

Mothers

Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. Read the following letter:

"It is but just to write about my daughter Cora, aged 19. She was completely run down, declining, had that tired feeling, and friends said she would not live over three months. She had a bad and nothing seemed to do her any good. I happened to read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and had her give it a trial. From the very first dose she began to get better. After taking a few bottles she was completely cured and her health has been the same ever since." Mrs. Addie Peck, 15 Railroad Place, Amsterdam, N. Y.

"I will say that my mother has not stated my case in as strong words as I would have done. Hood's Sarsaparilla has truly cured me and I am now well." Cora Peck, Amsterdam, N. Y.

Pope Leo's Boyhood.

He spent his childhood in the simple surroundings of Carpineto, than which none could be simpler, as every one knows who has ever visited an Italian country gentleman in his home. Early hours, constant exercise, plain food, and farm interests made a strong man of him, with plenty of simple common sense. As a boy he was a great walker and climber, and it is said that he was excessively fond of birding, the only form of sport afforded by that part of Italy, and practised there in those times, as it is now, not only with guns, but by means of nets. It has often been said that poets and lovers of freedom come more frequently from the mountains and the seashore than from a flat inland region.—Century.

What Neglect May Do.

There are some infirmities that only a surgeon's knife will relieve, and mostly strictly because of neglect. A neglected nerve pain may become so chronic as to cripple, and this is often the case with St. John's. If taken in time, it is easily subdued, but other nerve pains, and vigor and health are restored. Thousands of cases have been treated by the use of St. John's Oil, with the result of a prompt and permanent cure and restoration to health of the affected nerve. People cannot be too careful with their nerves. There is too much to suffer to admit of foolish neglect, and the simple thing of getting a bottle of St. John's Oil and applying promptly may save years of misery and perhaps years of crippled condition. Let this warning serve to show what can be done and what ought to be done without delay in an attack of this disease.

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN.

UTAH HONORS WOMEN.

Mrs. Lillian R. Pardee, although a wife and mother, has found time to distinguish herself in many ways. She has the unique honor to be Secretary of the Senate for the new State of Utah. She is an ardent suffragist and was nominated for a seat in the Senate, but on the decision of the Supreme Court of the State that it was illegal for women to vote, voluntarily withdrew her name. In recommending her for her present post the President of the Senate stated that he did so in the conviction that she was eminently well fitted for the place, her previous record as Secretary of the County Committee having been a brilliant and satisfactory one.

A BUSINESS GONE TO WRECK.

"One of the sad things in our business," said an auctioneer, "is to sell out the contents of boarding houses. There are a number of women who open up a boarding house without the slightest experience whatever in the business, and it very frequently happens that they fail. They think that because there are a number of other women who make boarding houses a success that they can do so. So they get together the necessary money to make a start, and in they go. It does not take long for them to discover that there is a science in keeping boarders of which they are ignorant. Their boarders find it out also. The result is that they have to give up, and we are called in to sell them out."—Washington Star.

CLUB NAME.

Considerable ingenuity is displayed nowadays in coining new names for women's clubs and societies. Much of it follows the system invented by Lewis Carroll in "Alice in Wonderland," a system of portmanteau words, of which chortle and galumphing are the most popular. In Washington they have the "Wimodughais," which looks like an Indian name, but is really coined from the first syllable of the four words of wife, mother, daughter and sister. In Jersey City is Philadelphia, which stands for philosophy, literature, science, poetry, music and art. Brooklyn towers over the rest with Chiropene, which stands for Christianity, honesty, independence, resolution, obedience, patriotism, energy, ambition and newness.—New York Mail and Express.

WOMEN LOVE SUGAR.

When the restaurant of the Margaret Louisa Home, an institution patronized exclusively by women, was first opened, its sugar bowls were filled with lump sugar. This was some years ago. Enter the restaurant to-day and you will find the bowls all filled with soft sugar. Why? Well, the cause is quite natural, even if it is something of a reflection upon woman and her ethics. It was found necessary to substitute the soft sugar because the patrons stole so much of the lump. Only two or three lumps by each individual at a time, to be sure, but the practice was so general and so unremitting, that the finances of the "Home" soon began to feel it sorely. Even now, under the soft sugar regime, it is said that the women carry off by no means inconsiderable quantity, trying it up in corners of their pocket handkerchiefs and even bringing envelopes for the purpose. But the amount hasn't yet equalled that of the former depredations, and, as a consequence, the grocer's bills of the "Home" have been reduced to a normal size.—New York Sun.

ONE SECRET OF SECRETS.

A chemist who is nearly as learned as the Medicis is all the subtle secrets of scent, said not long ago: "I wonder when the world at large will come to realize that there is very much more in perfumes than meets the nose. I mean scents have other properties than those of which the olfactory sense takes cognizance. For example, the smell of roses, thyme, bergamot, clove pinks, some of the honeysuckles, grapes, both blossom and fruit; peach and plum blossoms, are both tonic and prophylactic. They add to the ozone of environment, either by giving it off themselves, or liberating it from other elements of the atmosphere. Contrariwise, nearly all the lily family, tuberoses, neroli—which is oil of orange flowers—violets and nearly all the artificial perfumes are depressants and irritant to the nerves and the mucous membrane.

"Musk is to many constitutions slow poison—hence the danger of cheap perfumes. Musk is the basis of them all. It must be, since it has so great a quality of fixing other odors. A very little of the scent substance goes a long way, if fixed with musk. Do you know a grain of musk was weighed, then left exposed in a room for five years. Throughout that time the odor was almost imperceptibly strong in the place, yet at the end of it the weight of the musk had not diminished a particle. But that is beside the mark. What I set out to say was: 'Beware of the flower of the substance whose scent gives a sense of oppression. Nature is a pretty safe guide, and the smothering is her danger signal.'—New York Journal.

FOR COUNTRY'S SAKE.

AN INDIAN FIGHTER SUFFERING FROM AGONIES FROM DISEASE.

He Was in the Battle With the Apaches When Gerónimo Was Captured. From the Press, New York City.

Worn with the exposure of army life on the frontier, and poisoned by the continual drinking of alkali water, Joseph Fiegauft returned to Philadelphia eight years ago, broken down in health and unable to do any work.

He had served five years with the Ninth United States Infantry in many a desperate fight with the Indians in Arizona and other frontier States and had won an enviable record. In the fierce conflict when Gerónimo, the famous chief of the Apaches, was captured, Mr. Fiegauft was among the brave soldiers who, forgetful of everything but duty, charged upon the hostile Indians.

Life on the plains sent to an untimely death many soldiers who were never touched by a redskin's bullet or arrow, and Mr. Fiegauft came near such a fate as that. A long time before his time was out he was taken seriously ill, but he stuck to his post until an honorable discharge was finally given to him.

When he reached Philadelphia, the Indian fighter was scarcely more than skin and bones, and for three weeks he lay desperately ill in a hospital. He felt dizzy and his stomach felt as if it had dried up. These symptoms were accompanied by bloody dysentery, which no medicine seemed to relieve.

After two years of suffering, Mr. Fiegauft came to New York and was treated by several physicians. These did not agree, some calling his disease catarrh of the stomach, and others chronic diarrhea.

In speaking to a reporter about his illness Mr. Fiegauft said the doctors helped him, but with all the money he spent for advice and medicine, he was not getting any better. He was only a part of the time. Since moving to his present home, No. 517 West Forty-second Street, in New York, about a year ago, Mr. Fiegauft has been so ill that his voice and hearing almost left him.

Then all medicines failed and the sick man had little hope of recovery. At this critical time Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were recommended to Mr. Fiegauft, and, almost as a last hope, he began taking them.

"The beneficial effect of the medicine was felt at once," Mr. Fiegauft told the reporter, "and before I had taken a box I began to eat with relish. Three boxes made me so much better that I began work and have been able to keep it since, for five months.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are not a patent medicine in the sense that name implies. They were first compounded as a prescription and used as such in general practice by an eminent physician. So great was their efficacy that it was deemed wise to place them within the reach of all.

"They are now manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medical Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold in boxes (never in loose form) by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this city at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

The academic education of women in Germany has made such progress that it is now proposed to set aside one important university for their chief if not exclusive use.

Lady Eva Quin is the most noted shot among modern ladies; her tiger destroying exploits are renowned in India. This lady has killed six full grown tigers from the frail protection of the howdah.

In Troy, Ala., there is a woman who is a more than ordinarily successful farmer. She is Mrs. Book Hathaway. Her husband died, leaving her in debt. In one year she paid nearly $800 on her debts, and now she is one of the happiest women to be found.

Princess Letitia, dowager Duchess of Aosta, has had a $23,000 necklace, a wedding present from King Humbert, stolen from her. Several persons belonging to her household in Turin have been arrested. The necklace has been sold in France.

Octave Thanet (Miss Alice French) is a very cultivated Bostonian kind of a hot fire. Her Arkansas home is gotten up in a style to provoke the admiration of artists. Fine photographs, plaster casts, engravings, are the forms of art she most indulges in. Baynes and Tanagra figurines are especially prominent.

Miss Jennie Hilton, formerly of Kansas City, is said to be the only active woman gold miner and prospector in the Southwest. For several years she has been engaged in prospecting for gold in the mountains of Arizona and New Mexico, and has invented a number of useful appliances in mining engineering. She sold her share in an Arizona mine the other day for $35,000 in cash.

FASHION NOTES.

Black velvet ribbon in conjunction with white lace is promised great vogue.

The Dresden patterns are particularly suitable for the Louis XVI. coats and for evening gowns.

Checks are to be very fashionable, and some smart costumes are made with a short black jacket, the checked shirt black and white.

Black will again be worn, but the newest costumes are relieved with colors, and all show in the linings and trimmings that black is not of necessity mourning.

The print warps, so popular in silks, and the Persian designs, which are so popular in both wool and silk goods, are brought out in the wash fabrics in charming effects.

Black silks and black and white are to be worn this season. All black have fancy patterns, and black with white and white with black, which are quite distinct, are at all prices.

Brown and white checks are made up to wear with the covert coats, and the colorings are very effective. Novelty goods show checks in cheviot effects a bewildering variety.

A green cheviot has shades of red and white all through it, and, made up with jacket and skirt lined throughout with silk to match, has an air of style that makes it quite new.

India dimities in every variety, figured in black, are novel and effective. Some of the striped baptistes and organzies have the stripes up and down in the body and running around the sleeves.

The embroidered crepons are being made up for summer gowns, while the weaves that are no longer fashionable, and consequently have been marked down in price, are being eagerly purchased for house gowns and for spring gowns also.

A dark blue serge, so dark that it looks almost black, would be far too somber for a spring costume were not the coat made to wear open in front and show a full vest of white satin, with a narrow piece of white pique, with tiny brass buttons, shows beyond the edges of the coat.

RATTLESAKE WINE.

It is a Favorite Medicine in the West Indies.

Benjamin Gooch, in his "Medical and Surgical Observations," published in 1771, gives a summary of different ancient therapeutic methods, based on the use of animal poisons. One of his observations relates to a case of severe pain, spasms, etc., of long duration. Gooch says, after speaking of the patient's sufferings: "Not to appear inhuman to so wretched a being, after telling him I could do nothing, I sent him a bottle of rattlesake wine, to take a glass of frequently. This was in the West Indies drunk as the highest cordial. Three nights after the patient walked in. 'Sir,' said he, 'you cannot be so much amazed as I am, nor half so much pleased; I am come to thank you, and, if not criminal, to worship you.'"

Gooch's account of how he learned the virtues of rattlesake wine is as follows: "A very wealthy old gentleman in the West Indies had long been afflicted with leprosy to a high degree, which was deemed incurable by his physicians. Apparently in a dying state, he made his will, leaving a large legacy to a female servant, who had lived with him many years. This circumstance being known to the servant, she and her paramour studied and contrived how to make away with him in such a manner as to raise the least suspicion. They put the heads of rattlesnakes into the wine he drank, thinking it would prove an infallible poison; on the contrary, he grew better, and the criminals, imagining the poison was not strong enough, added more snake venom, whereby the gentleman was restored to perfect health. Conscience finally put this servant upon her knees before her master, confessing her crime. Forgiveness was granted, and the old gentleman gave her a sum of money, ordering her to depart and never see him more."

Syrup of Figs

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physician, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

RIPANS TABLETS

Mr. William T. Cimo, a grocer doing business at 1322 Norris St., Philadelphia, recently made the following statement concerning Ripans Tablets: "I had what the doctors called Nervous Indigestion, from which I suffered day and night. I tried several doctors, took electric treatment, patent medicines, and, in fact, everything that I could hear of, but nothing done me any good and I made up my mind there was no help for me, only to grin and bear it, but one day I was passing a drug store and stopped to look at the display in the window and I happened to see a card with 'Ripans Tablets' on it and I thought, well, here's another straw for a drowning man, so I went in and bought a box, and, seems to me, the first dose took effect. I have been taking them ever since and they have surely worked wonders with me. When I look back on the past and then on my present condition, seems to me I am a new man. I am enjoying elegant health now, and I feel that I owe many thanks to Ripans Tablets. I have recommended them to several of my friends who say they are wonderful, and I must say they are a God sent to any one suffering from a disorder of this nature."

Ripans Tablets are sold by druggists, or by mail. If the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 19 Spruce St., New York. Sample free, if desired.
