FREELAND, PA., FEBRUARY 21, 1898.

Dixon on the Lattimer Shooting. Rev. Thomas Dixon preached on the Lattimer murders in the Academy of Music, New York city, a week ago yesterday. He said:

"According to the testimony of impartial witnesses, the miners who were shot down had done nothing wrong. They were not armed; they were marching in the streets as they had a right to do. When they were fired upon they did not return the fire.

"If this testimony is true this unfortunate occurrence is a most serious one. If this testimony is true the sheriff who ordered the shooting should pay the penalty of life imprisonment and his deputies should be imprisoned for twenty years.

"This trial is of the extreme importance to the judicial system of this country. There is a belief that a lawyer will do anything for money—defend even the devil—and you must remember that the lawyer is an officer of the court. Another belief that occupies men's minds is that no poor man can get justice. These are dangerous beliefs, directed as they are against the judicial system of the United States.

"It is significant that none of the men on trial for the Lattimer murders was put under bail. The law orders that bail be furnished in such cases, and they should have been put under bail. That they were not so held was a bad sign.

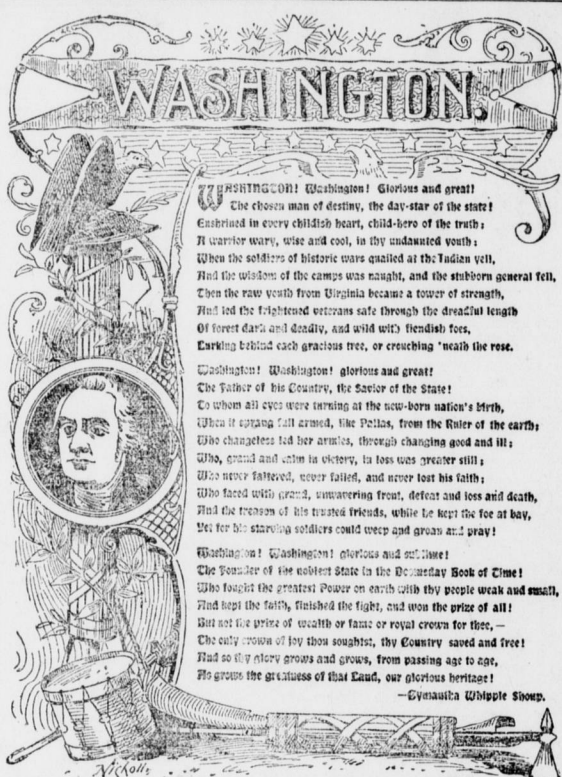

"A corporation, of course, has the right to discharge its workmen, and they have a right to quit work; they have a right to parade and to ask their fellow-workmen to prove their sympathy by parading with them.

"The sheriff's duty is regulated by law. Free men have the right to strike, only slaves have not. Thank God that which was written in Philadelphia more than a hundred years ago: 'All men are born free and equal' is still in force and effect.

"The rights of men, the rights of labor, the problem of law and order are all on trial at Wilkesbarre."

Coal Mining and Practical Forestry. Among the exhibits at the late Tennessee Centennial Exposition, that of the St. Bernard Coal Company, of Burlington, Ky., was noteworthy, for it showed the broad comprehensiveness of its management.

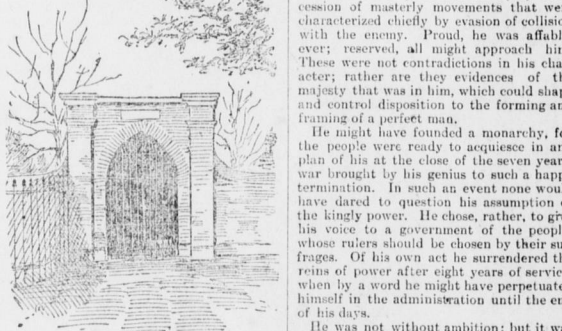

This company has a large landed estate, devoted to mining, farming and forestry. It works both sides of its land—coal from below, and grain, grass and trees above.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

A Pattern for True Human Greatness in Whatever Form.

THERE was never a great man whose generation was able to place a proper estimate upon his worth. Time is as necessary to a true conception of his character as age is requisite to the development of the bouquet of wine. The rising of the sun of greatness means the passing out of the light of lesser stars.

THE TOMB OF WASHINGTON AT MOUNT VERNON.

giant in the day of giants. They were sons of Anak in their intellectual strength, those colossal who formed the coterie known as the revolutionary fathers.

HE NEVER TOLD A LIE.

A Small Boy's View of the Father of His Country's Veracity.

He must 'a been a bully chap, that fellow Washin'ton. 'Cos I have often heard my pa wush 'n had such a son; 'N' my ma says it must 'a filled his mother's heart with joy.

WASHINGTON'S MODESTY.

It Was Equal in Every Way to His Great Power.

Washington, in 1759, was chosen by the people of Frederic county, Va., to represent them in the Virginia house of burgesses.

NAMED AFTER GEORGE.

Had an Easy Time.

Rev. Mr. Chestnut—So your name is George McTuffy, is it, my little man? I suppose you were named after the immortal George Washington?
