BRIEF ITEMS OF NEWS.

PARAGRAPHS GATHERED FROM ALL PARTS OF THE REGION.

Synopsis of Local and Miscellaneous Occurrences That Can Be Read Quickly. What the Folks of This and Other Towns are Doing.

Coxe Bros.' colliers will work five days this week, eight hours per day. The silk mill at South Wilkesbarre is to be enlarged and 250 more hands will be employed.

The evening edition of the New York World is sold on the streets here at 7 p. m. every day.

Hugh Malloy has two large red foxes hanging outside his door, which he shot at Mt. Yeager on Thursday.

Patrick M. Sweeney is erecting a bottling establishment in the rear of his premises on Washington street.

A marriage license was issued at Wilkesbarre on Friday to Hiram Stanton and Miss Harriet Larson, both of Upper Lehigh.

Roll butter bought at Oswald's is always fresh and sweet.

Rev. J. J. Kuntz, of St. Luke's Lutheran church, delivered his popular lecture on "That Boy" at Weatherly last Friday evening.

The rapidity with which the snow disappeared on Friday and Saturday caused many business men much difficulty on the roads to outside towns.

A Philadelphia friend has presented a dozen live quail to J. B. Laubach, and they make an interesting addition to his well displayed show windows.

John R. Leisenring, cashier of the First National bank at Hazleton, has tendered his resignation, to take effect in March. John Price will be his successor.

Foster township auditors will meet at A. Rudewick's, South Hoberton, next Monday, and examine the accounts of the township officers for the past year.

The Jeddo Progressive Club, one of the most enterprising associations of young men in this region, gave a literary entertainment at the club-rooms last evening.

Miss Lizzie B. Sharp, the evangelist, who is conducting the revival at the Primitive Methodist church, held a meeting at Upper Lehigh yesterday afternoon.

Eggs sold at Oswald's are guaranteed to be fresh. Try a dozen or two.

The one hundred and sixteenth anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmet, the Irish patriot, will be celebrated on Wednesday evening at the Cottage hall by the Wolfe Tono Social Club.

The store of St. Mary's Co-operative Association on Fern street has been ordered to be sold at public sale on March 12. C. F. McHugh, who was appointed receiver by the court, has ordered the sale.

Rev. J. T. Griffith will lecture this evening at Parsons, this county, before the Wyoming Baptist conference. His subject will be "The Origin and Development of Civil and Religious Liberty in America."

The committee of the Schuylkill Coal Exchange fixed the rate of wages to be paid miners in the Schuylkill region for the last half of February and the first half of March at 5 per cent below the $2.50 basis.

At the English Baptist church on Thursday evening Rev. C. A. Spaulding, of Hazleton, baptized seven people. After the baptismal ceremonies a sermon was preached by Rev. Griffith, the pastor of the church.

Ladies should not miss the bargains in shoes which McDonald's is closing out sale offers. Some choice bargains left.

A heavy freight train on the Lehigh Valley crashed into the rear of another freight train on the main line on Saturday, wrecking the engine and half a dozen freight cars. Engineer Maxwell and Fireman Martingale were badly bruised and cut by jumping.

Rev. C. A. Spaulding, of Hazleton, who was at one time pastor of the English Baptist church here, received a call from Bangor, this state, in which he was offered a higher salary, but he decided to remain where he thought he could do more good.

PERSONALITIES.

Julius Engleman, the famous foot racer of Weatherly, stopped in town on Saturday evening, on his way home from Albany, N. Y.

Senator John J. Coyle and brother, Philip, came up from Mahanoy City yesterday and spent several hours in town.

Bernard McNelis, of Mauch Chunk, spent yesterday with his brother, Patrick, at Highland.

Dr. G. D. Morton left on Saturday morning to spend a few days with Philadelphia relatives.

T. A. Harrison, county superintendent of schools, greeted friends in this section on Friday.

Patrick O'Donnell and family, of Scotch Hill, Driffton, have removed to town.

Boyd Fowler, of Danville, is visiting his brother, Owen Fowler.

License Court's Decision.

On Saturday the judges handed down the license list. The number granted is 1,076, an increase of 112 over last year. The judges refused 162 applications.

According to the information at hand this morning 70 of the 77 applications in Freeland borough were granted. Those refused are Vincent Enama, George Bednar, Fred Horlacher, Andrew Parelik, Ferdinand Palli, Daniel Furey and Patrick Sweeney.

In Foster there were 20 applications, 15 of which were granted, 3 refused and 2 were withdrawn. The refused are William Sheaman, Patrick Meehan and George Wassil. The applications of S. Rudewick and Peter Jasinsky were withdrawn.

All licenses must be taken out before March 15.

Slavonic Evangelical Union.

An application for a charter was filed by Attorney John M. Carr last week at Wilkesbarre for the Supreme Association of the Slavonic Evangelical Union of America. The objects of the new association are the alleviation of distress, the burial of the dead and the care of the sick, and it is also to have the power to establish subordinate associations throughout the United States.

The officers of the association are as follows: President, Vendelin Kelion, Bridgeport, Conn.; vice president, Michael Make, Cleveland, Ohio; recording secretary, Andrew Zemany, Freeland; financial secretary, Gustavo Schneider, Port Chester, N. Y.; trustee, Samko Karlik, Mahanoy City. The headquarters of the association will be at Freeland.

A Desperate Scheme.

It is alleged that a scheme to count out John Mohan, who was the Democratic candidate for supervisor in Hazle township, was frustrated last week at Wilkesbarre by the timely arrival of a young attorney of Hazleton. The returns, it is said, were undergoing, or about to undergo, a change upon their face sufficient to defeat Mr. Mohan, and another attorney from our neighboring city was engaged in the work.

Mr. Mohan's election was conceded on all sides, and the majority was so large that he thought it unnecessary to follow up the returns to the county seat. It is likely that more about this scheme to declare him defeated will be heard.

Councilmen Meet Tonight.

The regular monthly meeting of the Freeland borough council will be held tonight, and the members recently elected will take their seats at this session. The outgoing members are Thomas J. Moore and Bernard McLaughlin. The new members are M. Zemany, Patrick Meehan and John Shigo, who, with Dr. E. W. Rutter, Joseph Neuburger and H. M. Brislin, will form the new council for the coming year.

For St. Patrick's Day.

Representatives of the Catholic societies connected with St. Ann's church met yesterday afternoon to make preparations for the celebration on St. Patrick's Day, the 17th inst. It was decided that the parade should start at 1 o'clock. Rev. M. J. Fallishee was chosen marshal, and he will appoint two aides, who will assist him in preparing the order and route of parade. Invitations to parade will be sent to all the Catholic societies of Freeland and Eckley.

No One Would Fight Him.

The much-talked-of fight between "Scauld Bill" Quinn and Jim McCadden, of Wilkesbarre, is declared off. It was to take place here on the 24th inst. McCadden forfeited the $50 that was put up when the match was made. "Scauld Bill's" backers then tried to get on a fight with Jim Judge, of Scranton, but the latter refused. Pugilist Davis, of Carbondale, was waited on next, but could not get backing to fight. Quinn has returned to Philadelphia.

Lectured on Thursday Evening.

A lecture was delivered by J. A. Lansing, of Boston, at the opera house on Thursday evening. The subject was "The Work of Patriotic Orders." The speaker devoted a large part of his time to the Catholic Church, its officials, and Irish societies, all of which he denounced as dangerous to the country. The attendance was much smaller than expected. Rev. E. White and Rev. H. A. I. Bonner occupied seats on the stage.

Patents Granted.

Reported by C. A. Snow & Co., Washington, D. C.
H. A. Franz, Tamaqua, broom-holder.
M. G. Melvin, Archbald, nasal douche.
D. E. Phillips, Mahanoy City, shaker-screen.

WAR ON SPEAK-EASIES.

Detectives Create Consternation Among Illegal Liquor Dealers.

A vigorous war upon speak-easies in upper Luzerne has been commenced by the licensed saloon keepers, who a couple of months ago quietly organized for that purpose. They employed two Philadelphia detectives and the first arrests were made last week, when Alderman Davidson, of Wilkesbarre, issued warrants for the following persons, all of whom are from Duryea: Thos. Joyce, Paul Urban, Frank Savage, C. Knapp and Thos. Keating. They were given a hearing and each was held in the sum of $300 for court. Later the alderman issued another batch of warrants, summoning the following to appear: Neal J. Sweeney and Mrs. Shanley, Plymouth; Michael Brennan and Martin Bilbo, Edwardsville; Mrs. Morris, Plains; James Ferry, Joseph Carey and John McLaughlin, Wilkesbarre, and Alice Gallagher, Plymouth township.

There are estimated to be 1,900 speak-easies in this county, and the detectives say they have evidence against the majority of them and will make daily arrests until all are closed. The first batch of arrests made resulted in prompt hearings and of the defendants the majority furnished bonds.

Heretofore there have been spasmodic efforts to bring illegal liquor dealers to justice, but in nearly every case the prosecution was only the vehicle of personal feeling and a desire to get even. One of the detectives, who goes under the name of Day, stated that at a low estimate the receipts in each of the 1,900 places were $2 a day.

The detectives state that they also intend to cause the arrest of a number of constables throughout the county for violation of their oaths of office and perjury in open court on return days. Year in and year out these officials have gone on the stand at the court house and testified under oath that there were no unlicensed places or violations of the license laws in their districts.

The detectives, however, state that in their investigations they have met and drank with constables in places that were generally known to the police as speak-easies, and that the constables in some districts are constant visitors to these places. The detectives also allege to have evidence in several cases where constables have demanded and received money from speak-easy proprietors as the price of their silence.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Freeland, February 29.

EDITOR TRIBUNE.—Within the past few days there has been much talk in reference to the appointments which the next council of this borough will make, and some parties are trying to place me in a false light before the public because I exercise my right to have selections of my own for treasurer and street commissioner.

Allow me the space necessary to make a brief explanation of this matter. Some years ago it was agreed by the councilmen that the retiring members of the council each year should have the privilege to name the men who could be treasurer and street commissioner the next year. The plan worked well, because it removed from all except the retiring men the trouble of making satisfactory selections.

Now in 1894, when I was one of the retiring members, the rule was openly broken. Neither my candidate nor myself would be accepted by certain councilmen, and the next year the rule was again broken, when another retiring councilman was treated as I was.

After breaking the agreement two years in succession, some of the councilmen, I might say those who broke it, want the rule re-established, and appear displeased when I refuse to be a party to the same. I was turned down once, now why should I be asked to place myself in a position where they can turn me down again?

Last year, and the year before, I was told the field was open for all; why should it not be so this year?

On account of the stand I have taken, I am informed that one of the office-seekers is making threats, that if I seek the nomination of representative next fall I will be antagonized by his friends. I am prepared to accept the consequences of my actions, and threats of any kind will not turn me from my intention to vote as my conscience dictates.

Mr. Editor, my reason for this explanation is that I am accused of trying to break a rule made by council. I say there is no rule or agreement on these appointments, and I believe the public will sustain me. Yours respectfully, E. W. Rutter.

Will Remain With You.

We are pleased to announce today to our patrons and the public in general that the Wear Well Shoe House will remain in town. Affairs took a new turn last week, and we have released our present stand and will conduct the business upon the same lines as heretofore, viz, honest dealings with everybody. The proprietor will leave for New York city this week to order a complete line of new spring goods, and upon his return will introduce the "Twentieth Century," which is the latest and at present the most popular ladies' shoe in the large cities. The Wear Well will continue to provide the latest styles, best quality and lowest prices in the line of footwear in Freeland.

Big Corporations in Court.

From the Wilkesbarre Record.
Two suits in trespass, aggregating $100,000, were filed in the prothonotary's office on Friday by the Cross Creek Coal Company against Robert A. Linderman, E. P. Wilbur and Charles W. Anthony, executors of the estate of Garrick B. Linderman, deceased; and Charles O. Skeer, doing business as Linderman & Skeer.

The ownership of the coal under two valuable tracts, one of 450 acres, known as the Jacob Anderson survey, and one known as the John Thornburg survey, are involved. The plaintiffs estimate that each tract contained 30,000 tons of coal, and state that on March 1, 1890, the land was in their possession. On that and on divers other days it is alleged, the defendants, with force and arms, broke in the tracts of land and with their superintendents, employees and workmen wrongfully mined, removed and carried away large quantities of coal and converted the same to their own use; and further that by means of said trespass the defendants destroyed the pillars and so improperly conducted the mining operations that large quantities of water, earth and stone fell into the workings, closing and obstructing the same, which caused much damage to the property of the plaintiffs.

The attorneys for the plaintiffs are Hon. Simon P. Wolverton of Sunbury and A. H. McClintock of Wilkesbarre.

Democratic State Committee.

R. E. Wright, chairman, of the Democratic state committee, has issued the following notice: The duly elected and accredited delegates will meet in Democratic state convention at the Academy of Music in Allentown on Wednesday, April 29, 1896, at 12 o'clock, noon, for the purpose of nominating two candidates for representative-at-large in congress and thirty-two candidates for presidential electors; for the election of sixty-four delegates to the Democratic national convention, and for the transaction of such other business as may be necessary and proper.

The following representative districts of Luzerne county are entitled to elect delegates to the convention as follows: First district, three; second, two; third, two; fourth, three; fifth, three; sixth, two.

Green Men Getting Ready.

The Green Men of the North Side are preparing to take part in the parade here on the 17th inst. and have elected the following to look after their interests on that day:

Marshal—Michael Boyle, Driffton.
Captain—James Gallagher, Driffton.
First lieutenant—Jas. Brislin, Jeddo.
Second lieutenant—Hugh M. Brislin, Freeland.

Flag carriers—John McEnroe, Daniel Carr, Daniel Gallagher, Driffton; Henry Coll, Jeddo.

Committee of arrangements—Michael Boyle, Patrick McCole, Driffton; Henry Coll, Jeddo.

Financial committee—John Gilshon, John McTague, Driffton; Patrick Boyle, Freeland.

Treasurer—Andrew McNamee, Driffton.

A Mad Dog at Jeddo.

A mad dog created a great deal of excitement in Jeddo on Saturday afternoon. The animal made its appearance in the town unaccompanied by its owner or other person, and while on its rounds bit several Jeddo canines, including a dog owned by John Markle, valued at $300. A cow, also the property of Mr. Markle, was another victim of the crazy animal, and was killed immediately. Mr. Markle did not kill his dog, on account of it being so valuable, and he expects to be able to have it cured of the effects of the bite.

The mad dog was followed by several men with guns, but they were unable to get a shot at the brute, and he disappeared in the vicinity of No. 5 Pink Ash.

Athletic Club's Officers.

At a meeting held at Driffton last evening by the Fearnots Athletic Association the following were elected officers for the coming year:

President—William O'Donnell.
Vice president—Morris O'Donnell.
Recording secretary—John McElwee.
Financial secretary—Thomas O'Donnell.

Treasurer—John Boner.
Sergeant-at-arms—Patrick Sweeney.
Trustees—Charles McGeehan, Charles Maloy and Michael Kennedy.

Patrick Sweeney was elected manager of the base ball team for the coming season and he expects to put a strong team on the diamond this year.

A Large Attendance.

Notwithstanding the inclement weather on Saturday evening the attendance at the A. O. H. fair at Eckley was very large. The capacity of the church basement, wherein the fair is being held, was taxed to its utmost. The number in attendance from Freeland was greater than the managers had expected, and if the weather had been more favorable the building would not be able to accommodate the crowd. The people present were entertained by the St. Patrick's cornet band during the evening.

NIPPED AN ELOPEMENT.

COUNTRY SCHOOL MA'AM AND HER BIG PUPIL WERE CAUGHT.

Miss Amy Doty, the Teacher of a Village School, Enticed One of the Scholars Away, But the Lad's Mother Stepped In and Spoiled the Lovers' Plot.

Cupid is a curious little critter and such an industrious, wee busybody that he is continually fomenting trouble, and with every pulsation of joy that he brings to loving hearts he mixes little pang of pain just to gratify his innate desire for mischief. He confines himself to no particular field or locality, but flits about from place to place, shooting an arrow here and another there, until one wonders where he gets such an endless supply.

The latest caper cut by the little god of love occurred in the peaceful hamlet of Bear Creek, this county, says the Wilkesbarre Leader, and had it not been for the intervention of his old enemy, the watchful mother, two youthful, loving hearts would now be beating as one, while two young and ferocious appetites would have to depend upon the charity of a cold world for gratification. But the old woman was on hand just in time and carried away her son, leaving the object of his affections to sigh and weep alone.

Miss Amy Doty, a little lady, possibly nineteen years old, left her home in Towanda early last fall and came to Bear Creek to teach the "destrict skule." She is girlish in appearance, being below the medium height, and her long dress gives one the impression of a little girl togged out in her big sister's attire. She is a pronounced blonde, and while she is not pretty of face or form her winning way soon captivated the hearts of the rural swains and there soon developed a rivalry for her affections. To all the eligible suitors she was hard hearted, but to her biggest boy pupil, Charlie Blakeslee, her heart went out in affection and love and she determined to win him for her husband.

To look at Charlie one would naturally suppose he would be the last boy on earth to incite a school ma'am's admiration. He is not quite sixteen years old, large gawky, with a far-away, harmless gleam in his eyes, an expressionless face, and as he sat in the mayor's office he looked anything but the desperate lover he is reported to be. Yet he stealthily left his mother's home and with all his earthly belongings wrapped up in a cotton bandanna handkerchief made his way over the mountain to this city. Miss Doty, the school ma'am had left Bear Creek Friday and had come to this city where she met her boy lover Saturday morning. Together they were enjoying the sights of the town when Charlie's mother and Policeman Baltus swooped down upon them and carried them off to the mayor's office.

Here the absurdity of the situation manifested itself, and the mayor, several policemen, reporters, councilmen, etc., were entertained with a story of burning love seldom found out of the realms of fiction. Army at first assumed an air of dignity and asserted that her interest in Charlie was simply that of the conscientious teacher in a pupil who worked hard to prepare himself for the battle of life. Her affection, she assured the mayor, was of the Platonic character and Charlie's mother had no cause for alarm.

"Oh, certainly I haven't," said the latter, in a sarcastic tone. "No mother has cause for alarm when her fifteen-year-old boy is enticed from home three nights in the week by his school teacher and kept spooning before a wood fire until 2 o'clock in the morning. No mother should feel the least alarm when she sees her little boy pining and growing thin from loss of sleep, moonshine and love—no, indeed."

"Mrs. Blakeslee," said the school ma'am "Charlie wanted to get away from the country because he thought he could earn more money and I agreed to take him up to Towanda and find him work."

"Why didn't you take him to raise for a few years—be a mother to him?" replied the old lady, "and then when you had him trained into the kind of man you want for a husband you could marry him."

"I don't want to marry him—that isn't the kind of feeling I have for him," said the little school ma'am. "I just want to help him get along in the world, that's all."

"Oh, is it all? Well I just tell you that when a gal as thinks herself somebody keeps a boy fifteen years of age out of bed until 2 o'clock in the morning three times a week, all I can say is she must have some mighty big plans to talk over." Then turning to the mayor she asked, "What do you think I ought to do with him?" "Well," said the latter after he had recovered from his fit of laughter, "I believe the boy is sick and ought to have the doctor."

"That so," said she "and he'll get him when we reach home. Dr. Birch is the man and I know just where to find him. Come along Charlie" and seizing her son by the arm she dragged him out and would not even permit him to say goodbye to his sweetheart. Then the latter followed and as she stood on the steps of the city hall watching the receding form of her youthful lover a great sob welled up from her bosom, a tear trickled from her eye and with a half inaudible "good bye, Charlie," she started for the Valley depot, where she took the train for her home in Towanda.

The story is a sad one, but the saddest part remains to be told. Miss Doty had taught six months in the district and could raise only three months' salary. Probably she wanted to abduct Charlie to hold him in ransom until her back salary was paid.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
