GAY MUSIC AT A FUNERAL.

Custom in Vincennes That Destroys Strife That Is Growing at Graves. People in Vincennes have been witnessing what is called "a gay funeral," according to a paradoxical phrase, reports the London Telegraph. Mr. Ferret, a resident in that suburban borough for many long years, died recently at the age of 50. He left instructions in his will that the local brass band should be engaged for his funeral, and that lively music was to be played during the journey to the graveyard. The octogenarian's relatives fulfilled his wishes to the letter. In the black-bordered invitations to the interment sent out by them they announced the names of the airs to be heard during the funeral. As the cortege started for the cemetery, the band struck up the appropriate "Chant du Depart," to the intense astonishment of the master of ceremonies sent by the Pompes Funebres, who knew nothing about the last wishes of the deceased octogenarian in the matter of music. Then the bandsmen played a series of polkas and mazurkas, and wound up at the cemetery with the "Marsellaise." After the funeral all adjourned to a tavern, where drink was ordered in abundance. The instrumentalists, having been refreshed, played more lively music and then everybody returned home, apparently satisfied with the day's outing. This is the third funeral of the kind which has been organized in France within the past 12 months.

Reversing the Order.

Naming horses for public characters is common enough, but giving to a child the name of a Derby winner is a unique reversal of the ordinary methods in such cases, says the Boston Herald. But this deceased speculator and accredited billionaire called his baby boy Ladas Primrose, in honor of Lord Rosebery's famous horse and the former prime minister of England. His little daughter also bears the name of Primrose, joined to that of Leah, thus making a Hebrew combination as flattering to the parent as to the infant's namesake.

Vegetarian Dress.

The members of the Women's Vegetarian union in London have a new craze. It is for vegetarian dress. They have concluded that it is as wrong to kill animals for clothes as for food. They want vegetable boots, vegetable gloves, vegetable gowns, and even vegetable note paper. They have decided that the kid, the calf and the sheep shall be spared, if their influence can do it.

SOUTH SIDE MEN OUT.

OVER 2,500 MINE WORKERS ON STRIKE SINCE MONDAY.

Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Company Finds Trouble on Its Hands Through the Employment of a Notorious Slave-Driver as Superintendent—Miners Expect to Win.

The strike of mule drivers which took place at Audenried on Saturday, at the mines of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company, and which at that time caused a scrimmage between the strikers and Superintendent Gomer Jones, has now developed into a more serious matter. Not less than 2,500 employes went out on Monday morning, and the quiet of the South Side towns has been turned to a scene of excitement. The Italians and Hungarians, which were the last to go out, are the most aggressive, and fears are entertained that they cannot be controlled. The men have no organization, but a branch of the United Mine Workers' Association may be organized there. McAdoo is the headquarters of the strikers and frequent meetings are held.

On Monday the mine officials anticipated trouble and prepared for it by enlisting the services of two squads of coal and iron police, one under Captain Simpson and another commanded by Chief Hampton. Many of these thugs carried Winchester rifles. An effort was then made to start No. 4 colliery, Audenried.

The workmen meanwhile assembled in the vicinity of the mine. At a signal from them the left their places and joined the strikers. From there they marched to Honey Brook, where about 600 men are employed, and those joined the ranks. Green Mountain then came into line. A body of strikers went to Treskow, effecting a complete tie-up at No. 5, and to Honey Brook, Hunksy Dory, No. 10 and to Audenried No. 6. Treskow and Green Mountain, which embrace all of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre collieries in the Lehigh region.

The police could do nothing with these men, even if they tried, and the strikers showed very good judgment by not noticing the gang of special police who followed them about.

The Hungarians who were in the strike assembled at their hall in McAdoo and conducted a meeting in their own language. The Italians and the English-speaking employes did the same.

Elmer Lawall, of Wilkesbarre, general superintendent, came on the ground Monday afternoon and next day heard the GRIEVANCE OF THE STRIKERS, who sent a committee to him. It is the first strike in the anthracite coal regions in which the foreign element was in the majority, and the outcome is viewed with much interest.

The striking miners held a general meeting in McAdoo Monday evening. It was attended by 2,500 men. Joseph Keshilla was elected president of the meeting. Keshilla represents the Hungarians. Nillie Duse was elected vice president to represent the Italian element, and Alexander Mullen represented the English-speaking miners.

Resolutions were adopted declaring that the

if an attempt was made to discharge them for participating in the strike movement. A committee was appointed to wait on Manager Lawall and demand restoration of the system which was in vogue prior to the advent of Superintendent Jones to the district, also the discharge or transfer of Jones, who is noted as a disturber of the most obnoxious kind.

Mr. Lawall, in company with Auditor Johnson, of New York, gave the committee a hearing, but could give no definite reply to their demands. He expressed the opinion that the strike might be settled early, but he was not authorized as yet to say how the directors would meet the requests of the men.

SUPERINTENDENT JONES ARRESTED.

On Tuesday Superintendent Jones was arrested on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by John Bodan, one of the Hungarians whom he struck on Saturday. Bail in the sum of $500 was given for his appearance at court.

Yesterday a committee of five went to New York city, where they held a conference with the company officials. Their report will be given at today's meeting of the strikers.

Another Chapter of the Saba Romance.

John Saba's elopement with Mary Kearney has already been told of, as well as his trials and tribulations in securing possession of his wife. It seems the end of this romance-like episode has not yet come. The Wilkesbarre Leader adds this chapter:

About midnight Monday an Arabian rushed into police headquarters and breathlessly pointed to numerous wounds from which the blood was streaming. Soon he explained that "Irishman lighted us; kill 'em; South Wilkesbarre." Sergeant Kline saw through the matter at once. The Kearney boys had made a raid and when the officers arrived they found a raid indeed. If one of the big coal engines had hit the house the disorder would not have been more complete.

The interior of the house was thoroughly disordered; chairs were broken, windows knocked out and everything else piled up in a heap in one corner of the room.

It was about 11 o'clock when the raid was inaugurated and at 1 o'clock the secret service system of little Arabia was reinforced by forty new arrivals and they were prepared to do battle, but were disappointed. The boys had "done up" everything in sight and had then got out of the way.

One of the Arabians lay in a corner howling with a bruised leg and a lacerated head, another was badly cut about the face and a half dozen others had black eyes.

The difficulty was the result of a visit to Mrs. Saba from her sister, and they spent a few pleasant hours together, but when leaving the Arabians were overly anxious to show their disapproval of the visit and when Miss Kearney returned to her home she told her brothers.

Thomas, the eldest, was enraged and as soon as he closed the store last night he got a few of the family friends and went to John Saba's home. Simon Saba stood just inside the door and resisted the entrance of Thomas who appeared to be alone. A right hand jab on the jugular sent Simon into the land of dreams, and then the party proceeded to clean up everything that came their way. As the half frantic Arabians came down from their beds they were met by uppercuts, swings and hooks of the most modern style and their mode of fighting availed them nothing.

Mayor Nichols heard the story next morning and bound Kearney over in the sum of $2,500 for a hearing at 2 o'clock next Tuesday. His father qualified as bondsman.

The Arabians are fortified and will resist any further attacks; but Anthony Kearney says it will not be well for any of them to meet him on the street. He is abundantly capable of putting up a good fight and no doubt he means to get a chance at John and Simon Saba.

Says the Order Is All Right.

Adam Warnock, of Boston, Mass., supreme secretary of the American Legion of Honor, who is in Buffalo attending the session of the supreme council, when asked concerning the application for a receiver made by James McNamara, of Jersey City, denied that there was the slightest foundation for such a story, and said the order, with 26,870 members, was perfectly solvent and had paid $310,000 in claims since July 1. In addition the society has an invested fund amounting to $530,000, $430,000 of which it is in gilt-edged municipal bonds, held by the state of Massachusetts in trust for the membership; $90,000 dollars in unencumbered real estate in the Back Bay district of the city of Boston and $10,000 in banks. The order was chartered in 1878 and has paid 12,150 claims amounting to $35,800,000.

Desperate Lover Uses Dynamite.

Stiney Knezman, of Shenandoah, has confessed to having partly blown up the restaurant of Matt Yedelsky, of that town. Knezman declares he proposes to make another attempt to blow up the place, but will use ten times the quantity of dynamite he used before. He says he is in love with the proprietor's pretty daughter, but the parents are interfering with his attentions, which is driving him desperate. Knezman is held for trial.

Fifty-four Take the Veil.

The impressive ceremony of thirty young women taking the veil as postulants and twenty-four taking the final vows was witnessed at the Malinecroft convent, the mother house of the German Catholic convents of the United States, at Wilkesbarre, on Tuesday morning. The young women came from all parts of the United States and some from Germany and Denmark.

Ice Cream Festival.

The first ice cream festival to be given under the auspices of the Young Men's C. T. A. B. Corps will take place at the Grand opera house on Saturday evening. FOUND DEAD IN A MINE.

Daniel Gallagher Met a Sudden Death in an Oakdale Colliery.

Daniel Gallagher, a miner working in No. 4 colliery, Oakdale, was found dead in his breast on Monday afternoon. His partner had left him working in the upper part of the chamber a short time previous, in good health, but when he returned Mr. Gallagher was lying on his back, lifeless. The body was found near the foot of a ladder which the man used in their work and some believe that the miner fell off. However, as no marks were found on his body, the general opinion is that the man died from the effects of black damp or bad air.

The remains were brought to the home of his brother, John, on Washington street, from where the funeral took place this morning at 9 o'clock. He was unmarried, but is survived by one brother and four sisters, as follows: John, of Freeland; Mrs. James Moore, Freeland; Mrs. Patrick Kennedy, Sandy Run; Mrs. James McDermott, Eckley, and Mrs. Bridget Kennedy, Bar Harbor, Maine. He was a member of Division 17, A. O. H., of Sugar Notch, where he resided previous to coming here. The members of Division 6, the Freeland branch of the order, attended the funeral.

HOLDING AN INQUEST.

Mine Inspector Davis ordered Deputy Coroner Bowman to hold an inquest to ascertain the cause of death. With five jurors from Hazleton the deputy coroner came here on Tuesday, but was unable to induce any one here to serve on his jury. Many reasons were given by those asked to serve. The majority thought the officer should have brought the necessary six from Hazleton since he was so partial as to bring five. Others had their doubts about the pay, as there has been considerable talk about coroner's juries not getting their fees as promptly as they should.

Yesterday the deputy coroner returned with a jury of six Hazleton men. A physician was secured to hold a post-mortem, after which the party returned to Hazleton.

PERSONALITIES.

Rev. S. Cooper and wife will leave on Monday to spend a two weeks vacation out of town. The first week will be spent with Scranton friends and the second week at Pocono Mountain, Monroe county, where Rev. Cooper was stationed before coming here.

George Sippel and family attended the wedding of a relative, John Sippel, of Hazleton, to Miss Elizabeth Sterling, of Jeannsville, at the latter place last evening.

Joseph Birkbeck and T. E. Chase, Esq., of Wilkesbarre, attended to business here yesterday.

Misses Eunice and Mame Meehan, of Washington street, are the guests of Wilkesbarre friends.

John J. McBrearty and John J. McGill are viewing New York city this week.

Miss Sarah Ziegler, of Philadelphia, visited friends here this week.

U. G. Fetterman and wife are visiting at Beach Haven, this country.

Miss Celia Brennan is spending the week at Wilkesbarre.

Miss Bridget Herron is visiting at Carbondale.

BASE BALL DOTS.

Patrick Dever was chosen on Tuesday evening by the Tigers Athletic Club to manage the base ball interests of the club for the balance of the season. He expects to have some strong attractions here before the summer is over.

Anthracite league clubs will play next Sunday as follows: Hazleton at Freeland, Lattimer at Drifton.

The Freeland-Allentown game, which was booked for the latter city on Saturday, has been cancelled.

Anthracite league clubs stand as follows:

Clubs	Won	Lost	Percentage
Drifton	9	4	.692
Hazleton	7	6	.538
Freeland	7	7	.500
Lattimer	4	10	.286

POINTED DARTS.

It flatters a man to be told that he looks ill.

A man may be dressed in very fine clothes and yet have holes in his socks.

Even a man doesn't like to have the preacher call when the house is all topsy-turvy.

Almost every man regrets that he neglected the opportunity of some investment which would have made him rich.

A man never settles down to read without his wife at once deciding that there is something in that corner that she wants.

About the time we all get our minds made up that a deadbeat is all out at the heel, he surprises everybody by going on a long pleasure trip.

Just about the time a man has made up his mind that everything goes wrong, something turns up to convince him that he has more good luck than he deserves.—Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

School Board Meeting.

The borough school board met Monday evening for the purpose of buying school supplies for the coming term. Bids and prices from four different parties were received and compared. The contract was awarded to the Kress Stationery Company, Wilkesbarre, at the following prices: Noisless slates, per dozen, 5x7, 43 cents; 6x9, 54 cents; 7x11, 65 cents; 8x12, 76 cents; slate pencils, per gross, 78 cents; and in wood, 62 cents; crayon, per gross, 38 cents; pens and holders, 40 cents.

The board will meet with the teachers tomorrow evening to assign them to schools, also in reference to the needs of the district in regard to books. Three book agents were present. They were requested to meet the board next Tuesday evening, when the directors will be in a position to know what they need in the book line.

An Upper Lehigh Wedding.

Clarence C. Collins and Miss Sallie E. Boyer, both of Upper Lehigh, were married yesterday in the Presbyterian church at that place. Rev. J. W. Bischoff performed the ceremony. A. W. Sheetz, of Mauch Chunk, was groomsmen, and Miss Sadie Clark, of Plains, was bridesmaid. A. W. Stedman, J. W. Harlan, Mauch Chunk; C. R. Miller, Wilkesbarre, and John R. Powell, Upper Lehigh, acted as ushers. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion and the marriage ceremony was witnessed by many friends of the contracting parties. After a reception at the bride's home the young couple left for New York city, where the honeymoon will be spent.

REMINISCENCES.

Mrs. Henpeck (after a little difference of opinion)—I suppose you felt like a fool when you proposed to me?

Mr. Henpeck—No, I didn't; but I was.—Pick-Me-Up.

A Joke of the Season.

Pete Amsterdam—Why do you call these chilly evenings "the season's troubadours"?

"Because they bring a touch of the light catarrh," replied Phoneyman, with a cough.—Tammany Times.

Teeth in a New Role.

"How is it you are always the first one at the office in the morning now? You used to be late invariably. Have you got a new alarm clock?"

"No, our baby is getting its stomach teeth."—Cleveland Leader.

Battle with a Blacksnake.

William Cranz, engineer at the Agraw pumping station, in the swamps east of Freeport, L. I., had an encounter with a six-foot blacksnake the other afternoon. The reptile was discovered coiled up in a coal bin. The engineer grabbed a shovel and struck at the snake. Wriggling out from under the shovel, the serpent struck at the engineer. Again he tried to pin the snake fast. It was thrashing the sides of the coal bin and darting its head back and forth in an endeavor to bite its antagonist. Finally the engineer secured a good chance and the snake was cut to pieces. It measured nearly six feet.

Learning the Wheel.

"How long did it take you to learn the bicycle?"

"Me? It wasn't three days before I could lie as fast as any of them."—Indianapolis Journal.
