkesbarre Record.
An interesting relic was unearthed the other day on the tract of land at the lower end of the city now being laid out into lots. It was a crucifix and was found in an Indian grave. With it were perhaps a quart of beads. The crucifix is apparently of brass, nearly two inches long. On one side is Christ on the cross, below it a skull and cross bones. On the other side is a female figure, probably the Virgin. How long ago it was buried there along with its aboriginal owner we can only conjecture. All Indians had abandoned the valley when the first white settlers arrived in 1769, 126 years ago, so this crucifix must antedate the first settlement many years. The land on which the crucifix was found was an extensive burying ground and many relics have been found this autumn. It is said all the skeletons lie with their heads towards the west, and some have been found in a sitting posture. One skeleton was gigantic in size.

Against the Lottery Law.
Newspapers which publish news about raffles, lotteries or drawings violate one of the most stringent postal laws. The penalty usually imposed by postmasters is the confiscation of all papers in the mail that contain articles on the subject. As the greater part of the TRIBUNE's subscribers receive their papers through the mail, our readers will understand why we cannot advertise or announce the results of lotteries, drawings or raffles. Many requests have lately been made to us to notice such matters, but until the law is changed we must refuse.

Aristocrats Wedded by a Justice.
Alderman Ford, of Wilkesbarre, performed an interesting marriage ceremony on Friday evening. The contracting parties were Jacob S. Sloan, grandson of Samuel Sloan, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, and Miss Louisa Kraft, niece of John Jernyn, the prominent Scranton coal operator and millionaire. Bride and groom are both from Scranton. After the ceremony the couple took a train for Atlanta, Ga.
