By restoring silver to its former place both metals would become in effect one 'metal; one primary money mass, both would respond to the demand of debts and business, and to support with broader basis the credit fabric of the world. Says a Freach writer in 1881: "The law, by placing the yellow metal and white metal on the same basis by establishing a fixed ratio between them, has made them really a single money."—Sterling (Kan.) "Business Men."

In common with millions of our fellow citizens, we contend that when the money question is considered from a "business" standpoint (and that is the standpoint from which it should be considered every business should have fair play and an impartial hearing, and that no few special calling should arrogate to themselves the right to be considered the only "business" worth figuring in the premises, and the only ones which have within them intelligence enough to say how our monetary systems shall be formed or of what our money shall consist. The gold handler and those who agree with him may demand gold exclusively, but other men engaged in different pursuits, whose business is crippled by adhering to the gold standard, have just as much right and better reason for demanding a broader and less monopolistic system, one which will give them a better showing and, in their opinion, the country more prosperity. In common with millions of our felprosperity.

The opposition to the free coinage of silver is a crine—a miserable, erazy notion. If I had the doing of it there would be no room for a goldbug in this country. The gold standard would ruin the country—positively ruin it. I have seen in my time silver superior in value to gold, and its depreciation has been caused by its demonetization. The silver dollar was the unit of value until 1873, when there was a 3 per cent, premium on the metal. At that time the value of silver was 3 per cent. more than that of gold.—Jay Cooke.

some Questions of Silver's Foes.

William J. Bryan, the Democratic champion of free silver, spoke to an immense audience of farmers and workingmen at the Hornellsville (N. Y.) fair during his tour through the State. Mr. Bryan said:

Our opponents have no policy on the money question. They don't say that the gold standard is good. No party in the history of the United States ever said that the gold standard was good. And yet, my friends, parties have existed here, parties have written platforms, parties have nominated candidates, parties have nominated candidates, parties have nominated candidates, parties have nominated candidates, parties have nominated randidates, parties have nominated form the segment of the segm declared that bimetallism is better than a gold standard, that same platform says that until the leading commercial Nations shall consent to an international agreement we must bear the gold standard. Now, if the gold standard is a good thing, the Republican party ought to have declared in favor of its permanent maintenance. If the gold standard is a good thing the United States ought to have it. If the gold standard is a boad thing no foreign Nation should be permitted to force a gold standard upon the people of this country. How long does the Republican platform say we must endure the gold standard? For a year? It doesn't limit it to a year. For four years. It doesn't limit it to four years. You know that force for the pold standard?

You know that platform in substance

You know that platform insubstance declares that we must submit to it forever if other Nations insist upon our doing it. There is not in that platform, in that money plank, a single ray of hope.

Are you satisfied with your condition? If you are you want to keep the gold standard. If you are not satisfied with your conditions until other people take pity on us and come to our rescue? That, my friends, is the position in which we are placed in this campaign—no party defending the gold standard and yet a great party willing to surrender the right of self government, willing to place in legislative powers in other Governments the right to legislate for the people of the United States. I do not believe the American people will ever someant to receive their mandates from across the ocean.

Our opponents do not attack one of

Our opponents do not attack one of the strong planks in our platform.
We declare against the issuance of bonds in times of peace and the trafficking with syndicates, that are themselves out for a high price, to look after our Government. We denounce that policy. Does the Republican party denounce it? No, not a word in its platform denouncing it.

If the Republican party succeeds will it stop that policy? No, because svery man who is interested in that syndicate, every man who profits out of the Government's extremities. is feelaring that the Republican ticket must be elected this year in order to save the country.

And vet when our opponents, come.

must be elected this year in order to save the country.

And yet when our opponents come before the people, to wnom do they appeal for votes? Do any of the Republican speakers turn to the money changers and appeal to them to vote the Republican ticket? No, it is not necessary, my friend, to waste time on them. They represt to the series of the control of the control to the control of the control of the control to the control of the contr them. They appeal to the ones who they think will require the most per-suasion. To whom do they appeal? To the laboring men of this country. They tell the laboring man that they are so afraid that something is going to happen to him.

They tell the laboring man that they are so afraid that something is going to happen to him.

Well, now, how can you tell whether these men who stand at the head of the gold crusade, and yet do not have the courage to say so, are going to help the laboring men or not? Judge the future by the past. We have scriptural authority for the assertion that the tree is known by its fruit. These trees have been bearing fruit for twenty years, and there has not been a thing on a single tree that a laboring man would have in his house. These are the men who by the formation of great trusts have stifled competition, driven the small competition, driven the small competition out of business. Will they at this late day turn around and champion laws for the special benefit and protection of the laboring men? Show me the man who has tried to break down labor organization and I will show you man and who to-day is sweating blood for fear some laboring man is bow you man who to day is sweating blood for fear some laboring man is going to have his wages cut into.

Now, my friends, the policy of the anemy is to divide and conquer. Whenever there has been an effort upon the part of the laboring men to secure any legislation needed by them, where have they found their friends? They have tound their friends upon the farm, and not in Wall street. And now they appeal to the laboring man to come with the money changers and help them defeat the farmer because he wants a higher price for his product.

Some Questions of Silver's Foes.

Who can best betrasted? The men who have ledd the labor organizations bor organization in the United Statas. Who can best be trusted? The men who have led the labor organizations in the fights in the past, or the men who in the past have used their power to defeat the only protection of the laboring man, namely, his organization. Now, why did these laboring men demand the restoration of silver? Because they know that when the dollar goes up property goes down, and they know that when property is falling all enterprise is retarded and stagnation follows. They know the gold standard encourages the hoarding of money, instead of the expanding of it in the development of the resources of the country, and now this policy of hoarding is driving thousands and tens of thousands and hundreds of thousands of workings thousands in the streets, where they beg for the privilege of working for their daily bread.

These workings know that they cannot separate themselves from the tillers of the soil. These laboring were lege of working for their daily bread. These workmen know that thevean not separate themselves from the tillers of the soil. These laboring men know that there can be no prosperity in business in this country unless the farmer is selling what he produces for more than what it cost him to produce it.

Now, I want to suggest these questions: When you meet a man who is opposed to our platform, you find out what busines he is engaged in. Find out whether he has nay pecuniary interest that will lead him to take a position against us. Ask him if he is in favor of a gold standard. If he says he is, ask him if it is not queer that there never was a party in the United States that was in favor of a gold standard. If he says that he is opposed to a gold standard, andlis in favor of bimetallism. If he says that he is opposed to a gold standard, andlis in favor of bimetallism. If he says he wants other Nations to help, ask him what other Nations to help, ask him what other Nations to help, ask him what chance he thinks of their doing it. You ask him whether he thinks that a creditor country, whose rulers it. You ask him whether he thinks that a creditor country, whose rulers it. You ask him whether he thinks that a creditor country, whose rulers profit by the rise of the value of the dollar, whether those countries are every good people to expect to come and help us to stop the thing that is doing them good. If he says that he does not think this country is large enough to have a financial policy of its own, ask him what he thinks this Nation is large enough to have.

If he says that we are not able to legislate for ourselves on the greatest question that can come before the people, ask him what right we had, anyway, to declare our independence a hundred years ago.

You tell him that under free coinago the dollar will be the same size that it is now, the same weight and the same fineness. It will be a legal tender better than it is to-day, because while the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender better than it is to-day, is caused while the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender better when the sum of the gall tender on while weight and the same for the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender better than it is to-day, because while the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender of the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender of the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to matter whether man herefitted the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to matter whether man herefitted the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal tender to the silver dollar to-day is a legal ter, unless somebody contracts against t, the new silver dollar will be of legal bander no matter whether man hereiter tries to demonetize by law what the Government calls money. You will be some that if a dollar is worth a hundred cents to-day, because you can pay taxes with it, and pay debts with it, and buy property with it, how he knows it is going to be less when you make it better than it is to-day.

If he says that when you melt that silver dollar down it is not worth more in the says that when you melt that silver dollar down it is not worth more in the says that we have it is the dollar nelts you cannot have it coined again, but must use it to make spoons out of, out you intend by law to say he can ake it to the mint and have it restamped again just as he can take a gold dollar to-day and have it restamped if it melts.

General Distress.

Can it be that these gentlemen who coll in wealth—and who constitute the power of the goldbug movement—are ignorant of the fact that the condition of the laboring element of this Nation is bardly susceptible of being rendered worse? Do they not know that wages are now down to the starvation notch; that multiplied thousands are unable to obtain a day's employment at any price; that a very large percentage of those who have positions are working on one-half, and even less time, and that the prices for farm products have been beaten down until the farm has ceased to pay? Can it be that these gold standard advocates are so blind that they do not see that distress, more general and severe than perhaps ever characterized this fair land before, is now the portion of her people?—Springfield (Mo.) Leader.

A REPUBLICAN ORGY.

GENERAL PROFLIGACY UNDER HAR-RISON'S ADMINISTRATION.

pletely Disproved - Republican Extravagance Mainly Responsible for the Country's Distress.

Extravagance Mainly Responsible for the Country's Distress.

To Mr. McKinley:

In your letter of acceptance you say of the Wilson Tariff law:

"It lacks the essential virtue of the creation—the raising of revenue sufficient to supply the needs of the Government. It has contributed to swell our National debt more than $262,-000,000, and general business demoralization is seen on every hand.

Confidence in home enterprises has almost wholly disappeared. Our men at home are idle and men abroad are occupied in supplying us with goods."

In a recent speech at your home you were even more explicit. You said of the sound-money Democrats:

"They " were chiefly instrumental in putting on the statute books tariff legislation which has destroyed American manufacturing, checked foreign trade and reduced the demand for the labor of American workingmen."

In the same speech you character-ized the existing (Wilson) tariff law as:

"Free trade legislation which has already resulted so disastrously to the American people and entailed upon the Government deficient revenues, upon the people diminished trade abroad and starvation wages at home."

abroad and starvation wages at home."

These statements and characterizations are not true, Mr. McKinley.

1. The Wilson tariff has not "destroyed American manufacturing" or "checked foreign trade." On the contrary, as you very well know, the exports of American manufactured goods, which amounted under your own tariff law in the fiscal year 1892 only to $158,000,000, have so inversed under the Wilson law that for the fiscal year 1893 they were no less than $228,000,000.

2. When you assert that the exist-the fiscal year 1896 they were no less than $228,000,000.

2. When you assert that the existing tariff has "reduced the demand for the labor of American workingmen" you are under obligation to establish the fact. What proof have you that the demand for American labor is less under the present tariff than it was under your own? If your assertion is true you can easily establish it by statistics. You doubtless remember that in 1890 you asserted that wages in protected industries had advanced under your tariff, and yet apon an oft-repeated challenge you atterly failed to point out a single instance in which any such thing had occurred. Is your present assertion equally without a foundation of fact? Is it fair, is it just, is it even honest to make such an assertion if you cannot prove it?

3. The Wilson law is not "free trade legislation," and you know it. You now the year of the present tariff is higher.

3. The Wilson law is not "free trade egislation," and you know it. You know that the present tariff is higher than the Expublican tariff of 1883, under which labor was amply protected. You know that it is 50 per cent. higher than the Morrill war tariff. You know how the properties of the properties of the properties of the properties of the properties. it is the highest protective tariff in the world. Is it honest or fair to call this world. Is it honest or fair to call this "free trade?"

4. The Wilson bill, as you perfectly know, has not "entailed upon the Government deficient revenues." You know that but for the Supreme Court's anomalous decision declaring its income tax feature unconstitutional the Wilson measure would have produced ample revenues to pay all Government expenses and leave a surplus. You know that when that source of revenue was destroyed it was a Republican Congress which refused to increase the beer tax or do anything else to repair the deficiency. Is it fair, is it manly, is it wise, under existing circumstances, for you thus to misrepresent facts?

But there is a broader aspect of this matter. In these assertions and suggestions you challenge scrutiny of Republican crimes under Harrison. It is reckless and even a fatal thing for you to do.

The very mischiefs which you charge to Democratic legislation and Democratic administration have been the necessary results, the inevitable fruits of that orgy which began with Mr. Harrison's inauguration and ended only with his departure from office after his crushing defeat by the people. As you were yourself a prominent and influential factor in the events of that period you must know this fact as well as we do. Is it fair for you to ignore it and attribute to Democratic legislation and administration results which were unmistakable consequences of Republican misconduct?

1. You know perfectly well that when Mr. Harrison came into office Mr. Cleveland turned over to him a Treasury full to repletion, with a surplus of more than a hundred million of dollars, and with revenue laws producing vastly more money than the Government needed.

2. You know that at the end of Mr. Harrison's term the surplus was exhausted and that there would have

Harrison's term the surplus was ex-hausted and that there would have been a deficiency apparent but for lars, but fastened so many unjust permanent charges upon the Treasury as to make it impossible for succeeding Congresses to reduce this extraordinary and extravagant total.

5. You know that whatever deficiency there has since been in the revenue, whatever consequent embarrassment to business and whatever prostration to industry are in large part the fruits of recklessness for which the Republicans much more than the Democratic party is responsible, and in which you yourself bore a commanding part. Why not tell the truth about these things? Are honesty, cardor, fair dealing and truth telling less imperative obligations to a candidate for President than to ordinary men? nary men?

But this is not all.

Mr. Harrison was elected by a minority vote, even as compared with that of his Democratic opponent alone. The majority of the popular vote was heavily against him. No sooner was he seated than your party set about securing his re-election and preserving its control of the Senate in spite of anything the majority of the voters might decree.

There were five Territories that could be depended upon to elect Republican Senators and give their electoral votes to a Republican Congress made of these five sparsely populated Territories six new Republican States, with twelve Senators, eight members of Congress and twenty electoral votes.

Not one of these States had a pop-

States, with twelve Senators, eight members of Congress and twenty electoral votes.

Not one of these States had a population fairly entitling it to admission. Not one of them would have been admitted except in aid of the Republican conspiracy to re-elect Mr. Harrison and to intrench the Republican party in control of the Senate in spite of the country's will. Incidentally this political crime was expected to render impossible the repeal of any legislation the Congress that committed it might enact. It was designed to enable your party to fasten permanently on the country that system of bounties and favoritism and extravagance which made possible and profitable the very wrongs and roberies against which the free silver craze is largely a misguided protest.

Mr. Harrison and the Congress elected with him reduced the revenues, squandered the surplus, increased the surpnitures, swellad the pension list steeted with him reduced the revenues, squandered the surplus, increased the expenditures, swelled the pension list antil it cost more than any of the great European war establishments and inaugurated a system of general profligacy which has alarmed and an-gered the country.

In face of this record it is neither honest nor politic in you to insult the intelligence of Democrats whose suffrages you ask by attributing to Democratic legislation and administration the ills of which your own party was shief author.

It was not the Wilson law, but the Republican crimes under Harrison, that laid the foundations for present distress and created conditions which threaten the country with policies of dishonor.—New York World.
