FREELAND, PENNA., JUNE 11, 1896.

Hungary's Millennium.

Inasmuch as the Hungarian residents of Freeland, through one of their organizations, have taken up the question of appropriately celebrating the one thousandth anniversary of the establishment of their native country as a nation, the following editorial, from Tuesday's Philadelphia Inquirer, may enlighten many of our other citizens in regard to this matter.

It is estimated that twenty thousand American tourists will this summer visit the Millennium Exposition of Hungary at Budapest. Nothing more interesting and attractive could be visited in Europe, for the exposition is assuredly one of the greatest displays of the triumphs of human progress that have been made in this century.

There is no people in Europe around whom more romance clusters than the Magyars. For centuries they were bold warriors, whose deeds of bravery illumined the pages of history; they have had their poets, their painters, their musicians and their statesmen; and yet when they first sought refuge in Europe they were Asiatic nomads, rude and barbarous.

It is true that when they fought for independence they were overpowered by Austria and Russia. But although Kosuth and his associates failed to achieve their country's freedom the end of their struggle left the realm of Austria-Hungary ruled by the House of Hapsburg so weak and torn asunder that the only way by which it could be made strong and enduring was by giving the Magyars nearly all that they had fought for.

A LETTER mailed at West Point, Ind., is now in the Lafayette post office addressed thus: "What though the snow be high as any mountain; what though the sleet and rain in torrents pour, so much that earth would seem like one vast fountain. No matter, with this letter swiftly soar to Mr. Garibaldi D. McFinnis, whom rumor whispers dwells on Durwell place. As 'D' implies, his middle name is Dennis; this pointer use his whereabouts to trace."

An unusual spell of warm weather during the early part of March hatched out millions of grasshoppers, prematurely, in Oregon. Then came along an unusually cold snap which killed practically every one of the insects.

ONE of the best mining experts in Arizona is a woman, and another woman expert in the same line is Mrs. Clara Wood, of Klamath, Ore. She is said to know more about the mineralogy of the Klamath river than any other person, and her knowledge has a high commercial value to her.

In the middle of an onion she was peeling a few days ago a woman in Bath, Me., found a gold ring. The story is vouched for. The explanation offered is that some one dropped the ring in the onion bed, and the onion grew around it.

"My friends," said a Kansas clergyman, the other day, "if God should throw an X ray on your souls, would strange things be revealed?" Among them, perhaps, an ossified state of things in general.

A Lucky Tenderfoot.

There is an axiom among mining prospectors that while a knowledge of mineralogy is a first necessity for a man starting out to hunt for the precious ores, yet the richest finds are often made by the rankest tenderfoot.

It is well illustrated in a recent rich find near Salt Lake City, Utah. Willard Weihe, a violin soloist in the Tabernacle, was walking in City Creek canyon, in the outskirts of the city, when he kicked aside some rock that struck him as being unusual in appearance.

Out of pure curiosity he carried a piece of the rock back to town and had it assayed. It showed $500 in gold and $40 in silver to the ton. Weihe was so much surprised he almost fainted. Then when he recovered he hurried back to where he found the rock, without mentioning the matter to anyone, and staked out a large number of claims for himself and friends.

At a thrilling incident occurred in a coal mine near Shamokin, Pa., a few days ago, when a miner suddenly became crazy and attacked a fellow miner just as a blast was about to be fired. The crazy man, Frank Tomponia, sprang upon the other miner, Thomas Crander, while in the "breast" just as the latter was lighting the fuse leading to a charge of dynamite.

At this juncture, June 1864, Abraham Lincoln saw the importance of the pacification and restoration of civil government in Arkansas, and as a means to this end he appointed Colonel Henry C. Caldwell to be judge of the United States supreme court for that district.

At the breaking out of the rebellion, he promptly enlisted and became major of the Third Iowa cavalry, and afterward its colonel. For untiring zeal at the capture of Little Rock, Ark., he was recommended by his superior officer, General Davidson, for promotion.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Williamstown, Mass., June 7.—William B. Bliss, '97, of Fall River, has been elected captain of the Williams athletic team.

Ottawa, June 6.—The convention of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers closed last evening, to meet on the second Wednesday in May, 1898, at St. Louis.

St. Johns, N. B., June 8.—Capt. Laird at Saturday's inquiry into the stranding of the Anchor line steamer Bragavia, acknowledged that the disaster was due to his mistake in miscalculation.

London, June 5.—The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News telegraphs that Emperor William has notified Count William Bismarck that he desires to become godfather to the count's infant son, who is the only grandson of Prince Bismarck.

Brass, Guinea, West Africa, June 6.—The French Niger expedition from Sa luga has been totally routed and many of its members have been killed by poisoned arrows in the Borgou country. A remnant of the expedition arrived at Klam on May 11.

Williamstown, Mass., June 9.—At a special college meeting last evening to elect an assistant manager of the Williams college football team to succeed to the management next year Arthur Fitchell, '98, of Portland, Me., was elected by acclamation.

Rockville, Conn., June 5.—Luke O'Connor, a British subject, of Providence has petitioned the British consul in New York for redress for his confinement in jail here for twenty-six and a half hours without trial. He was arrested the night before Memorial day charged with drunkenness.

New Haven, Conn., June 6.—Joshua A. Hamblin of Yarmouth, Mass., died at the Yale infirmary yesterday afternoon from the effects of an attack of appendicitis and a resultant operation to save his life, if possible.

Boston, June 5.—Charles F. Symonds of Salem was found guilty in the United States circuit court yesterday for violating the alien contract labor law, by causing to be brought to this country an English blacksmith and giving him employment, and was fined $1,000. Mr. Symonds is a prominent citizen of Salem.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 5.—A unique wedding occurred here Wednesday night when two dwarfs, M. K. Comfort of Oswego, N. Y., and Eva B. White of Monroe, Mich., met here by appointment and were married. Both are under four feet and have known each other for twenty years. Mr. Comfort is 52 and his wife 44 years of age.

New York, June 6.—The section of the Raines law which forbids the free lunch counter was decided to be constitutional in an opinion handed down yesterday by the appellate division of the supreme court. Three of the justices concurred with Justice Ingraham, who wrote the opinion. Presiding Justice Van Brunt dissented, but wrote no opinion.

Buffalo, June 6.—At a meeting of prominent lawyers held here yesterday afternoon it was decided to accept the challenge of the lawyers of Rochester to play two games of baseball, one in each city, the proceeds to go to some charitable institution. The first game will be played in Buffalo on June 13. Arrangements have been made for a special train from Rochester and return on the date fixed.

New Haven, Conn., June 6.—The tax assessment list of the state of Connecticut, just made up at the comptroller's office, shows a total valuation of $444,321,927, an increase since the previous year of $30,062,971. Hartford county has $100,252,839; New Haven county, $118,462,571, and Fairfield county, $113,675,970. The real estate valuation is about $361,000,000, and the valuation of securities about $32,000,000.

Washington, June 6.—Notwithstanding the vigilance of the capitol police relie hunters have succeeded in picking out three small plumes from the heads of the diminutive Indian warriors who appear in the bas relief work on the side of the Marquette statue. This vandalism does not deface the statue in any way and it requires a very close examination to discover the loss of the plumes.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., June 5.—Mrs. Cleveland, Ruth, Esther and Marion Cleveland, with nurse and maid, arrived at Gray Gables soon after 9 o'clock last evening. The train, composed of two cars, was run as a special from Providence. Mrs. Olney and her daughter, Mrs. Minot, who accompanied Mrs. Cleveland, remained on the train and were taken to Falmouth, where they will spend the summer.

THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY.

[From advance sheets of July Arena.] There is no position in the United States to which a man may be called that will so thoroughly test his metal as that of United States circuit judge, before whom the railway litigation of the country is brought.

So profoundly impressed has the country become by these wholesome reforms that there is a general desire to know more of the just judge who wrought them.

HON. HENRY CLAY CALDWELL.

Henry Clay Caldwell is a native of Marshall county, Virginia, now West Virginia. He was born on the fourth day of September, 1832. His parents were of Scotch-Irish descent.

At the breaking out of the rebellion, he promptly enlisted and became major of the Third Iowa cavalry, and afterward its colonel. For untiring zeal at the capture of Little Rock, Ark., he was recommended by his superior officer, General Davidson, for promotion.

RIOTING IS FEARED.

The Dynamite Outrage in Barcelona Has Caused Great Excitement.

CITY NOW UNDER MARITAL RULE.

Crowds Surround the Prefecture Where the Suspects Are Detained—Summary Punishment of All Demanded Whether Guilty or Not.

Barcelona, June 9.—The excitement caused by the fatal bomb explosion Sunday night shows no sign of diminution, and the people vigorously demand that no effort be spared by the authorities to punish the authors of the outrage and to guard against a repetition of the dastardly act.

Barcelona is not alone in its attempt to repress with a stern hand the recrudescence of anarchy. The royal government and the municipal authorities of Madrid are taking measures to prevent the commission of outrages at the capital.

What Natural Taxation Will Do. A Few Points Cited From Thomas G. Shearman's "Natural Taxation."

It will give the laboring masses more than 48 per cent of the annual savings of the country instead of less than 19 per cent, as now.

It will give the middle and laboring classes together more than 60 per cent instead of, as now, less than 36 per cent.

It will tax the rich and poor equitably and not, as now, tax the rich 4 per cent and the poor 78 per cent upon their annual savings.

It will prohibit 28,000 families from having the power to accumulate one-half the annual production of the country, as they do now.
