

Ericsson's Drawing Board.
An engineer in the department of docks, New York City, thinks that he has discovered the old drawing board on which Ericsson drew the plans for his famous Monitor. The wood is stained by age, and it is filled with holes from the thumb tacks that have been driven into it. Ericsson was employed by the Delamater Iron Works when he designed the Monitor. The company built a derrick for the city a few years later, and at that time the old drawing board was taken from their office and placed in the derrick. It was kicked around carelessly for several years, and finally landed in the office of the dock department, where it has seen much service.

An Egyptian Advertisement.
The story of the proposed trolley line from Cairo to the pyramids recalls another instance of modern enterprise. A certain tract society commissioned a painter to place religious texts on all available objects in Egypt. He traced this question on one of the pyramids: "Do you want to be saved?" "Another painter, in the interest of a quick medicine concern, came along and added beneath: "If you do, take Blank's Pills."—Atlanta Constitution.

Rattled.
To make a mad dog to order, is a tin pan to his tail. A man made mad is one who, after suffering 10, 15, 20 years with rheumatism, finds that by the use of a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil he is cured. He feels the waste of his life in pain, with the loss of time, place and money, and then reflects that for the expense of 50c. he could have saved all this and lived free of pain. It is enough to make him mad. Most of our sufferings are intensified by delay in seeking relief, and there is much worth knowing as regards the cure of pain that we find out at last only by the use of the best cure. It is worth knowing that for the cure of rheumatism there is St. Jacobs Oil, The Great Remedy for Pain, St. Jacobs Oil, and so much can be saved by its use, the cost is really nothing.

A Large Telegraph System.

There are 384 telegraph offices on the line, of which 24 are reporting Western Union offices. There is employed in this department 750 employees, exclusive of line men. The service of the Company's plant is considerably augmented by the use of several multiplex systems.

The Best. Rest. Test.

There are two kinds of sarsaparilla: The best—and the rest. The trouble is they look alike. And when the rest dress like the best who's to tell them apart? Well, "the tree is known by its fruit." That's an old test and a safe one. And the taller the tree the deeper the root. That's another test. What's the root,—the record of those sarsaparillas? The one with the deepest root is Ayer's. The one with the richest fruit; that, too, is Ayer's. Ayer's Sarsaparilla has a record of half a century of cures; a record of many medals and awards—culminating in the medal of the Chicago World's Fair, which admitting Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best—shut its doors against the rest. That was greater honor than the medal, to be the only Sarsaparilla admitted as an exhibit at the World's Fair. If you want to get the best sarsaparilla of your druggist, here's an infallible rule: Ask for the best and you'll get Ayer's. Ask for Ayer's and you'll get the best.

A VETERAN'S WIFE.
Affected With Heart Disease and Given Up to Die. Saved in a Wonderful Way.
From the Press, Utica, N. Y.
There is no one better known or respected in the village of Brookfield, Madison Co., New York, than Mrs. John Fisk, the wife of an old resident and veteran of the war of the Rebellion. In April of this year, Mrs. Fisk lay at death's door from neuritis and heart disease, the family physician having recommended her to settle all her worldly affairs, as she was liable to be taken at any minute, and inquiring friends expected at each visit to hear that she had passed away.

But Mrs. Fisk, to the surprise of her neighbors and physicians, suddenly began to mend, and now she is as strong and healthy a woman of her advanced age (76 years) as can be found, and really does not appear nearly so old as she is. The following is her own story of how she was cured.

"I consider it a duty to myself and the community to tell of my extraordinary recovery from what was thought by my physician, my husband and friends to be a fatal illness. I had long been suffering from neuritis in its worst form, enduring agonies that only those who have undergone such tortures can know, until my heart became so affected functionally and organically, that the doctor said I was liable at any time to pass away. He had done all in his power for me, and to thank him much for his kindness and attention, and believe him to be a good, faithful physician. I was not disposed to die, however, if I could help it, and he having done all he could, I felt at liberty to use any other means that held out a chance of life, and determined to try a remedy that had been recommended by a friend who had been at death's door from rheumatism and heart disease, but who now is in good health.

"Whatever doubt I may have had as to this medicine's efficacy in a dissimilar disease, to that from which he had suffered, was dispelled on reading in the Press of a case identical with my own being cured, with the name and address of the person who had been so benefited. So my husband who now was anxious that I should at once take the treatment, purchased for me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took them according to directions, and within a very short time the pains began to disappear, my heart's action became normal, and four weeks ago I ceased taking them, as I am entirely cured, and able to do my household work as well as when I was a young woman.

"I had always, until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, looked with suspicion on all advertised proprietary medicines, but now my ideas have undergone a wonderful change in that direction, for under God's all-wise Providence, 'Pink Pills' have renovated me, and apparently given me a new lease of life. 'This is no secret in this locality, and I hope this certificate may be the means of other sufferers in distant places securing the same benefits that I have received.'

Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose form) by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shop at 30 cents a box at six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medical Company.

Decline in Pearls.
A curious effect of the plague in India has been a sudden increase in the number of pearls reaching the London market, and a consequent marked fall in prices. This is not due to unusual industry on the part of the divers, but to the fact that the native dealers at Bombay have been in such haste to quit the stricken city that they have eagerly disposed of their wares at far below the customary market value. One English firm of importers of Indian pearls has accumulated a stock which, if placed suddenly on the market, it is estimated, would send down quotations fully 25 per cent.

A Nose Party.
A nose party is the latest. It came off in Buckport, Me., the other evening, and is thus described by a participant: Holes were made in a sheet large enough to admit a good-sized nose. Half of the party got behind it, and for a moment or two there was a widely varying assortment of proboscides on exhibition, ranging from the turn-up pig to the needle-pointed creation searcher. The party on the outside selected noses, each choosing the particular nose that suited his ideas, and the owner thereof was his partner for the evening. It was a solemn occasion.

LOCATING THE PEAR ORCHARD.

A slightly descending slope is most favorable in order to precipitate drainage and the discharge of surplus surface water, but it is not essential that any particular point of the compass should be secured. Shelter from the rake of the wind is important. The pear is a companionable tree and will luxuriate when supported by other trees around it. In close garden culture a degree of humidity is preserved and there is less evaporation from foliage where the strong winds are broken, while the growth will be more vigorous and healthy. There must, however, be sufficient air and sunlight to mature the wood and the fruit. If the site is high, it will be an advantage to plant an evergreen belt to the windward, both for the health of the trees and also to prevent the falling of the fruit during high winds. On the other hand, a low, cold and peaty position, subject to fogs and frosty nights, is objectionable. A strong, retentive loam inclined to clay is a preferable soil.—Fruit Grower.

RESTORING SOIL FERTILITY.
Restoring fertility to the farm land is of the greatest importance all over southern Illinois, writes William Dyke, of Illinois. I have learned that land here runs together like mortar, after rainfall, forming crust which allows subsequent rainfall to run off instead of soaking into the soil. Years ago, when surface soils were full of decayed leaves and roots of plants and grasses, this crust did not form so readily and evaporation was not so rapid. Hence, the advisability of getting the soil back to the original condition by plowing under heavy crops of vegetation, as a substitute for the leaves and roots which have disappeared by the continued cultivation during the last thirty or forty years.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.
To get clean strawberries use straw or salt hay under the vines, which prevents the sand or dirt from adhering to the fruit and also protects against loss of moisture.

Linseed meal is excellent for poultry, containing the nitrogen which is of benefit to them. A spoonful once a week is not out of proportion, and it will serve as a tonic to the bowels, as well as a food. It is not intended as a daily food.

A consensus of opinion among poultry keepers is that buckwheat is an excellent food for fowls. Some ascribe their profit to its use, chiefly. Of course, this means that all the other conditions of care and food are properly supplied.

A Child's Plea.
A pretty little golden-haired girl of seven years walked timidly into a New Jersey police court room the other day and asked for "the man who sent my mamma to jail." The judge happened to overhear her remark and asked the little miss what she wanted. Tears came into her eyes as she turned to the judge and asked, "Did you send my mamma to jail?" When told her name, the judge recalled that a short time before he had sentenced a woman to jail for sixty days for drunkenness and told the child to look up into the kindly face of the judge and asked, "Judge, did you ever have a mamma?" and then, choking with sobs, she could control her feelings no longer and begged piteously for her mother's release. "Your mamma has been very naughty," said the judge. "She gets drunk and abuses her neighbors." "But she is so good to me, and I love her," sobbed the golden haired pleader, "and if you'll let her go I—I won't let her be naughty any more—I love her so. Please, please, oh, please let her go." That was too much for the gray-haired, kind-hearted magistrate, and as he turned away to order the release of the mother, he used his handkerchief vigorously and his voice was husky from a "bad cold," which had suddenly developed.

Nettle Plant Fiber.
The nettle plant has long been known to have a fiber finer and better than hemp. In 1869 the sum of $25,000 was offered to the discoverer of a machine to separate the bark from the fiber. It seems that while no machine has been found the chemists have had good success. The fiber was used before the art of writing books; Rhea cloth is used to wrap around the mummies in Egypt; for nets and lines it is the best thing known; it is sometimes called "China grass;" it is well known to the Chinese, Malays, and Hindoos. It has been worked up into ropes, canvas, and even clothing.

He Saved Johnson.
Ex-Senator Edmund G. Ross, of Kansas, who, though a Republican, saved Andrew Johnson from being deposed from the office of President, has written and account of the part which he took in the famous impeachment proceedings. His course during that trial exposed Mr. Ross to fierce charges of treachery to his party, and there were more than hints that he had been paid for the vote which alone prevented a verdict of guilty; but calm observers even then were convinced that his action was conscientious. Mr. Ross is now a very old man, having been born in Ohio in 1826.

Suez Canal Statistics.
Suez Canal business for 1896 was the most remunerative on record; the traffic aggregated $15,930,435, says United States Consul-General Penfield, of Cairo. England supplied two-thirds of this traffic. The total number of steamers passing through the canal in 1896 was 3407, with an aggregate tonnage of 8,594,307. The receipts were abnormally increased by the number of Italian soldiers going to and returning from the Abyssinian war. Not a single ship carrying the American flag passed through the canal last year.

Caring Shoplifting.
A story is related of a London shopkeeper who cured a female kleptomaniac by inviting her into a private room and leaving her alone with his muscular maiden sister. The sister sent for a couple of birches, and "bired" the shoplifter until she howled for mercy. The shopkeeper says she has never troubled his store again, and he thinks she is thoroughly cured of the mania to appropriate that which does not belong to her.

Gypsum has been discovered in large quantities in Big Horn County, Wyoming, and is being used by the settlers for roofing their houses. Mixed with a thin mortar and spread upon the roof it soon becomes as hard as adamant and makes a most excellent protection against the elements.

A company has been formed at San Antonio, Texas, for the purpose of developing the wonderful asphalt deposits situated in the state of Tamaulipas, Mexico, which was recently developed by United States Vice Consul Von Vilenberg, of Matamoros, Mexico. The company has secured a lease for fifty years on the property.

A Kansas man has been granted a patent on a device for fastening houses together and holding them on their foundations, which is simply a series of rods fastened to opposite sides of the house and to foundation walls and roof, and fastened by means of turnbuckles, the idea being to prevent houses from blowing away in cyclones.

Telephone wires seem to have an important influence in preventing lightning from striking, according to the investigations of the German telegraph department. Three hundred and forty towns with telephone systems and 650 towns without them were under observation. In the former the lightning struck three times for every hour of storm, in the latter five times. Moreover, the violence of the lightning was much less in the former case.

Big Orchid Collectors.
There is an idea abroad that Mr. Chamberlain is the greatest amateur orchid grower in the world, but this is not the case, the collection of the Empress Frederick of Germany being worth nearly double that of Mr. Chamberlain—probably about $200,000. Miss Alice Rothschild is an enthusiast lover of flowers; her collection of roses alone is said to be worth $50,000. W. W. Astor paid $6000 the other day for the stock of a single variety of rose tree.

Motherhood.
A mother who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution. The child fairly drinks in health from its mother's robust constitution before birth, and from a healthy mother's milk after.

Is not that an incentive to prepare for a healthy maternity?
Do you know the meaning of what is popularly called those "longings," or cravings, which beset so many women during pregnancy?

There is something lacking in the mother's blood. Nature cries out and will be satisfied at all hazards. One woman wants sour things, another wants sweets, another wants salt things, and so on.

The real need all the time is to enrich the blood so as to supply nourishment for another life, and to build up the entire generative system, so that the birth may be possible and successful.

Expectant mothers would fortify themselves with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for twenty years has sustained thousands of women in this condition, there would be fewer disappointments at birth, and they would not experience those annoying "longings."

In the following letter to Mrs. Pinkham, Mrs. Whitney demonstrates the power of the Compound in such cases. She says: "From the time I was sixteen years old till I was twenty-three, I was troubled with weakness of the kidneys and terrible pains when my monthly periods came on. I made up my mind to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was soon relieved. After I was married, the doctor said I would never be able to go my full time and have a living child, as I was constitutionally weak. I had lost a baby at seven months and a half. The next time I commenced at once and continued to take your Compound through the period of pregnancy, and I said then, 'If I went my full time and the baby lived to be three months old, I should send a letter to you. My baby is now seven months old and is as healthy and hearty as one could wish.'"

"I am so thankful that I used your medicine, for it gave me the robust health to transmit to my child. I cannot express my gratitude to you; I never expected such a blessing. Praise God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and may others who are suffering do as I did and find relief, and may many homes be brightened as mine has been."—Mrs. L. Z. WHITNEY, 5 George St., E. Somerville, Mass.
