

Dr. Nansen's Ancestors.
Dr. Fritjof Nansen is not the first of his family to show a bent for adventure in the north. His ancestor, Hans Nansen, born in 1598, explored the White sea, spent many years in command of a vessel in the Iceland trade, and wrote a Compendium Cosmographicum, wherein he described arctic routes so well that a copy of the book was in use as late as 1841 in preference to more modern works. Dr. Nansen's father was a lawyer, described as a somewhat stern but judicious disciplinarian. The more remarkable of the explorer's parents seems to have been his mother, who had a mind of her own, and showed it in training the public sentiment of the time in the matter of using snow shoes. In Mrs. Nansen's day snow-shoeing was regarded as an exercise of rather doubtful propriety for Scandinavian ladies, but she took to them with enthusiasm, and helped to win for her sisters a pastime that has since become common among Norwegian ladies—Harper's Bazar.

The Spanish Censor.
They have a curious way of suppressing papers here. Instead of submitting their proof-sheets to the censor, as is usual where such a protector of public opinion exists, they get at the matter backward. The publisher goes ahead on his own judgment, prints what he pleases and takes his chances of going to jail or paying a fine. The censor reads the paper at the breakfast table the next morning, and if he finds anything mildly objectionable, he writes a polite note to the editor, calling attention to the article. The latter prints a paragraph next day explaining that he was mistaken or that the public had misinterpreted his remarks. But when any high official of the Government is attacked, or the proprietors are violated, the editor is fined or imprisoned, and policemen take the subscription list and call at every house at which copies have been delivered to recover them—Havana correspondence of the Chicago Times-Herald.

Playin' Possum.
"Playin' possum" comes from the fact that the possum will feign sleep or death when pushed into sudden danger of being captured. But pains and aches never play that kind of a game. They never try to fool anybody, and go to work to wake up people, leaving no chance to feign sleep. On the other hand, there is a remedy known as St. Jacobs Oil that will lull a pain or an ache so that it won't wake up again in the cure that follows its use. Pains and aches, whether or less in intensity just in degree as we treat them. Prompt treatment with the best remedy—St. Jacobs Oil—prevents their increase and by curing prevents their return. Everything is gained by taking pains and aches in time for a prompt and permanent cure, and there is nothing better than the use of St. Jacobs Oil.

THIN BLOOD, WHITE COMPLEXION

Doctors Diagnosed the Case as Heart Disease and Consumption—But the Symptoms Were Due to Watery Blood Alone, and Disappeared When Blood Was Enriched.
From Presbyterian Journal, Philad'a Pa.
After years of patient and intense suffering, Miss Gertrude Gilbert has recovered her lost health, and is to-day a rosy and blooming specimen of young womanhood. Miss Gilbert's illness, which was of several years duration, was due mainly to a lack of blood. To-day her rosy cheeks and healthy appearance denote the grateful change from a life of ill-health to one of freedom from all illness. When a reporter called on her at her home, No. 1919 Glenwood Avenue, Philadelphia, the young lady ran lightly down the steps with all the elasticity of youth.

"I could not have done that eight months ago," she said as she seated herself in a big arm-chair.
"At that time," she continued, "had I run down the steps as I did a few moments ago, I would have fainted." With her eyes sparkling, and a victorious smile on her manner, Miss Gilbert asked the cause of the reporter's visit. Upon being told that he came to ask about her illness, she said that she would cheerfully relate her experience. "I have been so wonderfully benefited that within the past eight months I have grown from a mere skeleton to what you now see. I had been sick for a long time, when a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Previous to this, three doctors had treated me. They diagnosed my trouble as heart disease, together with consumption, and prescribed accordingly. All this medical treatment did not benefit me in the least. I was in a terrible condition. There was scarcely any blood left in my composition, and my friends often told me that they thought I was a victim of blood disease. My chief trouble was weakness, and after laborious efforts to get upstairs I almost went into a faint, and on several occasions thought I was going to die."

"So little blood had I that my ears were almost transparent, and my complexion was as white as a sheet. I can scarcely describe my sensations, but after repeated treatment by my physicians I became thoroughly discouraged.
"It was at this time that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me, and I procured a box. Before I had finished it I began to feel the benefit of my health. This gave me encouragement, and I began a systematic course according to the regulations on the wrapper. At the end of the seventh or eighth box, I forgot which, I was an entirely different girl. In addition to having a sufficient quantity and better quality of blood in my veins, I was relieved of that shortness of breath and quick heart action which has been my chief trouble. My appetite returned and I was enabled to do my daily duties with a cheerfulness which I had never before experienced."

"Several weeks ago I stopped taking the pills, and while I feel confident I shall never again be in such ill health, I always, as a preventative, keep a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in my room. They are all they are represented to be, and I say again that I can do my daily duties with a cheerfulness which I had never before experienced."
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes never to lose bulk at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Princess of Wales Loves Animal.
The Princess of Wales is fond of animals and is a most intrepid rider to the hounds. Her lay pony, "Huffy," is now 22 years of age. He is past work and is having a high old time of it. He stands about 13 hands high, and has been the first favorite of the princess for the 16 years he has been in her service. He knows his mistress as well as any of her dogs do, and, if allowed, would follow her anywhere. He is too old for work now, and has had his shoes taken off finally, but still lives a most luxurious life, constantly visited and fed by his mistress, who never allows an old favorite to be killed.

Left by Say.
Among the late Leon Say's papers were found five decrees dated on the same day, signed by President Grevy and countersigned by all the proper officials, appointing him to all the grades of the Legion of Honor, including the Grand Cross. Grevy went out of office without making the appointments public in the Journal Officiel, and Leon Say never mentioned the matter to any one, and never wore any of the decorations.

How the Lantern Was Invented.
King Alfred the Great is credited with originating the lantern. He was so bothered by the candle flames blowing in the wind that he protected them by putting the candles in cow-horns, which he ordered to be scraped thin. Our grandfathers made lanterns by punching holes and slits in properly shaped pieces of tin, which were then soldered together. The light which came through the little cuts was always very dim and flickering. It was this kind of lantern which the old town watchmen used to carry when they went about calling the hours and the weather in rhyme:

"This one o' the clock—midnight is past, Sleep on, good friends, the time thou hast, For rise ye must at early dawn; 'Tis one o' the clock and Tuesday morn."

Easier than Arithmetic.
It is easier to remember things usually if you know what they mean. A little boy could never remember even about how long a cubit is until his father told him the word was cubit in Latin, which means an elbow, and that the measure called cubit was the distance from a man's elbow to the end of his middle finger.

"And how much is a fathom?" asked the little boy.
"Oh, fathom comes from the two words, 'fat,' which means in the Aryan language, to extend, and 'hom,' a man. A fathom is the length of a man extended; that is, when his arms are stretched out on each side from the shoulders, from tip to tip of his fingers. The foot is an English word, and means just the length of the foot of a full-grown man."

Making Candy in a Paper Pan.
The girls of some of our Eastern colleges have a novel method of candy-making which deserves to be known outside this magic circle—especially as the results are particularly delicious.

They take a sheet of heavy, glazed writing paper and turn up the four edges to a depth of about three-fourths of an inch. Into this box they pour a cupful of white sugar and a very little water, and set it on top of the stove. One would think the paper would burn, but it does not. The sugar boils up charmingly and looks tempting enough in its dainty receptacle.

When it is done a drop or two of flavoring is added, or just before taking from the fire some nut meats are strewn over its surface. It is then taken off the stove and set to float in its paper box in a bowl or basin of water. When cold it should be brittle, and then the paper can be peeled off, and a dainty square of toothsome candy is the reward.

It is great fun to make and will surprise your friends if they chance to see it boiling in its paper box.

Combat with a Tiger.
Russian hunters are said to look upon a combat single-handed with a bear as only an ordinary experience. It is doubtful, however, if many instances of a man attacking a tiger, armed with a sword only, can be found. Col. Seaton, the elephant hunter, however, tells this story of bravery:

"One morning, just as we were leaving the parade ground, a man came rushing up breathless. 'Get your guns, men,' he exclaimed; 'there is a tiger in the hollow by the hut, and no one dares go by!' In all haste we got our guns and two elephants and hurried to the spot, where in truth a terrible scene presented itself. The tiger, bleeding from a cut in the head, was on the edge of the hollow, growling fiercely, with a man mangled and apparently dead lying beneath his paws. The unfortunate man was a fine swordsman and first-rate wrestler—one of the champions of his regiment. Some people who went to draw water at the well had disturbed the tiger, and on his rising they fled in terror. The brave but rash soldier, who happened to be near at the moment, on learning the cause of the commotion, immediately advanced to attack the tiger, and with his sword gave him a tremendous cut over the head, which, however, did not materially injure the powerful brute. The tiger rushed at the man, stripped the arm down to the elbow, and, dashing him to the ground, held him beneath his paws. When we came up we were at first at a loss how to act, for the man was as much exposed to our fire as the tiger. However, it was not a time for lengthened consideration—we fired, and a lucky shot finished the animal."

Whistling Not a Bad Habit.
The boy in the following story is described as never saying anything remarkable, as eating oatmeal in large quantities, chasing the cat, slamming the door, and otherwise conducting himself after the manner of boys, with the exception that he asked few questions and does much thinking. If he does not understand a thing he whistles, which is not a bad habit—on some occasions.

There was much whistling in our yard one summer. It seemed to be an all-summer performance. Near the end of the season, however, our boy announced the height of our tall maple to be thirty-three feet.

"Why, how do you know?" was the general question.
"Measured it."
"How?"
"Four-foot rule and yardstick."

"You didn't climb that tall tree?" his mother asked anxiously.
"No'm, I just found the length of the shadow and measured that."

"But the length of the shadow changes."
"Yes'm, but twice a day the shadows are just as long as the things themselves. I've been trying it all summer. I drove a stick into the ground and when the shadow was just as long as the stick I knew that the shadow of the tree would be just as long as the tree, and that's thirty-three feet."

"So that is what you have been whistling about all summer?"
"Did I whistle?" asked Tom.

The First American Flag.
A well-known authority on American curls says: "The first resemblance to a flag was the work of Benjamin Franklin and Messrs. Harrison and Lynch. They were chosen as a committee to create a national flag, and adopted the King's colors as a union, rounded with thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; showing that, although the colonies united for defense against England's tyranny, they still acknowledged her sovereignty." On Tuesday, Jan. 2, 1776, this flag was hoisted in camp at Cambridge, Mass., now Somerville, receiving a salute of thirteen guns and thirteen cheers. The first American-made flag was hoisted over the capitol at Washington Feb. 24, 1896, all previous flags having been manufactured from English bunting.

Indians Not Allowed to Vote.
The expression "Indians not taxed" refers to the Indians in their tribal relations. Tribal Indians are not allowed to vote because they are not taxed, and are the wards of the Government, rather than citizens of the country. The Government considers them as its proteges, whom it must protect. When the tribal relations of the Indians are dissolved and their land is divided among them, to be held by individuals rather than by tribes, it is almost certain that provision will be made for them as citizens, and that, being land-owners and taxpayers, they will be entitled to and will receive all the rights of full citizenship.

CLEAN SHIRT-FRONT BY A TWIST

Turns on a Button and Presents Clean and Different Bosom.
The greatest genius so far is the inventor of the rotary shirt front. This is a stiff circle about thirteen inches in diameter, with a buttonhole in the center for the shirt stud to fasten it to the ordinary white shirt. This circle of linen is divided into four equal parts, each quarter on both sides being of a different pattern of percale.

This shirt bosom can be worn for eight days, or, in other words, it is an eight-day shirt. If the green quarter of the shirt front is worn on Monday a quarter turn of the disk will bring it around to a black and white check for Tuesday. For Wednesday a red seaweed on a white ground would make a pleasant change, while a beautiful delft pattern in blue and white rose leaves might prove a rest for the eyes on Thursday. On Friday, the day of ill-luck, might be cheered by a pink hosiery on a white ground, with jockey cap and whip, while the program could be varied on Saturday with a Persian pattern in gaslight blues and heliotropes, etc. To the young man who is forced to the extreme economy this arrangement fills a long-felt want. The quarter of a circle fits nicely into the space between the "V" of the vest and the necktie, and no one would ever know that one had on an eight-day shirt unless they were told.

REVOLVING SHIRT-FRONT.

DISTINGUISHED GREEK.
Fills the Position of Consul General for Greece in New York City.

Demetrius N. Botassi, the genial and cultured Greek who fills the position of consul general for Greece in New York, has held that distinguished place for thirty-five years. He has now reached the venerable age of 69 years, yet he is as active and industrious as many men half his age. Consul General Botassi was born in the historic little island of Spezia and is a direct descendant of the warrior of his name who fought so gallantly for Grecian independence seventy years ago. He is a man of rare culture and learning, and speaks many European languages. He is politeness itself to all who come in contact with him either personally or with relation to business. It was he who, in the capacity of acting minister, promulgated the order from King George recalling all Greeks in the United States to their native land and to the army to fight against the Turkish oppressor. M. Botassi keeps track of his countrymen who come to the United States. Grecian immigration has increased during the past four years. The largest colony is at Chicago, and numbers about 2,500. San Francisco ranks second with about 1,500 and New York third with nearly the same number. Smaller colonies are scattered throughout the East and South. The total number of Greeks in the United States is about 15,000. They are employed chiefly in the fruit business, but have representatives in almost every line of trade. The Greeks are a patriotic race, and Consul General Botassi is not the least patriotic among his compatriots in America.

DEMETRIUS N. BOTASSI.

Man's Bitterest Enemy.
"Sin is always man's bitterest enemy," writes Dwight L. Moody, in "Mr. Moody's Bible Class," in the Ladies' Home Journal. "It separates him from his fellow-beings. No position is so high for sin to debase; no place so hallowed but it seeks to corrupt; no home so sacred but it seeks to destroy. 'Sin, like holiness, is a mighty lever,' says a distinguished divine. And what may be the cause of the thousands of suicides which have occurred during the past year if it is not a loathing of self? It is sin then which makes a man loathe himself. It is sin which makes man's life become a burden from which he so often seeks to free himself by his own hand."

SILENT SUFFERERS.
Women do not like to Tell a Doctor the Details of Their Private Ills.

The reason why so many women suffer in silence from the multiple disorders connected with their sexual system is that they cannot bear to broach the subject to a man, even if he is a physician. No one can blame a modest, sensitive woman for this reticence. It is unnecessary in these times, however, for a woman makes to all afflicted women a most generous offer. Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., bids every woman who suffers to write to her and confide every symptom that annoys her, and she will give her advice without charge, and that advice is based upon the greatest experience ever possessed by man or woman in this country, and extends over a period of twenty-three years, and thousands upon thousands of cases. Why suffer in silence any longer.

The case of Mrs. Colony, whose letter to Mrs. Pinkham we publish, is an illustration of the good to be received from Mrs. Pinkham's advice; here is a woman who was sick for years and could get no relief—at last in despair she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham—received in return a prompt, sympathetic and interested reply. Note the result and go and do likewise.

"I was troubled with such an aching in my back and hips, and I felt so tired all the time, and had for four years. For the last year it was all I could do to drag around. I would have such a ringing in my head by spells that it seemed as though I would grow crazy. I ached from my shoulders to my feet and was very nervous. I was also troubled with a white discharge. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., received a prompt reply and followed her advice, and now I have no backache and begin to feel as one ought; in fact, I never felt better in ten years than I do now. I thank God that I went doctoring with Mrs. Pinkham when I did, for if I had not I know I would have been in my grave."

Why suffer in silence any longer.

WOMEN DO NOT LIKE TO TELL A DOCTOR THE DETAILS OF THEIR PRIVATE ILLS.

The reason why so many women suffer in silence from the multiple disorders connected with their sexual system is that they cannot bear to broach the subject to a man, even if he is a physician. No one can blame a modest, sensitive woman for this reticence. It is unnecessary in these times, however, for a woman makes to all afflicted women a most generous offer. Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., bids every woman who suffers to write to her and confide every symptom that annoys her, and she will give her advice without charge, and that advice is based upon the greatest experience ever possessed by man or woman in this country, and extends over a period of twenty-three years, and thousands upon thousands of cases. Why suffer in silence any longer.
