School Board Business.
Freeland school board met Thursday evening with all members present, except Director Ferry. A resolution from the directors of the Mechanical Institute, relative to the K. of L. ground, was read and accepted. A resolution offered by the secretary, that the president and secretary proceed with the work of condemnation, the Institute to bear the expense, was agreed to. A delegation of teachers, consisting of John Houston and Misses Tillie Lindsay, Kate Timony, Mary Dougherty and Bid McLaughlin, appeared and offered to do their utmost to help the board in running an eight-month term, by removing pupils upward and easing the primary departments. They also wanted it understood that they were not there to protest against the appointment of another teacher. E. F. Hanlon spoke against the plan.
Balloting for the assistant teacher was then renewed, and the first five ballots were:
Miss Winters—Johnson and Schaub.
Miss McGill—Sweeney and Timony.
Miss Gillespie—McCarthy.
On the next ballot Mr. Schaub voted for Miss Gillespie, the others voting as before.
The president was authorized to have urinals placed in the new buildings. Director Schaub is instructed to request the street commissioner to dump the surplus dirt of the Centre street sewer under the Daniel Cox school.

Another ballot was then taken for teacher, Mr. Johnson having retired. It was the same as the first five.

The board met again on Saturday evening. Two ballots were taken as follows: Miss McGill, Timony, Sweeney; Miss Winters, Ferry; Miss Gillespie, McCarthy. A motion was offered and carried that the primary school taught by Miss Ella Gillespie be divided until such time as a teacher is elected.

BRIEF ITEMS OF NEWS.

PARAGRAPHS GATHERED FROM ALL PARTS OF THE REGION.

Synopsis of Local and Miscellaneous Occurrences That Can Be Read Quickly. What the Folks of This and Other Towns are Doing.

The fair of the Citizens' Hose Company will open at Yannes' opera house on Thursday evening.

A fair will be held at the English Baptist church, commencing December 11 and continuing until December 24.

The large company store of Pardee & Co. at Hazleton is to be entirely remodeled and a department store will take its place.

William T. Cooney, a prominent citizen of Pottsville, and well-known in coal circles all over the state, died at his home in that city on Friday.

Do you want to sell furniture? Consult Neil Ward, purchas'g ag't., Ward's gallery.

Lester & Williams in "Me and Jack," supported by a strong company, will be the attraction at the Grand opera house tonight and tomorrow evening.

In Schuylkill court on Friday Ashland was called upon to pay Richard Huber $900 for an injury sustained in 1895 by falling over a hump on a pavement of that town.

Wednesday next will be the Feast of the Immaculate Conception and will be appropriately observed in the Catholic churches. Masses at St. Ann's will be at 7 and 9 a. m.

The Tigers are advertising their ninth annual ball, to be on New Year's Eve at Yannes' opera house, with a handsome calendar. The design is a pretty one and the calendars are in great demand.

The rate of wages to be paid miners of the Schuylkill region for the last half of November and the first half of December will be 5 per cent above the $2.50 basis. The rate has not fallen below the basis for the past six months.

The jury in the case of Mrs. John Early against the borough of Mahanoy City rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $367 damages. Mrs. Early fell into a culvert in 1894, sustaining a dislocation of her hip and other injuries.

A pretty line of fall dress goods can be seen at Oswald's. Latest patterns and lowest prices.

The first anniversary of the coming here of Rev. F. A. Mack, curate at St. Ann's church, was celebrated last evening with a special sermon at the church. Father Mack is an eloquent speaker and last evening's sermon was delivered in his best style.

Conrad Gans, of the Diamond Hose, Hook and Ladder Company, Hazleton, and George W. Altmeiler, of the East End Engine and Hose Company, same city, are contesting for a handsome gold badge, offered by the Freeland Citizens' Hose Company.

It is expected that within a few weeks all the postoffices will be supplied with the new style postal card. The new issue comprises a small card for domestic use only; a domestic single and reply card, a quarter of an inch smaller than the present card, and a new card for foreign use.

The Lehigh Valley Coal Company has begun an investigation about all its collieries to ascertain how many boys under the age of twelve years are in its employ. All under the age will be discharged and compelled to go to school. It is intimated that the Reading Company will take similar action.

Sheriff Martin last week took two prisoners to the penitentiary at Philadelphia. One of the men is Harry Doran, who will serve two years for picking pockets. The other man is John Jovionosky, who shot and killed a man at Duryea in July last. He will serve eleven years and six months for his crime.

DEATHS.
Brogan.—At South Huberton, December 5, of diphtheria, Cella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Brogan, aged 3 years and 9 months. Private funeral this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at St. Ann's cemetery. McNulty.
Giles.—At Freeland, December 5, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Jenkin Giles. Funeral tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Freeland cemetery.

Route of the New Railroad.

Work on the Pond Creek and Wyoming Railroad, the new road from Pond Creek to White Haven, is progressing rapidly. The line starts from the junction of the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central Railroads, a short distance south of the Pond Creek brick works, and parallels the Central to a point north of these works, where it makes a detour west towards the old Kelper farm. It then turns east and runs along the creek under the Central's trestling, thence along the creek past the new breaker and along the side of the mountain near or through the farms of Jesse Fairchild, Samuel Miller, Chas. Dusheck and Joseph Handlog to a point near the borough line of White Haven. It then crosses the turnpike to the east and will again cross the Central's tracks by an overhead bridge. It will then run to Bridge Junction, near White Haven, where connection with the main line of the Lehigh Valley will be made.

The road will traverse the whole of Chas. Dusheck's farm, from east to west, below the dwelling house.

Old Engineers Must Go.

According to an order just announced by the Central Railroad of New Jersey, all engineers on the road who are fifty years of age will be relieved of the jobs after January 1. This order will strike several old employees of the company and will put out of service some of the most careful and most trustworthy engineers on the road.

The reason advanced by the railroad officials is that the risk is too great to continue men who have passed that age at the important post of engineer. The company feels that it will pay to fill the places with younger men, which probably means the promotion of some firm men to be engineers. Such engineers as are relieved will be employed in other capacities by the company.

Union of Hibernian Boards.

The much vexed question whether or not the Board of America and the Board of Erin of the Ancient Order of Hibernians shall unite is about to be settled. Bishop McFall, of Trenton, N. J., to whom the case was referred as arbitrator, has notified Rev. Father E. S. Phillips, of Plains, who was instrumental in bringing the matter to his attention, that he will render his decision next Saturday at Trenton.

Father Phillips understands that the bishop favors the consolidation of the boards under one head and a settlement of all the differences existing between them. Nearly 200,000 men will be affected by the decision, which, according to a previous agreement with the boards, will be final.

Funeral of Mrs. William Drumtra.

The funeral of Mrs. William Drumtra, of Bivanton, whose death was noted in Thursday's issue, took place yesterday afternoon. Many friends followed the remains of the deceased from her late residence to St. John's Reformed church, where the funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. B. Kerschner.

The deceased was born in Germany nearly sixty years ago. She came to America thirty years ago and has since resided in this vicinity.

Besides her husband Mrs. Drumtra is survived by the following sons and daughters: William, of Missouri; John, of Stockton; Richard and Adam, of Freeland; Mrs. Albert Zeisloff, of Drifton, and Mrs. Jacob Yost, of Shenandoah.

Jollification Ends in Tragedy.

A jollification Friday night in the boarding house and tailor shop conducted by Joseph Markwa and Mrs. J. N. Solomon, at Ashley, terminated in a tragedy. John Yuscavics, a boarder, who alleges they were teasing him, shot Markwa in the neck, and then turning the revolver on Mrs. Solomon shot her in the neck and side. He was arrested shortly after the shooting. His victims are still alive, but the attending physicians says there is but little hope of their recovery.

Another Murder in Duryea.

The town of Duryea on Friday added to its notoriety as a town of crime. It was pay day and a crowd gathered in the saloon of Paul Urban. A tough gang attempted to rob one of the foreigners and a fight ensued, in which seven men engaged. In the melee knives were used, and David Williams, aged about 26 years, was probably fatally stabbed in the back below the shoulder blade.

PERSONALITIES.

John C. Mulligan, of Upper Lehigh, has tendered his resignation as clerk in Upper Lehigh store. He will spend a few weeks with his parents in Nesquehoning previous to beginning work under Prothonotary Dasch.

Patrick J. Kennedy, of Ridge street, and Thomas Elliot will leave here about April 1 for Klondike. Both men are strong and hearty and expect to be able to stand the severe climate.

Mrs. Joseph P. McDonald returned on Friday from Plattsburg, N. Y., where she was recently called to attend the funeral of her father, Timothy Ryan.

Miss Laura Evans, of Lansford, accompanied by Miss Mary Giovin, of Connecticut, is visiting Mrs. B. F. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Laubach were in Philadelphia last week and ordered their stock for the holiday trade.

William F. Gallagher has returned from a two weeks' visit to friends in Lackawanna county.

Miss Maggie O'Donnell, of Philadelphia, is visiting her mother on South Ridge street.

Miss Mame McBrierty, of Centralia, is the guest of Miss Sadie Slatery.

DRIFTON ITEMS.

Rowland Walberg, an employe of the general office, was married at Hazleton to Miss Emma Hartig, of this place, on Tuesday evening. They will begin housekeeping here.

D. S. & S. engine 23 was slightly damaged by colliding with a train of empty coal cars near Stockton on Saturday. Wet rails caused the accident.

Night school will probably open this evening. Owing to the late hours worked at the collieries the past few weeks it was not done sooner.

Louis Ferrari and Miss Maria Lisburger will be married next week by Rev. Father Forve, of Hazleton.

After Grant Herring's Job.

The term of Grant Herring, of Bloomsburg, as internal revenue collector of this district will expire the first of February and already there is a merry war being waged for the appointment. The appointment is for four years and the salary is $3,700 per year. Congressman Kulp, of Shamokin, is backing L. T. Rohrbach, of Sunbury; Congressman Connell, of Lackawanna, is pushing Col. Penman; Kirkpatrick, of Easton, would like to land D. G. Watkins, of Mauch Chunk. In Luzerne, which is the most important county of the district, there are three pronounced candidates, viz: Ex-County Treasurer William T. Reed, Morgan R. Morgans and C. D. S. Harrover.

Deputies' Trick to Create Sympathy.

Two sticks of dynamite were found on Saturday morning on the porch of A. P. Platt's residence, Hazleton. The dynamite was laid there with the intention, it is claimed, of blowing up the house, but as the powder was not connected with fuse or caps, and was therefore harmless, the find has a suspicious flavor of a scheme worked up to secure sympathy for Platt, who is manager of Pardee's pluck-me store. Platt and his son are among the men indicted for murdering foreigners at Lattimer.

Company Stores Under Fire.

The following sworn statement, signed by Frank Price, William Fetterlich, S. W. Long and Alexander Rober, was received on Thursday by Attorney General McCormick:

"To the attorney general of Pennsylvania, Henry C. McCormick: We, the undersigned citizens of Portage township and vicinity, in the county of Cambria and state of Pennsylvania, do solemnly swear that at Ben's Creek, in the said county, there is and has been for some time past a store known as the McElhoes & Co. store, which store is operated in conjunction with the mine operated by the Soman Coal Mining Company, known also as the Loyal-Hansa Coal Company, and which said mining company compels the employes employed in and about their mines to deal with the said McElhoes & Co.'s store. Men declining to deal in said store are deprived of their share of employment, and are compelled to draw certain amounts, viz: Married men must take coupons to the amount of $6 each, and single men the amount of $3 each semi-monthly, contrary to the act of assembly approved June 9, 1891."

The attorney general has fixed a hearing in the case for December 21. This is the first move made against company stores since Governor Hastings entered office, and was brought about by the recent agitation of the matter in the newspapers. If this suit is successful, there will be more news of this kind, nearer Freeland.

Closing Out Sale at Hart's.

Hart, the English tailor, has concluded to leave town, and to reduce his stock to the lowest possible point he inaugurated a general closing out sale on Saturday. Such bargains in clothing and goods furnishings have never before been heard of in this section of the state, and the crowded condition of the establishment since the great sale began is ample testimony that the bargains are genuine and buyers are receiving full value for the money they are investing.

A few sample prices are here given, and everything else is reduced proportionately: Men's fine blue worsted suits, formerly $8.50, now $2.98. Men's overcoats, were $10, now $3.98. Men's pantaloons, our own make, 69c. Fine satintined overcoats for men, for which we have been getting $22, now $8.23. Fine fancy white linen handkerchiefs are going at 1c. A handsome line of hats, formerly $2, now 50c.
The large building is stocked with an immense line of seasonable goods. The sale will continue without interruption until all is disposed of. However, no delay should be made in calling, as the choicest bargains can be had by those who buy this week.

Remember, this is not a fake sale. It is a genuine closing out, and the goods are our regular stock. If any article you purchase is not satisfactory return it to Mr. Hart and your money will be cheerfully refunded. Never before did the people of the North Side have such an opportunity to clothe themselves as cheaply as today. Those who take advantage of Hart's mammoth sale will not regret a cent they spend there.

ARE THEY ABOVE LAW?

ARISTOCRATIC VIOLATORS OF THE STATUTES ACT THAT WAY.

In the interests of property, not for the Miners' Sake, the Broadcloth Aristocrats of Pennsylvania Are Severely Rebuked by a Corporation Organ.

From the Philadelphia Times.

The question that is now very generally agitated in the coal mining regions of the state, is whether company stores at which employes in mining operations are compelled to deal at extortionate prices for the necessities of life, are above the law. It is a very grave question, and it indicates an unwholesome condition of affairs when there is cause for such agitation.

The legislature of this state has enacted two laws, each of which should be scrupulously obeyed by employers to whom it applies. One requires that the wages of all employes in certain channels of industry shall be paid semi-monthly and in money, and another prohibits such employers from owning company or partnership stores, or being interested in them directly or indirectly, and thus compel employes, under fear of dismissal, to deal at such stores and pay excessive prices for most of the articles they consume.

These laws are as plain as the English language can make them, and being the law they should be obeyed. It should not be necessary for any person to enforce obedience to these laws by legal process, as employers have vasty more interest in maintaining respect for the laws than have those whom they employ.

It is a notorious fact that both of these laws are violated, sometimes openly and sometimes by indirection, in both the anthracite and bituminous mining regions of the state. In some instances the employes are not permitted to save a dollar, and many of them are kept constantly in debt at stores where they are compelled to expend their money if they would assure continued employment. There is not a coal miner in Pennsylvania, however ignorant of our language, our general laws and our institutions, who does not know that the two laws we have referred to are upon our statute books, and should be obeyed by those to whom they have a right to look for high example.

Every instance of violation of these laws by employers thus teaches to the employes a disrespect for law, and there have been few violent outbreaks resulting from labor strikes, which have not been inspired chiefly by the consciousness on the part of the strikers that they cannot be more lawless than are those who employ them. If employers do not respect the law, they must not complain if their less intelligent employes, who have much less responsibility as citizens, and who, as a rule, have no property to protect, resort to violence and lawlessness when they unite to redress their real or imaginary wrongs.

The best way to assure law and order in the mining regions is for the employers of the miners to prove to the public that they do not assume to be above the law. They should teach, not only by respect but by uniform and faithful example, that the safety of all, high and low, rich and poor, is in maintaining the majesty of the law, under all circumstances; but they cannot teach obedience to the law to their employes when they assume that they are above the law, and make themselves conspicuous examples of its violation. No man in Pennsylvania, however potent in public or private life, can assume to be above the law, and especially should the employers of the miners teach respect for the law by illustrating their entire obedience to its mandates.

It is natural to inquire why these laws are not enforced. The laws are so plain that none can misunderstand them, and the penalties for their violation are distinctly defined, but these laws fail in enforcement because those most interested are not in a position to attempt to punish the violation of the law with impunity. The poor miner in most instances feels that he must submit to any measure of oppression rather than bring his employer to the bar of justice. If he attempted to do so, he would not only be dismissed, but would likely be blacklisted and thus be precluded from obtaining employment elsewhere. These laws wisely designed to afford protection to the workmen of the state, are not enforced because there are none who can attempt their enforcement with safety to themselves.

The Wilkesbarre Record, in discussing this question, confesses that these laws are not enforced, and that they cannot be enforced until amended. It suggests that "if the law were amended so as to require county detectives or constables to return to the court violators of the anti-company stores law, pressure would speedily be brought upon such officers to do their duty in the premises if they failed to act voluntarily."

Such an amendment of the company stores law seems to be a necessity, and whatever legislation is needed to make any law effective should be promptly supplied. The remedy should, however, be continued on Fourth Page.
