DUCKS WITH LEGS TO GIVE AWAY

They Were Born in Illinois, and Can Swim Excellently.

Mr. John Gordon, of Mount Vernon, Ill., has a duck which has turned out a queer brood of ducklings. One had four perfect legs and feet, and the duckling uses them all in walking just like any other quadruped. The other has three legs, but the third leg is rather an Impediment in walking than otherwise. The other ducks in the brood are of normal appearance.

When it comes to swimming, however, the three and four-legged ducks show their superiority. They are like so many extra paddles or oars to a boat, and they can make better speed than their less favored brethren and sisters.

WOMAN'S INFLUENCE.

The influence of women upon the civilization of the world, could never be measured.

Because of her, thrones have been established and destroyed. The flash of her eye, the touch of her hand, and we have the marvellous power of women, glorious in the possession of perfect physical health.

Lydia E. Pinkham, by her wonderful discovery of the "Vegetable Compound," has done much to place this great power in the hands of women.

She has lifted thousands and thousands out of the misery brought by displacement of the womb, and all the evils that follow diseases of the uterus.

The "Vegetable Compound" restores natural cheerfulness, destroys despondency, cures backache, strengthens the muscles, restores the womb to its normal condition, and you are changed from a physical wreck to the joy of your home and friends.

By the way—the leading druggists tell us that the demand for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is simply beyond their power of understanding, and what is best of all, it does the work and cures where the best physicians utterly fail.

PYSO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

The Cream of Current Humor

The glorious Fourth has passed away. The day dawns bright with cheer; The small boy's chances to survive Are good for one more year.

—Washington Star.
Poet—How do you know the editor isn't in? Office-boy—From your looks.
—Puck.

First Tramp—Wuz you ever married? Second Tramp—Well, I jist wish I had all the alimony I owe.—Puck.

—Weren't you surprised when he proposed? "No; why should I be?" "By anybody else was."—Harlem Life.
Never Touched Her: He—Don't you ever tire of talking? She (quickly)—It depends upon who is talking.—Vogue.

Artist—That man Bacon offered me $12 for that largest painting of mine. Caller—Oh, then you've had it framed;—Yonkers Statesman.

She—Young Baggie, I believe, takes his fences well? He—Yaas, splendidly; but it's a pity his horse doesn't take 'em at the same time.—Sydney Bulletin.

"There!" hissed the jealous Moor; "how do you feel now?" "Down in the mouth," gasped the irrepressible Desdemona from beneath her pillow.—Puck.

"It is simply astonishing the way the bicycle is displacing the horse." "It is, indeed. Yesterday I found a piece of rubber tire in my sausage."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Brown—Have you read this article upon "How to Tell a Bad Egg?" Jones—No, but if you have anything to tell a bad egg, my advice is to break it gently.—Up-to-Date.

Miss Recheer (indignantly)—Did you tell Jim Jackson that he married me? He'd had a white elephant on bees hands? Miss Snotflake—No, indeed, I didn't! Do you think I see color-blind?—Puck.

Amicus—Why, do you use the expression funny joke? Aren't all jokes funny? Editor—Not by a long shot. The jokes that other fellows get off at your expense are never funny.—Truth.

"It seems to me, Miranda," mildly observed Mr. Meeks, "these cakes would be considerably improved by the addition of a little more ginger." "So would you, William," briefly responded Mrs. Meeks.—Chicago Tribune.

"Well, girls, Jack and I are to be married at last, and we are so happy!" "Did you and Jack have some trouble in getting your father's consent?" "No, papa and I had a lot of trouble in getting Jack's consent."—Exchange.

Mrs. Brown—I have been so annoyed at my husband. He has been at the club every night for a week. Mrs. Jones—Why, so has my husband, and he said he hadn't seen anything of your husband for a week.—Brooklyn Life.

She—It seems strange that men are no longer willing to do deadly combat for the love of a woman. He—Ain't it queer, though? Especially when women have so much more money of their own these days.—Indianapolis Journal.

"I once knew a man," said the imaginative boarder, "who was so fat that he was actually taller lying down than when he was standing up. What do you think of that?" "It strikes me," said the cheerful idiot, "as pretty tall lying."—Indianapolis Journal.

A Dangerous Text: "Well, Uncle Rashbury, how did you like the sermon?" "Pov'ful ben sermon, Marse John." "Where did the preacher take his text?" "Frum dat pot'ion ob de Scrip-ture whar de Postol Paul pints his pictol to de Fesions."—Washington Times.

Fair Patient—Is there no way of telling exactly what is the matter with me? Dr. Emdee—Only a post-mortem examination would reveal that. Fair Patient—Then, for heaven's sake, make one. I don't see why I should be squeamish at such a time as this.—Pick-Me-Up.

"Modern society," observed the young man, contemplatively, "has revised most of the old-time proverbs." "Yes," observed the chaperon, to whom he had just handed an ice, "for instance, nowadays we say, 'When the husband comes in at the door, the lover flies out of the window.'"—Exchange.

First Summer Girl—Are you going to that old Christian Endeavor meeting this evening? Second Summer Girl—Yes, indeed! Haven't you heard the subject to be discussed? First Summer Girl—No; what is it? Second Summer Girl—"How to Hold Our Young Men."—New York Press.

"I was very glad, Mabel, to see you among those who were received into the church last Sunday." "Yes, auntie, but I was so provoked with the clergyman—I had to give him the old-style, unfashionable handshake. And he gets a salary of $6,000 a year!"—Chicago Tribune.

"Rastus, you infernal nigger, you told me that mule was perfectly safe, and when I went into the stable he nearly kicked the top of my head off." "Yes, sah; I s'ayed de mowl wuz safe, sah. But ef yo' kin recollect, I didn't say nuffin' about wedder it was safe in his vicinity. Dat mowl is able enough to be safe anywhar."—Washington Star.

SCIENTIFIC AND INDUSTRIAL.

Gas made from sawdust is used to illuminate the streets and houses of Deseronto, Canada. The sawdust comes from the lumber mills in the neighborhood.

Threads of shredded steel are used in Germany as a substitute for sand paper. It is said to work more quickly and uniformly than sand paper, and does not clog.

Only about two minutes are required for the blood to course through the heart, thence to the lungs back to the heart, and then through the entire body, and return to the heart.

A Parisian inventor is endeavoring to perfect a phonographic watch. If he is successful, the world will soon see a watch which, by touching a spring, will whisper the time in your ear.

The report of the Railroad Commissioners of New York State shows that in 1890 twenty-six per cent. of our street railways were electrically equipped, and in 1895 about ninety-four per cent.

A ton of Atlantic water, when evaporated, yields eighty-one pounds of salt; a ton of Pacific water, seventy-nine pounds; the water of the Dead Sea, more than twice as much—187 pounds to the ton.

How much water shall we drink? From one-third to two-fifths as many ounces as there are pounds in our weight. Thus a person weighing 168 pounds would drink thirty-six to sixty-four ounces, or 3½ to four pints daily.

An aerial cable railway will soon be built to the summit of the volcano Popocatepetl, near the City of Mexico, 18,000 feet above the sea. It is designed both for the shipping of sulphur from the crater, and for the accommodation of tourists.

Essential oil of garlic has been used to cure consumption by Dr. Sejourner, of Revin, in the Ardennes. Mixed with two hundred times its weight of sterilized olive oil it was injected under the skin, producing a marked improvement in the sixteen patients on whom it was tried.

In Siam there is a species of small black ant called "gong-ants." Among the working monster ants—elephants as compared with the others—move at regular intervals, and on each of these ants sits or rides one of the small ants, evidently in command.

It is said that a new soporific, to which the name pelotin has been given, has been discovered in a Mexican cactus called analonium. The native Mexicans eat slices of the plant, which they call "pellote." Its hypnotic alkaloid has been separated by Dr. Hefter, of Leipzig. One grain of pelotin is equal in its effects to 15 grains of trional and thirty-one grains of hydrate of chloral. It is effective in quieting delirium tremens only in large doses.

Difficult Rhymes.

In the Sunday Journal of June 21 was given a list of words for which it is either impossible or nearly so to find rhymes in the English language. "Thin buck too" was given as the only rhyme for "Timbuctoo." There is a better one, however, which was originated by a clergyman some years ago in a verse written during the progress of a social game:

"If I were a cassowary,
On the plains of Timbuctoo,
I would eat a missionary
Hat and boots and hymn-book too."

The only rhyme for "sealp" is "alp." It would require much thought to connect these words with good effect, but Byron has certainly done so in the following passage from "Child Harold":

"Above me are the Alps,
The palace of Saturn whose vast walls
Have unnumbered in clouds their snowy scalps
And throned Eternity in icy halls
Of cold sublimity, were forms and falls
Of avalanche—the thunderbolt of snow!"

There is also the case of Dean Swift, who was at one time most anxious to find a rhyme to Bettsworth—the name of a friend. One day, while remonstrating with a workman, whose claim for wages he disputed, the man exclaimed: "It's what my two-days' sweat's worth!" Dean Swift had found his rhyme and gladly paid the claim without further parley.—New York Journal.

Styles in Men's Shirts.

A shirt that opens in the front is less likely to break across the bosom than one that opens in the back only; and one that opens in the front only (many shirts are now made to open front and back, too) fits best; and the buttonholes in the collar-band and the eyelets, or other openings in the bosom for studs, afford sufficient play, while the yoke of the shirt remains firm and smooth. The shirt that opens front and back has the advantage that the studs can be put in place before the shirt is put on; in putting on and taking off the shirt it is opened at the back; the stud need not be removed until the shirt is sent to the wash. With this freedom from handling the shirt is likely to remain longer in suitable condition for wear.

The proportion of shirts made to open in front, either front and back both or front only, is all the time increasing.

More and more shirts are now being worn with cuffs attached.—Philadelphia News.

Illiterate Russian Conscripts.

About seventy-five per cent. of the Russian conscripts are illiterate. In other words, out of 250,000 men drafted into the army every year, 200,500 are unable to read or write. On entering the army they are taught to read and write, wherefore the Russian War Minister claims for the conscriptive system the credit of being one of the chief adjuncts to rudimentary public instruction.

Gold in the Coin.

Despite oft reiterated, the statement that there is $20 worth of gold in a $20 gold piece, and its consequent demonstration of the unimportance of the Government stamp in giving the coin value, is frequently called in question. An interesting and authoritative answer to this oft repeated inquiry has been obtained by the Baltimore Sun from R. E. Preston, the Director of the Government Mint. The questions and the answers of Mr. Preston are as follows:

"What do you give for gold?"
Answer—The Government pays for gold at the rate of $20.67 per ounce fine, or $18.60 per ounce standard (.9 fine).

"Is there a charge for minting, and if so, how much is it?"
Answer—The Government makes no charge for coining gold.

"Is there a charge for the copper used to prepare gold for the mint?"
Answer—When the bullion deposited is not suitable for coining, and requires parting and refining, charges are made for these operations equal to the expense incurred in eliminating the base metals and parting the gold from the silver when the two metals are combined. There is also a charge of two cents per ounce for copper required for alloy. Upon gold bullion of standard fineness—that is, containing .9 gold and .1 copper—no charge whatever would be imposed.

"Will the mint give $1 for 23.22 grains of pure gold?"
Answer—The depositor of gold bullion is allowed 100 cents for every 23.22 grains Troy of pure gold his deposit may contain.

"What is a $20 gold piece worth in the market if melted into a lump?"
Answer—Twenty dollars ($20), if it has lost nothing in the melting.

Suggestibility of Crowds.

The spontaneous phenomena which the Germans call Massenpsychosen—a word denoting a state of mind shared by a mass of people at once—are nothing more than nature's experiments in suggestibility conducted on a large scale for our benefit. The panic is a familiar illustration. The terrifying suggestion which each man could easily brave alone becomes so intensified in being reflected upon him from a thousand frightened faces that he gives way and becomes for the time being an unreasoning, struggling animal. During every great strike such phenomena are common. A crowd gathers, the spirit of disorder is abroad, and the soberest of citizens feels his fingers fairly itching for mischief. A stone is thrown, another, and then another, and in a few moments every man is vying with his neighbor to see how much damage he can do. In these cases the frequently repeated suggestions given by the words, and still more by the deeds, of others overcome the results of years of training in orderly habits, and when the excitement has subsided many a participant in the late riot may fall to wondering "what in the world possessed him." The colloquial phrase, like many other, enshrines a truth. He was indeed possessed—not by any evil spirit, to be sure, but by myriads of delicate physical impulses, which, streaming in through eye and ear, prompted him with almost irresistible force to violence.—Popular Science Monthly.

Lost in a Can of Tomatoes.

The finding of a gold watch and chain in a can of tomatoes by an Indianapolis woman brings out a remarkable story. The find was reported and the circumstances noted in the Indianapolis News, and the next day a young woman who is employed in a cannery appeared at the office and identified the watch and chain.

She lost them, she said, two years ago, and while employed at the factory. She did not know how she lost them, and advertised at the time for several days. She says this would have discovered the property if it had not been sealed in a can in a storeroom. She had long ago bought a new one. The lost one was dearer to her, however, both because it was prettier and because it was given to her. Her theory is that the watch and pendant chain dropped from her belt into one of the elevator buckets, was carried to the filler and went through the filler to the can. The bow, or ring, which connects watch and chain was not found, and it is believed that this part was not solid gold, and was, therefore, eaten by the acid of the tomatoes. The mainspring was broken, but everything else kept intact during the two years' handling of the can, and the watch is again as good as new and is keeping good time.

Music of Insects.

Sir John Lubbock says that the house fly, which produces the sound F, vibrates its wings 20,100 times a minute, or 335 a second; and the bee, which makes the sound of A, as many as 26,000, or over 430 a second. On the contrary, a tired bee hums on E, and vibrates its wings only 300 times a second. Marey has succeeded in confirming these numbers. He fixed a fly so that the tip of the wing just touched a cylinder covered with smoked paper moved by clockwork. Each stroke of the wing caused a perceptible mark, and there were actually 336 strokes in a second, agreeing almost exactly with the number inferred from the note produced.—Nature.

Butter as a Medicine.

English experiments have shown that good butter is equal to cod liver oil for consumptives and others needing to be built up in flesh, and that it is much more easily digested, and hence it can be used in larger quantities. Many stomachs too delicate to digest cod liver oil at all readily digest large quantities of butter taken on thin slices of stale bread.

VEST'S START IN LIFE.

His Joke on a Crowd of Poker Players Drove Him West.

One of the conspicuous figures in the Chicago convention was Senator Vest, of Missouri. Vest, says a correspondent, is a Kentuckian. He began life by monkeying with a poker game that was foreign to him. It was at a little village on the Ohio River. Vest was a poor boy and did not play poker. Draw poker is only for very wealthy men. That night a game was raging in the cabin of a flatboat, which was moored to the levee. The temper of the town was fitful and they indelible folk who played poker. So the Judge and the Prosecuting Attorney and others who desired relaxation went down to this flatboat so that the town would not get onto their sinful careers and put a crimp in them. Vest came strolling along about 10 p. m. where the flatboat rose and fell on the sobbing tide. He perceived the poker game in its criminal progress. Vest loved a good jest, so he quietly made loose the lines of the flatboat and cast the poker game adrift on the dark, shimmering bosom of the river. The malcontents played on, little heeding that they were now adrift. At 4 o'clock a. m. old man Taylor had won $70 in Mexican silver money. Then he got cold feet. Old man Taylor said he had promised his wife that he would come home early. The others jeered. This did not daunt old man Taylor. He snickered his spool about his honest old frame and saying "adois" left the cabin of the flatboat and carefully picked his way overboard into about twenty feet of water. He was fished out and rolled on a barrel by the other players to get the water and the money out of him. When they at last were towed back to town and found the entire village awaiting them at the levee, they began to hate Vest for the jocular role he had played. They at once laid for the coming Senator with sixshooters. Now, if there is one thing about Vest more than another, it is the fact that he's what they call out West "gun-shy." Vest won't stand for artillery a moment. So he fled westward and went so fast he simply burned up the region lying between Kentucky and Missouri. Afterward Vest grew up with the country.

It Referred to the Dog.

In a well-known street in London a beggar was often seen plodding about with a small dog. The dog was held by a piece of chain, and had round his neck a placard, with "Pity the Blind" in large, red letters. Mr. T., passing one day, dropped a sixpence into the man's outstretched hand.

"Halloa!" he cried, as he was turning away, "was that a half-sovereign I gave you?"

"No, sir—no," answered the beggar; "only sixpence."

"So," said Mr. T., "you are not blind, after all?"

"Bless you, sir, no!" he replied. "You see, the placard refers to the dog. He's blind—not I!"

THE GREAT NURSERIES.

LOUISIANA, MO., ROCKFORD, ILLS.

Visited by Gov. Colman, Ex-Sec'y Agri. and the Hon. Mr. Judge Miller.

"Oh, how insignificant all my fifty years of nursery business seems, all combined, when compared with this stupendous establishment, where they count by millions," said Judge Miller, that veteran horticulturist, as he, in company with the writer, were being driven to the various departments of this vast nursery.

In an experience of over forty years we do not remember to have passed through an establishment where so large a number of hands were employed whose duties were so thoroughly systematized, and where business capacity of a higher order was manifested.

It is not in the soil of every farm that one finds qualities essential to the growth of the different kinds of Nursery stock, hence it has devolved upon these gentlemen, who were born to the Nursery business, to select from among the hills and valleys of the two Pikes such portions as are adapted to their purposes. But in this very fact of selection of soil we see their exceeding care for the future success of their stock.

Missouri and Illinois have no more worthy institutions than the Stark Nurseries, and surely no better or more representative men than the proprietors. The business is growing on their hands as it deserves to grow. They have a system of 40,000 acres of commercial test orchards located in great fruit growing regions.

The canvassing force is being increased; 5000 fine outfits ready. Stark Nurseries always have room for more active workers because they have millions of Stark trees to sell.—Colman's Rural World.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. This is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. Afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.
