Hood's

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ilis and Sick Headache. 25 cents.

A Wonderful Material.

The peat, or turf, taken from the Irish bogs, is used as fuel in the manufacture of cloth, and when subjected to great pressure becomes as hard as bebony and may be used for a variety of mechanical purposes. After being washed, dried and teased it presents the appearance of an exceedingly coarse brown fabric. After further cardings it changes to a delicate, creamy, chocolate-colored fiber, which can be spun into yarn or woven into woolen goods. It can be bleached to a snowy whiteness and dyed any color. It can be produced for one-third the cost of shoddy, and in the finer makes the appearance is equal to tweed. Several members of the royal family, in cluding the Duchess of York, have purchased dresses of it. It is also an antiseptic and possesses absorbent qualities so great that it will soak up nine times its own weight of moisture. The value of peat fiber as a non-conductor of heat has been long known in this country, where it is used in the lining of refrigerators and cold-storage rooms, and also as a covering for steam pipes.

A Dog that Understands Music.

I have been surprised that trainers of animals pay so much attention to mere tricks and none to what might be termed accomplishments, says a writer. Almost all animals are judges of music and susceptible to its influences; herses dance to it, snakes are charmed by it. It is even said that a lion can be soothed with it so as to render the king of beasts harmiles. I know dogs not only enjoy music, but are sometimes good judges as to its quality, and I believe they could be taught by competent trainers to play correctly on musical instruments. I have one that was partially trained that way. He is very fond of the music of a violin; he does not attempt to follow a tune, but keeps time on quick pieces with short barks, while when pleces in minor chords are played he draws long, plain live breaths. If I introduce a false note, which I sometimes do on purpose, he will howl, and three or four such errors will make bim leave on a run. He can detect a false note even more quickly than I can.
