

FREELAND TRIBUNE.

VOL. VIII. NO. 80.

FREELAND, PA., THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1896.

$1.50 PER YEAR.

SHAFFER IS ON TRIAL.

WILKESBARRE MOUNTAIN MURDER AGAIN IN COURT.

Conflicting Statements and Confessions Made by the Prisoner Invests the Trial With Unusual Interest—Much Difficulty in Securing a Jury.

Frank Shaffer, who is charged with Nelson Miller and the others with complicity in the blowing up of the Hungarian shanty on the Wilkesbarre mountain over a year ago, was placed on trial at the county seat on Tuesday and the case is still on. Judge Bennett is presiding.

The case is one of the most interesting ever tried in the county, as Shaffer, who is now on trial, has told several different stories, all of which conflict with previous confessions on the stand in the Miller case, when he went down in front of the jury box and illustrated how he had pulled the battery which sent the deceased foreigners to their death.

He was so clear on that occasion and his evidence on the whole was so well moulded together that there was no doubt as to the guilt of all parties arrested. His last statement, however, if given in good faith, will make a deal of change in the situation.

It is said that Shaffer's mind has become unbalanced since the commission of the crime and that he is constantly brooding over the affair. His appearance in court would seem to cast some doubt about that, as he is bright and cheerful and does not appear to be affected by the circumstances under which he is placed, but on the contrary he appeared to be unconcerned.

None but the attorneys, jurymen and witnesses are allowed to enter the court room, but the corridors are crowded with citizens anxious to get a peep at the prisoner.

The task of selecting a jury was an arduous one, all the day being taken up, the last jury being selected at 5.30 p. m. on Tuesday.

The jury is as follows: James Gilbride, Hanover; A. W. Washburn, Freehold; Nathan Morse, Hughestown; Geo. Bomby, Kingston; Alfred Ashford, Wilkesbarre township; Daniel Lloyd, Edwardsville; Wm. Krothe, Plymouth; A. B. House, Black Creek; W. H. France, Newport; John B. Boyle, W. H. Conyngham and Jacob Schappert, Wilkesbarre.

The case is expected to occupy several days, and some startling testimony is looked for.

Liquor License Revenue.

County Treasurer Reed has finished the work of apportioning the money received in payment of liquor licenses granted at the recent term of license court. The number of licenses issued of each class and the amount received is as follows: 950 retail licenses, $208,650; 71 wholesale licenses, $19,400; 42 bottlers' licenses, $9,000; 5 brewers' licenses, $2,200; total amount received, $239,250. Of this total the amount received from wholesale, bottlers' and brewers' licenses goes to the state. The amount received from retail licenses is divided between the county and the localities in which the houses are situated, the county receiving one-fifth or $41,730, and the localities four-fifths or $166,520. The statement showing the amount to be received by Freehold was published in the Tribune a week ago.

In the number of retail licenses granted there are some interesting comparisons. Freehold is fifth on the list, with 57 to its credit. Wilkesbarre is first with 135; Nanticoke second, 78; Hazelton third, 66, and Plymouth fourth, 62.

In the wholesale list Wilkesbarre is first, having 13; Hazle township is second with 7, and Freehold, Hazelton, Nanticoke and Plymouth each have 6.

Hazelton leads in the number of bottlers, with 15; Hazle township is second with 9; Freehold is third with 6, and West Hazelton has 1. Out of the 42 licenses granted to bottlers in the county 31 are in the four communities mentioned above.

Of the money paid for retail licenses the following amounts will be returned, less the treasurer's commission: To Butler, $600; Conyngham, $60; Foster, $840; Freehold, $6,840; Hazle, $1,500; Hazelton, $26,400; White Haven, $1,200; West Hazelton, $1,800.

One More Cur Removed.

Burgess McLaughlin had an interesting case before him on Tuesday evening. John Chekak, a Ridge street Hungarian, owned a vicious cur which gave the neighbors much trouble, and a few days ago James Gallagher, a young boy from the Hill, was bitten by the brute. Complaint was made to the burgess, who notified Chekak to have the dog killed. This he refused to do, and on Tuesday evening he was arrested for violating the borough ordinance pertaining to dogs.

The evidence against Chekak was sufficient and he was fined $7.75. The dog had followed his master with the officers to the borough building and was an interested spectator. After Chekak's case was finished the burgess ordered that the dog be shot immediately. To this Chekak objected, the dog also objected and between the two the order was carried out with no small amount of trouble. A rope was finally fastened about the animal and he was taken to the lockup, where High Constable Mollick sent seventeen shots into his hide, thereby ridding the town of one of the many dangerous curs which travel our streets.

Burst Dam at White Haven.

At White Haven on Tuesday the Lehigh river was unusually high and the large storage dam owned by the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company was so weakened by the great weight of water that it burst at 10 o'clock. It went out in the centre, making a great hole through which rushed an immense volume of water. The loss will reach fully $50,000. The dam was built sixty years ago, was 50 feet high, 800 feet wide and held the waters of the Lehigh for one and one-half miles.

It was originally used for slack water navigation of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company. The dam supplied the whole town of White Haven with water, power to the electric light plant and also to Wallace's machine shop.

The many uses for which the dam was utilized will make the loss a very serious one in White Haven.

JOURNALISTIC.

Eleven years ago yesterday the Hazleton Standard made its first bow to the public. For six years it was a semi-weekly, but the demand for a bright daily in the region increased so much five years ago that the publishers made an effort to fill the want, and that they have succeeded is attested by the present prosperity of our contemporary.

The Tamaqua Recorder covered itself with glory last Friday by issuing a ten-page woman's edition. He was given a hearing, and in default of bail was committed.

Fire at Hazleton Today.

At 2 o'clock this morning the fire companies of Hazleton were called out to extinguish a blaze in a building owned by Frank J. Tutkis, which was unoccupied and over which there has been some legal trouble. It was located in the township, and required nearly all the hose in the city to reach it. The building was burned to the ground and another one adjoining, owned by Angelo DeCossa, was badly damaged. Loss, $2,500; no insurance. Incendiarism is suspected as the cause.

One is in favor of Charles Walters, of Philadelphia, the president of the company for $41,827.27, and the other is in favor of Fred Horlacher, of Slatington, its treasurer, for $6,918.82. It is the heaviest failure that has occurred in the county for a long time. Mr. Walters is the president of the Prospect Brewing Company, of Philadelphia. He organized the Improvement Company about six years ago. The foundry facing factory at Hautot, Carbon county, operated by the Carbon Manufacturing Company, George H. Anthony, of Allentown, president, was also closed by the sheriff on two executions, one in favor of the Allentown National bank for $400, and the other in favor of Sarah Anthony for $825.

Twenty-three applications for membership were on file, and nineteen members of other lodges were transferred to the roll of the new branch.

After the ceremonies the members and visitors, numbering 132 in all, were escorted to the Cottage hotel by a Mayberry band, and there partook of a banquet. Visitors were present from all the principal towns and cities in eastern Pennsylvania and New York. A special train conveyed the White Haven delegation to their homes after the banquet.

Suicide of a Lehighman.

George Nusbaum, one of the best known citizens of the Lehigh valley, committed suicide at his home in Lehigh on Monday morning. Mr. Nusbaum had been ill for some time, and although complaining of pains in his head, his mental faculties seemed to be all right. His wife, after administering medicine left by his attending physician, went down stairs.

As she left the landing her husband bade her good-bye, and she scarcely reached the floor below when a pistol shot was heard. Returning to the bed room she found her husband dying, and still holding the revolver. The bullet entered his head near the temple, and he died in a few minutes. Besides his wife, six children survive him.

Sulek, who is employed as a bartender for Hudak, requested payment, and after he got up to him Mollick struck him, breaking his nose.

Mollick was given a hearing before Squire Buckley, and being unable to procure bail was committed to the lockup over night. At 7.25 o'clock this morning Officer Patrick Welsh took him to the county jail. Sulek's nose is in a terrible condition.
