A Story of Bill Nye.

His father still lives on his Vermont farm. He and Bill corresponded now and then, and not long ago the old farmer wrote his boy that he believed he could sell the farm. He said it was heavily mortgaged, and it was all he could do to pay the interest. He had written to Bill Nye's brothers in Minneapolls, but they didn't seem to be able to do anything. He still lowed $2,500, and as he was an old man, this was too much for him to carry, and he thought he would sell. As Bill read this his eyes began to fill. He was, you know, a mighty sensitive fellow, with all his fun. He happened to have some money on deposit in the bank, and he took out his check book and filled out necket he he would it in such his feltow, when he went her he went was not such that he would be such that he would sell. out his check book and filled out n check for $2,500. He signed it in such big letters that it almost covered the face of the check, and wrote his name in full, Edgar Wilson Nye. This he sent to his father, and as he did so, away down in his soul, I venture, he said to himself: "Well, I guess they'll think something now of the sickly little cuss whom they thought they would have to support, who didn't know figures, and who had to go west to make his fortune."

THE sewing machine agent is not the nique fellow he used to be, but occa-The sewing machine agent is not the unique fellow he used to be, but occasionally one is found with all the old time enterprise. A character of that kind operates in the town of Dover, Me. It is said that recently he found a house in a neighboring town where there wasn't a sewing machine. The occupant of the dwelling was an old bachelor, but this in no wise daunted the resourceful man of many manners. He sat down beside that bachelor and did not leave him until the poor man admitted that if he could have a woman to run the sewing machine he would like one. This the agent interpreted to mean both woman and sewing machine; so he rose up and went forth, with the result that within six weeks there was one less maiden lady, one cless bachelor and one more sewing machine in that neighborhood. The woman had been waiting for some one to speak right out, and that was right in an had been waiting for some one to speak right out, and that was right in the Dover man's line.

In a very handsome little church, not 200 miles from Indianapolis, the reading platform is adorned by a remarkably beautiful pulpit, flanked by equally decorative chairs. The artistic oaken pulpit, hand carved in passion flowers and lilies, and bordered with trefoil, is almost the "graven image" in the eyes of the association of church women who carned and purchased the pulpit furnishings when the edifice was built. Recently a new minister came built. Recently a new minister came pulpit furnishings when the edifice was built. Recently a new minister came into charge of the congregation. He was a little fellow, and one day casually remarked to one of his feminine church members: "Mrs. Badger, that pulpit is entirely too high for me; I think it had better be cut down a trifle." "Cut down?" the horrified woman exclaimed. "Cut that pulpit down? No, indeed; it would ruin it; it would be much easier to get a faller prescher." No, indeed; it would rull y be much easier to get a taller pr

Nothing is more interesting in the nine o'clock bell and early-to-bed revival now observ-able than the fact that the word "cur-few," in spite of its respectable ances-try, is rejected, and for it is substituted in the west the vital and sibilant ex-pression, "Kid-whistle." "Kid-whistle shall not sound to-night" is declaimed in a thousand schools. The age of chiv-airy and curfews is gone.

A CHICAGO whist enthusiaist, who thinks he is a great player, recently wrote and published a book on the game, and sent one copy to a famous Milwaukee player for his opinion of it. In about a week the book was returned to him, with the following letter: "My Dear Sir: Your favor of the — inst., accompanied by your book, was duly received. I have read it very carefully. It seems to be a very good game, but I don't think it is as good a game as whist."

Awful Condition of Things in Glasgow. A dispatch from Glasgow tells the tale of the awful conditions brought about by the city ownership of street cars, water works, gas, electric light, public baths, public tenement houses, etc., in that city, says an exchange. After January, 1807, no taxes of any kind are to be levied on real estate or any other property, the revenues from these public utilities being sufficient to bear all the expenses. With the object lessons of American cities in enjoying the freedom of being taxed from 2 to 8 per cent on every species of property, the ignorance and stupidity of the Glasgowites in suffering such oppression and inconvenience is one of the mysteries yet unsolved! Why, Americans, breathing the air of freedom so long, would shed the last drop of their blue blood and have old glory trailed in gore rather than submit to a government that refused to tax them into rags to build up millionaires. It is funny how Glasgowites refuse to learn from our glorious methods.

The North Side will be doing fairly well in pulling and the side of the side of learn from our glorious methods.

The North Side will be doing fairly well in politics next fall if the candidates from this end, Messrs. Lelsenring, McCarthy, DePierro and Rutter, are elected. A congressman, senator, county commissioner and representative make a combination that seldom go to one locality, but this year may see such here.

Just seventy-nine years ago there was a year without a summer. Frost occur-red every month in the year and ice formed half an inch thick in July. Snow fell to the depth of three inches in New York during the middle of June.

The regularly elected constables of the county are preparing to proceed against all deputy constables who have not been regularly appointed.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Paris, April 25.—A monster meeting was held last night at Tivoli hall under socialist auspices to denounce the action of the senate, which resulted in the overthrow of the Bourgeois ministry. Thousands of people were unable to gain admission to the hall. Great excitement and much disorder prevailed, which continued after the meeting was closed. The crowd, which was frenzied, attempted to make a rush for the boulevards. In this, however, they were generally prevented by the police, who arrested a number of the more demonstrative. Several persons were injured.

New York, April 27.—J. Frank Clark, the staff correspondent of the United Press, who has returned to New York after an absence of five months in Cuba, in speaking of the situation in that island, says that Cuba is surely slipping away from Spain. The latter country is responsible for some of the vilest atrocities ever committed. He says that of Spain's regular troops, $2,000 have succumbed to disease and bullets during the year, and 15,500 are in the hospitals or have been relieved from duty. The insurgent forces, according to Mr. Clark, now number about 35,000 to 40,000 men.
