A Genuine Mark-Down.

Mrs. Shopper—Do you believe that any of these mark-downs are genuine? Mrs. Seizem—Some of them are, I know. My son got one of them.

Mrs. Shopper—What was it?
Mrs. Seizem—A wife. He married a girl in a combination store. She was 21—marked down from 29.—N. Y. World.

An Unchanged Opinion.

"You may call Mr. Biggles egotistic and conceited if you choose," she said, "but there's one trait that I admire in him. He always gives his wife credit for possessing excellent judgment. I don't think that's very egotistical."
"Yes, it is," her husband replied. "He does that because she selected him when she married."—Washington Star.

THE FORCE OF LOVE

OLD back thy whip,
O master!
Hold back thy course
and frown!
The demons of disaster
Fear not the sword or gown;
The demons of disaster
They troop to wreck all ships
Than winds of Heaven faster—
Hold back thy frowns and whips.
For these, the poor, thy brothers
Remember Him of Galilee!

What other power can save you
From evils trooping near?
From demons all that brave you?
His love alone they fear:
The demons all that brave you
What other is to stay?
Give us the freely gave you,
On this His natal day.
By sacrifice we come to bliss,
There is no other path but this.

Behold the star that shineth
Forever in the east!
Behold the rose that twinneth
Above the fair of best!
Behold the rose that twinneth
To bless the monarch's bower,
To cheer his hand designeth
The same the toiler's hour!
The space between the poor and great
His presence doth obliterate.

O perfect love that chideth
The heart that harbors wrong!
O love that still abideth
To make the weakest strong!
O love that still abideth
When all else sure hath fled,
Thou art thy strength o'er-rideth
The demons man doth dread.
"Thine, O silent force of love,
To make a lion of the dove."
CHARLES EUGENE BANKS.

A NAMELESS GIFT.

Why Sister Mary Broke Her Engagement with the Doctor.

When Sister Mary began it she intended it to be a lamp mat, and the receiver was to be my Cousin Sarah. Sister Mary is rather touchy about some things, but I never knew anything to affect her so severely as the mere mention of that lamp mat does now. In fact, I studiously refrain from all mention of it unless I particularly wish to rile her.

Cousin Sarah and Sister Mary are about the same age. I shall not mention Sister Mary's age, as she is still unmarried (having broken with the doctor that Christmas), but I think I am allowed to state that Cousin Sarah was 45 last August, for, since she is married, she is not so particular about concealing her years.

Of course Sister Mary would never have attempted making a lamp mat (for she had never crocheted one before) if Cousin Sarah had not bought the Dresden lamp, so I blame the whole trouble on the Dresden lamp.

The lamp mat began all right, with a little round flat center. Sister Mary got that finely. But as the size increased the thing seemed to curl up around the edge, like the tail of a dried herring, and the larger it grew the more it curled up, until it got to be the shape of a china wash basin. I don't know what was wrong with it, for I am not an expert in that line, but before the lamp mat was complete Sister Mary decided to call it a bag of some sort or other, and put ribbons on it for handles and a tassel on the bottom. You see, when a lamp mat makes up its mind to be a pudding bag you just have to let it have its own way.

So, as I said, she put long ribbons on it, pink ones, and some bows, and I took it over and gave it to the bald-headed doctor, with her compliments and a "Merry Christmas."

She was engaged to him then. That was all right, but what do you think that doctor did? Why, he sat right down and wrote her a note thanking her for her kindness in sending him such a "tasty and comfortable night-cap" and assuring her that it would bring him pleasant dreams. Yes, sir! And I don't wonder Sister Mary got mad and broke the engagement.

But you can bet she hasn't tried to make any lamp mats since.

ELLIS PARKER BUTLER.

TIMELY PRECAUTION.

Tommy—Don't be afraid, doggie, I won't hurt you—I just want to tell you something—if you hear any noise to-night, just keep perfectly still, for it'll be Santa Claus, and we don't want him scared away.—St. Louis Republic.

WHY THEY LAUGHED.

How Mrs. Busybee Astonished Her Large Circle of Friends.

It was past noon on Christmas day, and Mr. Busybee had just consulted his watch for the fifteenth time in an hour, wondering how he was to get through the day without one peep at the office.

His thoughts were suddenly interrupted by the appearance of his wife, who dashed into the room, seated herself violently upon a chair and burst into tears.

"I do believe the people of this town are the most ill-bred specimens of hu-manity on the face of the globe!" she sobbed.

"But, my love, what has caused you to change your mind so suddenly? Only yesterday—"

"Look here, Ignatius Busybee, I want to know if there is anything humorous

NO WONDER THEY LAUGHED.

in the fact that you gave me a sealskin saccie for my Christmas present?"

"Nothing humorous at all, my dear. On the contrary—"

"Then is there anything very peculiar, the thermometer being near zero, in my wearing the saccie to church today?"

"Why, dear, the peculiar fact would have been your not wearing it to church today!"

"Very well, then, will you explain the behavior of people to-day! The conductor laughed in my face as he took my fare, a woman whom I never saw before wanted to talk to me in the car and, as I walked up the church aisle, everybody was in a broad grin!"

"Perhaps they were pleased to see you in a sealskin!"

"Yes, it is so likely that Sarah Snuggs would be pleased at that, and yet she was one of the worst ones! And here I—I thought I'd be perfectly happy if I only had a sealskin!"

"I, too, had hoped to be happier, then, my love!"

"All through service it was the same! My head ached from the cold, anyhow. Why, what is the matter? You are as bad as the rest! What is wrong with my saccie?"

"For Mr. Busybee had turned, looking full at her.

"It is not the fault of the saccie; that's all right. Only, in your haste to see yourself in it, you forgot to put on any bonnet!"

AN EYE TO BUSINESS.

Collector—I can't keep coming here every day after this bill.

Landlady—I'll rent you a room for ten dollars a week.—Detroit Free Press.

Too Much to Ask at the Start.

She—Now that we are engaged, dear, I shall expect you to kiss mother when you see her.

"Do you think that is fair?"

"What is?"

"To test my love so soon?"—N. Y. World.

Shocking Ignorance.

"Pa, who was Shylock?"

Paterfamilias (with a look of surprise and horror)—Great goodness, boy, you attend church and Sunday school every week and don't know who Shylock was? Go and read your Bible, sir.—N. Y. Tribune.

The Rising Kind.

No Reason.

When you ask a fowl what season Does his fancy most engage,
Though a wise bird, 'tis no reason That his answer should be "sage."
—Detroit Free Press.

Domestic Bills.

She—Do you get on better with your wife nowadays?
He—O, yes; we have arranged that one of us shall always be out when the other is at home. We are very happy.—Vogue.

To Sharpen Him.

"Why is it that all the boys seem so anxious to get a grind on poor Robson?"

"Oh, he's so dull, you know."—Chicago Journal.

Always Great.

"He's a small man—everything about him is small."
"You never took him out to luncheon or you would except his appetite."—Bay City Chat.

A Friend's Opinion.

"Louise, did I sing 'Home, Sweet Home,' with the necessary expression?"

"Yes, indeed, Isabel; the way you sang it made everybody in the room feel like going home."—Chicago Record.

Very Pathetic.

"Do you call this an emotional drama?"

"Yes; the attempt of the leading lady to play comedy is very pathetic, indeed."—Bay City Chat.

AN IRRESISTIBLE APPEAL.

ON CHRISTMAS MORNING.

The beautiful maiden withdrew her foot hastily.

Plunging her arm into the silken depths she took from the toe of her stocking a five-pound box of candies that she had overlooked.

Need it be added that this happened in Chicago?—N. Y. Truth.

What He Put Up.

Checkly—Did you hang up your stocking on Christmas eve?
Harduppe—No, not quite as bad as that; but I hung up my overcoat and watch.—Brooklyn Life.

Her Time of Joy.

New Boarder—Do you enjoy Christmas, ma'am?
Landlady—Very much, indeed. All my boarders get invited out to dine, you know.—Chicago Record.

THE DOCTOR LOOKED PUZZLED.

Hereafter, if your horse you'd see
Well-filled at Christmas dawn,
Why, take this simple hint from me—
Sleep with your stockings on.—L. A. W. Bulletin.

A Christmas Fact.

The future has a golden tinge,
The past, too, may seem pleasant;
But just about the Christmas tide
There's nothing like the present.
—Harlem Life.

Portrait of a Lady.

Dear Mabel's very clever;
She coaxed away my pelf,
And bought me all the pinneracks
She fancied for herself.
—Chicago Record.

Strategic Movements.

First Boy—See here! Didn't I see you running down street yesterday with Bill Bounce after you, wantin' to lick you?
Second Boy—Yes.
"What did you run for?"
"I—was only running so as to get him away from home, so his mother couldn't see him fightin'; but by the time we was out of sight of his house we got in sight of our house; and then, as my mother would see me if I stopped to hit him, I went in, so as to be out of temptation."—N. Y. Weekly.

Sure of That.

Facetious Customer—Walter, I suffer from sharp teeth and a sharp appetite. What would you recommend as a remedy for the complaint?
Walter (under notice to leave)—Well, sir, you might try a steak.
Facetious Customer—Do you think that would take the edge off my appetite?
Walter—I daresay it would, sir. Anyway, it would take the edge off your teeth.—Fun.

Had a General Idea.

English Visitor (in Washington)—It is customary, is it not, to refresh the white house entirely whenever a new president goes into it?
Native—Yes.
English Visitor—I have observed that there is always a great deal in your papers about his selection of a cabinet. Is that what he keeps his state papers in?—Chicago Tribune.

Stroke of Enterprise.

"God helps those"—
The prudent business man carefully emptied two packages of tacks over a large area of asphalt—"who helps themselves."

He strewn the fragments of a beer bottle along the roadway and then retired to his bicycle repair shop to wait for custom.—N. Y. Journal.

A Word Falster.

He—the architecture of Europe would interest me most.
She (Dakota belle, expatiating on her travels)—Yes, everything is so quaint.
He—How did the cathedral of Cologne impress you?
She—Oh, of course, that was too sweet for anything.—Bay City Chat.

Had Been Cleaned Already.

Husband (to wife)—I cannot conceive what is the matter with my watch; I think it must want cleaning.
Spolt Child (breaking in)—Oh, father, I don't think it needs cleaning. Papy and I had it washing in the basin for ever so long this morning.—Tit-Bits.

DRIFTON ITEMS.

For more than a month we have been treated to several important reports regarding the changes which will be made in the officials of the companies around January 1. These rumors have been strenuously denied when they reached headquarters, but the frequency with which they are met makes one believe that where there is so much smoke there must be some fire. It is now conceded by some of the lesser heads that they will have new superiors in a short while, but further than this little reliable news can be given. The predictions of those who claim to know include the removal of almost everybody in authority from President Walters down, but this may be considered as an exaggeration. Superintendent Smith, it is positively asserted, is slated to go, and his removal will make some other changes necessary. We have not heard that the rail-roads intend to pass resolutions of regret.

Every purchaser at J. P. McDonald's store this week will receive a handsome souvenir.

Mrs. Fanny O'Donnell, an estimable lady of town, died on Monday morning in an hospital at Philadelphia, where she went recently to undergo an operation. Her friends here understood that she was improving since treatment was begun on her, and the news of her death was received with sorrow. Mr. O'Donnell was a widow of James O'Donnell, who was killed in the mines here some time ago. Six children survive her, also her mother, Mrs. Charles Gallagher, of Freeland, and one sister and three brothers, Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell, Freeland; Hugh Gallagher, Beaver Meadow; Edward, Onedia, and Bernard C. Victor, Colorado. The funeral took place this morning. A requiem mass was read at St. Ann's church, after which the remains were interred in the cemetery adjoining.

Every motorman and driver should wear a dancie. Sold at A. Oswald's.

Some complaints about work are heard from those employes who have lived here from their boyhood. They say that they are first to be laid off by the bosses when work gets scarce, but that numbers of foreigners can be found who have a steady job all the year round. One of these old hands has made the suggestion that they try a remedy which foreigners have found quite successful in warding off idle days—to furnish the bosses with a box of beer and a few quarts of something stronger, every couple of weeks. It is said this works like a charm in some departments. However that may be, it would be more just to all if the employes were given the preference when men are kept at work.

The dancie will never let your ears or face get cold. Sold at A. Oswald's.

Through the generosity of the Coxie ladies the children of town were made happy yesterday, when each and every one received a present from the big Christmas tree which was erected in Cross Creek hall. Many of the gifts were just what the children wanted, and good judgment was exercised in the distribution. Many a home which the restrictions of the coal trust had darkened was thus brightened by the happiness of the little ones.

Removal sale bargains at Sweeney & Heron's, Hazleton.

The Coxie ladies sent a large wagon to the Hazleton hospital yesterday. It was loaded with sweaters, gloves, handkerchiefs and other small articles of clothing, also several boxes of sweets. These will be distributed to the inmates tomorrow.

Buy a dancie and dodge the doctor. Sold at A. Oswald's.

James S. and Manus Boyle, of Bayonne City, N. J., attended the funeral of their sis'er's child here yesterday.

Link Cunningham, of Lansing, Michigan, will spend Christmas with his parents.

An Embarrassing Moment.

"Here, take my seat, lady," said the little boy on the car as he sprang from his father's knee and doffed his hat.
The lady looked the bluest rose, the women giggled, the father signalled the conductor to stop and half a dozen men stood up while urging the lady to sit down.—Detroit Free Press.

Agreed with Him.

"I think," said the comedian, "that some of the humor which I have introduced is strictly up to date."
"Yes," replied the friend, who has a gentle method of saying unkind things "there is no doubt about that. There is a great popular craze for the antique at present."—Washington Star.

More Information.

"Caterers say that turkey is not stylish any more—it has become the luxury of the poor."
"Paw, what is a luxury?"
"Oh, it is anything you want that you never have the money to buy."—Chicago Record.

In Luck.

"Is it true, Whirly, that you can keep yourself and wife for less than you used to spend as a bachelor?"
"Much less. My expenses are too trifling to mention. I was fortunate enough to marry old Dullion's daughter, you know."—Detroit Free Press.

Looking Out For No. 1.

Proprietor—Why did you not give that gentleman the roast chicken he asked for?
Waiter—I know my business. I gave him something cheaper, so's he would have some money left to tip me with.—Tit-Bits.
