Prison Grip Case in Court.

Jail Warden Boland and County Controller Lloyd desire to settle their dispute as to the amount to be paid for the feeding of prisoners at the county jail and they have agreed upon Frank W. Wheaton, who will act as referee, accumulate the evidence and render a decision. His finding will be received by the court and finally the supreme court.

The prison commissioners made a contract with the warden to feed the prisoners at 30 cents per head each day from April 1 last, but the county controller says the prisoners can be fed for 8 cents a day and refuses to approve the bills. The amount due the warden is $8,212. The controller credits the warden with but $2,101.

Two Young Boys Leave Home.

Joseph and Willie Gilgot, two of the five boys who were accused of stealing candy from Laubach's delivery wagon last Saturday, left home when they learned that they were to be arrested, and no trace of them has yet been found. Neither of the lads had any experience away from home, and their father fears they may sleep out of doors and perhaps freeze to death. Any information of their whereabouts will be thankfully received by the parents.

Mike Guido, of Freeland, was fined $10.50 and Mike Bradish, of Eckley, was fined $8.75. Paul Sama and John Peowarnick, both of Sandy Run, were discharged. Two other men who took part in the assault on the officer have eluded capture, but Molik says he will get them some day.

Carrie, the attractive thirteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, of Freeland, was removed on Tuesday to a Philadelphia hospital to receive treatment for a disease of the spine. Her numerous relatives and friends hope to hear of her immediate and permanent relief.

School Teachers in Politics.

The trial of the West Mahanoy township school board for misdemeanor in office, and fraud against the school district, which has been going on in Schuylkill county court for the past week, has brought out some sensational testimony. MAN WITH A GUN.

Henry Miller Was Too Free With His Bright New Revolver.

Henry Miller was arrested by Officer Patrick Welsh in the Central hotel on Monday evening for shooting off a revolver. He was fined $10 for the offense by Burgess Gallagher and paid the fine.

On Monday Miller settled his accounts in full with Markle & Co., and received all the money due him for driving a log team for the company near Pond Creek, less his expense for board at the Jedd new hotel. He came to town, loaded up with some of Freeland's velvet, and when his skates were well sharpened he drifted into the Central hotel. Upon notifying his condition the proprietor told Bartender Ritter to shut off hi-drinks, which was done. Henry filed a remonstrance, which was followed by ejection from the building.

Miller has spent some years in the West, and his desire to imitate the customs of Colorado led him to enter a nearby jewelry store and purchase a revolver. At a hardware store he filled the ugly-looking weapon with big balls of lead. Retracing his steps to the hotel he entered and banged one through the bar-room ceiling. The hotel people refused to be scared by this display of desperadoism, and sent for an officer. Policeman Welsh responded and the shooter meekly accompanied him to the cooler. The borough court was in session at the time and Miller's case was called at 9 o'clock. He pleaded not guilty, but the evidence of Mr. Hunsicker, the loaded revolver with one chamber empty, and his conflicting statements were against him.

A fine of $10 was demanded from him. He refused to pay, and quoted law by the yard to prove the injustice of the burgess in treating "well-to-do young men" like him in such a manner. He flashed a receipt from Lawyer Tom Shea, of Wilkesbarre, for $100 for legal services to be rendered one year from November 27, 1896, and demanded that the attorney be notified instanter of his trouble. For an answer he heard the clanging of the bolts and locks of the bastle, whither he was escorted and left to meditate upon the uncertainties of life.

An hour or so later Miller tired of his surroundings, "McAdoo" being his only company, and he gladly handed over $10 for the privilege of breathing the air of freedom again.

Big Ball Last Night.

Jedd lads and lassies turned out several hundred strong last evening, and assisted by fair representations from other towns they had a merry night at Yannes' opera house, under the patronage of the Progressive Club. The hall was crowded to the doors at an early hour, and remained so until the last strains of "Home, Sweet Home" died away this morning. The ball was ably conducted and well managed, and the committees and members can feel proud of their success.

Stirring Up the Massacre.

In answer to inquiries from the state department respecting the progress being made in the investigation of the killing of a number of subjects of Austro-Hungary at Lattimer, Governor Hastings has replied that the work is being prosecuted as rapidly as possible and that the formal answer of the state to the request of the Austro-Hungarian minister, Mr. Henglemuller, for a statement of the conditions under which the men were killed, will be submitted.

Installation of Pastor.

At St. John's Reformed church this evening at 7:30 o'clock, the installation of the pastor, Rev. J. B. Kerschner, will take place. After the service a reception by the members of the congregation to their pastor and his family will be held. All are invited to attend this Thanksgiving Day service.

Rev. C. H. Herbst and Rev. S. E. Stoffel, the committee appointed by the Wyoming classis to conduct this service, will be present.

Dr. H. M. Keller yesterday tendered his resignation as superintendent of the miners' hospital at Hazleton, and it was accepted by the trustees. The resignation will take effect on December 1. Dr. Keller will give his attention to private practice in Hazleton. It is not known who his successor will be.

The TRIBUNE has received a copy of the Journal of the Electoral College of Pennsylvania, from B. W. Wilde, of Hazleton, who was one of the members of the college. Its publication was delayed by the burning of the state capitol.

Enforce the Company Store Law.

It would not be well for Attorney General McCormick to have Judge Bradley, of Huntingdon county, pass a consistent and logical opinion upon the attorney general's failure to enforce the law against company stores, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. Quite recently that jurist ruled it to be the "duty of constables to enforce the game and fish laws, as they are part of the laws of the state, and therefore should be obeyed and enforced as are other laws."

Moreover, His Honor also held that it was the duty of the court to instruct constables to that effect and he so instructed them in the most pointed manner.

They are not to wait, as the Wilkesbarre Record argues that the attorney general should do, until some one has brought them two roasted pheasant, shot out of season, or two fishes caught under similar circumstances, but are to find the offenders and bring them up for sentence. If that is not sound law it is at least good sense and do not the legal authorities tell us that law is "the perfection of reason?"

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only catarrh cure now known to the medical profession. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution, and assisting nature in doing its work. WHAT THE FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS SAY ABOUT THIS DAY.

With Jolly Verses and Pointed Prose They Give Passing Glimpses of Many Sides of Life on America's Great Day. Choice Cuts of Turkey Talk.

What can one say that's new, about Thanksgiving day? The mince pies are erected in the old, old-fashioned way. The turkey's brown as ever, the pudding is the same. Yet one who writes of things like these must add unto his fame. I'll simply say Thanksgiving, of holidays, not least.
